We were honored by the presence of U. S. Senator John T. Morgan Friday night and Saturday morning; he was accompanied by Chancellor Kelly. The Senator was presented to the Thorsbyites by Judge Kelly, who also took advantage of the occasion to give us a speech on his own hook, the only fault of which was its comparative brevity. Senator Morgon gave us a brief but very interesting sketch of the events leading up to the late Spanish-American war, also his views on expansion, which am. views are not according to the Kansas City platform by any manner of means. Senator Morgan was very much pleased with the colony and said the grapes compared very favorably with those of California.

The winery is in full blast, and wine literally runs in streams, over 1000 gallons is already stored in the "wine vaults" and thousands of pounds of grapes are still waiting their turn. THE BYSTANDER.

There is nothing which is absolutely and in itself wrong in the love of pleasure and the love of wealth. To the man who knows and does his duty neither pleasure nor wealth can prove a stumbling block. If he loves wealth he does so because he knows that when properly used it is one of the most potent instruments for the good of man placed in the hands of man. If he loves pleasure he does so because he knows that when it is derived from worthy objects and directed to worthy objects it is capable of transforming the whole of the inner nature of man.

THREE SHOTS FIRED FROM A REVOLVER

All of Them Striking the Monarch in the Region of the Heart—Angelo Bressi, the Assassin, Arrested and Imprisoned.

MONZA, ITALY.—(Special)—King Humbert has been assassinated. He was shot here Sunday evening by a man named Angelo Bressi, Prado, and died in a few minutes.

The king had been attending a distribution of prizes in connection with a gymnastic competition. He had just entered his carriage with his aide-de-camp, amid the cheers of the crowd, when he was struck by three revolver shots, fired in quick succession.

One pierced the heart of His Majesty, who fell back and expired in a few minutes.

The assassin was immediately arrested, and was with some difficulty saved from the fury of the populace. He gave his name as Angelo Bressi, describing himself as of Prado, in Tuscany.

The news of the terrible event did not arrive in Rome until midnight. Senor Spraceo, the premier, immediately summoned a meeting of the cabinet, and the ministers will start at the earliest possible moment for Monza.

CAMPAIGN IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Main Question Is Adoption of Constitutional Amendment to Limit Franchise.

A Raleigh, N. C., dispatch says: A general election will be held in this state Thursday and the question of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution limiting the electoral franchise will be voted on. There is apparently little doubt as to the result of the election, both as to the amendment and the state ticket. It now seems to be simply a question of majority. The opponents of the amendment acknowledge that it will be adopted. As the amendment and the democratic state ticket will run very close together, the populists and the republicans have practically abandoned the state ticket in an effort to elect a majority of the legislature and return Butler to the United States senate. Active campaigning will continue up to Wednesday night. It is the bitterest and most exciting campaign this state has ever known. The battle has been fought on the race issues, brought to the front by the proposed franchise amendment by which 80,000 voters are to be disfranchised.

AGUINALDO SHOT AGAIN.

Lieutenant Writes Home That the Insurgent Chief Was Badly Wounded.

First Lieutenant John Wilbur Ward, of the Thirty-third infantry, now in the Philippines, which regiment was engaged in the chase of Aguinaldo, has written a letter to his father, at Henderson, Ky., under date of Cabugao, June 1, in which he says:

"The Thirty-third has wounded and possibly killed Aguinaldo. He had gathered up the guerilla bands to the number of about 800 men when the Thirty-third was ordered after him. His forces tried to scatter, but too late. We hit them in several small parties. Aguinaldo and his special body guard of six men were fired on at 800 yards range while they were running, he riding a big gray American horse. The horse was killed and he himself badly wounded in the body (it is since learned), leaving a trail of blood as he was carried off. All of his private papers were captured, incriminating several native priests and rich natives."

The people were passive, unenthusiastic, and not even interested. Failing to perceive any tangible, effective results of amnesty, they say they can see no reason for celebrating.

During last week's scouting ten Americans were killed and fourteen wounded. One hundred and eighty Filipinos were killed and sixty taken prisoners. Forty insurgent rifles were captured.

England to Join America.

The report from London that the British and American troops at Tien Tsin are preparing for an advance within forty-eight hours aroused much interest, says a Washington correspondent. The announcement came to have been made just before the arrival of General Chaffee at Taku and gives rise to some interesting stories concerning the effect of that commander's presence.

It is generally believed that if the London report is correct the arrival of General Chaffee at Tien Tsin will mean the instant cutting loose of the British and American forces from the other troops and their advance to Pekin under General Chaffee's command.

The Drought in Atlantic States Has Been Relieved by Rain.

The following is the weather bu...reau's weekly summary of crop conditions:

The drouth prevailing at the close of the previous week in the Atlantic coast districts has been wholly relieved by local rains, except in Southern Florida, and the week, as a whole, in the districts east of the Rocky mountains, has been one of highly favorable temperature conditions, with generally abundant moisture.

The corn crop has made splendid progress during the week. Some early corn in the Carolinas and Virginia has been permanently injured by drouth, but late corn in these states is promising.

Over the eastern and western portions of the cotton region there has been a material improvement in the condition of cotton, but in the central districts it has suffered further from continued rains. In Texas the crop has been generally laid by in good condition and is promising in many localities, while complaints of too rank growth, light bolls, weevil and boll worms are reported.

No Bids for School Lands.

The Montevallo school lands, which have figured so greatly in the columns of the state press since the act of congress donating them to the state, will not be sold in the immediate future, as had been hoped by the governor and board of trustees. Sixty days ago the governor advertised for bids for the lands, and Tuesday the board of trustees met in the governor's office for the purpose of opening the bids, but they found no bids to open. The trustees of the school had gone ahead with arrangements to complete the school buildings on a prospect of affecting a sale of the lands.

Only two Mexicans were wounded, one being fatally stabbed.

RIOTS IN NEW ORLEANS

Charles, the Negro Desperado, Smoked Out and Shot to Pieces.

HE KILLED TWO MORE POLICE AND A BOY

And Fatally Wounded Several Prominent Men—City in a State of Turmoil—List of the Killed and Wounded in the Riots.

A New Orleans special says: The desperate negro, Robert Charles, whose crimes have caused the terrible events of the past few days in New Orleans, was located in a negro dwelling on Saratoga street Friday, and in effecting his capture the lives of four more white men—two police officers and two citizens—were sacrificed. Charles' resistance cost him his life, and with him was killed a negro companion who had aided him in his war on the whites and his defiance of the authorities. The fresh violence of Friday has revived the violence of the turbulent element and has added strength to their force.

The citizens' police force has been increased to over 1,000 men. All companies of the state militia are under arms and are guarding the prisons and other important points. The general belief is that the force in hand will be ample to suppress the lawless element.

The complete list of casualties since the troubles began is as follows:

Killed—John T. Day, police captain; Peter L. Lamb, policeman; August Thomas, negro laborer; Baptiste Filean, negro, aged 75 years; Dewis Taylor, negro; Gabriel Porteous, white, sergeant of police; Joseph Lally, white, corporal of police; A. Van Kuren, white, keeper in city workhouse; Alfred J. Brumfield, white, employe of Southern News Company; Robert Charles, negro, triple murderer and author of the trouble; Anna Mabry, negress, killed in her home by a mob searching for fugitives; unknown negro, companion of Charles.

Wounded—White: Esther Field, Oswald McMahon, Frank Shepherd, Joseph Deeds, F. G. Davis, J. Clunce, Henry Daurin, Charles Doyle, Tony Michel, Josephine Wilde, James Nelson, Charles Washington, H. H. Batte, Henry Davis, George J. Lyons, A. V. Leclere, John Bareville, Frank Bertucci, Frank Evans, J. W. Bofill. Colored: Alexander Ruffin, George Morris, Lean White, William Armstrong, O. P. Colas, Thomas Sanders and Nathan Brown.

After a most desperate battle, lasting for several hours, in which he succeeded in killing Sergeant Gebrel Porteous, and VanKurem, keeper of the police jail, and A. J. Bloomfield, a young boy; fatally wounding Corporal John F. Lally, John Banville, ex-Policeman Frank H. Evans, A. S. Leclere, one of the leading confectioners of the city, and more or less seriously several citizens, the negro desperado, Robert Charles, who killed Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb and badly wounded Officer Mora, was smoked out of his hiding place in the heart of the residence section of the city and literally shot to pieces.

The tragedy was one of the most remarkable in the history of the city, and 20,000 people, soldiers, policemen and citizens were gathered around the squre in which Charles was finally put to death. Tremendous excitement reigned in New Orleans as the battle went on between the police and citizens and the negro with a Winchester.

Poisoned by Opium.

Col. John S. Lanier, former chairman of the democratic state central committee, the registrar of the land office, who died suddenly at Bator Rouge, Louisiana, a few days ago, did not die of apoplexy, as announced at the time, but of opium poisoning and he left the affairs of his office in such shape that there have developed peculations aggregating an amount in excess of $10,000.

It is now believed the losses will fall on about forty citizens of the state who had remitted to the registrar in payment for lands for which no patents were ever issued.

CHINA'S OFFER REFUSED.

Proposition to Deliver Ministers at Tien Tsin Turned Down by Secretary Hay.

Secretary Hay signalized his return to Washington from Canton by the announcement that under no circumstances will the United States government accept the Chinese offer to turn over the foreign ministers to the internationals at Tien Tsin in consideration of the suspension of the campaign against Pekin. A long cablegram was sent to Rear Admiral Remey at Taku and it is believed that the instruction was laid upon him.

The state department claims to be pursuing an entirely consistent course in this decision. The officials point out that all of the bitter criticisms in the European papers directed against the United States' policy is based on a total misunderstanding of the fundamental principles which have governed the actions of the department.

At no time, it is said, has the state department allowed the belief that the foreign ministers were alive to interfere in the slightest degree with the military plans for reaching Pekin.

The government has received information, presumably from Admiral Remey, that the number of allied troops at Tien Tsin is 28,000. The movement of the troops from Tien Tsin, Secretary Root said, would depend on the arrival and mobilization of the troops. All the United States troops that could possibly be spared have been ordered to China.

Prince Tuan Reported Killed.

The Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Express says: "It is reported here that a large section of the Boxers has revolted against Prince Tuan, alleging that he is making tools of them for his own ends. A desperate conflict took place outside of Pekin Sunday. Prince Tuan personally led his followers, two of his generals having deserted him. The battle lasted several hours, and Prince Tuan was defeated and killed."

A report from Shanghai reiterates the allegation that the surviving members of the diplomatic corps have already left Pekin on their way to Tien Tsin, and added that the foreigness are being escorted by troops of Jung Lu, commander-in-chief of the Chinese forces.

His bond was fixed at $25,000 which his lawyers say is unreasonable, as the total amount of the fraud alleged is not over $4,000. They insist that he will be released and found innocent on all charges.

"A letter from the German legation, dated the 22d, arrived at Tien Tsin on the 25th. BRESSI LIVED IN AMERICA.

The Murderer of King Humbert Worked in Paterson, N. J.

Angelo Bressi, the murderer of King Humbert, of Italy, lived in Paterson, N. J., for over a year. He appeared to have had various names. The name given when taken into custody was Angelo Bressi. He was employed in Hamil & Booth's silk mills. His close friend there was Cariboni Sperandio, the man who a few weeks ago shot down his foreman and then killed himself, leaving behind a letter telling how he had been selected by him to kill King Humbert, and, having a choice, owing to his living so far away from Italy, killed the foreman instead. It would seem that when his friend faltered at regicide, Bressi took up his burden and went across the ocean to carry out the decree that Humbert should die.

Replying to questions after his arrest he hissed through his clinched teeth:

"Tell them I came from America on purpose to kill Humbert. I have just only arrived from America and know no one. I spent a day at Bologna and then came on to Milan."

Mysterious Tragedy in Texas.

A mysterious tragedy occurred in Waco, Tex., Monday, at the residence of Mrs. Kingsbury, one of Waco's most prominent citizens. The dead bodies of Duncan McLennan, Jr., and Myron C. Kingsbury, brothers-in-law, were found in a room with their throats cut from ear to ear. The fact that neither body was injured or bruised except about the throat does not indicate that a struggle took place, and it is the general opinion that the young men were murdered.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

The Joy of Living—Made a New World to Exist—The Heart and the Brain—The Grammar of Christianity—Infinite Love Makes No Mistake.

O give me the joy of living,
And some glorious work to do;
A spirit of thanksgiving,
With loyal heart and true;
Some pathway to make brighter,
Where tired feet now stray;
Some burden to make lighter
While 'tis day.

O give me the joy of living,
In the world where God lives too;
And the blessed power of giving,
Where men have so much to do.
Let me strive where men are striving,
And help them up the steep;—
May the trees I plant be thriving
While I sleep.

On the fields of the Master gleaning,
May my heart and hands be strong;
Let me know life's deepest meaning,
Let me sing life's sweetest song;—
With some faithful hearts to love me
Let me nobly do my best;
And, at last, with heaven above me,
Let me rest.

—The Rev. Julian S. Cutler in Universalist Leader.

Made a New World to Exist.

Pray that some portion of Wesley's spirit may descend upon us. Think of his purity, his disinterestedness, his love of the poor, his willingness to take up the cross and follow Christ. Consider what a great thing this is—that a man should devote all his powers to the good of his fellow-men; that his thoughts should be wholly turned, not on himself, but on God. Try and imagine seriously the effect of his life-long labors on this country, on the British Colonies, on the United States. He may be truly said to have changed the face of the religious world. The English High Churchman may sometimes regret that the Wesleyan has got the start of him in Wales, or Cornwall, or in the towns of Yorkshire and Lancashire, and will be inclined to hope that all may come right in the end, as they say. But we may be allowed to regard the labors of Wesley in a very different spirit; for we know that every year, for many generations, thousands and tens of thousands have gone to their rest all over the world, men and women, young and old, blessing God that they were brought to the knowledge of him and of his truth through the teaching of John Wesley. There is probably no considerable town, wherever the English language is spoken, in which one of his chapels has not been erected. And he who went on his ill-starred expedition to Georgia, and returned again with scant success, was in one respect like Columbus: he did not know that he had called into existence a new world.—Professor Benjamin Jowett, M. A.

The Heart and the Brain.

Heart is a word of which the Bible is full. Brain, I believe, is not mentioned in Scripture. Heart, in the sense in which it is currently understood, suggests the warm centre of human life or any other life. When we say of a man that he "has a good deal of heart," we mean that he is "summery." When you come near him it is like getting round to the south side of a house in midwinter and letting the sunshine feel of you, and watching the snow slide off the twigs and the tear-drops swell on the points of pendant icicles. Brain counts for a good deal more today than heart does. It will win more applause and earn a larger salary. Thought is driven with a curbbit lest it quicken into a pace and widen out into a swing that transcends the dictates of good form. Exuberance is in bad odor. Appeals to the heart are not thought to be quite in good taste. The current demand is for ideas—not taste. I asked a member of my church the other day whether he thought of a certain friend of his who attends a certain church and is exceptionally brainy was really entering into sympathy with religious things. "Oh, no," he said, he likes to hear preaching because he has an active mind, and the way that things are spread out in front of him." In the old days of the church a sermon used to convert 3000 men; now that temperature is down, it takes 1000 sermons to convert one man.—Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, D. D., New York.

The Grammar of Christianity.

It is perfectly possible to maintain the sweetness and the strength of the Christian life here among our fellows. This is the evident lesson from the life of Jesus. We often miss it. But see Him always in closest touch with life, see Him there doing the will of God, see Him saving His soul in service and inspiration given to others. So much has been said about the other-worldliness of the disciples of Jesus. The Christian life is the life of the present tense and the indicative mood and the active voice. Its grammar must emphasize the progressive present. We are not shut up by ourselves, we are not surrounded by those who think alike, and bidden here to live for our Lord. We are sent out where we may meet the most men in the most varied ways; we are sent out where we may be questioned and tested; here in the crowd we are told to do and be what Jesus of Nazareth was. This is the neglected note in the present conception of the Christian life.

Infinite Love Makes No Mistake.

There are dark problems which even faith does not make plain to us. The empty cradle and the aching mother-heart; the torn infant tendrils vainly reaching out for mother-love, which nothing else on earth can satisfy; the broken heart of wedded love; the cry of widows and orphans for the strong arm snatched away; the unfulfilled promises of youthful life; the uncompleted arcs of circles; buds that are never allowed to blossom—oh! we cannot understand these things. Even the glorious hope of immortality beyond does not make clear the necessity of shattered hopes and crushed hearts and bleeding lives here. But hope leans on the strong shoulder of faith, and faith gathers inspiration from the sunshine of hope—and both together are encircled by the arms of eternal love. For Christ is the surest proof that God is love and that life is love, and that infinite Love can make no mistake.—Rev. Charles A. Savage.

It is a profound remark of Prescott's that "liberty is dependent upon forms." But what is of more importance to remember is that love is dependent upon forms—courtesy of etiquette guards and protects courtesy of heart.—F. W. Robertson.

The Genesis of a Patriot.

One night in 1776 the Duke of Gloucester, the royal brother of George III, then hiding from his kingly brother's wrath in Paris, was regaling a table party of aristocrats at the expense of the king of England with a trenchant account of the "Boston tea party." His cynical sympathy was expressed for the American rebels, and he dwelt upon their need for recruits to fight against his brother. The table laughed at the tale, which was the first the most of them had heard directly on the preposterous ambitions for freedom of the new world colonists. Among the company was a silent, solemn young soldier who had listened intently to the recluse until the dinner was finished. Then he strode across the room to the duke.

"I will join the Americans! I will help them fight for freedom! Tell me how to set about it!" he cried, his sallow, listless face now aglow with a fire none of his idle comrades had ever seen there before.

It was Lafayette, the 19-year-old marquis, who was the despair of his family because he seemed always in a drowse. Coming from one of the noblest houses of the empire, he was married to a lady of high degree and was already a father. His wife had been his love, but now freedom became the stronger passion, and for more than 60 years he was to follow its cause. This was the genesis of Lafayette.—Edward Page Gaston in Woman's Home Companion.

Nominating a President.

Until the constitutional amendment of 1804 the president and the vice president were voted for on the same ballot, the man with the second highest number of votes becoming vice president. The presidential electors have not always been chosen by popular vote.

Before 1800 it was the general custom for the state legislatures to choose the electors, and it was not until 1828 that presidential electors were chosen in nearly all the states by popular vote. As late as 1876 the Colorado legislature chose the three presidential electors to represent that state. There is nothing in the constitution to prevent any state legislature naming its own electors without appeal to the people provided such a method of election is prescribed by the state laws.

From 1800 to 1824 presidential candidates were chosen by the members of congress in caucus. In 1824 the electoral college failed to make a choice from the candidates so submitted, and the matter went to the house of representatives. Four years later Tennessee's legislature nominated Andrew Jackson without any reference to the congressional caucus. His opponent, John Quincy Adams, was nominated in the old way, but that was the end of presidential nominations by congressional caucus.—New York Sun.

Her Electric Spark.

"Millie!"

The young lineman twirled his hat in his hands in an agitated manner and spoke in a voice that seemed to have a tendency to get away from him.

"Millie, the fact is I—I—there's something I've been wanting to tell you a long time, but I can't seem to fetch it. When you look at me like that, you know, it breaks me all up. I've been coming here so long that I oughtn't to be afraid, I reckon, but—but you know how it is—or maybe you don't either. I thought I could say it all right when I came in, but you're a little the livest wire I ever—I didn't think it would be so hard when I"—

Here he came to a dead stop.

"Millie," he exclaimed in desperation, "I'm short circuited! I've burned out a fuse!"

"Jerry, are you trying to ask me to marry you?"

"Y-yes!"

"Why, of course I will, you foolish boy!"

And love's current flowed unobstructedly again, lighting up with its pure radiance the rose embowered pathway that, etc.—Chicago Tribune.

The Disputed Name of the War.

The Confederate Veterans, in their annual convention in Louisville, decided that the war of 1861-5 should be known as the "war between the states." This is the name that Alexander H. Stephens favored, and it is the one generally used by the people of the south in speaking of that war, the northern people calling it the rebellion. Strange it is that neither name is a correct definition of the event. All know that there was no rebellion. States that had sovereignty could not be guilty of rebellion. Neither was it a war between the states, but actually a war between two governments made up of states. Some writers call it a civil war, yet it was not a war between citizens in their civil capacity, but, as before said, a war between regularly organized governments. There is, in fact, no concise way of naming the conflict; hence these misnomers. Possibly the best title would be the simple one of calling it by the years of its beginning and close—namely, the war of 1861-5.—Mobile Register.

Her Damaged Horn.

"Well, well," remarked the maiden all forlorn to the cow with the crumpled horn, "you remind me of a bicycle that has been in collision with something."

The cow ceased ruminating long enough to inquire, "Why?"

"I observe," said she, "that one of your handle bars is twisted."—Philadelphia Press.

A Minister's Good Work

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." The Last Chinese Actress.

Many visitors to the Celestial kingdom have noted the absence of women from the stage. All the roles in a Chinese play are taken by men. This singular custom is traced back to a woman's whim. The Emperor Yung Tsching married an actress at the beginning of the eighteenth century, when women were allowed on the stage. The emperor died and the empress dowager ruled the country for her son, the Prince Kim Sung.

To satisfy her vanity this shrewd and most peculiar woman issued a decree in the year 1726 forbidding, under penalty of instant death by the sword of the executioner, any member of her sex to appear on the Chinese stage. "After me, no one," said the empress dowager, and since her day no woman within the reach of Chinese law has dared to test the strength of her decree. In Hongkong (a British colony) women have played in Chinese theaters, but never as yet, we believe, in San Francisco.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle Drug Co.

The record for Ceylon snipe shooting still remains that of the muzzle loader, 100 couples in one day. This record was made by a Ceylon civil servant called Trauchell early in the nineteenth century. Average gunners get 30 to 40 couples a day.

A Close Estimate.

"I don't want to hear anybody sayin that our boy Josiar doesn't earn his salt," said Farmer Corntossel.

"You said it yourself once," said his wife.

"Well, I take it back. I don't want to do the boy any injustice. I have been lookin over these market quotations, an I have concluded that Josiar does earn his salt, jest about. But if they'd 'a' said he didn't earn his pepper I reckon I'd have to give in!"—Washington Star.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. Take only DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cures piles and all skin diseases. Campbelle Drug Co.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow. Eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides. No appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters" and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

China Shows Her Teeth.

Has Modern Arms and Equipment to Repel the Invaders.

China has shown her teeth.

The great inert mass of Orientals is not lifeless, after all.

As the "foreign devil" approached her capital she aroused herself from her drugged sleep and prepared to strike back.

Her activity has startled the Powers. Fifty warships are plowing through Asiatic waters to check her murderous designs.

Ninety thousand troops are being rushed with feverish haste toward the turbulent province of Pe-chi-li, where Pekin, the capital, is situated, and where the mouth of the empire, the Gulf of Pe-chi-li, opens.

The fact is that since the war with Japan the Chinese have been doing precisely what the Boers did after the Jameson raid. It is even said that their leaders have gained their chief encouragement in the present anti-foreign uprising from the remarkable successes of the Boers against the British last winter.

There is no longer any doubt that the Chinese troops are armed with modern weapons and know how to fight, which they did not five years ago. The British mistake of underrating the enemy, if made by the Powers in the present instance, would entail results too appalling to contemplate. An upheaval then would involve the whole empire, all foreigners would be slaughtered or driven into the sea, and the Yellow peril would literally menace the entire world. It would then be necessary to decide whether to abandon China utterly, with the future manace which would always be impending, or to send the utmost resources of all civilization to conquer an enemy numbering from a quarter to one-third of the human race. It is easily understood, therefore, why Europe is hesitating before a problem so gigantic that there is nothing in modern times with which to compare it.

The arsenals and batteries of Russia command the northern approach at Port Arthur; a fleet of British cruisers, a regiment of soldiers and a formidable fortress holds the southern approach at Wei-hai-wei, while yet further south, at Kiao-chau, Germany has [illegible] fortified naval base.

[illegible] mouth of the Chinese dragon is [illegible] with foreign teeth.

[illegible] object, then, is her equipment to check the [illegible] of the Powers? What are her resources to resist the force of the civilized nations:

Population	400,000,000
Annual revenues	$75,000,000
Revenues collected and appropriated by officials	$375,000,000

Such a population and such a vast annual revenue should form a combination that would make the allied Powers tremble. Instead, what has China to show on land and sea?

Her navy:

Six cruisers of 5300 tons each.
Three cruisers of 3400 tons each.
One cruiser of 1800 tons.
One torpedo boat.
One gunboat.
Two armored cruisers of 4800 tons.
Four antique gunboats of 400 tons.
Four modern torpedo boats.

None of these ships is adequately manned or armed. In her entire empire China has but one dock where even repairs could be made, and that with a capacity only for a 3000-ton ship.

With this insignificant navy she must defend 4000 miles of coast line. Six of her cruisers are at present locked up in the Gulf of Pe-chi-li.

China, therefore, can expect nothing from her navy. What, then, does her army offer.

Her army:

To begin with, China is dominated by a foreign army, 200,000 strong. The Manchus garrison the empire. They ride high-handed over the Chinese, and are commanded by Tartar generals. Very little loyalty could be expected from the Chinaman if forced to enlist.

The entire army system is corrupt. Revenues collected to support the garrisons have been diverted and divided between the generals in command and the viceroys of the provinces. It is probable, therefore that in the entire Chinese empire there is not equipment for a body of troops exceeding 200,000, and even for that number it is questionable.

General Yuan Shi Kai has 10,000 men. They are the best body of troops in the empire, and are now entrenched between Pekin and Tien-Tsin.

In the Hunting Park, outside of the walled city of Pekin, is encamped Prince Ching's field force of 10,000 picked men.

Outside the walls of Pekin are General Tung Funsieng's Mohammedans, drilled and murderous rabble, 13,000 strong. They are the troops that have menaced the European element in Pekin for some time, and are the ones who have probably broken into the city and endangered the lives of the foreign element.

North from Pekin, swinging around the shore back from the Gulf of Pei-chi-li, is General Sung's force of 20,000 men.

General Nieh is close to Tien-Tsin with 15,000 men. These troops are the ones who caused Admiral Seymour's return. They are drilled by German officers and are armed with Mauser rifles.

In Manchuria are 15,000 men drilled and fairly well armed, commanded by General Yi-Ke-Tong.

One of the most formidable forces in China is the feudal armies of Mongolia, who are allied by mutual interests to the Empress Dowager and the Manchu dynasty. The force consists of separate commands of cavalry numbering some 100,000, commanded by native princes. They are loyal to their feudal lords, but fight without pay and would unite against a common enemy.

Scattered down the coast and along the Hoang Ho and Yang-tse rivers are numerous arsenals and military camps. A list and location would give an inadequate idea, as the figures obtainable are largely based upon hearsay.

It is known, however, that Li Hung Chang, at Canton, has at his command over 20,000 men, mostly Manchus. I have visited the forts and garrisons there, and they are of the most antique and old-fashioned kind, totally unfitted to make a resistance of any importance.

The Chinese forts are mounted largely with old breech-loading cannon and every kind of a rifle manufactured in the last half century is used by her army.

There are, in some of the forts at Taku, for instance, a few Krupp guns, and in the Pekin field forces and scattered around the Manchu arsenals are some modern field pieces and siege guns, but the equipment in the face of a modern army is absolutely ridiculous.

The tottering old empire must rely, to accomplish its avowed purpose of driving the "foreign devils out," not upon its navy, hardly upon its army, but largely upon its population.

Once relieved of what little restraint now holds them in check and this long suffering race will wreak a revenge upon civilization and their own rulers that will "stagger humanity."

The race for an empire that is now going on in Asia is a race for humanity.

The nation that storms Pekin and strikes a blow at the barbarism and ignorance of antiquity that still radiate from the throne of the Dowager Empress will commence a new cycle in Cathay and confer a lasting obligation upon the civilized world. Who will win the great prize?

Lord Charles Beresford made an investigation of the condition of the Chinese army, and declares that not even the imperial Government at Pekin knows the real strength of the military forces. Some of the commands are Manchu and some Chinese—distinct the one from the other. The army is entirely a voluntary service, but when once a man has joined it he finds it difficult if not impossible to leave it.

Besides the Manchu and Chinese armies there are 100,000 Mongolian cavalry, excellent men, ruled by their own princes under a system of feudal tenure. They are not paid. This cavalry force is said to be devoted to the present dynasty.

Direct evidence of the friendship of the Empress Dowager for the Boxers has been given in the removal of Prince Ching as chief of the Tsung-li-Yamen, or Foreign Office, and his replacement by Prince Tuan, father of the heir apparent to the throne, who is a sympathizer with the Boxers. Prince Ching is one of the best known and most able of Chinese statesmen, and is known to be friendly to foreigners.

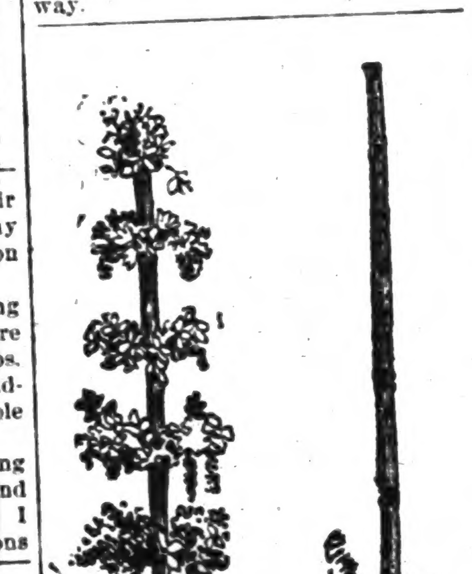
NOVEL FLOWER-STAND.

Plants Made to Grow Out of Bamboo Stalks.

One of the prettiest flower stands which has appeared of late, says the London Express, is made of a piece of bamboo from four feet to five feet high, nailed onto two smaller bits, arranged in the shape of the letter X. A hole of about three inches deep is cut at each knot in the upright bamboo, and a natural receptacle for flowers is made in this easy fashion. Bamboo grows in sections, so that as there is a solid piece of wood between each portion of the upright stick, nothing remains to be done but to pour water into the holes and to place a branch of flowers in each. Lilac and laburnum look exquisite when placed alternately in the bamboo flower stand, but almost any kind of foliage is effective when used in this way.



THE STAND IN FULL BLOOM.

The lower stand should be placed in the corner of a room or entrance hall, and the stand becomes almost invisible when it is nicely filled with flowers.

A Humming-Bird's Umbrella.

In front of a window where I worked was a butternut tree. A humming bird built her nest on a limb that grew near the window, says a writer in the American Sportsman, and we had an opportunity to watch her closely. In fact, we could look right into the nest. One day when there was a heavy shower coming up we thought we would see if she covered her young during the rain. Well, when the first drops fell she came and took in her bill one or two or three large leaves growing close by, and laid this leaf over the nest so as to completely cover it; then she flew away. On examining the leaf, we found a hole in it, and in the side of the nest was a small stick that the leaf was fastened to or hooked upon. After the storm was over the old bird came back and unhooked the leaf, and the nest was perfectly dry.

Only Quintain Post in England.

This interesting relic is to be seen at Offham, in Kent, just off the main road between Wrotham and Maidstone, England. It is in an excellent state of preservation, it being kept in repair by the owner of a house hard by. The stipulation that the Quintain is to be kept in order by the owner is made in the title deeds of the house. The Quintain Post formed part of a very popular pastime in Queen Elizabeth's days. To one end of the crossbar, which swings on a pivot, a heavy sand bag was fixed. The other end, the broad flat end, was the object of the tilt by a player who rode against it, lance in hand. The object was to tilt it at the broadside and to ride swiftly by before the sandbag, coming round, should strike him to the ground.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Mission of Christ — How Divine Power Will Heal the World—Jesus the Surgeon Who Will Extirpate the Disease of Sin.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage puts in an unusual light the mission of Christ, and shows how divine power will yet make the illnesses of the world fall back; text, Matthew xi, 5, "The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear."

"Doctor," I said to a distinguished surgeon, "do you not get worn out with constantly seeing so many wounds and broken bones and distortions of the human body?" "Oh, no," he answered; "all that is overcome by my joy in curing them." A sublimer and more merciful art never came down from heaven than that of surgery. Catastrophe and disease entered the earth so early that one of the first wants of the world was a doctor. The wounded and agonized human race called for surgeon and family physician many years before they came. The first surgeons who answered this call were ministers of religion—namely, the Egyptian priests. And what a grand thing if all clergymen were also doctors, all D. D.'s were M. D.'s, for there are so many cases where body and soul need treatment at the same time, consolation and medicine, theology and therapeutics. As the first surgeons of the world were also ministers of religion, may these two professions always be in full sympathy! But under what disadvantages the early surgeons worked, from the fact that dissection of the human body was forbidden, first by the pagans and then by the early Christians! Apes being the brutes most like the human race, were dissected, but no human body might be unfolded for physiological and anatomical exploration, and the surgeons had to guess what was inside the temple by looking at the outside of it. If they failed in any surgical operation, they were persecuted and driven out of the city, as was Archagathus because of his bold but unsuccessful attempt to save a patient.

But the world from the very beginning kept calling for surgeons, and their first skill is spoken of in Genesis, where they employed their art for the incisions of a sacred rite, God making surgery the predecessor of baptism, and we see it again in II Kings, where Ahaziah, the monarch, stepped on some cracked latticework in the palace, and it broke, and he fell from the upper to the lower floor, and he was so hurt that he sent to the village of Ekron for aid, and Aesculapius who wrought such wonders of surgery that he was deified and temples were built for his worship at Pergamos and Epidaurus, and Podalirius introduced for the relief of the world phlebotomy, and Democedes cured the dislocated ankle of King Darius and the cancer of his queen, and Hippocrates put successful hand on fractures and introduced amputation, and Praxagoras removed obstructions, and Herophilus began dissection, and Erasistratus removed tumors, and Celsus, the Roman surgeon, removed cataract from the eye and used the Spanish fly; and Heliodorus arrested disease of the throat, and Alexander of Tralles treated the eye, and Rhazas cauterized for the prevention of hydrophobia, and Percival Pott came to combat diseases of the spine, and in our own century we have had, among others, a Roux and a Larray in France, an Astley Cooper and an Abernethy in Great Britain and a Valentine Mott and Willard Parker and Samuel D. Gross in America, and a galaxy of living surgeons as brilliant as their predecessors. What mighty progress in the baffling of disease since the crippled and sick of ancient cities were laid along the streets, that people who had ever been hurt or disordered in the same way might suggest what had better be done for the patients!

But notwithstanding all the surgical and medical skill of the world, with what tenacity the old diseases hang on to the human race, and most of them are thousands of years old, and in our Bibles we read of them—the carbuncles of Job and Hezekiah, the palpitation of the heart spoken of in Deuteronomy, the sunstroke of a child carried from the fields of Shunem, crying, "My head! my head!" King Asa's disease of the feet, which was nothing but gout; defection of teeth, that called for dental surgery, the skill of which, almost equal to anything modern, is still seen in the filled molars of the unrolled Egyptian mummies; the ophthalmia caused by the juice of the newly ripe fig, leaving the people blind by the roadside; epilepsy, as in the case of the young man often falling into the fire and oft into the water; hypochondria, as of Nebuchadnezzar, who imagined himself an ox and going out to the fields to pasture; the withered hand, which in Bible times, as now, came from the destruction of the main artery or from paralysis of the chief nerve; the wounds of the man whom the thieves left for dead on the road to Jericho, and whom the good Samaritan nursed, pouring in oil and wine—wine to cleanse the wound and oil to soothe it. Thank God for what surgery has done for the alleviation and cure of human suffering!

But the world wants a surgery without pain. Drs. Parre and Hickman and Simpson and Warner and Jackson, with their amazing genius, came forward, and with their anaesthetics benumbed the patient with narcotics and ethers as the ancients did with hasheesh and mandrake, and quieted him for awhile, but at the return of consciousness distress returned. The world has never seen but one surgeon who could straighten the crooked limb, cure the blind eye or reconstruct the drum of a soundless ear or reduce a dropsy without pain, and that surgeon was Jesus Christ, the mightiest, grandest, gentlest and most sympathetic surgeon the world ever saw or ever will see, and He deserves the confidence and love and worship and hosanna of all the earth and hallelujahs of all heaven. "The blind receive their sight and the lame walk; the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear."

I notice this surgeon had a fondness for chronic cases. Many a surgeon, when he has had a patient brought to him, has said: "Why was not this attended to five years ago? You bring him to me after all power of recuperation is gone. You have waited until there is a complete contraction of the muscles, and false ligatures are formed, and ossification has taken place. It ought to have been attended to long ago." But Christ the Surgeon seemed to prefer inveterate cases. One was a hemorrhage of twelve years, and He stopped it. Another was a curvature of eighteen years, and He straightened it. Another was a cripple of thirty-eight years, and he walked out well. The eighteen-year patient was a woman bent almost double. If you could call a convention of all the surgeons of all the centuries, their combined skill could not cure that body so drawn out of shape. Perhaps they might stop it from getting any worse, perhaps they might contrive braces by which she might be made more comfortable, but it is, humbly speaking, incurable. Yet this divine surgeon put both His hands on her, and from that doubled up posture she began to take on a healthier hue, and the muscles began to relax from their rigidity, and the spinal column began to adjust itself, and the cords of the neck began to be more supple, and the eyes, that could see only the ground before, now looked into the face of Christ with gratitude and up toward heaven in transport. Straight! After eighteen weary and exhausting years, straight! The poise, the gracefulness, the beauty of healthy womanhood reinstated.

The thirty-eight years' case was a man who lay on a mattress near the mineral baths at Jerusalem. There were apartments where lame people were brought, so that they could get the advantage of these mineral baths. The basin of the bath is still visible, though the waters have disappeared through some convulsion of nature, bath 120 feet long, forty feet wide, eight feet deep. Ah, poor man, [illegible] have been lame and helpless [illegible] years, that mineral bath [illegible] Why twenty-eight [illegible] the average of human life [illegible] the grave will cure you [illegible] [illegible]

But what were the Surgeon's fees for these cures of eyes and ears and withered hands and crooked [illegible] The skill and the [illegible] operations were worth hundreds and thousands of dollars.

Do not think that the cases He took were all moneyless. Did He not doctor the nobleman's son? Did He not effect a cure of the ruler's daughter? Did He not effect [illegible] in the house of a centurion of great wealth who had out of his own pocket built a synagogue?

They would have paid Him large fees, and there were hundreds of wealthy people in Jerusalem and among the [illegible] castles along Lake Tiberias who would have given this Surgeon houses and lands and all they had for such cures as He could effect.

For critical cases in our time surgeons have received $1000, $5000, and in one case I know of $50,000, but the Surgeon of whom I speak received not a shekel, not a penny, not a farthing.

In His whole earthly life we know of His having had but 62½ cents. When taxes were due, by His omniscience He knew of a fish in the sea which had swallowed a piece of silver money, as fish are apt to swallow anything bright, and He sent Peter with a hook which brought up that fish, and from its mouth was extracted a Roman stater, or 62½ cents, the only money He ever had, and He paid out for taxes.

This greatest Surgeon of all the centuries gave all His services then and gives all His services now free of all charge. "Without money and without price." [illegible] may spiritually have blind eyes opened and your dumb ears unbarred, and your dumb tongues loosened and your wounds healed, and your soul saved. If [illegible] people get hurt of body, mind or soul, let them remember that surgery is a specialty, but it cures, and you can afford [illegible] pain for future glory.

Besides that, there are powerful anesthetics in the divine promises that soothe and alleviate. No ether or chloroform or cocaine ever made one so superior to distress as a few drops of that divine anodyne "All things work together for good to those who love God." "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

What a grand thing for our human race when this Surgeon shall have completed the treatment of the world's wounds! The day will come when there will be no more lame [illegible] be no more sick, and [illegible] infirmaries, for there will be no more [illegible] or deaf, and no more dwarfs [illegible] earth shall be brought [illegible] and no more blizzards [illegible] the atmosphere [illegible] scorch and chill, and [illegible] swords shall come [illegible] into pruning hooks [illegible] country we shall see [illegible] dent or malformation or hereditary [illegible] earth become the athletes [illegible] Who is that man with such [illegible] close before the throne? Why, that man who, near Jericho, was blind [illegible] Surgeon cured his ophthalmia [illegible] that erect and graceful [illegible] an before the throne? That [illegible] whom our Surgeon found bent [illegible] ble and could in nowise [illegible] and He made her straight. [illegible] listening with such rapture [illegible] of heaven, solo melting into [illegible] bal responding to trumpet [illegible] self joining in the anthem? Why, the man whom our Surgeon [illegible] and dumb on the beach of Galilee [illegible] touches opened ear gate and [illegible] Who is that around whom [illegible] gathering with admiring [illegible] giving and cries of "Oh, [illegible] me!" Oh, what He did for [illegible] what He did for the world! [illegible] Surgeon of all the centuries [illegible] the aurist, the emancipator [illegible] No pay He took on earth. [illegible] let all heaven pay Him with [illegible] shall never end and a love that [illegible] die. On His head be all the [illegible] His hands be all the sceptres [illegible] feet be all the worlds!

Lydia E. Pinkham's

Vegetable Compound cures the ills peculiar to women. It tones up their general health, eases down overwrought nerves, cures those awful backaches and regulates menstruation.

It does this because it acts directly on the female organism and makes it healthy, relieving and curing all inflammation and displacements.

Nothing else is just as good and many things that may be suggested are dangerous. This great medicine has a constant record of cure. Thousands of women testify to it. Read their letters constantly appearing in this paper.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR AUGUST 5.

Subject: Jesus and the Children, Matt. xviii., 1-14—Golden Text: x., 14—Memory Verses, 12-14—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "At the same time." After Peter had returned from paying tribute. "Who is the greatest?" Such is blind human nature; always desiring to be made prominent. A spirit of jealousy was probably creeping in. They had seen Peter specially favored, and Peter, James and John had lately been honored above the rest by being with Him in the mount. "In the kingdom of heaven." They still view the kingdom of Christ as a temporal one, and the real import of their question is, Whom do you expect to honor by giving the first place in your government? What seductive dreams of greatness and glory arose before these Galilean fishermen as the nearest followers of the great King! And yet the greatness of which they talked was small indeed when compared with the greatness Jesus actually put upon them.

2. "Called a little child unto Him." The child was old enough to walk. Jesus proposes to teach them by means of an object-lesson. He corrects their false ideas about greatness, and shows them that spiritual excellence and not outward splendor or authority constitutes true greatness in His kingdom. "If any man desires to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all." The very desire to be first makes him last in the very nature of things. The self-seeking spirit leads to Satan's kingdom, not to Christ's. It is the spirit that leads downward instead of to heaven. It is our duty, however, to do the very best we can in everything, and to seek by every possible means to increase our usefulness. No one should be willing to be a cipher in God's work. "Set him in the midst. Jesus then took the child in His arms. This made the lesson very forcible. The little child was their teacher. A child is completely free from folly, and the mania for glory, and from envy, and contentiousness, and all such passions.

3. "Except ye be converted." The word here rendered "be converted" means "turn about so as to face in the other direction." It always signifies a radical and complete change in method, spirit, or course. "And become as little children." Humble, teachable, obedient and trustful. "Ye shall not enter." There is no way into the kingdom of grace only by the door of humility. The proud and haughty cannot enter. They must humble themselves.

4. "Whosoever." All have equal privileges. "Shall humble himself." None but the lowly are in the kingdom, and the lowliest in the kingdom are the greatest. To be humble is not to disparage one's self, but to use whatever we have in the humblest service. "The same is great." Selfishness is the root of all sin. It dims the crown and diminishes the throne of those who would otherwise be great." True humility is one of the surest marks of true greatness.

5. "Whoso shall receive." That is, shall show kindness to, shall help and care for. "One such little child." This refers not only to actual children (Luke 9:48), but also to Christ's followers who have a humble, childlike spirit. "In My name." Out of love to Me and for My sake. "Receiveth Me." Jesus considers Himself treated as we treat His little ones.

6. "Shall offend." Whoso shall cause one of My little ones to stumble and to fall into sin. Our Lord does not mean vexing them or making them angry; but tempting them or leading them into evil. There are many ways, such as tempting to lie, to drink intoxicating drinks, suggesting religious doubts, breaking down religious habits, sneering at the strictness of Sabbath-keeping and of obedience to parents. "It were better." This shows the heinousness of the offence. "That a millstone." A very large stone. "About his neck, etc." Drowning in the sea was a punishment used among the ancients. The condemned persons either had heavy stones tied about their necks, or were rolled up in sheets of lead. It was a dreadful and inevitable ruin.

7. "Woe unto the world." Or, alas, for the world. It is the opinion of some that this word is used to express sorrow and concern. "Because of occasions of stumbling." (R. V.) Because there are so many temptations and stumbling blocks put before men—so many things to lead men downward. "It must needs be." In this world that is so full of sin and wickedness those who serve Christ will be tempted; there will be all sorts of temptations presented to them. "Woe to that man through whom the occasion cometh." (R. V.) Woe to the man who is guilty of the awful crime of leading others down to hell. He that sins himself is weak; but he that leads others into sin is devilish. It is a fiend's business. How this applies to the saloon-keeper, as well as to many others, and what an answer to the old excuse that if I do not do the wrong thing somebody else will. Each man is personally responsible for his own actions.

8, 9. "If thy hand, foot, eye causeth thee to stumble." (R. V.) If objects as dear to thee as these most valuable and precious members of the body cause thee to stumble and to fall into sin. "Cut them off and cast them from thee." No half-way measure will answer. The pleasing thing, if hurtful, must be given up and renounced. It is of no use to try to regulate and moderate; safety lies only in entire abstinence. Other people may retain the limb, but you cannot. If the thing hurts your religious life, off with it. He is a fool who insists on keeping a mortified limb, which will kill him. "Into the hell of fire." (R. V.) The literal Gehenna was a valley to the south of Jerusalem, a former scene of Moloch worship, and later the place where the refuse of the city was burned with perpetual fires. This fire is the symbol of terrible torment, which is awaiting the finally impenitent: and it will be an "everlasting," "eternal" fire.

10. "Despise not." As though they were beneath your notice. "Little ones." The weakest and most lowly of those who believe in Christ. "In heaven their angels." The angels in heaven, who behold the face of the Father have a peculiar charge over them. How near must these "little ones" be to God and how great the peril of those who offend them.

11. "Son of Man is come." Jesus came to save sinners. This verse is omitted in R. V.

12. "One of them be gone astray, etc." The lost sheep is a type of one straying away from the fold of Christ into sin. He immediately leaves the ninety and nine in a place of safety, and goes into the mountains, into the difficult and dangerous places and seeks the straying one.

13. "He rejoiceth more." That sheep was of no more value than the other sheep. It was its rescue that caused the joy.

Teachings.—Those things that seem great to men are very small in the sight of God. There will never be any contention about greatness among those who have right views concerning it.

The Boston Transcript notes the fact that "those trees which last summer suffered most from the ravages of the caterpillar, and presented in the height of the season a ragged, humiliated and forlorn appearance, are the first to be clothed with the beauty which conspicuously belongs to them in their true estate, while those which escaped suffering must now wait longer for their coronation."

O-C-C

When a preparation has an advertised reputation that is world-wide, it means that preparation is meritorious. If you go into a store to buy an article that has achieved universal popularity like Cascarets Candy Cathartic for example, you feel it has the endorsement of the world. The judgment of the people is infallible because it is impersonal. The retailer who wants to sell you "something else" in place of the article you ask for has an ax to grind. Don't it stand to reason? He's trying to sell something that is not what he represents it to be. Why? Because he expects to derive an extra profit out of your credulity. Are you easy? Don't you see through his little game? The man who will try and sell you a substitute for Cascarets is a fraud. Beware of him! He is trying to steal the honestly earned benefits of a reputation which another business man has paid for, and if his conscience will allow him to go so far, he will go farther. If he cheats his customer in one way, he will in another and it is not safe to do business with him. Beware of the Cascaret substitutor! Remember Cascarets are never sold in bulk but in metal boxes with the long-tailed "C" on every box and each tablet stamped C. C. C.

Sensible Advice.

C. P. Huntingdon, who after a phenomenal career in business became a Pacific railway president, through the columns of Success says these sensible words to boys and young men who are ambitious for honorable achievement: Advice is thrown away on a boy or young man who considers it beneath him to work at anything which hardens the hands or soils the garments, but who prefers a clerkship in a store or office at starvation wages. Good clothes should not be worn at the expense of a career. To the man who is not afraid of downright hard work, I would suggest frugality, investing surplus earnings, if only a dime a day, in a savings bank, and reading useful books during leisure hours.

Most Wonderful of All.

The broomstick train, as Dr. Holmes called it, the electric car operated by the overhead trolley system, had just been introduced to Aberdeen, when two farm servants came to the Scottish city to spend a holiday. They made their way at once to the terminus of the street railway, and looked with much wonder at the new creation. Finally they resolved to have a ride. At the end of the ride one of them expressed their united opinion. "Wull," he said, "this is a graun' invention. In Edinburgh I saw them drive the cars wi' an iron rape aneth street; in Dundee they pu' them wi' an engine; but, michty man, wha wad 'a' thocht they could ca' them wi' a fishing-rod!"—Youth's Companion.

AWFUL FAMINE

That Is Now Making of India One Vast Charnel Pen.

The famine area in India is about 250,000 square miles, and extends over the central, south and northwestern provinces, says Leslie's Weekly. No pen could describe its awful horrors. Some of the things proved by photography are too realistically horrible to be reproduced in any publication, and we print only a few of the less frightful photographs taken by the missionaries, because many have not believed that such an awful condition could exist in this century of plenty and prosperity. Emaciated beyond belief, the starving natives crawl to the house of the nearest sahib, usually a missionary, to crave food; but 60,000 mouths have to be fed. Fifteen dollars a year will feed a Hindu, yet even this pitiable allowance is not to be had. The causes of the famine are the failure of the crops, the refusal of the native princes to allow their hunting jungles to be converted into fertile agricultural regions, and the mysterious disappearance of a special famine fund of $100,000,000, collected by the government after the famine of 1877. The Hindu is a strict vegetarian. The low-caste Hindu is a fatalist. So, when famine stalks abroad the Hindu submits uncomplainingly. Day by day he will subsist on less food, until at last, when a mere shadow, he will drag his bony self to a relief station. There he may get food—or he may not. If not, he crouches in some corner, or out in the fields, under God's trees, and awaits the coming of death. The majority of the victims are women and children.

Has Five Knighthoods.

Sir George White, who has been made a G. C. V. O., has now no fewer than five knighthoods. He is Sir George White, G. C. B., K. C. B., G. C. S. I., G. C. I. E., G. C. V. O. Only two other British subjects, not of the blood royal, have five knighthoods. They are the marquis of Dufferin and Lord Roberts, and they have but four each, without their K. P.s. Among commoners, who cannot be K. P.s, Sir George White stands alone. Indeed, he is the only commoner with more than three knighthoods.

SUNSTROKE

The summer's awful heat will kill those not fit to resist it—those whose bodies are full of poison because they have neglected their bowels.

The victims of sunstroke, or of any of the other terrible dangers of summer—diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus—are always those who have been careless about keeping clean inside, and as a result have their blood full of rotten filth breeding disease germs and their bodies ready with weakness to succumb to the hot spell. Dizziness, heat headaches, sick stomachs, sticky oozing ill-smelling sweats, restless nights, terrible pains, gripes and cramps in the bowels, sudden death on the street, all result from this neglect.

Keep yourself clean, pure and healthy inside, disinfected as it were, with CASCARETS CANDY CATHARTIC, the greatest antiseptic bowel tonic ever discovered and you will find that every form of summer disease will be effectively

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY may get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

IN FOREIGN LANDS

Paris, France, July 18, 1900

Editor BANNER.—I wrote you from London, Eng. I am not to you another letter yet, but for I will be pressed for time, and I fear I will lose out of my pocket the notes I have taken, I will write them up and you can publish them when you see fit. I know full well were I to lose them out of my pocket I could not find them any more in my head, as it is all I can do to be sure it's me, and I pinch myself occasionally too, so as to prove it to myself. I lost my shoes the other day and three out of my hat, out of use, have lost their charm, since a young man his heart. Left me at Edinburgh, and to the cleanest city on earth except Paris. I received my first letter from home there, and of course I feel happy. I saw some places in Scotland that were so beautiful that though they were covered with slate the moss had put a green shade all over it and settled the ever covering question for years and years to come. I saw the home of brave old John Knox, went to Edinburgh castle, and read it much the same as Stirling castle, so I will not repeat the description. Went to Holy Rood Palace the home of the former Queen of Scotland. Looked at the room there, once occupied by the unfortunated Mary of Scotland, as also the apartments used by Lord Darnley whose history is interwoven, tangled with that of the luckless Mary. Saw all other points of interest and returned to my hotel just at the foot of the castle hill and read the news of Bryan's nomination at 10 o'clock at night on the front of the hotel, without artificial light. Darkness only covers this for a few hours of the night.

Cablegrams are luxuries here, I mean to say cablegrams, they cost 25 cents per every word used in them. Next day our party were early and off by train to the border of feudal times, Melrose Abbey. I had often as a boy allowed my imagination fair play as I read accounts of this noble ruin and I freely confess that I had not the faintest conception of the spirituality necessary to build such a temple for the worship of God. Words fail me. Built in 1126 A.D. of gray granite, cut into beautiful laces and flowers and figures. I know of no other way to express it. Walls and partitions and all of rough, hard, gray stone rock, hewn to a nicety, fitted with a perfection that your modern artists would fear to attempt and no one dares to say that the artists of to-day who could carve the delicate filagree drapery on its rock walls inside and outside, Paint the statutes in the niches of the wall cut by a sculptor and put expression of face on them, and the centuries have not taken it away. One can recognize the rugged strength of character shown in old Peter's face as he sits upon his statue high up in the end of the partition wall to the east window. Cromwell and his soldiers leaving some portion of it without defacement, I say only because he grew tired of using its massive strength. I never feel as I did on viewing the Abbey. Bruce's heart was buried here. He gave 2000 lbs. to its building. The Duke of Buccleuch feeds the Abbey an income source of income to him, and friends come to see it and many of them many times. I would not mind seeing it daily.

I will give you an inscription of one of the ancient tombs in the old burial ground. I spell it as it is after just as the sculptor did.

JONES RAMSEY.

As doth goeth on the earth like gilsoming grail
So doth goeth to the earth sooner or later it would
As doth builds in the earth castles and towers
So shall he to the earth all shall be ours.

He loved Melrose, he lived a few miles away. Built Abbotsford home and copied a great deal the building from the direction of the Abbey. Fragments of it his immense labor the sum total of labor and immense money thousand volumes nations must be wise. The story of Melrose is beautiful to attempt any other description at all. It was a wild waste of 14000 acres that he changed in to a blooming earthly paradise. It was his insatiate love for armor and war relics and books that involved his estate so deeply in debt, but his own productions in the way of royalties coupled with the income of visitors, now makes his great grand daughter, the present owner, a wealthy woman indeed. I was, when at Abbotsford, only a few miles away from Greenlaw, the home of my pastor, Bro. W. J. Ruddick, of Stanton, Ala. Why such a sensible man as he could have meant by leaving so beautiful a land for the hills of Chilton county is more than I can see. I would have gone to the place but time would not permit. I had no idea in the world of the amount of farming done in this country; acres and acres of sheep, goats and cows and horses and oats and wheat and rye and barley, the largest horses, the fattest cattle, and in truth the happiest looking scenes I ever saw.

The English passenger and freight cars are quite queer to me. You know the passenger car opens on the sides and are divided across the car by partitions; into these divisions they put the passengers, usually five or six, lock both side doors and there you are until you reach your destination. If you have the colic all you can do is to pray; if you have thirst all you can do is to not drink any water, and if any of the current ills of the flesh come to you all you can do is to follow Ella Wheeler Wilcox "Weep alone." They use one pair of wheels to the truck, we use two pair. Mr. Pullman uses three pair; they couple up their cars with chains, we have couplers. They have practically no freight box cars; they use a gondola about one-half the length of our cars, and put a tarpaulan over the top and tie it down. They have no bells on their engines, no conductors on their trains, but they do make very good time. If you want a fair taste of perfect misery let five men get into one compartment and travel all night like we did from London to Paris, no room to stretch out, no mantle piece or bench, or rail upon which to elevate your swollen and sore feet.

But oh my! How they do excel us in fences. However, the Lord put a whole lot of lime rock right in their fields and they had to move it to till the soil, while they were moving it they might have just as well put it in a line, which they did with a little cement between; hence they have century lasting fences.

Rikerville.

Sickness and death is roaming among us now.

We are sorry to say that Mr. Peyton Warfo d is sick with fever.

God's message came Monday about 12 o'clock and called the spirit of Mr. Garland Duncan home to brighter realms above. He had diptheria. But why should it be to our sorrow when God knows best he doeth all things well, but most of us has had a trial of it and know what it is. And just to think his wife was not with him in his last moments; she had gone to Virginia on a visit to relatives. But God does all things for the best.

Sunday night death came and took Mrs. Nora Gugher, who had been lingering with typhoid fever for several days; she leaves a husband and six little girls to grieve for her; the baby girl only six months old. May God's care lead them through this wicked world of trials and temptations that they may meet their dear mother in a brighter world above where there will be no sorrow any everyone happy.

"Thorsby, Ala., Challenges the World Grapes."

The L. & N. R. R. Co. moved from Thorsby the other night a full refrigerator car of grapes destined to Pittsburg, Pa., to reach there about Tuesday morning. The car bore in large letters on each side the words heading this article, which quite an idea of cheap advertising. At very lowest prices the shippers should receive several hundred dollars for this shipment which was hardly two days part of the crop they are shipping Hope to see more cars go out this week and bring profitable returns In a few years it will be train loads instead of car loads, and thousands of dollars profit instead of hundreds, and what grieves me is that our older settlers are sitting back watching and naturally envying these advancements without making any preparations to join in with them.

DEWET'S FORCES SURROUNDED

Escape Through the Strong Cordon Seems Impossible.

A special dispatch from Pretoria dated Saturday says:

"General Christian Dewet is completely surrounded near Reitzburg, and it is impossible for his forces to escape through the strong British cordon.

"The Boers say they will make a stand at Macadodorp. They are short of ammunition and food. General Hamilton by the rapidity of his movements prevents reinforcements reaching Commander General Botha.

"It appears that after the train carrying United States Consul Stowe and flying the stars and stripes, was derailed at Honigspruit, south of Kroonstad, concealed Boers fired, killing forty.

"Many residents of Pretoria have been sent into exile for having behaved cruelly to British subjects before or during the war. The terms of exile vary, in one instance reaching twenty-five years."

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

Assailant Fired Upon Candidate Lon McFarland at Lebanon.

Late Saturday night Lon McFarland, Legislative candidate from Wilson county, Tennessee, was fired on by an unknown assailant near Lebanon. The man wore a handkerchief over his face, McFarland says, and fired two shots as the latter was mounting his horse at the gate of a farmer whom he had been visiting.

One shot struck just over McFarland's heart, but was stopped by his watch, which it crushed. He was stunned by the shock.

Religious Negro Suicides.

John Willis, one of the negroes arrested in connection with the killing of Sergt. Porteous and Corporal Lally and citizens at the corner of Clio and Saratoga streets, in New Orleans, on July 27 by Robert Charles, committed suicide in his cell in the parish prison Saturday evening. He tied two handkerchiefs about his neck, and, making them fast to a hook in the wall, raised his feet from the ground and strangled slowly to death. The police had but little evidence against him, but despite this fact he was indicted by the grand jury for murder and concealing a felon. Willis was a religious negro, spending most of his time in prayer.

Filipino Lepers to be Colonized.

General MacArthur has convened a board to select an island in the Philippine archipelago for the segregation of lepers, to prepare plans and estimates of salaries for the necessary employes and officials. The board is also charged with fixing the ration and other allowances for the support of such colony. This action was taken in view of the large number of people in the Philippines afflicted with leprosy, who are reported as a menace to public health.

No New Cases of Fever at Tampa.

A Sunday's dispatch from Tampa, says: Owing to the fact that there were no new developments today, Dr. Porter has not issued an official statement. No new or suspicious cases have been reported since the first outbreak, and there is little or no illness in the city. The situation is as favorable as possible. One of the suspected cases is about to be discharged from treatment. No other cases have developed at the house.

New Cable Line is Opened.

Congratulatory messages from President McKinley and the king of Portugal were flashed direct last Saturday between the United States and Portugal over the new line of the Commercial Cable Company which has just been put in operation between the Azores and this country. The new cable connects at the island of Fayal with the European and Azores line from Azores to Portugal.

Strong Force of Chinese Attacked Tien Tsin, But Repulsed—Fowler Gives News From Pekin—China Yields to the Powers.

The foreign movement for the relief of the foreign legations in Pekin began Saturday, July 29. A message from Tien Tsin on that date says that the advance guards of the Russians, occupying the Chinese camp, and the Japanese pushed up the right bank of the Pei-Ho without opposition. It was the expectation that the whole of the allied expeditionary force, about 20,000 men, would be on the march by Tuesday, July 31. Sixteen hundred Americans and 2,300 British are co-operating. It is purposed to follow the river, using boats to carry food, ammunition and artillery.

40,000 Men Marching to Pekin.

The American and British forces began the advance on Pekin last Thursday, according to a dispatch dated from Tien Tsin to the London Daily Express.

"The main body of the allies," continues the correspondent, "marched July 30. General Chaffee was delayed by difficulties of disembarkation. General Dorward (the British commander) had no such obstacles, and his delay is inexplicable.

"The other foreign troops are now half way to Lofa. The force includes 20,000 Japanese under General Yamachuchi, and 10,000 Russians.

"The British force totals 9,000 and other foreign troops are 7,000. We are weak in artillery.

"On August 1 a strong force of Chinese from the native city attacked Tien Tsin. By a series of brilliant charges our troops drove the enemy from their positions. The native city is still defiant, and the allies are unwilling to march troops through its streets, as this would mean a slaughter. When the Chinese saw so large a body of troops marching westward they apparently believed they would have an easy victory over those who were left."

China Yields to Powers.

A cable dispatch from Paris says: Cheng, director general of railway and telegraph, has just communicated to the consuls at Shanghai, according to a special dispatch to the Temps, dated August 5, an imperial decree, dated August 2, authorizing the foreign ministers in Pekin to communicate without restriction with their governments and ordering their departure for Tien Tsin under a good escort.

Whole Family Poisoned.

The family of Lewis Connor, a farmer living near Irwinville, Ga., were poisonded Saturday. Two children of the family are dead and Mrs. Connor and a third child are critically ill, though it is believed now that they will recover. Mrs. Connor cooked pea soup in a new tin vessel. Several hours after the soup was eaten the mother and three children were taken violently ill. Two of the children died before a physician could reach them. Physicians say the poison was metallic.

Georgia May Try North Carolina Plan.

Owing to the result of the recent election in North Carolina, in which white supremacy was engrafted on the state, Representative Hardwick will introduce into the next session of the Georgia legislature a bill providing for a constitutional amendment similar in form and provisions as that adopted in the old North state. This enforces a property and educational qualification on suffrage.

DETACHMENT WIPED OUT.

Every Man in it Killed, Wounded or Missing.

The serious check which the American troops have met in the Philippines during the past two months is recorded in a dispatch received Sunday from General MacArthur. It is assumed that the little American command which suffered so severely was completely trapped and was obliged to surrender or be exterminated. The message is as follows:

"Manila. — Anjutant-General, Washington: First Lieutenant Alstatter, corps of engineers United States army, with escort of fifteen men, were attacked by a force between De Mayoume (Luzon) and San Isidro (Luzon) by armed band insurgents, 350 strong. Entire party killed, wounded or captured.

"Killed—Troop H, Fourth cavalry, Richard Dickler. Wounded, Charles M. Newman, wounded in arm serious; Walter Drewer, wounded in arm serious. Crenshaw, troop H, Fourth cavalry: Arthur Bates, Charles H. Fushinger, Ed Crogger, George Kalth, W. J. Gerrud, John Coughlin, Robert F. Taylor, Jos. T. Mealey.

YELLOW FEVER AT TAMPA.

The Disease Claims One Victim There and Two Others Are Ill.

Dr. L. W. Weedon, agent of the Florida state board of health, issued a public statement Friday to the effect that there has been one death at Tampa from yellow fever and that there are two cases known at present. The death was that of George Sonnenberg, a German. He was a sailor and had not been outside of the city for years.

The only theory possible is that he contracted the disease through cleaning clothes from some infected point. Strenuous efforts are being made to locate the source of the infection.

FOUR MEN KILLED

As the Result of a Feud in a Missouri Town.

Four men killed and one fatally wounded is the outcome of a shooting affray between William Dooley and his four sons on one side and the four Harris brothers on the other, as the result of a feud at Doerun, one of the mining towns of St. Francis county, Mo. William Dooley, Wess Harris, James Harris and John Dooley are the names of the killed, and Frank Harris was fatally wounded. A young girl, Mary Littrell, was struck just above the ankle with a rifle ball.

Florida Postoffice Attacked.

Postoffice Inspector Williams, of Chattanooga, received a telegram from one of the field inspectors stationed in Florida stating that on Friday night the postoffice at Lulat was attacked by a mob, the members of which broke down the doors, smashed the windows, destroyed part of the interior, and threatened to kill the postmaster. The telegram states farther that the postmaster became frightened, fled from the scene.

Killed Over the Election.

Near Decherd, Tenn., Will Elder shot and killed James Armstrong, at Elk river, as the result of a quarrel over the election. Both were well-to-do citizens of the place. Elder surrendered to the authorities.

No Messages Will Be Delivered.

The state department makes public the following telegram, dated August 3, from Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, and the consul at Che Foo:

"Americans left Chunking yesterday. Li told French consul today no message would be delivered to ministers because foreigners were advancing on Pekin. Two pro-foreign members of the Tsung Li Yamen beheaded on the 27th for urging preservation of ministers, by Li Ping Han, now commanding the troops in Pekin. He ordered Pao Ting massacre.

Diptheria in Montgomery.

Diptheria is prevailing in Montgomery to an alarming extent, and many families have left the town in order to save the children from the terrible disease. It has become epidemic and not confined to any particular locality. The city council has called a meeting to take action in the matter and will no doubt have a thorough cleaning up of the town.

Iron Ore Discovered Near Eufaula.

William Bush, a well known farmer who resides eighteen miles south of Eufaula, sent some specimens of fine iron ore to a friend at Eufaula which he claims exists in very large quantities on his plantation. Mr. Bush is sure that he has 100 acres that is covered with it to a depth of twenty-five feet. All who have seen the specimen think it is as good as any of the North Alabama mines.

Anti-Commissary Law Repealed.

The Anniston city council has repealed the anti-commissary ordinance passed several weeks ago. The ordinance repealed assessed a tax of $2,500 on commissaries, and was objected to by the Southern Car and Foundry company. The ordinance occasioned a good deal of discussion, but a compromise satisfactory to both sides was effected and the repeal of the ordinance followed.

Little-Foster Case Decided.

Judge Sprott has rendered his decision in the university trustee case. Dr. Little's petition was refused.

The judge holds: First, that there was a vacancy. Second, that the governor had the right to fill the vacancy. The opinion was lengthy, covering ten tywewritten pages.

Attorney Daniel Collier said that he didn't know whether his client will appeal or not, but that he will advise him to do so.

Encampment of Third Alabama.

It now looks very much as though the encampment of the Third Alabama regiment would go to Huntsville. At the meeting held in the armory of Company K in Birmingham it was decided to hold the encampment beginning August 22 and it was further decided that either Huntsville or Birmingham would be the place. The majority of those present appeared to favor Huntsville. Efforts are now being made by Huntsville to secure it and the chances seem to be in its favor.

Birmingham's Growth.

The amount of the building permits issued during the month of July in Birmingham shows big gains over the previous month and over the number issued during the same month last year. There were issued fifty-seven permits calling for work amounting to $124,298. This does not account for the entire work, but for the construction alone, and does not include finishing. It is very likely that the total amount of building to be done under these permits will amount to more than $150,000.

Pensions For Veterans.

Warrants from the state auditor's office were sent out a few days ago to all of the county pension examiners for their services as such except the counties of Lamar, Morgan, St. Clair and Sumpter, and they have not sent in their accounts for services. The sum of $244,157.29 is the amount now in the treasurer's office for distribution among the veterans who have been allowed pensions by the examiners. This amount is to be divided between 11,253 pensioners, an increase over last year of over 2,000. The increase in the amount is more than double, but it is not known just what each pensioner will receive. The fund will be distributed in October. The work of prorating cannot begin before the 1st of September.

STATE BREVITIES.

Work on the Alabama and Florida railroad is progressing rapidly. Another grader and about fifty teams have been put to work recently on the new road running to Geneva.

Colonel R. D. du Mont, commanding the first infantry, has advised the adjutant general that he has rented the Alba pasture, near Mobile, as a camp site for his regiment.

Will Hold Cattle Show.

The second meeting of the Chambers County Farmers' and Breeders' Association met in the court house at Lafayette and decided to hold a cattle show on October 31 and November 1. A committee was appointed to canvass the town and secure contributions for prizes. Another was appointed to arrange a premium list for the fair. The prospects for a fine fair are good. The farmers are taking interest in this new movement and great things are expected to result from a unity of action.

Young Woman Killed.

Miss Minnie Langford, a young woman just 21 years of age, met with a horrible death at Greenville. She was in a buggy with J. H. Neill, an old gentleman who had gotten out of the buggy to open a gate which was across the road. Just as he opened the gate the horse became frightened and ran away. He had gone about two hundred yards when the wheel struck a stump with such force as to throw Miss Langford to the ground. She struck on her head and her skull was fractured. She lived only two hours.

Reduction in Miner's Wages.

Announcement was made Saturday that there will be a reduction of 2½ cents per ton in the wages paid the miners in the Birmingham district. The announcement was the result of an examination of the sales book of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company made by a committee of miners, as is customary each month. It was ascertained that during the month of July the price of iron sold was less than $11 per ton on the cars at the furnace. According to the contract held by the miners with the operators wages are based on the selling prices of pig iron.

Hon. Luke Pryor Dead.

Hon. Luke Pryor, one of the best known and most respected of Alabamians, died at his home at Athens Sunday evening after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Pryor was born in Limestone county in 1819, the year of the admission of Alabama as a state. He never aspired to political office, notwithstanding which he was twice honored by the people of the state with the best offices in their gift. When the late lamented Governor George S. Houston died a vacancy in the United States senate was thereby caused, and the governor of the state appointed Mr. Pryor to this vacancy. At the expiration of the term he was not a candidate for the re-election. In 1882 he was elected a member of congress from the Eighth district.

Child's Horrible Death.

An awful effect of the carelessness of leaving deadly drugs around the house had another demonstration in the Selma locality a few days ago, when Ruth, the 1 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Moore, of Harrells, met death in a terrible manner. The child and the nurse were in the bedroom playing on the floor. The nurse had her attention detracted for a few minutes, when the little one picked up a bottle of carbolic acid which was sitting under the edge of the bed, and, turning it up, attempted to drink of the deadly drug. The screams of the child brought assistance, but the strong acid had spilled all down the face and neck and on the body, and was burning the flesh in a terrible manner. A few hours afterwards death relieved the little sufferer.

Seeking Cotton Mill Industries.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, district passenger agent and immigration agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has returned from a trip through Ohio Pennsylvania and New York states and reports that in a few days he will have representatives of two cotton mills in the states named down here investigating sites for the removal of their plants to this state. He also states that representatives of proposed colonists will be here shortly making investigation for the location of a good colony. Mr. Jones has hopes of locating at least two of the northern cotton mills and establishing another good colony along the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Mississippi Quarantines.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the state board of health in Meridian Monday quarantine was declared against the city of Tampa, and no passengers, baggage, freight or express from the above-named place will be permitted to stop in the state of Mississippi, except such freight and express as is permissable under the Atlanta regulations.

TWENTY-FIVE WERE

Desperate Battle Between Anarchists and Police in Chicago.

MRS. LUCY PARSON LED THE RIOTERS

Bricks Were Thrown, Clubs Wielded and a Fierce Struggle Ensued Before the Crowd Was Finally Dispersed.

An anarchist riot occurred in Chicago afternoon in which twenty five people were bruised in a fight with forty-five policemen. Several persons were arrested, among them being Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of Albert R. Parsons, who was executed November 11, 1886, in Chicago for aiding and abetting the bomb throwing in the Haymarket. The others arrested were Paul Vandra, [illegible] Abraham Edelstadt and Clement Plentznor.

A mass meeting was called for that afternoon at west side Turner Hall at which speeches were to be made by Mrs. Parsons and others on the subject of "The Execution of the Innocents in Italy."

The call concluded: "We [illegible] crowds and show the feeling of brotherhood is not dead as yet."

Mrs. Parsons was on her way to the hall, but finding it had been closed by the police she stepped into a doorway across the street from the hall. A crowd formed and a policeman, pushing through the throng, caught a glimpse of Mrs. Parsons. The woman was making an impassioned speech, in the endeavored to disperse the crowd. His efforts were in vain, and the officer sent in a call for reinforcements.

Additional officers arrived and immediately a general fight was on. Fists and clubs were used freely and the officers, finding they were getting worsted, sent in a riot call.

The number of police was increased to forty-five, and they rushed into the throng. Mrs. Parsons was arrested. It is claimed she resisted arrest, and her friends fought for her. Clubs were thrown, clubs were wielded and a fierce struggle ensued before the crowd was finally dispersed. Twenty-five persons were bruised and bruised. After the fight numerous small cards were found in the street containing two verses urging the workmen to throw off the yoke of bondage, fight for liberty and to lay down their lives if necessary to overthrow the government and attain freedom.

BATTLE NEAR TIEN TSIN

Chinese Forces Lose 1,200 Men Killed and Wounded.

THE ALLIES SUFFERED HEAVILY IN THE FIGHT

The Contest Took Place Saturday Morning and Lasted Seven and a Half Hours—Advance Column Meets Stubborn Resistance.

Interest in the Chinese situation was revived Monday by the receipt of two dispatches from two native sources at Che Foo repeating unofficial but apparently reliable reports of active and extensive hostilities between the allied forces and the Chinese on the road between Tien Tsin and Pekin.

The dispatches indicate unmistakably that the relief column has started for Pekin and that it is meeting with strong opposition.

Although neither of the naval dispatches mention the presence of foreign troops in the reported engagement it is generally assumed at the navy department that at least a portion of General Chaffee's small army has landed and took an active and effective part in the affair.

The dispatches are as follows:

"Che Foo, Aug. 6.

"Secretary of Navigation, Washington:

"Chefoo Fame reports unofficial report received at Pietsang Saturday that three to one. Allies lost, killed and wounded, 1,200; chiefly Russians and Japanese. The Chinese loss heavy.

"Che Foo, Aug. 6.

"Secretary of Navigation, Washington:

"Chefoo Fame reports unofficial report received at Pietsang Saturday that three to one allies heavily engaged Chinese at Pietsang daylight of 5th.

REMEY."

According to the information in possession of the war department the town of Pietsang is at the head of tidewater on the Pei Ho, between eleven and twelve miles by road from Tien Tsin. It is a village of houses of considerable size, well walled.

Figured by military experts the losses of 1,200 killed and wounded on the part of the allies probably represent a loss of from three to six times as many by the Chinese.

DISASTROUS COLLISION.

Fast Train Crashes Into a Freight Train and Five Persons Killed.

A disastrous collision occurred on the St. Louis-Southwestern (Cotton Belt) railroad at Aurich, forty miles north of Pine Bluff, Ark., Monday, by which five men were killed and [illegible] seriously injured. The dead: [illegible]rey, brakeman, Jonesboro, [illegible]nk Sample, conductor, Pine Bluff; [illegible]Brakeman Luther, Thayer, [illegible]known telegraph operator. [illegible]ured, James T. Frazier, engineer, fractured arm, and badly [illegible]. S. Ellis, fireman, seriously [illegible]. Aurich is a small station, and a fast freight took the siding to allow the southbound passenger train to pass. By some means the switch failed to work and the passenger train crashed into the caboose of the freight train at regular speed. Before the occupants of the caboose could jump they were killed outright.

NOT YELLOW FEVER.

State Health Officer Issues a Statement.

The official statement signed by Health Officer J. Y. Porter, of Dr. J. H. White, marine hospital service, issued Monday, declares the two suspicious cases at Ocean Springs to be not yellow fever. One case is said to be typhoid. They state that after having seen the man who died they cannot say about it, and do not care to discuss the diagnosis further. This is the fifth day since the last case. Hundreds of persons who have been with him during his illness are well and safe. No new or suspicious cases have developed.

Throat Maker Dead.

Frank Clark, of Newark, N. J., president of the Wm. Clark Thread Company, died suddenly at his home at Bristol, R. I., Monday morning from heart failure.

Ten Per Cent. Increase.

General Manager F. S. Gannon, of the Southern Railway Company, has issued an order restoring the pay of all employees employed by the company, which should rate which prevailed before the reductions were cut 10 per cent. Mr. Gannon's order. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers appeal from the action of the company in that order.

NORTH CAROLINA'S ELECTION.

Democratic Majority Reaches Nearly Sixty Thousand.

The returns from the election in North Carolina show that democratic majority in last week's election aggregate 64,678, and the fusion majorities are 5,115, making the net democratic majority 59,558. There will be contests in several counties, gross irregularities being charged in Randolph and Hargett and smaller ones in Wilkes and Chatham counties. In the latter county, at Congressman Atwater's precinct, the fusion stronghold, the fusionists smashed the ballot boxes and burned the ballots. This was the only outrage which occurred in the state so far as known.

The returns show that to the senate there are elected thirty-eight democrats and nine fusionists, with three seats doubtful, and the house ninety-five democrats and twenty-three fusionists, while twelve seats are in doubt.

AGRICULTURAL COMMISSIONERS

Their Second Meeting at Raleigh Promises to Be Important.

The second annual meeting of the Commissioners of Agriculture, to be held at Raleigh, N. C., August 28, promises to surpass, both in point of attendance and in importance, the meeting last year in New Orleans, at which the association was formed. Indications point to representation at the convention of Georgia, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina, and possibly the Indian Territory and Oklahoma.

The commissioner of each state will be called upon for a paper reflecting the agricultural conditions in his state during the year, with especial reference to the extent of the cotton acreage, judged by the figures of last year.

The commissioners are endeavoring to get in closer touch with the farmers of the south, and all branches of that industry will be discussed, in addition to the attention given the cotton crop.

PLAGUE IN LONDON.

Four Cases and Two Deaths Have Been Reported.

The Marine Hospital Service at Washington has received a telegram from Past Assistant Surgeon Thomas announcing the outbreak of the bubonic plague in London.

There have been four cases of plague and two deaths from the plague. Diagnosis confirmed by bacteriological examination.

The dispatch from Surgeon Thomas gives no details as to the origin of the cases, nor whether they were on ship board or within the city.

GENERAL YORK PASSES AWAY.

Was One of the Dashing Figures of the Confederacy.

General Seebulan York, one of the dashing figures of the Confederacy, died at his home in Natchez, Miss., Sunday afternoon. He was colonel of the Fourteenth Louisiana Regiment during the civil war, which he led in the battles of Mechanicsville, Gains Mill Cold Harbor and Malvern Hill, and was wounded several times. He participated in the battle of the Wilderness, and was made a Brigadier General June 2, 1864. He was born in 1819 in Avon, Me.

Prompt Decision Demanded.

A message from Constantinople says: Lloyd Griscom, United States charge d'affairs, has renewed his demands upon the government for compensation for the losses of American citizens during the Armenian massacres. He insists upon a prompt decision.

Tragedy in Tennessee.

News of a terrible tragedy in Hancock county, Tennessee, over the result of the election reached Knoxville Saturday. It occurred in the Sixteenth district, on Sycamore creek, in the wildest portion of the county. John Lamb, a deputy sheriff and Tillmra Collins, a farmer, were both killed. Wiley Brewer, a logman, was mortally wounded. Whitten Gibson, a farmer, was shot.

Prince Li Despondent.

The report that Li Hung Chang had committed suicide is without foundation. He is only in a very despondent state.

The Japanese consul at Shanghai has received a message from Pekin saying that General Tung Fuh Siang has stopped all provisions from going to the legations.

Wm. J. Ballentine, Jr., aged 31, was instantly killed in Giles county, Tennessee, by a bridge giving away under a heavy traction engine on which he was riding.

LATE ELECTION RETURNS

Verify the Estimates of Chairman John Smith.

Fuller returns from Monday's election in Alabama were received Tuesday, and they go to swell the majority for the democratic ticket. Later returns, also, indicate that every county claimed by the democratic campaign committee prior to the election has given a majority for Colonel Samford and his running mates. It is hardly probable that more than half a dozen counties have given majorities against the democrats, and these counties have not been democratic in years.

The majority for the state democratic ticket will be close to 60,000, the estimate Chairman John V. Smith, of the campaign committee, made on Monday night; it may go even higher.

Etowah for the first time in fourteen years has elected a democrat to represent her in the legislature; Cherokee gives a democratic majority after eight years with the populists; Calhoun sends two representatives to swell the democratic majority in the general assembly, and with Cleburne elects a democratic state senator.

Of the counties heard from up to Tuesday night only Coosa, St. Clair, Franklin and Chilton had given majorities adverse to the democrats.

Several additional counties were heard from and all, with the exception above noted, give the democratic ticket majorities.

TOWNE DECLINES NOMINATION.

Addresses a Communication to the People's Party.

Former Congressman Charles A. Towne, who was nominated for the vice-presidency by the populist national convention held in Sioux Falls in May has sent a letter to the chairman of the people's party notification committee declining the nomination for the vice-presidency. The letter in part says:

"After mature consideration of all the factors involved that concern the welfare of the cause of political reform in this country and my own duty thereto, I am constrained to inform you in all respect that I must decline the nomination tendered me by the Sioux Falls convention.

"Two circumstances, however, add emphasis to this consideration in the present instance:

"First, that the nomination was unsolicited by me, and secondly, that the convention, as in the case also of its nominee for the presidency, went out of its own political organization to select a candidate. To my mind this action of the Sioux Falls convention in nominating for president a representative of the democratic party and for vice president a representative of the silver republican party is one of the most encouraging and inspiring spectacles in recent politics. Its unselfishness and magnanimity, its testimony to the precedent of the cause of the people over any merely partisan advantage, raised the procedure of that convention into the serene upper air of true civic heroism."

CONGER HEARD FROM AGAIN.

The Situation Grows More Precarious at the Chinese Capital.

Another cablegram came to the state department from Minister Conger, at Pekin, which is the second received direct from him. It is as follows:

"Tsi Nan Yamen, August 7.—Secretary of State: Still besieged. Situation more precarious. Chinese government insisting upon our leaving Pekin, which would be certain death. Rifle firing upon us daily by imperial troops. Have abundant courage, but little ammunition or provisions. Two progressive ministers beheaded. All connected with legation of the United States well at the present moment. CONGER."

The cablegram came in the cipher of the department. Information furnished by him as to the beheading of two members of the Tsun Li Yamen and the intention of the Chinese government of removing of the ministers from Pekin, the state department officials say it may be assigned a date not earlier than July 30, and perhaps not later than August 2. It is said by the telegraph company to have been put on the wire at Tsi Nan, a large city about eighty miles southeast of Pekin, on August 10.

Explosion Causes a Death.

The boiler of the Paris Milling company's plant, at Paris, Tenn., exploded Friday. The building was wrecked, one person killed and several injured, five seriously. Ed Haynes was killed. Injured: W. C. Humphreys, manager, rib and ankle broken; Ben Nanny, arm broken; Jim Bruce, R. A. Nash, Rich Haynes, engineer. A defect in the boiler is supposed to have caused the explosion. The engineer's son, Ed Haynes, was near the boiler and was scalded to death. The property loss is $7,500, covered by insurance.

Favor the Square Bale.

The farmers and ginners of the Cahaba Valley have taken a stand in favor of the square bale, 24x54 inches. To this end a meeting was held at Brompton and the Cahaba Valley Ginners' Association formed with the following officers: President, A. H. Copeland, of Taylorsburg; vice-president J. C. Dyke, of Bridgeton; secretary, J. B. King, of Leeds.

Horrible Murder in Kentucky.

The horribly mutilated dead body of Mrs. Annie Brunter, a widow thirty-five years old, was found near Barndenbury, Ky., Monday. Bloodstains on the fingers of Mrs. Brunter's nephew, Jesse Durham, caused his arrest, and he later confessed the murder, and was hurried to Louisville by Sheriff Hagan, as a lynching seemed certain. Durham killed Mrs. Brunter with a hickory club, while they were returning from a church wedding. He was 27 years old, and recently left an insane asylum. He said of the crime:

"I did not mean to kill her, only to knock her down. She had been talking about me, and got me into trouble several times."

Bressi's Wife a Tennesseean.

Mrs. Bresi the wife of the Italian who assassinated King Humbert, is undoubtedly Sophie Niel, who formerly lived at Shelbyville, Tenn. Several days ago the Tennessee newspapers published a story from Shelbyville to the effect that Mrs. Bressi was supposed to be a native of that city, and that she was the daughter of a distinguished colonel in the Confederate army. Since this publication telegrams have been received from New York, stating that Mrs. Bressi admitted that her name was Sophie Niel.

J. B. Slocum Instantly Killed.

J. B. Slocum, age 22, a miner at Warner, Ala., in the western portion of Jefferson county, was instantly killed Monday afternoon by being run over by a train on the Southern railway track. Slocum, it appears, was attempting to get on the train while it was moving, and his foot slipping, he fell under the wheels. His body was badly mangled and several bones crushed. He died in a few minutes.

DR. E. R. ELDRIDGE.

Chosen President of the LaFayette College—His Successor Chosen.

The people of LaFayette have elected Dr. E. R. Eldridge, of Troy, as president of the LaFayette college, the worthy institution of learning in their midst. Dr. Eldridge is a strong man and a fine educator. The people of LaFayette have chosen well, and no doubt their college will have a prosperous time under his management. Prof. John P. Selman has been elected to fill the vacancy at Troy, and is a young man with fine recommendation.

Many offers for propositions have been made Dr. Eldridge from time to time and Troy regrets that he has seen fit to sever his connection here and accept one elsewhere. Of his departure the Messenger says:

"Dr. Eldridge came to Troy twelve years ago to accept the place of president of the State Normal college, which position he filled with credit for eleven years. During the last year he has had the place of city superintendent. He is a teacher of long experience and advanced ideas, and an indomitable worker for the cause of education. He and his excellent family have made many warm friends in Troy and in all this section, who regret their removal, and whose very sincere good wishes will follow them to their new home."—Montgomery Journal.

NATIONAL CHAIRMEN.

HOW THEY CONDUCT THE PRESENT PRESIDENTIAL CANPAIGN.

The Multifarious Duties Which Fall to Their Lots—The Central Objects of Every Sort of Schemer, Genius and Crank—It Is Indeed No Bed of Roses.

The periodical political ferment of a presidential campaign is about to submerge to greater or less extent almost every other interest of either public or private importance. It will be ushered in with hot weather, and will doubtless, be its only rival, calorifically speaking. It will be a season of varying interest to eighty millions of people in this country alone. Every one, from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the gulf, can have and will have some personal interest in the great contest of the ballots, be it ever so small. Some will speak, some will write, some will sing, some will parade. Many will wear campaign buttons and display portraits of favorite candidates. All will attend campaign rallies more or less, and some fourteen millions of men will finally vote. So each one of the vast multitude will play his little part, and probably with slight realization of the appalling responsibilities, labors, anexieties, and difficulties which will beset the men who will have the management of the whole affair. Those men are the chairmen of the national committees of the great parties.

Most of us have business knowledge enough to understand the almost insupportable strain which must attend the conduct of any of the great industrial establishments. The head of such a business has a perfected organization under his control, trained men in every department, and a continued succession of the same conditions to meet from year to year, and mechanical methods with which to meet them. Compare with his the position of a national chairman in a presidential campaign. The latter has to take his business in an inchoate state, organize it from the bottom up, provide the means to carry it on, attend to all the details, the endless ramifications to be worked out with unknown assistants and untried material, and conduct the whole, if he can, to a successful conclusion within the short and wearing period of about four of the hottest months of the year. The chairman is necessarily an ex-officio member of every sub-committee and bureau of the whole vast organism. In the financial department he is primarily and ultimately responsible for the collection and disbursement of the millions of dollars needed to carry on a campaign. His clients and customers are to be reckoned by millions and his working forces by thousands. He will have in addition a press bureau, through which reporters and correspondents will be furnished with news. Through it he will supply political reading matter to perhaps three thousand weekly papers throughout the whole campaign. Another bureau will be devoted to turning out political documents, requiring its own editorial staff, compiling, printing, and distributing pamphlets, booklets, and leaflets, which will fall on the country thicker than the leaves of Vallombrosa. These publications put forth by one party in a recent campaign numbered upward of one hundred millions of separate documents, which had cost nearly half a million of dollars by the time they had reached the public. A subsidiary bureau will have charge of the task of preparing much of this political reading for voters who can read English. It must have a trained corps of translators who can put the desired information into shape for the Italian, Polish, Hungarian, Scandinavian, Finnish, and Bohemian contingents among our cosmopolitan voters, to say nothing of the French and German. A large corps of speakers must be organized, meetings all over the country arranged for, and itineraries mapped out.

The national chairman will run an alleged art department, by means of which he will flood the country with millions of portraits of candidates, innumerable cartoons, maps, campaign badges, pins, and buttons. One engraver is said to have delivered a million portraits to each of the Republican and Democratic campaign committees in 1892, and whether these things are valuable adjuncts to political success or not it is certain that the practice rather grows than diminishes with each succeeding campaign. When one has enumerated every business department of the national committee, and has seen the finances put in shape, and the press bureau, the document mill, and the art divisions organized and running, he may conceive that the real work and worries of the national chairman have only just commenced, for the affairs of a political organization can not be conducted with the smooth and noiseless methods that obtain in the business world.

The national chairman will be the central object of every sort of schemer, genius, and crank, from the man who merely wants to work to the deep thinker who can tell the chairman just what he ought to do in every contingency. He will have the largest mail of any individual in the world, much of which must have his personal attention. He will be offered tons of campaign poetry and campaign songs. Some of it will be good and gladly used, but most of it will have neither rhyme nor rhythm suitable for anything except the waste-basket. He will be pestered with the woes of speakers, with grievance about their dates, their places, their companions, or their expenses, for speakers are known to be as sensitive as actors, and easily put out by their treatment or surroundings. He will be hunted daily by all sorts of hangers-on watching every chance to cajole the sergeant-at-arms at the party head-quarters and obtain a personal interview with the chief.

Let the reader contemplate the framework of the organization outlined and fill in at his leisure the details which will arise from continual supervision of his various bureaus, his clerks, his stenographers, his type-writers, his statisticians, his speakers, his editors, and add to them an incessant prodding by the opposing party, and he will agree that the chairman's life will be no bed of roses.—Argonaut.

FILIPINO INDUSTRIES.

Weaving, Embroidery and Basket Making Models of Their Kind.

A recent visitor to the Philippines says that while the Filipinos are chiefly an agricultural people they also evidence much skill in what few of the industrial pursuits they have taken up. Their slender brown fingers and supple wrists stand them in good stead for those crafts when clever handiwork is an essential.

Besides the weaving and embroidery which many writers declare to be the only things a native woman can do well, they manufacture the native grasses and fine bamboo into hats, baskets, hammocks and flexible screens that are models of their kind.

The men make skillful carpenters and joiners, their humble dwellings often showing specimens of exquisite workmanship. The building timber is often beautifully carved, and their home furniture tasty enough to be admitted to a museum of fine arts. The Chinese coolies and laborers have done the hard and heavy work of the Philippine Islands for many centuries, leaving the lighter work for the natives.

In making the screen sides for their little cottages they lay the bamboo sticks upon the ground, then bind them together, piece by piece, after the fashion of the Japanese portieres.

Their woven baskets they use interchangeably for hats, baskets, umbrellas, or hampers, according to need; while the salacot, a round, bowl shaped black hat made of narrow strips of some fine species of rattan, serves passibly well as a hemlet or a dish to hold food or water.

Their pottery of red clay, while crude in finish, shows evidences of taste in both form and color.—New York Trubune.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Wieden, a suburb of Vienna, Austria, has the largest dwelling house in the world. It contains 1400 rooms, divided into 400 suites, and affords shelter to over 2000 persons.

A tree has recently been discovered in Africa which yields better. Though by no means as good as that churned from cream it can be made somewhat similar in taste by salting. By heating with a solution of potash or soda, it is easily made into soap.

Porter Jepson of Toledo, Ohio, recently placed a double-yolked egg in the nest with a setting of ducks eggs. Several days ago the mother came off the nest with her brood, every egg having hatched. In the brood is one duckling with four legs and three wings. It is as lively and gets around as well as the rest of the brood.

The town of Reynolds, N. D., is excited over the discovery of a subterranean river under the farm of O. J. Solberg, one mile west of the town. Workmen engaged in boring a well discovered that, after boring eight feet, the boring tools dropped and were lost. Investigation led to the discovery of a moving body of water ten feet deep. By flashlight with a mirror a swiftly moving stream could be seen.

A curiosity being exhibited in the window of an optician in Washington—a horn-rimmed eyeglass, with cord attached, worn by Lord Cardigan when he led the Light Brigade at the Balaclava charge. That morning Lord Cardigan had broken the glass of the gold-rimmed monocle he usually sported, and took the other with him as a substitute. It was secured by his military servant, who gave it to a relative. At his death the eyeglass was sold with his effects.

Over in Berlin, Germany, there is a timepiece which is considered to be the most marvelous piece of mechanism that human skill ever put together. It measures less than one-quarter of an inch in diameter, or one with a face about the size of the head of a large size tack or nail. The case is made of the very finest of gold, and the whole watch weighs less than two grains, Troy. It can only be realized how exceedingly light this is when we consider that in Troy weight it takes 480 grains to make an ounce and that 12 ounces constitute a pound, or that 5760 grains are contained in a pound. This wonderful piece of mechanism weighs only 1-2880th part of a pound. So great a curiosity was this made considered that the owner paid $1200 for it.

COME to the big ratification meeting at the Court House, Saturday next.

AFTER the official count at Clanton on Saturday there will be a big ratification meeting and a high old time generally.

THE election passed off very quietly and the result was the same as had been anticipated by all well-posted individuals. The Pops elected every one of their nominees

THIS election has demonstrated that while the organization of the Populists throughout the State is in a deplorable condition, the spirit of Populism is thoroughly alive in Chilton county. It remains with the victorious Democratic majority to so adjust their proceedings in the next legislature, and not proceed to arbitrary measures, that the people may feel confidence in them. In such case it may yet be possible to reunite the white people of Alabama, although at present the outlook is not very favorable in that direction.

LEWIS H. Reynolds would seem to have been elected senator from this district, but is to become a victim of ballot thieves who are determined to override the expressed will of the people. In Chilton and Shelby counties Mr. Reynolds has a majority over Mr. Oliver of about 1100, and this is overcome in Elmore where it is said Mr. Oliver has a majority over Reynolds of 1700. No sane man believes it possible for such a majority to have been honestly obtained by Mr. Oliver, and his extreme partisan friends there, who give out no figures, are making that claim, which we cannot believe will be substantiated by the official count. To have netted such a large majority would mean that nearly every man, white and black, must have voted for Mr. Oliver. Like Tom Gullahorn's tales, there is too much pepper in it.

FROM the unofficial returns we have been able to gather, the election seems to have gone as follows:

Dr. Crowe received 1070 votes, and Col. Samford 951; majority for Crowe 125.

L. H. Reynolds 1303; W. R. Oliver 740; majority for Reynolds 563.

L. B. Pounds 1256, H. I. Honeycutt 760; majority for Pounds 496.

M. A. Killgore 1259; C. J. Stewart 905; majority for Killgore 344.

A. C. Mims 1447; B. W. Garner 748; majority for Mims 699.

T. J. Hubbard 1406; R. O. Headley 804; majority for Hubbard 602.

A. G. Dake 1320; W. I. Mullins 844; majority for Dake 485.

J. W. Moore 1368; G. L. Speer 822; majority for Moore 546.

J. W. Sorrell 1313; Oliver Mullins 800; majority for Sorrell 513.

Alex Glascock 1341; R. M. Honeycutt 755; majority for Glascock 586.

W. A. Greene 1303; J. R. Parcell 750; majority for Greene 553.

R. C. Riggins 1275; P. C. Dennis 868; majority for Riggins 407.

While we cannot guarantee the above figures to be correct, we have no doubt they will prove to be nearly the same as those shown in the official count.

In our next issue we will give the official returns from each box for each candidate, and a comparison with former votes.

Discovered at Last.

Glen Miller, a United States marshal in Utah, was sitting in his office at Salt Lake City one day when a well dressed and intelligent looking man entered and addressed him. "I was confident that I knew the man," said Glen in reciting the circumstances, "but I was not able to place him. As we conversed pleasantly it gradually became impressed upon me that he was an old Kansas acquaintance, perhaps some one I had known at the university, but he spoke so cordially and with such an assumption of his knowing me and my knowing him that I did not have the nerve to ask him who he was.

"In Salt Lake," continued the smiling marshal, "we have the same fashion of doing the square thing by a friend that used to prevail in Kansas. There is no prohibition law in Utah, and we found a place near by that was sufficient unto our purposes. After I had said something, and he something, we quickly got along to the stage where I invited him to my house for dinner, but all the time I was taxing my mind to learn his identity and watching for a chance word that would give me a clew.

"'By the way,' I said at last, 'when did you come out?' meaning from the States, of course. 'Oh, I got out last night. You see, they cut off nine months for good behavior.'

"Then it broke over me. My guest was Pete Curry, a celebrated mail robber, whom I had taken to the penitentiary just three years before."—Kansas City Journal.

Her Last Drink.

In Hyde Park lives a young matron who is of such a high nervous temperament that if she drinks the very smallest amount of alcoholic stimulant before going to bed the result is sleeplessness for the remainder of the night. Some nights ago a number of friends dropped in for the evening, and the husband, who, by the way, is a southerner, suggested that he make a mint julep for each of the company. The suggestion was received with delight, and the juleps were promptly mixed.

In his wife's glass, however, he put only enough whisky to flavor the water, probably not more than a teaspoonful. Of this she sipped about half. The result, however, was the same. She was troubled with insomnia all night long, and it was not until 5 o'clock in the morning that she dropped off to sleep and, as a consequence, was not called for breakfast.

At 10 o'clock she came down stairs and hearing the voices of children on the front porch stopped to listen. Her heart filled with motherly pride as she heard her elder son, a boy of 6, telling seven or eight children from the neighborhood that they must not make too much noise as his mamma was asleep. Imagine her horror, too, as the young hopeful added:

"She drank so much whisky last night that she couldn't come down to breakfast this morning."—Kansas City Star.

Something He Couldn't Wear.

A wealthy American who became a convert to Rome was very generous to Pope Leo XIII in money matters. He had done many generous things, and the pope had rewarded him with orders and medals galore. For once a year this convert made a pilgrimage to Rome, where he was kindly received by the holy father as a son and generally, until the orders were exhausted, each time was bestowed with some fresh honor. On such occasions all these brave metal pieces were attached to the rich American's breast.

"I'll soon end that," the pope remarked to a conduante who was at his side during the levee. "Next time I shall give him a snuffbox," which he did, and a beautiful jeweled box it was.

The following year the American turned up again and was granted an audience, when to the holy father's consternation the faithful son of the church appeared not only with all his medals, but with the snuffbox attached to his waistcoat.

"The next time," the pope said, with a comical sigh, "I shall present him with a marble topped table. It is the only thing I can think of that he can't tie to his waistcoat."—Chicago Times-Herald.

63,536 Versions of Jack and Jill.

An English clergyman has written the history of Jack and Jill on a new and original plan. The first four pages of the book are numbered 1, the next four 2, and so on up to page 8. The stories are so arranged that any page marked 2 can be read after any numbered 1, making good sense. In the same way page 3 can be read after page 1 or page 2; page 4 will follow page 1, 2 or 3, and so on through the eight. Application of the laws of permutation shows that the book thus contains 63,536 stories of Jack and Jill.

Gold Bonuses Why Roundlap Bales Are Worth More Than Square Bales.

Mr. J. H. W. Steele, Secretary of the Texas Standard Bale Compress Association, in a letter written to the West Times, June 30, says: "Let me say a plain word to the plain people. For the same reason that you pay more for a good coat than you would for a ragged and sleezy one, so will the English and German spinner pay you more for a neat, dense, well-covered bale than he will for what is left of an unsightly bag, which has lost half its value by wet, waste, pillery and dirt."

For exactly this reason spinners pay more for Roundlap than for square bales of any size whatever. It is precisely because Roundlap bales are "neat, dense, well covered," protected against fire, moisture, waste, theft and damage, that they are worth more to spinners than an "unsightly" square "bag which has lost half of its value by wet, waste, pillery and dirt." It is precisely for this reason, also, and because of the savings made in the wrapping, handling and shipment of Roundlap bales that buyers are able to and do pay for them a premium above the value of square bales sufficient to pay the baling charges and leave the owner a substantial profit besides.

A Minister's Good Work

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." COTTON GROWERS ASSOCIATION

The work of organizing the Cotton Growers' Protective Association in Alabama is progressing in a most satisfactory manner.

President Poole is much encouraged for the success of the movement by the interest manifested by bankers and other business men. He is in receipt of letters from many of the most prominent bankers in the State, stating that they are ready to aid the movement in every way possible.

The work of enlisting the aid of the ginners has been most satisfactory. It now seems certain that the association will be in a position to furnish its first full estimate of the crop by December 1st. There can no longer be a doubt but that the cotton crop of this year is going to fall far short of the early estimates. A 10,000,000 bale crop seems now to be a high estimate. Granting this to be a correct estimate, the crop for this year should bring from 10c to 11c, and if the crop is 9 million short of the above estimate there is a very strong probability that we will be able to market much of the staple at 12½c.

It is along this line that the Cotton Growers' Protective Association proposes to get in its work First, to obtain a correct estimate of the crop, and give the farmers an idea of the value of the staple, and second, if the buyers are unwilling to pay the price the producers are enabled to hold the crop by obtaining three-fourths value loan from the banks upon a warehouse certificate.

It is a great movement for the Southern cotton growers and one that will eventually make them independent.

Story of a Slave

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. CHINESE PLACE-NAMES.

SIGNIFICANT TO THOSE WHO UNDERSTAND THE LANGUAGE.

Pekin is Northern Capital—Shanghai Signifies "City Near the Sea," and Yang-tse-Kiang Means "Father of the Ocean" —Tien-Tsin is the "Heavenly Place."

WE are reading just now of many Chinese districts, towns and rivers. Many of these geographical names doubtless appear repellant and unpronounceable to all except a few persons who are familiar with them. But, says the New York Sun, if we had a better acquaintance with these names and knew their meaning they would be found to be full of interest. They are often condensed descriptions of the place or feature to which they are applied. They are far more instinct with life than many geographical names in other countries. Suppose we had never heard of Shanghai, for example, but knew the meaning of the two words composing the name. We would know at once that the "City Near the Sea" must apply to a seaport. Yun ho means "The River of Transportation," and we naturally infer that the waterway thus designated must be commercially important. Yun ho, in fact, is the Chinese name of the Grand Canal which plays so large a part in the freight service of East China.

However many syllables there may be in a Chinese place name it is composed of as many words as there are syllables, for all Chinese words are monosyllabic. If we know the meaning of even one of the words in a geographical name it helps to convey a definite idea. The words Ho and Kiang, for example, both mean "river," and when we see them on a map we know they refer to a river or stream. Many of the names of rivers are descriptive of them: Hoang ho, for example, means "Yellow River;" Tsin kiang means "Clear River." Observe how definite is the idea expressed in the name of each of the three rivers which converge upon Canton. One of them is the Si kiang, or "West River," another the Pe kiang, or "North River," the third is the Tung kiang, or "East River." The names of these rivers tells the direction from which they come. They help to simplify the study of the geography of that part of China. When they unite they form the Chu kiang, or "Pearl River." The Chinese named their largest river in the north of the Hoang ho because it cuts its bed through yellow soil from which it derives its color. The yellow flood it pours into the sea colors that part of the ocean yellow, and hence the Chinese call the sea Hoang hai, or Yellow Sea.

The Chinese unite the words in a name so that they form one word just as we write Newtown, Hartford or Deerfield. Sometimes we unite the words in a Chinese name and sometimes we separate them, but there is no reason, for example, why we should write Tien-Tsin when we do not write Pe-Kin. Each of these names is composed of two words. Pe means "north" and Kin means "the capital," or "the king's household," and thus Pekin means the northern capital. Tien means "heavenly" and Tsin means "place," and thus the name of the largest city in Northeast China means "heavenly place"—a name it has borne for many centuries. When Marco Polo visited the city in the thirteenth century he translated its name into "Citta Celeste."

Many Chinese names we see in the newspapers and do not even attempt to pronounce would give us as much information if we could translate them, as a long sentence might do. Hankow, for example, is the name of a very important city on the Yang tse kiang. There are only six letters in the name, and yet any Chinese boy would know from the two short words composing it that it is the name of the town standing at the "kow" or mouth of a river named Han. The Han is the greatest tributary of the Yang tse kiang, and plays a most important part in the commercial life of that teeming valley, and the city built on the spot where the Han mingles its waters with the Yang tse is Hankow, i. e., the town at the mouth of the Han.

The word Yang means "ocean," tse means "son," and the name Yang tse kiang which the Chinese applied ages ago to their greatest river shows that they did not mean to depreciate its importance. Some writers say that the early Chinese believed their largest river contributed more water to the making of the ocean than any other stream in the world, and so in the name of the river they conveyed the idea that the ocean was its son. The name is often erroneously translated the Blue River.

Pekin has not always been the capital of the empire, but Nankin, a city far to the south, was long the seat of government, and, as the name Pekin means "northern capital," so the name Nankin means "southern capital." "White River" is the meaning of Pei ho, near whose mouth are the forts just seized by the Powers.

In some books and maps we see the words "fu" or "hieu" added to the names of many towns. These words are not a part of the names, and some of the best atlases omit them, for they lengthen the name and make it more formidable to the foreigner. Fu means the capital of one of the departments into which a province is divided; in other words, it is the residence of the official at the head of the department. Hien signifies one of the districts into which a department is divided, and when attached to a place name means that the official in charge of the district resides there. It is better to omit these merely political designation. When we have more intimate dealings with China and better knowledge of the people and their country we shall have uniformity in the spelling of China's place names, and know what these names mean, and we shall see clearly that these names show considerable imaginative and descriptive facility, and that they are really helpful in the study of Chinese geography.

Russian Dislike of Tunnels.

There are, naturally, a number of sweeping curves through the Urals, but all tunneling has been avoided. The writer did not see a single tunnel in the Ural range. It is a remarkable fact that during the trans-Siberian railway inspection the writer did not observe a tunnel anywhere; and even after continuing the inspection right into the heart of Russia, about 2000 miles more of the line had been covered before he saw the first tunnel. This was near Tyfa, not far from the illustrious Tolstoi's home; and it was while responding to a prearranged invitation from le grand Russe, that the writer came across this, the first tunnel noted, after 6000 miles of overland railway inspection.

Russian railway engineers would sooner blow up a small mountain than make a tunnel, leaving a yawning chasm between the rocks, with two streaks of rust" at the bottom thereof as a souvenir of his activity. Or, if he finds that, after going to the mountain, the mountain is not likely to yield to him, his instructions are to circumvent it by a long detour. Anything to avoid tunneling! The primary aversion to tunnels in Russia is not alone their first cost, but their subsequent cost; for tunnels, like houses, always have "something the matter with them."—Cassier's Magazine.

Money in Oranges.

The development of the orange industry in the United States has been extremely rapid.

A quarter of a century ago there were no seedless or navel oranges in the States. A few oranges were grown in Florida, but the bulk came from the Mediterranean shores and the fruit was expensive. At that time the total annual yield of California was only a few carloads.

Now the annual California orange yield is 15,000 carloads, and next year it is expected to exceed 20,000 carloads. The total amount invested in orange property in California twenty-five years ago was $23,000; now it is $43,000,000, and is annually increasing by two millions.

The introduction of the seedless orange has wrought this change, and large tracts of waste land in California have been covered with luxuriant orange groves, and several small towns more or less dependent on the industry have sprung up in the State.

It is computed that the industry has added annually $43,000,000 directly and $20,000,000 indirectly to the taxable wealth of the United States.—Philadelphia Record.

A Life-Saving Czarina.

Twice the Dowager Empress of Russia has saved her husband's life. One day, when in the Emperor's dressing room, she observed that on his dressing table lay a curious-looking jewel case. Something about its appearance aroused her curiosity, and taking it up, she became aware that it was extremely heavy. Without saying a word, she went into her room and placed it carefully in a basin of water; then sending for the prefect of police, whose duties kept him much about the palace, she begged him to have it examined, and it was discovered to be one of the most marvelous infernal machines ever invented by the ingenuity of man. The second occasion on which the Empress was directly instrumental in stopping murder occurred in the winter palace when she heard a sight noise which indicated the presence of some stranger in the Czar's study. Without betraying the slightest anxiety she begged her husband to come and speak to one of the children. He did so. She locked the door, and only gave the keys to a party of soldiers, who found that some one had just escaped through the window.

One Skipper's "Moderate Speed."

The laws of the future regarding the speed of steamships when running under adverse weather conditions will no doubt be very specific on that point after we have a few more great collisions in which all hands are lost. At present they are loosely worded and enjoin "moderate speed" in running through fogs.

The trouble is everybody has a different idea of what constitutes moderate speed. Not long ago they had an old Cunard captain before a commission which was investigating a small accident. "What do you consider moderate speed, sir?" asked the chairman. The old skipper scratched his ear. "Oh! 'bout eighteen knots," he growled.

The commissioners nearly fell off their seats. "Great Scott!" gasped the chairman, "why, the captain of a large freighter just told us six knots." "Six knots be hanged!" said the witness stoutly. "I tell you the ship won't steer until she is going better than sixteen." Incidentally this was the exact truth.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Long Range Photography.

Captain Gentili, an Italian officer who has been experimenting in long-distance photography, has discovered a means of taking photographs at a distance of many miles. By this means it has been possible to photograph fortresses from a distance of eleven miles and masses of troops at a distance of nineteen miles. Captain Gentili's invention is likely to become of considerable importance from the military point of view.—London Daily Mail.

No man is quite satisfied with an increase in salary unless it means less work.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

It is supposed that the average depth of sand in the deserts of Africa is from thirty to forty feet.

The latest book on volcanoes, by Professor Bonney, of London, declares frankly that it is left for the coming century to explain the causes and significance of volcanic action.

The most serious epidemic of trichinosis on record happened in 1865. In the little town of Hedersleben, in Saxony, a butcher killed three hogs and made them into sausages. They were eaten by a large number of the inhabitants of the little town. Several hundred persons fell desperately ill, and over one hundred died.

A firm of fish dealers in Mobile, Ala., is experimenting with a railroad tank car in which, if successful, they will transport Spanish mackerel, pompano, Gulf bluefish and other Southern fishes alive into Northern cities. They believe that necessary aeration and regulation of temperature in a sufficient quantity of sea water will be feasible.

Before a recent meeting of the Zoological Club, of the University of Chicago, a paper was read of the hybrid development of fishes. In some twenty-odd cases of hybrids, made by the speaker, between our common marine and fresh water fishes, there was not a single failure of impregnation. This is a new and startling departure of biological investigation, and some important results are expected.

Sir William Crookes in a recent address before the Royal Society describes an interesting new substance, which he has succeeded in separating from uranium, and which he calls Ur x; that is, the unknown substance x in Ur, which is the chemical symbol for uranium. He found that the supposed fluorescence of uranium was due to the presence of Ur x, and that after the separation of the latter uranium entirely lost this power. The new substance resembles in many ways the two recently discovered radio-active bodies radium and actinium.

Added evidence is coming in every day of the great value of the modern inoculation treatment with the anti-toxines. Not only as remedies for fighting the actual disease, but even more as preventives of its attack, they are coming more and more into use in all countries. This great movement in the medical world, which was practically inaugurated by Jenner with his smallpox vaccine in 1796, and whose latest and most untiring servant, Professor W. M. Hoffkine, is now working out the plague problem in India, has had to fight an uphill battle for recognition; but it now seems as if its place as a valuable prophylactic and remedial measure was certainly assured, as it has already been successfully applied to typhoid fever, diphtheria, rabies and bubonic plague.

The Legend of the Toothpick.

And this is where the legend of the toothpick properly comes in. Herodotus noticed the fact, but seems to have been misled as to the motive. He discovered that the crocodile made friends with a particular bird, which he allowed to enter his mouth in order, as the writer supposed, to rid the reptile of the leeches which infested his jaws. Pliny says nothing of these pests, but considers the complaisance of the crocodile to be due to the satisfaction he felt in having his teeth picked by the bird. "He taketh so great delight in this her scraping and scouring of his teeth and jaws." Both authors speak of the bird as a wren; later naturalists described it as being as large as a thrush, while it has been reserved for the present generation of travelers to identify this useful friend of the crocodile as the spur-winged plover. Of the fact of the alliance there is not the least doubt. The operation has been frequently witnessed by numerous independent observers, one of the latest of whom considers that the bird does actually perform the functions of a toothpick, "a process which the crocodile enjoys." With such corroboration the narration of Herodotus, subject to qualification, as it must be, is at least to be taken seriously, and no longer regarded as the visionary idea of a mere fabulist.—New York Sun.

He Painted to Sell.

An artist who has done some more ambitious things than paint animals, although chiefly known as an animal painter, was asked the other day by one who had known him as an aspirant to higher things, why he no longer attempted the greater heights of art.

"Why," said he in reply, "a cat once interested me and I put her on canvas. Somebody liked her pigmentary looks and bought the picture. I needed money and painted another cat and that sold at once. Now the people think I can paint cats and they will buy any cat I paint, and if I try to paint anything else they will not look at it. They think I can paint cats, so I paint cats."

And he does paint cats and they sell. Still there are people who assert that the artist and not the public establishes the status of art. The cat painter is an Associate Academician.—New York Sun.

He Spelled It With "G."

The old colonel had twice packed his traps and calamities and indignantly trekked frontierward to escape the encroachments of advancing civilization.

To him the old friend: "Well, colonel, still trying to keep the wolf from the door?"

Howled the colonel: "Wolf? No, confound it; golf!"—Chicago Tribune.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: Profligate Literature—Evil Publications the Greatest Scourge of the World—It Fills the Prisons and Insane Asylums—Power of the Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Talmage sends the following report of a discourse, which will be helpful to those who have an appetite for literature and would like some rules to guide them in the selection of books and newspapers, text, Acts xix. 19 "Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together and burned them before all men; and they counted the price of them and found it 50,000 pieces of silver."

Paul had been stirring up Ephesus with some lively sermons about the sins of that place. Among the more important results was the fact that the citizens brought out their bad books and in a public place made a bonfire of them. I see the people coming out with their arms full of Ephesian literature and tossing it into the flames. I hear an economist who is standing by saying "Stop this waste! Here are $7500 worth of books. Do you propose to burn them all up? If you don't want to read them yourselves, sell them." "No," said the people, "if these books are not good for us, they are not good for anybody else, and we shall stand and watch until the last leaf has burned to ashes. They have done us a world of harm; and they shall never do others harm." Hear the flames crackle and roar!

Well, my friends, one of the wants of the cities is a great bonfire of bad books and newspapers. We have enough fuel to make a blaze 200 feet high. Many of the publishing houses would do well to throw into the blaze their entire stock of goods. Bring forth the insufferable trash and put it into the fire and let it be known in the presence of God and angels and men that you are going to rid your homes of the overtopping and underlying course of profligate literature.

The printing press is the mightiest agency on earth for good and for evil. The minister of the gospel standing in the pulpit has a responsible position, but I do not think it is as responsible as the position of an editor or a publisher. At what distant point of time, at what far out cycle of eternity, will cease the influence of Henry J. Raymond or a Horace Greeley, or a James Gordon Bennett, or a Watson Webb, or an Erastus Brooks, or a Thomas Kinsella? Take the overwhelming statistics of the circulation of the daily and weekly newspapers and then cipher, if you can, how far up and how far down and how far out reach the influences of the American printing presses.

What is to be the issue of all this? I believe the Lord intends the printing press to be the chief means for the world's rescue and evangelization, and I think that the great last battle of the world will not be fought with swords and guns, but with types and presses, a purified and gospel literature triumphing over, trampling down and crushing out forever that which is depraved. The only way to overcome unclean literature is by scattering abroad that which is healthful. May God speed the cylinders of an honest, intelligent, aggressive Christian printing press!

I have to tell you that the greatest blessing that ever came to the nations is that of an elevated literature, and the greatest scourge has been that of unclean literature. This last has its victims in all occupations and departments. It has helped to fill insane asylums and penitentiaries and almshouses and dens of shame. The bodies of this infection lie in the hospitals and in the graves, while their souls are being tossed over into a lost eternity! The London plague was nothing to it. That counted its victims by thousands, but this modern pest has already shoveled its millions into the carnal house of the morally dead. The longest train that ever ran over the tracks was not long enough or large enough to carry the beastliness and the putrefaction which have been gathered up in bad books and newspapers in the last twenty years.

Now, it is amid such circumstances that I put a question of overmastering importance to you and your families. What books and newspapers shall we read? You see I group them together. A newspaper is only a book in a swifter and more portable shape, and the same rules which apply to book reading will apply to newspaper reading. What shall we read? Shall our minds be the receptacle of everything that an author has a mind to write? Shall there be no distinction between the tree of life and the tree of death? Shall we stoop down and drink out of the trough which the wickedness of men has filled with pollution and shame? Shall we mire in impurity and chase fantastic will-o'-the-wisps across the swamps when we might walk in the blooming gardens of God? Oh, no! For the sake of our present and everlasting welfare we must make an intelligent and Christian choice.

Standing, as we do, in chin-deep fictitious literature, the question that young people are asking is, "Shall we read novels?" I reply there are novels that are pure, good, Christian, elevating to the heart and ennobling to the life, but I have still further to say that I believe that seventy-five out of 100 novels in this day are baleful and destructive to the last degree. A pure work of fiction is history and poetry combined. It is a history of things around us, with the licenses and the assumed names of poetry. The world can never pay the debt which it owes to such writers of fiction as Hawthorne and McKenzie and Landon and Hunt and Arthur and others whose names are familiar to all. The follies of high life were never better exposed than by Miss Edgeworth; the memories of the past were never more faithfully embalmed than in the writings of Walter Scott. Cooper's novels are healthfully redolent with the breath of the seaweed and the air of the American forest. Charles Kingsley has smitten the morbidity of the world and led a great many to appreciate the poetry of sound health, strong muscles and fresh air. Thackeray did a grand work in caricaturing the pretenders to gentility and high blood. Dickens has built his own monument in his books, which are a plea for the poor and the anathema of injustice, and there are a score of novelistic pens to-day doing mighty work for God and righteousness.

Now, I say, books like these, read at right times and read in right proportion with other books, cannot help but be ennobling and purifying, but, alas, for the loathsome and impure literature that has come in the shape of novels like a freshet overflowing all the banks of decency and common sense! They are coming from some of the most celebrated publishing houses; they lie on your centre table to curse your children and blast with their infernal fires generations unborn. You find these books in the desk of the school miss, in the trunk of the young man, in the steamboat cabin, on the table of the hotel reception room. You see a light in your child's room late at night. You suddenly go in and say, "What are you doing?" "I am reading." "What are you reading?" "A book." "Where did you get it?" "I borrowed it." Alas, there are always those abroad who would like to loan your son or daughter a bad book! Everywhere, everywhere, all unclean literature! I charge upon it the destruction of 10,000 immortal souls, and I bid you wake up to the magnitude of the evil.

I charge you, in the first place, to stand aloof from all books that give false pictures of life. Life is neither a tragedy nor a farce. Men are not all either knaves or heroes. Women are neither angels nor furies. And yet, if you depended upon much of the literature of the day, you would get the idea that life, instead of being something earnest, something practical, is a fitful and fantastic and extravagant thing. How poorly prepared are that young man and woman for the duties of to-day who spent last night wading through brilliant passages descriptive of magnificent knavery and wickedness! The man will be looking all day long for his heroine in the office by the forge in the factory, in the counting room, and he will not find her, and he will be dissatisfied. A man who gives himself up to the indiscriminate reading of novels will be nerveless, inane and a nuisance. He will be neither for the store nor the shop nor the field. A woman who gives herself up to the indiscriminate reading of novels will be unfitted for the duties of wife, mother, sister, daughter. There she is in her bewitched, countenance vacant, those once busy hands trembling, bursting into tears at midnight over the fate of some fictitious lover, in the daytime, when she ought to busy herself by the basket of mending, biting her finger nails instead of work. The carpet that was put down before will be plainer after having walked through a romance all night long in tessellated halls of castles. And your industrious companion will be more unattractive than ever, now that you have walked in the romance through parks with plumed princesses, or lounged in the arbor with polished desperado. Oh, these enchanted no readers! They are unfitted for this life, which is a tremendous discipline. They know not how to go through the furnaces of trial through which they must pass, and they are unfitted for a world where everything we gain we achieve by hard and long continuing work.

Again, abstain from all those books which, while they have some good things, have also an admixture of evil. You have read books that had two elements in them—the good and the bad. Which struck you? The bad. The heart of most people is like a sieve which lets the small particles of gold fall through, but keeps the great cinders. Once in awhile there is a mind like a loadstone which, plunged amid steel and brass fillings, gathers up the steel and repels the brass. But it is generally exactly the opposite. If you attempt to plunge through a hedge of burs to get one blackberry, you will get more burs than blackberries. You cannot afford to read a bad book, however good you are. You say: "The influence is insignificant." I tell you that the scratch of a pin has sometimes produced lockjaw. Alas, if through curiosity, as many do, you pry into an evil book your curiosity is as dangerous as that of the man who would take a torch into a gunpowder mill to see whether it would really blow up or not!

In a menagerie in New York a man put his arm through the bars of a black leopard's cage. The animal's hide looked so sleek and bright and beautiful. He just stroked it once. The monster seized him, and he drew forth a hand torn and mangled and bleeding. Oh, touch not evil with the faintest stroke! Though it may be glossy and beautiful, touch it not lest you pull forth your soul torn and bleeding under the clutch of the leopard. "But," you say, "how can I find out whether a book is good or bad without reading it?" There is always something suspicious about a bad book. I never knew an exception something suspicious in the index or style of illustration. This venomous reptile always carries a warning rattle.

Much of the impure pictorial literature is most tremendous for ruin. There is no one who can like good pictures better than I do. The quickest and most condensed way of impressing the public mind is by a picture. What the painter does by his brush for a few favorites the engraver does by his knife for the million. What the author accomplishes by fifty pages the artist does by a flash. The best part of a painting that costs $10,000 you may buy for ten cents. Fine paintings belong to the democracy of art. You do well to gather good pictures in your homes.

But what shall I say of the prostitution of art to purposes of iniquity? These death warrants of the soul are at every street corner. They smite the vision of the young man with pollution. Many a young man buying a copy has bought his eternal discomfiture.

There may be enough poison in one bad picture to poison one soul, and that soul may poison ten and fifty and the fifty hundreds and the hundreds thousands until nothing but the measuring light of eternity can tell the height and depth and ...ciliness and horror of the great undo...

The work of death that the wicked author does in a whole book the bad engraver may do on a half side of a pictorial. Under the guise of pure mirth the young man buys one of these sheets. He unrolls it before his companions amid roars of laughter, but long after the paper is gone the result may perhaps be seen in the blasted imaginations of those who saw it.

The queen of death holds a banquet every night, and these periodicals are the invitation to her guests.

Young man, buy not this moral strychnine for your soul! Pick not up the nest of coiled adders for your pocket! Patronize no newsstand that keeps them! Have your room bright with good engravings, but for these outrageous pictorials have not one wall, one bureau, not one pocket.

A man is no better than the pictures he loves to look at. If your eyes are not pure, your heart cannot be. At a newsstand one can guess the character of a man by the kind of pictorial he purchases.

When the devil fails to get a man to read a bad book, he sometimes succeeds in getting him to look at a bad picture. When satan goes a-hunting, he does not care whether it is a long line or a short line if he only draws his victim in. Beware of lascivious pictorials, young man, in the name of Almighty God, I charge you!

Cherish good books and newspapers; beware of bad ones. The assassin of Lord Russell declared that he was led into crime by reading one vivid picture. The consecrated John Angell James, of whom England never produced a better man, declared in his old age that he never got over the evil effects of reading for fifteen minutes once really bad book. But I need not go so far to find evidence. I could tell you of a comrade who was naturally noble and generous. He was studying for an honorable profession, but he had an infidel book in his trunk, and he lent it to me one day. "De Witt, would you like to read it?" I said, "Yes." I took the book and read it only to find that it took the basis and reasoning with what I saw there, and I handed the book back to him and said, "You had better destroy that book." No, he kept it. He read it. He reread it. After a while he gave up religion as a myth. He gave up God as a nonentity. He gave up the Bible as a fable. He gave up the church of Christ as a useless institution. He gave up good morals as being unnecessarily stringent. I have heard of him but twice in many years. The time before the last I heard of him he was a confirmed inebriate. The last I heard of him he was coming out of an insane asylum, in body, mind and soul an awful wreck. I believe that one infidel book killed him for two worlds.

Go home to-day and look through your library, and then, having looked through your library, look on the stand where you keep your pictorials and newspapers and apply the Christian principles I have laid down this hour. If there is anything in your home that cannot stand the test, do not give it away, for it might spoil an immortal soul. Do not sell it, for the money you get would be the price of blood, but rather kindle a fire on your kitchen hearth or in your back yard and then drop the poison in it, and the bonfire in your city shall be as consuming as that one in Ephesus.

Light and Love.

The Answer to Pra...

What the Church Needs.

We need men and women filled with large and living faith in God—faith in God's presence and power in the world today, faith in the Bible, faith in freedom, faith that fears nothing that is true and desires for nothing that is good, faith that is ready to take up anything which has proved unfounded, and that welcomes new truth at any quarter. We need leaders whose highest aim and joy it is to advance the kingdom of God in the world—men and women of broad and catholic sympathies and directed in their efforts to the kingdom of God to whom sectarianism and party politics are odious and loathsome, lovers of character who are to be honored and respected as examples of the Christian virtues, of sincere and earnest piety, whose religion attracts and commands and to whom sincere, honest, true men and women are everywhere drawn. God send us such leaders in the church, and God give the church the courage, the consciousness and the best things when they tolerate no other leaders.

A Prayer for Missionaries.

Great Head of the church, our present Lord, bless, we beseech Thee, Thy servants, who give their lives for the progress of Thy kingdom. Speed the preaching God who, on the day of Pentecost didst bring multitudes of strangers to Thy ready church, give to Thy servants in these latter days like endurance, like readiness-hearing and readiness of heart, that they may Thy power be shown in every land. We thank Thee for the noble army of martyrs, all Christ's messengers of every age, all lives and abundant fruit which Thou hast given. We rejoice in the confidence whom Thou hast raised up in the midst of darkness, for steadfastness in the faith, for Christ's people on missionary ground who have witnessed a good confession in the midst of trial, in the cathedral service, and common faith and love knit all hearts together in devotion to our risen Lord. And may the hope of the blood through many days to come be the seed of faith and the power of the kingdom of our Lord. Amen.

Help Us to Forgive.

Thy kindness, Lord, is the greatness of Thine. Thou wouldst not have us to get the life of Thy salvation of others, but to make our own. Thou wouldst have us to be forgiving in our thoughts and words and deeds, to be ready to forgive, to be forgiving in the spirit of our Master. Help us to study kindness more than severity, to be daily life and little acts of love, to believe it is more blessed to give than to receive. And may our every thought of others be full of love, and may we care that we like Christ may be full of compassion, gentleness and love. Give us power to overcome evil with good, and a feed and prayer for the outpouring of Thy Spirit and the grace of Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Lilac.

Its May-time clusters, fair to see,
And heart-shaped leaves appeal to me;
With smiles glad children gather them
Though fashion may its beauty scorn.

I fancied wood-nymphs lingered near
The old green lane and cottage door,
When this strong standard by the door
Its pyramids of glory bore.

The praises due has every one,
And epigram, where'er it blows;
Let me extol this gift of May,
Its rustic bloom and graceful spray.

He Abhors Interviews.

Ex-Judge W. H. Moore, of Chicago, organizer of half a dozen gigantic steel and iron combinations has made it an inflexible rule never to allow his utterances to be printed. It was recently reported that he was going to Europe, and a reporter visited him to verify the rumor. But the Chicagoan was as obdurate as ever. "You won't say whether you are going away, Judge?" was asked. "I never talk for publication," was the suave answer. "Can't you tell us anything about the condition of the iron business?" "I do not talk for publication." The reporter had pursued his victim into the elevator, which was slowly descending. Announcing any ambition for the coveted interview, he said: "A fine day, Judge." "Not for publication," was the instinctive reply.—New York Mail and Express.

I wrote you a letter for advice for several years I was in such wretched health that life was almost a burden. I could hardly walk across the floor, was so feeble. Several of our best physicians attended me, but failed to help. I concluded to write to you for advice. In a few days I received such kind, motherly letter. I followed your instructions and am my own self again. Was greatly benefited before I had used one bottle. May God bless you for what you are doing for suffering women."—Mrs. CLARA GATES, P. He Abhors Interviews.

Judge W. H. Moore, of Chicago, organizer of half a dozen gigantic steel and iron combinations, has made it an inflexible rule never to allow his utterances to be printed. It was recently reported that he was going to Europe, and a reporter visited him to verify the rumor. But the Chicagoan was as obdurate as ever. "You won't say whether you are going away, Judge" was asked. "I never talk for publication," was the suave answer. "Can't you tell us anything about the condition of the iron business?" "I do not talk for publication." The reporter had pursued his victim into the elevator, which was slowly descending. Possessing any ambition for the coveted interview, he said: "A fine day, Judge." "Not for publication," was the distinctive reply.—New York Mail and Express.

"MY OWN SELF AGAIN."

Mrs. Gaza Writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Follows Her Advice and is Made Well.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For nearly two and one-half years I have been in poor health. After my little child came, it seemed I could not get my strength again. I have chills and the severest pains in my limbs and top of head and am almost insensible at times. I also have a pain just to the right of my breast bone. It is so severe at times that I cannot lie on my right side. Please write me what you think of my case."—MRS. CLARA GATES, Johns P. O., Miss., April 25, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as advised and now write a letter for publication. For two years I was in such wretched health that life was almost a burden. I could hardly walk across the floor. I was so feeble. Several of our best physicians attended me, but failed to help me. I decided to write to you for advice. In a few days I received such a motherly letter. I followed your directions and am now my 'old self' again. I was greatly benefited before I had used one bottle. May God bless you for what you are doing for suffering women."—MRS. CLARA GATES, P. O. Box, Oct. 6, 1899.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR AUGUST 12.

Subject: The Forgiving Spirit, Matt. xviii., 21—35—Golden Text: Matt. vi., 12—Memory Verses, 21, 22—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

21. "Then came Peter." Peter always made himself very prominent. "And I forgive him." He knew it was his duty to forgive, but the question was, How often? "Till seven times." Peter uses the term seven in a strictly literal sense. The teaching of the rabbis was never to forgive more than three times. Peter increases this until he supposed he had reached the limit. Man is naturally a vindictive being, and in consequence nothing is more difficult to him than forgiveness of injuries.

22. "Until seven times." This would be wholly inadequate. "Seventy times seven." That is, there should be no limit to your forgiveness. The precept is unbounded, and you must never be weary of forgiving. 23. Kingdom of heaven likened. The teachings of Christ with respect to forgiveness are fully illustrated in the parable which follows. It shows, 1. The character of man's relation to God. 2. The real meaning, on man's part, of a distinct refusal to forgive. "Which would make a reckoning." (R. V.) The fundamental moral principle in God's kingdom is righteousness. The great King of heaven and earth will, one day, reckon with all of His subjects. Every sin is a debt contracted with the justice of God, and soon our Master will settle accounts with us. What an awful time it will be when we meet [illegible] sinning shall be found [illegible] and impenitent!

24. "One [illegible] talents." An enormous sum. [illegible] and could not be reckoned [illegible] ten million to the [illegible] It was [illegible] This is an [illegible] intended to indicate the infinite debt incurred which could never be discharged.

25. "Had not to pay." Our debt to God is so great that we are utterly incapable of making Him any satisfaction whatever. "Commanded him to be sold." An allusion to the Law of Moses. See Exod., 22:3; Lev. 25, 39, 47; 2 Kings 4:1. Creditors had power to sell insolvent debtors in several countries of Europe, as well as Asia, in ancient times. We thus see by this parable what our sins deserve. Captives to sin are captives to wrath. "And payment be made." The amount obtained would be wholly inadequate to cancel the debt, but as large a payment was to be made as possible.

26. "Will pay thee all." The debt is admitted and he comes pleading for mercy. The means which a sinner should use to be saved are: 1. Deep humiliation of heart. 2. Fervent prayer. 3. Confidence in the mercy of God. 4. A firm purpose to devote his soul and body to his Master.

27. "Forgave him the debt." We are debtors of our heavenly King, who has entrusted to us the administration of what is His, and which we have prolonged or misused, incurring an unspeakable debt, which we can never discharge, and of which utter ruin would be the proper sequence. But, if we cast ourselves at His feet, He is ready in infinite compassion no only to release us from punishment, but to forgive us the debt.

28. "An hundred pence." About seven dollars. "Took him by the throat." Thus manifesting a most unkind and harsh disposition. The sin is greatly aggravated when we consider his own debt, and the mercy shown him. What are my brother's sins against me compared to my numberless sins against God? "Pay me what thou owest." He was unwilling even to forgive him a single dollar. He must pay in full and pay at once. We must be very careful and not show this same disposition in our treatment of others.

29. "Fell down at his feet." His fellow-servant humbled himself and plead for mercy as he himself had done just before this.

30. "And he would not." Such is man; so harsh and hard against those who are in every way his equals. Ignorance of his own condition makes him unforgiving and cruel to others.

31. "Were very sorry." An act of this kind is so dishonorable to all true Christians, and to the spirit of the gospel, that through the concern they feel for the prosperity of the cause of Christ, they are obliged to speak against it.

32. "Thou wicked servant." Unmercifulness is great wickedness. To the unmerciful, God will have no mercy; this is an eternal purpose of the Lord which can give not men their trespasses, neither will never be changed. Jesus said, "If ye forgive your Father forgive your trespasses." Matt. 6:15. "Because they besought me." (R. V.) When we really beseech Christ for forgiveness He will answer us and grant our pardon. No one need despair. We have nothing to pay and nothing is demanded. If we come in humility and faith and in the spirit of obedience God is always ready to hear us. But we must urge our case (Luke 18:1-8; 1 Thess. 5:17; Matt. 7:7, 8) and continue to beseech the Lord even when surrounded by discouragements.

33. "Even as I had pity on thee." The servant is here shown the obligation he is under to his fellow-servant because of the mercy that had been shown him. It is justly expected that those who have received mercy shall show mercy.

34. "Delivered him to the tormentors." The person who does not have a forgiving spirit will be tormented, both in this world and in the world to come. A guilty conscience, the fear of the judgment day and the fires of God's wrath (Rev. 20:15) will in turn act as tormentors. "All that was due." And inasmuch as the amount was so great that he could never pay it, he must have been delivered over to the tormentors forever. The wicked will be banished eternally from the presence of God. See Matt. 5:25, 26; 25:46; ev. 14:11; Matt. Matt. 18:8.

35. "So likewise." This verse is an application of the whole parable. The parable is not intended to teach us that God reverses His pardons to any, but that He denies them to those who are not worthy of them. Those who have not forgiven others their trespasses have never yet truly repented, and that which is spoken of as having been taken away is only what they seemed to possess. Luke 8:18. "From your hearts." When we deal with God mere pretensions will not answer. The one who really forgives the trespasses of his brother will not be calling them up again at every provocation. Heart forgiveness is full and complete. "Every one his brother." We will have need to exercise the grace of patience and forbearance continually. Let us remember that "to forgive is divine."

Dredge Boat Burned.

Medal for Monument Design.

The jury in the Paris salon of 1900 has awarded the first medal to M. D. Despradelles of Paston, professor of architecture and design at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The subject of M. Despradelles' design is of especial interest to Americans, being a monument "dedicated to the glory of the American nation," and it is said to be of a grandeur of conception and of a daring in execution almost unparalleled. Its title—"The Beacon of Progress"—indicates the character of the composition, the height of which is designed to be 1,500 feet. The artistic presentation of this project received the unanimous approbation of the jury the day of its admission to the salon, and the award of the first medal crowns a labor of almost six years.

They Used Him.

"Spare me!" cried the captive, "and I will be your slave for life. I am a cook by trade, and can make any dish you desire." "Well," replied the cannibal king, "you do look as if you would make a good hash. I think we can use you." This reply, somewhat ambiguous, left the captive in doubt, but alas! not for long.

England's Oldest Actor.

England's oldest actor, James Doel, has just passed another birthday, his 93d, and is still hearty, although he has retired from the management of the inn of which he was landlord until a few months ago. He made his first appearance upon the stage of the Plymouth theater in "The Turnpike Gate" when Queen Victoria was little more than a baby. He says that he remembers seeing the first Napoleon as a prisoner on the Bellerophon.

The Age of Birds.

Mr. J. H. Gurney, in an article in the Ibis, discusses a number of facts collected from various books and papers, regarding the age to which birds live. Mr. Dresser, in his "Birds of Europe," gives an instance of a raven having lived sixty-nine years. Mr. Meade-Waldo has in captivity a pair of eagle owls, one of which is sixty-eight and the other fifty-three years old. Since 1864 these birds have bred regularly, and have now reared ninety-three young ones. A Batelur eagle and a condor in the Zoological gardens at Amsterdam are still alive at the respective ages of fifty-five and fifty-two. An imperial eagle of the age of fifty-six, a golden eagle of forty-six and a sea eagle of forty-two, and many other birds of the age of forty downward are also recorded.

CONSTIPATED

OLD AGE

Means misery on the eve of life. Nine out of ten old people are constipated because the muscles of their intestines have become weak, worn out and flabby. Constipation is the curse of old age, causes bile and acid poisons to remain in the blood, making the skin yellow and wrinkled, the eyes bleary and causing the "bones to ache." Keep the bowels strong, healthy and regular and old age loses all its terrors and weaknesses. No reason why grandpa and grandma shouldn't have bright eyes, and clear ruddy skin and feel lively and active, if they will only keep their bowels open and vigorous with CASCARETS CANDY CATHARTIC, the greatest bowel tonic ever heard of. THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Maplesville.

Our drouth has set in since the rain has ceased and now some are complaining about that; on Friday the 11th, we had a very light shower with a sand storm and no rain since.

On July 8th Mr. George Settles was laid to rest in Maplesville cemetery, many friends attended his funeral and every respect was given this honest man, "the noblest work of God," no one can say that George Settles wronged them. His mind had been religiously unbalanced for several years. Kind friends placed a railing over his grave so it was never desecrated.

Our old friend and neighbor, Robert Walker, has been on a visit from Oklahoma after many years absence; he is much pleased with his new home.

Wheeler Foshee has been on a visit to his mother here.

Misses Della and Willie Blalack have been visiting friends lately.

Mrs. Maree Baisemore, of Birmingham, has paid the old folks a visit here.

The beautiful Miss Minnie Moore, of Mississippi, is now on a visit to her kinsman, Mr. Patterson.

Mr. McGuire, of Riderville, has been on a visit to his daughter here, Mrs. Dr. Claughton.

Mrs. Rosa DuBose is the happy mother of a fine son leaving his father's name, James Archer. Mrs. Bailey, her mother, of Atlanta, paid her a visit.

Mr. McKarryl and Miss Lillie Savage were lately married at the residence of the bride's parents, many handsome and useful presents were given this very popular couple. Mrs. McKarryl, his mother, and his sister, Mrs. Powell, of Birmingham, were here to attend the wedding.

Our community was saddened the 3d by the death of our neighbor T. W. DuBose. He had been in failing health some time, but was not alarming sick but a few days, Dr. G. DuBose, of Selma, beside Drs. Claughton and Pernell attended him and all was done that loving friends could. He was the kindest of husbands and a most affectionate father, he will be greatly missed; many can recall his acts of charity; deepest sympathy is extended the bereaved family. Many friends and relations attended his burial, Rev. Mr. Ruddick most impressly performed the burial rite. Kind friends placed a railing over his grave so it was never desecrated. There is much sickness in the country and every one should live in the greatest prudence. SUBSCRIBER.

Shoults

Lots of sickness in this section, two deaths recently. The little child of Mr. C. Hall and the infant child of Mrs. Sallie Leech paid the debt that we all will soon have to pay. We are glad to say that some of the sick are improving. Hot weather for pulling fodder; cotton is opening in this section.

Mr. J. M. Walker, of Chattanooga, was a surprise visitor to Mrs. Mary Mize last week.

Mr. Festus Atkinson and sister, of Jemison, visited their father, at this place last week.

Prof. Spinks preached an excellent sermon last Sunday.

Mrs. Rader Lawrence presented her husband with a baby girl last Saturday.

Mrs. N. S. Flead, of Americus, Ga., is visiting relatives at Long Branch this week.

We are glad to say we are having a good Sunday-school at this place now. People are busy drying fruit around here. Blackberries are gone, what will the poor darkey do? BIG IKE.

TRAGEDY ON A TRAIN.

Express Messenger Robbed and Killed—The Murderer Arrested.

A daring murder and robbery was committed on the Pennsylvania passenger train No. 8, which arrived at Columbus, Ohio, from St. Louis Friday night. Charles Lane, an Adams Express messenger, formerly of St. Louis, but recently a resident of Columbus, was shot and killed shortly before the train reached the Union station and the "local" safe was robbed of all the money and valuables it contained. The body was found to have been riddled with bullets and there were evidences that a desperate struggle had taken place. No less than eight bullet wounds were found.

Charles R. H. Ferroll, a former employe of the Adams Express company, was arrested the following day in Columbus and has confessed to the killing of Messenger Charles Lane and the robbery of the way safe of the Adams Express company. One thousand dollars of the money which he had stolen was recovered.

Ferroll was to have been married Thursday next to Miss Lillian Coctlow. He had been discharged from the employ of the Adams Express company about three week ago, and had not since been able to secure employment. He confessed that the motive of the robbery was to secure money, for which he felt in great need in consequence of his approaching marriage.

BATTLESHIPS COLLIDE.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Sinks, Causing Fearful Loss of Life.

During maneuvers of the French fleet off Cape Vincent, France, Saturday night, a collision occurred between the first class battleship Brennus, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Fournier, commander of the fleet, and the torpedo boat destroyer Framee.

The Framee sank immediately. The accident was due to the fact that the Framee turned to the right when ordered to the left.

Details thus far received are very meagre, but only a small portion of the crew, consisting of four officers and fifty-eight men were saved. It is believed that no fewer than fifty were lost. The Framee, which was of 818 tons displacement, was a recent addition to the French navy.

MISSION PROPERTY LOOTED

And Three Chapels Burned in Kwang Tung Province.

At Hong Kong, United States Consul General R. Wildman has received a telegram from the American Baptist mission at Swatow, province of Kwang Tung, saying that three more chapels have been demolished and that there has been much looting of mission property.

The dispatch also says that an attempt was made upon the life of the preacher there and that the officials are taking no action in the matter. The troubles are attributed to the "Vegetarian Society," probably an offshoot of the notorious triads, though some believe the Vegetarians are connected with the Boxers.

Another Murder in Kentucky.

Constable John Wilson instantly killed Alex White and fatally wounded his father, Dick White, at a picnic late Saturday near Hopkinsville, Ky., North Christian, Elder White and five sons, notorious characters, attempted to break up a dance by picking a quarrel with participants. Constable Wilson attempted to arrest them. Dick White knocked him down, Alex aimed a pistol at the officer, who fired from the ground, shooting and killing both his assailants.

Ex-Congressman Clark Dead.

Samuel M. Clark died at Keokuk, Ia., Saturday. He was a member of the fifty-fourth and fifty-fifth congresses from the first Iowa district; was United States commissioner of education at the Paris exposition of 1889; was prominent as an educator and politician, and wrote many Iowa platforms.

A North Carolina court holds that a woman is not required to exercise any greater degree of care in alighting from a car than a man would. She is merely bound by the rule of the "prudent man"—that is to say, she is only bound to exercise such care as an ordinary prudent man placed in like or similar circumstances would do.

CHAFFEE'S MEN NEAR PEKIN

The Commander Announces His Arrival at Ho Si Wu.

GREAT EXULTATION IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES

British and Russian Guns Fire on the American Forces Through Mistake, in Which Ten Men Were Wounded.

The American commander in China, in a dispatch of just three words, received at the war department Monday afternoon, sent a thrill of exultation and expectancy throughout official quarters by announcing his arrival at Ho-Si-Wu, only thirty-three miles from Pekin, last Thursday.

The last heard from him before this was at Yang Tsun, which had been captured after a hard fight, and word of his movements since then had been eagerly awaited. Thursday he was eighteen miles beyond Yang Tsun.

Lang Fang, the place where the ill-fated Seymour expedition met its fate and turned back, had been left behind.

The battle of Yang Tsun was fought on the 6th, and the advance to Ho-Si-Wu was accomplished on the 9th, a march of eighteen miles in three days. This was four days ago, and, at the same rate of progress, Chaffee is even now fairly within striking distance of the walls of Pekin.

The dispatch from Chaffee conveying so much in such few words was as follows.

"Che Foo.—Adjutant General, Washington: Tenth—Arrived Hos-Pi-Wu (Ho-Si-Wu) yesterday.

(Signed) "Chaffee."

AMERICANS FIRED ON

By British and Russian Guns Through Mistake, Wounding Ten.

A Yang Tsung dispatch dated August 7, giving details regarding the capture of that place says:

"The Russians and French had the left, the British the left center, the Americans the right center and the Japanese the extreme right. The British and Americans advanced on the village at a rapid rate for 5,000 yards under a severe shell and rifle fire. The Russians opened, and the British American advance became a race for positions, culminating in a brilliant charge. The heaviest loss of the day was sustained by the Americans, many of the Fourteenth infantry having been killed, 62 wounded and several missing. The Bengal Lancers unsuccessfully attempted to cut off the Chinese retreat."

Another Yang Tsung special says: "Owing to a mistake British and Russian guns shelled the Fourteenth United States infantry during the night, wounding ten."

MISSISSIPPI TRAGEDY

Resulted in the Violent Death of Three Men.

A dispatch from Aberdeen, Miss., says: A terrible tragedy occurred on the Monroe Prairie on Sunday evening, resulting in the violent death of three men. It seems that a quarrel occurred early in the day between J. S. Lanier, and his three sons, George, Jeff and William, on one side, and Walter Bittle on the other, all white men.

The differences were thought to have been adjusted, but in the evening when the Bittle Boys were riding home they were encountered and attacked, it is said by the Laniers, the fight resulting in the killing of Homer and Walter Bittle and Will Lanier.

Bryan's Coming Campaign.

W. J. Bryan's visit to Chicago has practically resulted in an understanding that he will travel almost as much during the present campaign as he did in 1896. The first inclination on his part was to avoid the making of many speeches this year, but there has been such general pressure that it is believed that he is now inclined to yield and to visit many parts of the country.

Baron Russell Dead.

Baron Russell, of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England, died in London Friday.

ALABAMA-FLORIDA LINE.

Much Attention Given to the Proposed New Division of States.

A dispatch from Pensacola, Fla., says: The newspapers and many citizens of this section of the state are giving much attention to the proposed annexation by the state of Alabama of that portion of Florida west of the Apalachicola river, which it is claimed both geographically and naturally should form a part of Alabama. The point mainly made is that all rivers in this section of Florida have their sources in Alabama and bring the products of Alabama forests to be manufactured in Florida mills. The interests of the people of the Apalachicola section are said to be entirely different from those of other sections of Florida.

It is suggested that the most practical method of meeting the issues would be to hold a convention or conference of representatives from the various counties of the Apalachicola section at Pensacola. The meeting will likely be held here September 1.

Heavy Rains in Texas.

A Houston dispatch says: It has rained every day for thirty-one days in north, east and south Texas, and the effects of the deluge are beginning to be apparent. Rises are reported in the rivers, the Colorado being twenty-five feet above low water mark at Columbus. The ground is now saturated and cannot hold more. The small streams are booming. The cotton crop is becoming very rank in growth, and is shedding bolls badly, there being a very small fruitage. The wet weather is also conducive to pests, and there are numerous reports of the ravages of insects in the sections named. Wheat threshing has also been interrupted and much of the grain spoiled by sprouting.

Prof. Venable Dead.

Prof. Charles Venable, for many years professor, and for the last five years professor emeritus of mathematics at the University of Virginia, died Saturday at his home in Charlottesville. He was one of the most distinguished educators in the south, the author of several textbooks, and, during the war between the states, served with distinction on the staff of General R. E. Lee.

At Bluffdale, an isolated place west of Cleburne, Tex., six white boys went into a farmer's watermelon patch and ate many melons. The farmer had split the stems of some of the melons and inserted strychnia. All of the six boys died soon after. The community is greatly stirred up.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Alabama Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association was held in Birmingham to begin arrangements for the annual show which will be held in that city in January. MUST CONTINUE MARCH TO PEKIN.

Conger Cables That Large Forces Will be Necessary to Save Ministers.

In the light of the latest dispatch from Minister Conger, received by the state department through Minister Wu Friday, the attitude of the administration is that there is but one thing to be done in the present circumstances, namely to press on to the relief of the besieged garrison at Pekin.

The Conger dispatch was accepted as showing conclusive justification for the imperative demand of the United States, sent to the Chinese government, insisting that the Imperial troops co-operate with the international forces in the rescue of the ministers.

Mr. Conger's message is as follows: "Secretary of State, Washington: The Tsung-li-Yamen states to the diplomatic body that the various foreign governments have repeatedly asked through their respective Chinese ministers that we immediately depart from Pekin under suitable escort. The Yamen asks us to fix a date for our departure, and to make the necessary arrangements to do so. Our reply is that we will seek instructions from our governments, and that in the absence of such instructions we cannot quit our posts. I must inform you that in order to insure our safe departure foreign troops only can escort us, and they must be in sufficient force to safely guard 800 foreigners, including 200 women and children, as well as 3,000 native Christians, who cannot be abandoned to certain massacre. We cannot accept a Chinese escort under any circumstances.

"All my colleagues are dispatching the foregoing to their respective governments. Of the American marines, seven have been killed and sixteen wounded, among the latter Captain Myers and Dr. Lippett, who are getting along well.

(Signed) "CONGER."

This message is undated, but is supposed to have been sent on or after August 5, when the imperial edict removing the inhibition against the ministers sending cipher telegrams was received by the Tsung-li Yamen.

MONTHLY COTTON REPORT.

Average Condition of Crop is Very Much Improved.

The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the average condition of cotton on August 1 to have been 76, as compared with 75.8 on July 1, 1900; 84 on August 1, 1899; 91.2 on August 1, 1898, and 85.3 the mean of August averages for the last ten years.

There was an improvement of condition duing July amounting to 5 points in Texas and Arkansas, 8 points in Georgia, 10 in Missouri and 1 in Tennessee. On the other hand there was a decline of 9 points in North Carolina, 5 in South Carolina and Indian Territory, 4 in Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida, 3 in Alabama, 2 in Oklahoma and 18 in Virginia.

The impairment of condition is due in the main to drought and the continued lack of proper cultivation.

The average of the different states on August 1 was as follows: Virginia, 77; North Carolina, 80; South Carolina, 74; Georgia, 77; Florida, 74; Alabama, 67; Mississippi, 60; Louisiana, 77; Texas, 83; Arkansas, 88; Tennessee, 77; Missouri, 84; Oklahoma, 80; Indian Territory, 91.

Wants Permission to Send Miners Home.

General Randall, commander of the department of Alaska, has made the following report upon the conditions at Nome:

"At present there are about 15,000 persons in and about Nome. It is estimated there will be about 1,000 destitute here at the close of navigation. I request that I be authorized to send all destitute persons out of the country by every available vehicle in case army transports are not here."

Site Selected for Calhoun's Court House.

The new court house for Calhoun county will be erected on the northeast corner of Gurnee and Eleventh streets. The commissioners are seriously considering the erection of a court house that will be a credit to the county. The one they propose to build will cost about $40,000.

H. S. Shackleford has revived the Gurley Herald.

TRAIN THROWN INTO BAYOU.

Out of 150 Persons on Board Only One Was Killed.

A special from Lake Charles, La., says: The Southern Pacific company suffered a complete wreck of their No. 9 Sunday at 5 o'clock. The train was going at full speed and was just going on the trestle over the Lacasine Bayou when the tender jumped the track and broke loose from the engine. The engine went on and the nine coaches were thrown in every direction, only one Pullman car staying on the track. The cars were nearly all thrown into the mud and water of the Lacasine Bayou. The trestle was completely demolished. The railroad men on the train declare it was the most complete smash up they ever saw.

On board the train were about 150 people and the fact that only one boy was killed is beyond explanation. Fred Chattin was the unfortunate boy's name. Mrs. Chattin, who had a sucking baby in her arms was seriously hurt on the head. The brakeman had his hand slightly hurt and Lusius O'Bryan, a mail clerk, was badly bruised on the arm and shoulder.

TWO MEN KILLED.

Quarrel Arose Over a Collision of Buggies and Resulted Fatally.

At Sylvania, Ga., R. F. Herrington and Milton Mears, white, were driving home in their buggy. On the road they met two negroes named Alexander in a buggy. The wheels of the vehicles collided. A quarrel ensued, when the negroes drew pistols and shot Herrington and Mears dead. The news quickly spread and Captain Jesse T. Wade organized a posse to capture the murderers. As the posse approached the house of the Alexanders a number of shots in rapid succession were fired into it. Captain Wade fell mortally wounded. The posse withdrew and went for Sheriff Thompson, who, with a reinforced posse, is now in pursuit.

SAYERS NOMINATED.

Texas Democrats Name Their Gubernatorial Ticket at Waco.

The democratic state convention of Texas, after a two days' session at Waco, nominated a full state ticket and adjourned sine die. Ticket is as follows:

Governor, Joseph D. Sayers; lieutenant governor, J. N. Browning; attorney general, Thomas S. Smith; land commissioner, Charles Regan; comptroller, R. M. Love; superintendent of public instruction, J. S. Kendall; chief justice of the supreme court, R. S. Gaines; associate justices, A. L. Williams and John N. Henderson; railroad commissioner, L. J. Storer.

The platform endorses the Kansas City resolutions as a whole, and congratulates the democracy of the country upon the selection of Bryan and Stevenson as its standard bearers.

FIGHT WITH TRAIN ROBBERS.

Two of the Bandits Killed and Two Officers Wounded.

Three miles east of Goodland, Kan., Friday the two men who Sunday last robbed a Union Pacific train in Colorado and killed a passenger, were surrounded by local officers. A fierce exchange of shots ensued, during which one of the robbers was shot and killed. J. B. Riggs, owner of the Commercial hotel of Goodland, and George Cullins, member of the posse, were severely wounded, and another of the pursuing party, name unknown, was wounded slightly.

The second robber barricaded himself in a kitchen, which was fired by the posse, numbering fifty men, all armed with Winchesters, and the robber was burned to death.

Forty-two years ago Uncle Billy Grant was sold from his wife and home at Scottsboro to man in Missouri. Last week he came in on the train and found his wife, Aunt Milly, and they were the happiest darkies in the land.

The first new bale of cotton was received at Eufaula Friday by E. S Shorter & Co. It was raised in Quitman county, Georgia, by W. W. Green, weighed 505 pounds, classed middling, and was sold for 10 cents

Tear down the signs which disfigure the landscape, obliterate the scars placed by man on the face of nature and place a penalty upon one who repeats the offense. It pays the towns which have taken such restrictive measures, and it will pay others. The town authorities, of course, have no control over the offensive bill boards on private property, but they can prevent their erection along the high ways. If only these signs are eradicated, a great deal of beauty will be added to the country roads.

THE ELECTIONS IN 1900.

OFFICERS BESIDES PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS TO BE CHOSEN.

The Congressional Contests—All But Oregon to Elect Representatives — Kentucky's Vacancies—Ticket in Michigan —Early Elections and Their Influence.

All the States of the Union, now forty-five in number, will choose Presidential electors and members of Congress on November 6, except Oregon, whose two Congressmen were chosen on June 4. All the Territories will elect delegates on the same day, and the following State elections will also be held in November:

Connecticut to choose a whole State ticket.

Colorado, to choose a successor to the present Democratic Governor and Democratic-Populist State officials.

Delaware, a Governor for four years in place of the Democratic incumbent. There is no Lieutenant-Governor in Delaware.

Idaho, a State ticket for two years.

Illinois, a State ticket for four years. The present Republican Governor of Illinois is not a candidate for re-election.

Indiana, a State ticket for four years.

Iowa, a Secretary of State.

Kansas, a Governor and State ticket for two years.

Kentucky, through the legal complications arising from the shooting of Senator Goebel, a Governor and a Lieutenant-Governor in place of Beckham, promoted by Goebel's death to the Governorship.

Massachusetts, a complete State ticket for one year.

Michigan, a State ticket for two years. The present Governor is an independent, and his associates in the administration are Republicans.

Missouri, a Governor and State officers, over the election of whom there will be a hard fight. The term of office in Missouri is four years.

Montana, a Governor and other State officers now divided between the Clark and the Daly factions of Democrats

Nebraska, which has a Populist Governor and a Populist-Democratic State administration, will fill all these places, besides choosing legislators who will have the selection of two United States Senators.

New Hampshire, in which a Governor and State officers will be chosen.

New York, in which the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and State officers, as well as both branches of the Legislature, will be voted for.

North Carolina, in which a Governor and all State officers will be elected for the period of four years, and a constitutional amendment be submitted to the voters.

North Dakota, in which a Governor and State officers will be voted for.

Ohio, in which a Secretary of State will be the highest official voted for.

Pennsylvania, in which two Congressmen-at-large will be chosen.

South Carolina, in which a complete State ticket will be elected for two years.

South Dakota, in which a Governor and State officers will be chosen for a like period.

Tennessee, in which a Governor, Treasurer and Auditor will be voted for. There is no Lieutenant-Governor in Tennessee.

Texas, in which a whole State ticket will be chosen.

Utah, in which a Governor and State officers will be chosen. Utah has not had a State election since 1895.

Washington, in which a Governor and State officers will be elected for four years. The present administration there is Populist.

West Virginia, in which a Governor and State officers will be elected for a like period. The present administration of West Virginia is Republican.

Wisconsin, in which a Governor and State officers will be elected.

The States in which there will be no general election for State officers this year are Maryland, Mississippi, Nevada, New Jersey and Virginia. The States which have already held their State elections are Rhode Island, which chose a Governor and State officers in April; Louisiana, which holds its State election in the same month, and Oregon, which voted in June.

The States which are to hold elections this year in advance of the November contest for Presidential electors are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Maine and Vermont. Alabama chooses its Governor and State officers in August, Arkansas chooses a Governor and State officers in September.

Georgia, in compliance with an old political custom, chooses its Governor and State officers on the first Wednesday of October, a month before the general election. Maine elects a Governor and other State officers (Maine has no Lieutenant-Governor) on the second Monday in September. Vermont chooses in the same month, but a week earlier than Maine, a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State and Treasurer for the like term of two years, and also two Representatives in Congress.

It is noticeable that all the doubtful and uncertain States have by degrees fallen out of the list of those which hold preliminary elections, and this list now includes only such strong Democratic States as Alabama, Arkansas and Georgia, and such strong Republican States as Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island. By this means the indirect influence of these preliminary elections on the other doubtful States is correspondingly enhanced.

In the year of the last Presidential election, 1896, the State elections were fewer in number than this year. Kentucky had no State election in 1896; neither did Utah. This year's election for members of the House of Representatives will be the last held under the division of districts now existing. The census will be completed this year and the next succeeding Congress will be chosen on the basis of the apportionment following the 1900 census, and there will be a reapportionment of Presidential electors at the same time.

A WHISTLING SPIDER.

Mr. Peters, of East Brookfield, Regrets the Behavior of an Accomplished Insect.

Near East Brookfield, Mass., H. A. Peters, one of the owners of the Lashaway dairy farm on the Spencer road while on his way to Spencer captured an immense spider of unknown species.

When Mr. Peters first saw the spider, which was making a bee line over the public highway for East Brookfield, he was so amazed at the sight that he rubbed both eyes several times before he could realize that the monster was a reality.

Then, hastily grasping an empty glass jar Peters jumped from the wagon and was about to make the stranger a prisoner, when he was startled by the distinctly audible whistle, emanating from the insect.

Instantly a flock of minute facsimiles of the peculiar spider came rushing from all directions, clambered up the legs of the big spider and hid themselves in the fuzzy hair on its back.

This was more than Peters could stand, especially as after securing her young, Mrs. Spider assumed a defensive attitude.

Peters thrust the mouth of the jar over the whole family of spiders and made them prisoners. Hundreds have since viewed the monster and its offspring, and all are puzzled.

The body of the large spider is one and a half inches in length. The body is black and is supported by eight powerful legs, each two inches long. The head is supplied with powerful-looking jaws, from which two feelers, one-half inch in length protrude. The beady eyes are jet black.

Interesting Owl Story.

Mr. Steve Ritchie, of Balltown, tells the Observer an interesting story. For years a family of owls of the large horned species have made their home in a big hollow tree near the Ritchie residence. Recently one of Mr. Ritchie's sons succeeded in capturing one of the young owls. He placed the bird in a large cage, and it apparently enjoyed its captivity. The other day young Ritchie concluded to capture one of the old owls, and with this end in view he attached a steel trap to the cage containing the young bird, and placed the outfit at the base of the old hollow tree. When he went to investigate next morning he found that one of the old birds had been caught by the foot in the steel trap. He also discovered that it had, in some manner, succeeded in getting a rabbit's head into the cage for food for its offspring. The old owl is an immense specimen and has horns nearly five inches in length. During the week young Ritchie succeeded in capturing the male owl. The latter visited the cage containing the young owl, and, after depositing a large portion of rattlesnake for its food, proceeded to get caught in the steel trap. He is very large, and is a pompous old fellow. At intervals he blows himself up and struts like a turkey gobbler.—Bardstown (Ky.) Observer.

New Facts Concerning Wild Beasts.

A Twenty-ninth Ward public school teacher, who has a sense of humor, has culled some remarkable bits of information from her examination papers. Questions bearing upon the habits of animals were found to be particularly amusing. One small boy declared, in a fit of poesy, that "the lion is the queen of beasts." From another, more practical, "the lion has a great big mouth, and roars something fearful." One evident admirer of that world-renowned hero, Colonel Cody, tells us "the buffalo is one animal of the temperate zone, which belongs to the Wild Man," and adds: "The horse is an animal what plays, and dances as soon as he hears music." Another brilliant one gives the somewhat startling information that "the rhinoceros has a stout nose," and that "dogs is a domestic animal, which chews bones." We are also told: "The llama is a beast of burden, and we get clothes off its back." Another animal evidently in the clothing business is the seal, which, we are informed, "makes coats." Upon other subjects she answers were qually as enlightening. The miner, we learn, "always has a donkey to pull him out of the mine, which is full of gas and chokes him."—Philadelphia Record.

Fogs in California.

A correspondent explains that the word "tule fog," which is often met with in the weather reports of the California section, is meteorlogically equivalent to fogs over marshes and swamps, or the fogs of the lowlands or valleys. The "tule" is a species of bullrush occupying large areas of swamp and overflowed bottom lands in California. The "tule fog" is essentially due to the cooling by radiation during clear nights. At first the vegetation cools by contact with the leaves and branches. After this cool air has settled quietly to the ground it cools still further by its own radiation and by contact with the cooling grass and leaves until fog is formed. The particles of fog then cool by their own radiation, and thus the layer of cold air grows upward and the fog grows higher and higher until a little after sunrise.—Chicago Record.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

French railway cars as now constructed, with most of the metal parts of aluminum are 3000 pounds lighter than old ones.

Experiments made by Professor Joly show that quartz at the temperature of 800 degrees becomes plastic, and at 1500 degrees is a thick liquid. This softening point is much lower than has commonly been supposed, and the discovery gives encouragement to the hope of a wide use for quartz in scientific apparatus.

As the result of twenty-nine years of experiments at Rothamsted, England, it is shown that in the winter months more than half of the amount of rain that falls penetrates into the soil and becomes available for the supply of springs, while in the summer only one-quarter of the rainfall is absorbed by the soil. The maximum quantity of water in the soil is at a depth of about forty inches.

A new process has been discovered for the extraction of india-rubber from the tree. The bark and roots are cut up and soaked in dilute sulphuric acid, which decompose the woody portions and does not affect the india-rubber. In this way the rubber is separated from the bark and roots, and is obtained in quite a pure state. The inventor of this process stated before the Society of Civil Engineers of France that one pound of india-rubber could be produced by this method at a cost of about five cents.

No one knows just what happens when one drops a lump of salt or sugar into a bowl of water. We may believe with Professor Ostwald and his followers that the molecules of sugar merely glide everywhere between the molecules of water, without chemical action; or, on the other hand, dismissing this mechanical explanation, we may say with Mendeleef that the process of solution is the most active of chemical phenomena, involving that incessant interplay of atoms known as dissociation. But these two explanations are mutually exclusive, and no one can say positively which one, if either one, is right.

An illustration of the new lights which science throws upon old questions is the modern explanation of an experiment made nearly three centuries ago by the Flemish physician, Van Helmont. In a pot of earth weighing 200 pounds he planted a willow branch weighing five pounds. He kept the plant well watered, and in five years the willow had gained 164 pounds in weight while the earth in the pot had lost only two ounces. Van Helmont inferred that the plant's gain was due only to the water which had been supplied. Modern botanical science proves that the gain was in a great measure due to the carbon absorbed from the air.

In boring a deep well in Germany the hardened end of a steel drill broke off at a depth of about 1000 feet. As it was clearly impossible to drill out the hard steel, it was necessary either to remove it or abandon the boring. It was removed in a highly ingenious way. A soft iron bar, five feet long and two and one-half inches in diameter, was wrapped with a single layer of india rubber covered wire, thus making it an electromagnet. The bar, with wires leading to it, was lowered into the hole, and current from a small dynamo turned on. This magnetized the bar, which was then carefully drawn up to the surface, bringing the steel drillpoint with it.

THE series of letters descriptive of his foreign tour which Mr. T. U. Crumpton is sending The Banner are highly instructive and entertaining. Mr. Crumpton writes in an interesting manner of the places he is visiting and his descriptions are vigorous and realistic. We hope he is enjoying his travels.

A BREAKDOWN with the press last week caused THE BANNER to be a day late in reaching some subscribers, who we sincerely trust will excuse the delay as it was quite unavoidable. A printing-press has many points of resemblance to a human being, and one in particular is it will go contrary sometimes. This was the case with The Banner press last week and hence the delay.

COMMISSIONERS' Court met in its last session of the present board last Monday and adjourned Tuesday. The usual routine business was transacted, and the County Treasurer's bond was set at the same amount as the last one. The special feature of this court was that two of the old members now retire, one, Mr. Moses Robinson, after a continuous public service of twenty years, and the other, Mr. J. G. Smitherman, after one term of four years. Mr. Robinson has been so identified with the business of Chilton county it almost seems impossible to proceed without him, and we doubt not his advice and experience will oft be sought by the new board. The good wishes of all go with him in his retirement. Mr. Smitherman has made an excellent reputation during his term of office and has done much good work, and the people will not forget him.

THE Democratic convention of the Fourth Congressional district was held yesterday at Selma and Hon. Sidney J. Bowie of Calhoun was nominated for congress by acclamation. This is unquestionably the strongest nomination made by the Democratic party for congress in several years. In the first place the unanimity with which the six counties composing the district have acted shows a determination on their part to put out all their strength and poll every vote for their nominee so that, in the event of a contest, they will have honest votes to refer to. In the second place Mr. Bowie has a fine reputation and is withal a very popular man, especially in the upper part of the district where he is best known. These two indisputable facts render Mr. Bowie a most formidable candidate for the opposition to overcome, and would seem to point to his election.

On the other hand it is doubtful whether the opposition to the Democratic party is anything like as strong now as it has been in the last three congressional campaigns when the combined Populist and Republican vote has been successful, after a contest in each case, in getting their representative seated. It is problematical whether that same combination could be effected again at this time, and without such joint action opposition to the Democratic nominee is absolutely hopeless. The Republican party is split into two factions, and it certainly cannot be said that the Populists are all of the same way of thinking. It has not always been an easy matter to induce Populists to support a nominee who was not a sloan pure member of their own organization, and we believe that now it would be an utter impossibility. With an unanimous Democratic vote on the one side, and a disintegrated opposition on the other the prospects for the latter are not very encouraging.

REYNOLDS WILL CONTEST

Hon. L. H. Reynolds has served notice of contest to the board of supervisors in Elmore county and has already begun his fight. Messrs. R. T. Goodwyn and J. D. McNeel are his attorneys, and will push the contest. A notice of contest, as required by law, will be filed with one of the circuit clerks of the district, and the gathering of evidence will begin immediately.

Mr. Reynolds stated that the frauds were the most glaring that had ever been perpetrated in Elmore county.

The poll lists, as made out by the managers of the election, were doctored between Monday and Saturday, when the board of supervisors canvassed the county's vote. "The job was bungling and the frauds were glaring. In certain beats after the poll lists and tally sheets had been made out, the tally marks and the totals were scratched out. The job was poorly done, and dozens of men who have seen the lists tell me that on each of these tally sheets the original votes can be easily seen in spite of the efforts to scratch out and change. The supervising board refused to let me see these sheets."

Attorney McNeel, who was with him, stated that Reynolds had come into Elmore with 1,461 majority in the other counties of the district.

"In Elmore," he said, "It was decided that something had to be done to wipe out this majority, and give Oliver a lead, when they were through with the official count it was announced that Oliver had carried Elmore by 1,568 majority, giving him on the official count a majority of 107 in the district.

"The worst frauds were committed in Beat 18. Reynolds had two markers there. One declares that he marked 125 for Reynolds and another, who succeeded him declares that he marked 40 for him. The official count from this beat gave Reynolds only 26 and Oliver 233."

In Beat 3 Reynolds polled as showed by the list 119 and Oliver 232.

The supervising board gave him only 40 and Oliver 311.

"In beat 1 the poll gave Reynolds 42 and Oliver 191. The official count gave Reynolds 22 and Oliver 211.

"In beat 2 the poll was Reynolds 49, and Oliver 98. The supervisor's count gave 29 for Reynolds and 115 for Oliver.

In beat 6 the poll was 81 for Reynolds and 78 for Oliver. The supervisors count was 41 for Reynolds and 118 for Oliver.

In beat 9 the poll was 102 for Reynolds and 106 for Oliver. The supervisors' count was 42 for Reynolds and 166 for Oliver.

In beats 11, 7 and 15 the frauds were equally as open and glaring.

"We expect to substantiate every one of these charges."—Montgomery Journal.

A Minister's Good Work

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." IN MERRY ENGLAND.

Brussells, Belgium, July 20, 1900

It takes me a long time Mr. Editor to get down from Edinburgh to London and Paris with my story but I assure you I came quite fast enough in the body, among the many ups and downs of English railroad travel, not the least of them comes by the way of their making no provision in the world for a fellow who chews tobacco. They provide no spittoon and the window glass in the compartment window is stationary, and the floor is full of big English feet in the narrow compartment, and the only way I found to do was to quit chewing or swallow the juice, so I adopted the former.

Durham and its great castle was our next stop. We went to devine service in its great Cathedral and saw many dungeons and grottoes.

York was our next stop and we looked at the old Roman wall still standing, and walked around on its battlements. We looked through Yorkminster, the chapter room of which was ahead of anything of that kind we had as yet seen. The guide books say it was founded 983 years B. C. Severus is buried here. Constantine the Great was born here and Hodrian lived here. Cæser fortified it and it was the great Roman stronghold in the Roman occupation of England; it is therefore the oldest city in Great Britian. From here we pursued our journey by special train to London. I can never forget how I felt as the lights of that greatest aggregation of wealth and humanity first met my gaze from the car window. I remembered how that valiant 16 to 1 supporters had told me that Lombard street London, and Wall street New York, made all the prices for all the commodities produced by the sweat of the farmer. I remember the sorrows of Little Nell; the long wait of Miss Fleet in the chancery case of Jorndyce vs. Jorndyce; the strange mixed good and bad of Glory Quayle and the great mistakes of strong John Storm. Americans are indeed wedded to this, their fatherland, by literature, sentiment and fiction. A land whose history can never die; a country so small that an express train can in in 18 hours put you through its entire length the longest route you go; yet a land whose shadow falls around the entire earth, and who is ever potent and ever in all the councils of all the powers of the earth. Of course I went through the sights of the great city: the greatest now and the greatest of the past. A city that requires 17,000 policemen to keep the people straight; yet none of them have a club nor a pistol so they told me. I saw St. Pauls, Westminster Cathedral, Guild Hall, Parliament buildings and London's Tower.

I am told that Muhomet taught and that the Koran now teaches that death that comes in battle comes as a sure way into Paradise. I have yet to find when the Nazerine taught any such doctrine; but go to St. Paul or Westminster and you will find that all the pictures, all the statuary teach, and teach it plainly. Had I not known where I was, I should have concluded that I was in some great armory of a civilized people, or in a heathen or Mohamedan temple. If that is his teaching, I have misunderstood all along the great teacher of mankind. I saw the armour of King Henry the 8th, that maximillan gave him; weight of which was 81 lbs. I saw the place at which King Henry the 8th beheaded his Queens as fast as he got tired of them. Queen Anne, Kathrine Howard and Lady Jane Gray. I went in to see the crown jewels, total value of which they say is 17 million dollars. Westminster was founded in 1502 and it is a "Spring chicken" itself. The English I notice have put a bust to Longfellow in the poet's corner, very nice in them indeed, seeing they are English "you know."

I do sincerely hope the reader will be satisfied with these letters, as they are a great task on me. I have not slept a wink since night before last, and here it is 11 o'clock p.m., and I am hard at work keeping up with my notes in the 5th story of a hotel, while all the boys are sleep of the crowd except

The Atlanta Daily Constitution Now Running a Special Campaign Offer, Only $1.00.

The Constitution, of Atlanta, Ga., is now offering its Daily and Sunday editions complete to new subscribers, from the date the order reaches that office until November 10th for only $1.00. This last campaign offer will take the subscriber beyond and give him the full news of the Presidential election. The period thus covered will be of unusual interest, not only because of the election and the questions pending thereon, but it will be full of events, and guesses at the truth of of reported events in China. The struggle is on between the "yellow terrors" and the foreign "devils" and it will consume the world's attention for many months to come. It is probable that South Africa will become peaceful on a basis that will allow the Spunky Boers to lay down their arms with honor. Cuba and the Philippines are with us and until their status is determined their questions will continue to be ours. The Constitution always covers all the news completely and this exceptional offer will doubtless test their full capacity in supplying the paper to thousands of thirsty subscribers. The sooner you send for it the longer you will get the paper for your dollar.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle Drug co.

Muffs were first used by doctors to keep their fingers soft and were adopted by ladies about 1550.

Men marry because they are weary of liberty, women because they desire it.—Chicago News.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. Take only DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cures piles and all skin diseases. Campbelle Drug co.

CHINA'S SACRED PLANTS.

NATURE'S GREATEST GIFT TO MAN IS GINSENG, JOHN SAYS.

The Mystic Lotus Bean Enters Into the Chinese Conception of an Ideal Life—Legend of the Discovery of Rice—Significance of the Millet Crop.

The ancient doctrine of plant signatures no longer exercises control over human mind and action, but is unhesitatingly consigned to the fitting oblivion of the "Dark Ages," one of the traditional superstitions of the past, too obviously ridiculous to be believed, even by the credulously ignorant of modern times.

But in China we find that the far-famed ginseng root holds supreme place as "the most valuable production of nature." After that, what more can be said for its medicinal properties?

It is really a large variety of the well-known mandrake, and, as gin is the Chinese word for man, we trace the meaning of the term. Because of its resemblance to the human form, it is the chief specific for all disorders of lungs or stomach; it revives the anaemic, repels the encroachment of old age, cures asthma, acts as counter irritant in a case of poison; in short, is the mystic "all heal." In appearance the root, when dried, is of yellow color, streaked with black veins, as if outlined in ink, and when chewed yields a bitter-sweet juice, pleasant and clean of taste. So popular and supreme is Chinese faith in its power that the sum of three pounds of gold is gladly exchanged for one pound of ginseng.

Although really not indigenous, as it is a native of Manchuria, it forms a great exception to the usually abhorred "foreign thing," it is cultivated, nurtured, even guarded carefully from the profane or greedy intruder.

To the northeast of Pekin, between it and the province of Leas Tong, stretches a wild and almost inaccessible hilly country of deep wild forests, which is staked by high palisades and strongly guarded by Chinese soldiers who prevent intrusion. The Government would make of its growth a monopoly, and many a Tartar risks life and limb to cross the Rubicon and steal the treasure. The Tartar, in his name of Orhota, considers it as the chief of plants.

When Tartary was surveyed by the Emperor Kam-he, the well-known Pere Jartoux was enjoined by the Emperor to watch for the ginseng. On this occasion a veritable army of Tartars, 10,000 in number, were employed to gather the valued plant, and this army of botanists was sub-divided into companies of 100 men each, under a chief.

For six months they crossed and recrossed the country, till every available root was gathered in, and after allowing two ounces apiece to each gatherer the remainder was bought in by equal weight in pure silver.

The Chinese doctor, in distinctive costume and wearing his peculiar spectacles—eyes and rims which are alike made of clear tortoise shell—may be called into consultation for light or serious cases of illness, but his remedy, like the turpentine cure of the Florida negro, is always and ever—ginseng.

The man who is too ill to be cured by ginseng is called to the Celestial Land of his ancestors; the man who is cured is not ready to join the departed.

With far more mystic than of material regard do we find the Nelumbo or sacred lotus bean enter into the Chinese conception of an ideal or higher life. Egypt, wherein it ruled as the great emblem of sanctity and claimed as its followers a devoted priesthood 4000 years ago, now knows it not; and so to India and China principally may we go to see and learn of the sacred lotus.

Above all sacred plants it is cherished by Chinese and Japs alike; the flower of flowers, uncontaminated by the muddy waters on which it floats, this Lien-wha and its beauties are sung by the poets, its virtues extolled and worshiped; for according to Chinese theology it as nectar and enters into the beverage of immortality.

No greater pleasure, no higher form of enjoyment, is conceivable for mortal man than to float upon the river in moonlight amidst the lotus beds. It is a taste of the blessed life to come and is truly a purely ideal, as well as intensely simple, mode of enjoyment, when compared with our noisy beer gardens and garish display of colored lights; and yet we regard this ardent admirer of the lotus, ever and always, as the heathen Chinee. To him it is typical of female beauty, and on its leaves the mysterious god, Fuzza, is reverently seated. Nor is the lotus without its associations for the Christian. Its fruit is divided into valves and in each rests a nut about the size of a filbert, with flavor more delicate than that of the almond. When ground it is often mixed with flour for bread. In ancient days these nuts were incased in balls of clay and thrown out upon the watery bosom of the mighty Nile, a custom which commentators seem to think forms the real explanation of our popular text: "Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days."

Rice, the grain of grains in all Eastern countries, is estimated in China as the symbol of life, generation and abundance. In the spring, at the great fire festival, the priests of Tao carry baskets of rice and salt toward the various flaming braziers, and as they walk in circles around each one they cast in alternate handfuls of salt and rice, the former to purify the flame and thereby to produce an abundant harvest of the latter.

The Japanese have a very wonderful legend of the discovery of rice by a mouse, which is, to a limited extent believed also by the Chinese. In ancient days the priests of Nikko (Bonzes) lived solely on roots and herbs until one day a Bonze saw a little mouse carrying to its hole various grains. Anxious to find out where the mouse had found these, he trapped it and tied to one of its legs a silken thread, and then, setting it free while holding the silken clew in his hand, he followed the mouse on and on to a far-off land, where rice grew abundantly.

The Bonze remained and learned of its cultivation; then returned, bringing grain with him for seed in his own land. Soon the crop he had sowed sprang up, the people learned to like it and ever since the mouse has been one of the sacred animals of the Japanese poor, a sort of fetish to be hung up in every house, even worshiped under the name of Dlakoku-Sama. The throwing of rice at weddings is distinctly a borrowed custom from the Orient.

A totally different significance is attached the millet crop, which actually gives name to one of the most popular of Chinese constellations. Just as our Dipper—known to England as the plow or Charles Wain—is recognized by the simplest in the land, otherwise ignorant of the vast science of astronomy—so does the Tien-tzi, "Celestial millet," appeal to Chinese eyes and hearts, and its appearance betokens for them that the palace of the King of Grain is overhead. When its five stars shine out clearly an abundant harvest will surely follow; in wet and gloomy weather its absence foretells famine and poverty.

So that there is this union of sentiment between the flowering bamboo and the non-appearance of the Tien-tzi, and we may yet hear that its dimness is as significant a token of the present unrest as was the flowering and death of the bamboos in recent Consular reports.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Chinese Education Looks Backward.

D. Z. Sheffield, in writing of "The Civilization of China" in the Forum, says: "It is said that when the first Emperor of the Chin dynasty—two centuries before Christ—attempted to destroy the classical literature, the scholars restored it from their memories. Certainly the scholars of any city in China could now rewrite the leading classics from memory. Not only are Confucian scholars saturated with these writings, but the more striking sayings have passed down into the common speech, so that those who are 'blind with their eyes open' (the uneducated) are constantly quoting them without thought of their origin. The common speech is loaded with proverbs that reflect the thoughts of the ancients. Scholars competing for honors must present in their essays the traditional interpretation of the doctrines of the sages. If they should presume to set forth views of their own not in harmony with this interpretation they would be stripped by the public examiner of honors already conferred and would be excluded from competing for literary distinction. Thus the educational system of China has not served to lead men's minds into new lines of thought or into fresh fields of investigation; rather has it served to confine the thoughts of each generation of scholars within the limits of ancient instruction, and to stifle independent thought and inquiry.

The Mystery of Lord Lovel.

One of the remarkable disappearances recorded in English history was that of Lord Lovel, in the battle of Stoke, which took place 413 years ago. This famous conflict was the decisive one in the war of the roses, and is sometimes referred to as the last great battle on English soil. Six thousand men were left dead upon the field. The forces of the red rose party were victorious, and their victory established the house of Tudor upon the throne of England. After the battle all of the leaders of the white rose forces were found dead upon the field excepting Lord Lovel, who was never seen again. Many were the reasons given for the disappearance of this leader in the Yorkist party, some asserting that he was drowned while trying to escape across the River Trent, the weight of his armor keeping his body from rising to the surface. Another report had it that he fled to the north, there living a peasant's life to the end of his days. In 1708, however, an underground room was discovered under the manor house of the Lovel estate. In this secret chamber was found the skeleton of a man seated at a table on which were books, paper, pens and so forth. In another part of the room was a cap, moldered and decayed, of ancient pattern. This and other relics led the descendants of Lord Lovel to believe that they had at last solved the mystery of his disappearance.

Fighting Seals With Dynamite.

The seals and sea lions which infest the mouth of the Columbia River have created such havoc among the salmon fisheries that a crusade with dynamite is soon to be begun against them. The animals are both shrewd and bold, and it is said that a seal will police a set net with great regularity and take a bite out of the throat of every salmon it contains. Frequently when a fisherman is taking his net into a boat and is about to gaff a fish which is entangled in the meshes, a seal will rise and bite its throat. The seal herd congregate on a certain sandspit in the mouth of the river and it is proposed that dynamite mines be sunk in the sand and connected with the mainland by wires. When the animals are ashore the mines will be exploded. Similar plans are laid for the destruction of the sea lions, which do not gather with the seals.—San Francisco Chronicle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS:

Using Up the Odds and Ends.

The problem of what to do with all the accumulations of the larder, so that while nothing was wasted there will not be too many odds and ends standing about, is a problem that grows more complex during the warm weather. In caring for the food the refrigerator itself should receive first the most careful attention. If possible, everything should be taken out of the refrigerator each morning, and every part from the ice box down should be washed with soap and warm water. It is a very common plan and a very poor plan to dump the ice into the ice box without so much as rinsing off the sawdust, that will otherwise stop up the drain pipe and cause all manner of work in the long run. It is one of the instances when a slight precautionary measure is far ahead of the afterthought. All the food should be examined at the morning overhauling of the refrigerator to see that no mouldy substances get in with the good food. Stale food of all kinds is a direct menace to health, for microbes lodge in food readily enough and as it becomes stale they flourish in direct proportion. Water that comes from the melting ice and that stands in the refrigerator instead passing out through the drain pipe becomes a dangerous element. The good housekeeper stands in no sort of need of advice as to the care of the refrigerator, since she recognizes the necessity of care, if from the standpoint of cleanliness alone. Unfortunately, in many households, the work is left to the judgment of careless and inefficient servants, and the place where the food should be preserved becomes a breeding place of microbes.—New York Sun.

Housekeeping Revolutionized.

It was a common complaint not many years ago that in our system of household economy we had not utilized as much as we ought the time and labor-saving devices and processes which have wrought such marvelous changes in almost every other department of human industry. However true this may have been in some features of household work, it certainly is not true at present of the preparation of material for garments of any kind, nor of the making of hosiery or of such things as table cloths, napkins and other articles of this sort. The spinning-wheel and the knitting needle have long since been relegated to the garret or the antiquary shop, and it is only in the rarest instances that a housewife can be found who ventures to make any article of wearing apparel for the male members of her family, young or old. All such things are found better and cheaper at the ready-made furnishing stores.

In former days also the housewife's duties included the purchase of cotton and linen for the manufacture of sheets, pillow cases, and other articles of the kind. Even mattresses were home-made. Many families still make their dresses and some their bonnets. But things have so revolutionized that families with moderate means now find it more economical to patronize the milliner and the dressmaker, and to buy the linen and cotton for the household ready-made. We hear little now of the beautiful gifts of the mother's own making, in the shape of embroidered table and bed linen. One can go to a large establishment and have a monogram or a crest embroidered according to a special design, and have linen or cotton goods made to order. Or, in haste, one can now go to a large establishment and find sheets and pillow cases hemmed in various styles and offered at all prices. In fact, many of the large stores turn out everything that a young couple want for housekeeping, from the kitchen to the garret chamber.—Leslie's Weekly.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES:

Pineapple Ice—Pare and grate two large pineapples; add one pint of water and sugar sufficient to make a very sweet syrup; strain through a colander and mix gradually with the stiffly beaten white of one egg.

Rice Biscuit—One cup of boiled rice, beaten light; one-half teaspoonful of butter and one of lard, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one cup of milk and one of flour, or enough to make a soft dough. Mix and bake quickly. Very delicate and delicious.

Potato Snowballs—Mix one pint of smoothly mashed potatoes with one-half pint of milk; add a scant teaspoonful of salt and the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Drop in teaspoonfuls on a buttered pan and place in a hot oven for ten minutes.

Orangeade—Select half a dozen juicy oranges and two lemons; grate the thin outer peel off of the oranges into a quart of water; add a pound and a half of sugar and boil the syrup ten minutes. Squeeze the juice of the oranges and lemons into a quart of cold water and add the strup. Beat thoroughly and set on the ice to become chilled. Serve in thin glasses with a tablespoonful of crushed ice in each. Delicious summer drink.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Kind of Religion That the World Needs—Only That Which Comes Straight Down From Heaven Can Be of Benefit to Humanity.

(Copyright 1901.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—From Norway, where Dr. Talmage is now staying, he sends the following discourse, in which he shows that the world can never be benefited by a religion of human manufacture, which easily yields to one's surroundings, but must have a religion let down from heaven; text, Amos vii, 8: "And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumb line."

The solid masonry of the world has for me a fascination. Walk about some of the triumphal arches and the cathedrals 400 or 600 years old, and see them stand as erect as when they were builded, walls of just as much importance as the trowel, and my text recognizes it. Bricklayers and stonemasons and carpenters in the building of walls use an instrument made of a cord, at the end of which a lump of lead is fastened. They drop it over the side of the wall, and, as the plummet naturally seeks the centre of gravity in the earth, the workman discovers where the wall recedes and where it bulges out and just what is the perpendicular. Our text represents God as standing on the wall of character, which the Israelites had built, and in that way testing it. "And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumb line."

What the world wants is straight up and down religion. Much of the so-called piety of the day bends this way and that to suit the times. It is oblique, with a low state of sentiment and morals. We have all been building a wall of character, and it is glaringly imperfect and needs reconstruction. How shall it be brought into perpendicular? Only by the divine measurement. "And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? 'And I said, A plumb line."

The whole tendency of the times is to make us act by the standard of what others do. We throw over the wall of our character the tangled plumb line of other lives and reject the infallible test which Amos saw. The question for me should not be what you think is right, but what God thinks is right. This perpetual reference to the behavior of others, as though it decided anything but human fallibility, is a mistake as wide as the world. There are 10,000 plumb lines in use, but only one is true and exact, and that is the line of God's eternal right. There is a mighty attempt being made to reconstruct and fix up the Ten Commandments. To many they seem too rigid. The tower of Pisa leans over about thirteen feet from the perpendicular, and people go thousands of miles to see its graceful inclination and to learn how, by extra braces and various architectural contrivances, it is kept leaning from century to century. Why not have the ten granite blocks of Sinai set a little aslant? Why not have the pillar of truth a leaning tower? Why is not an ellipse as good as a square? Why is not an oblique as good as straight up and down? My friends, we must have a standard. Shall it be God's or man's?

The divine plumb line needs to be thrown over all merchandise. Thousands of years ago Solomon discovered the tendency of buyers to depreciate goods. He saw a man beating down an article lower and lower, and saying it was not worth the price asked, and when he had purchased at the lowest point he told everybody what a sharp bargain he had struck, and how he had outwitted the merchant. "It is naught, saith the buyer, but when he is gone his way, then he boasteth" (Proverbs xx, 14). Society is so utterly askew in this matter that you seldom find a seller asking the price that he expects to get. He puts on a higher value than he expects to receive, knowing that he will have to drop. And when he wants fifty he says seventy-five, and is he wants 2000 he asks 2500. "It is naught," saith the buyer. "The fabric is defective, the style of goods is poor. I can get elsewhere a better article at a smaller price. It is out of fashion, it is damaged, it will fade, it will not wear well." After awhile the merchant, from overpersuasion or from desire to dispose of that particular stock of goods, says, "Well, take it at your own price," and the purchaser goes home with light step and calls into his private office his confidential friends and chuckles while he tells how for half price he got the goods. In other words, he lied and was proud of it.

Nothing would make times so good and the earning of a livelihood so easy as the universal adoption of the law of right. Suspicion strikes through all bargain making. Men who sell know not whether they will ever get the money. Purchasers know not whether the goods shipped will be according to the sample. And what, with the large number of clerks who are making false entries and then absconding and the explosion of firms that fail for millions of dollars, honest men are at their wits' ends to make a living. He who stands up amid all the pressure and does right is accomplishing something toward the establishment of a high commercial prosperity.

The pressure to do wrong is stronger from the fact that in our day the large business houses are swallowing up the smaller, the whales dining on bluefish and minnows. The large houses undersell the small ones because they buy in greater quantities and at lower figures from the producer. They can afford to make nothing or actually lose on some styles of goods, assured they can make it up on others. So a great dry goods house goes outside of its regular line and sells books at cost or less than cost, and that swamps the bookseller, or the dry goods house sells bric-a-brac at lowest figures, and that swamps the small dealer in bric-a-brac. And the same thing goes on in other styles of merchandise, and the consequence is that all along the business streets of all our cities there are merchants of small capital who are in terrific struggle to keep their heads above water. The ocean liners run down the Newfoundland fishing smacks. This is nothing against the man who has the big store, for every man has as large a store and as great a business as he can manage.

To feel right and do right under all this pressure requires martyr grace, requires divine support, requires celestial reenforcement. Yet there are tens of thousands of such men getting splendidly through. They see others going up and themselves going down, but they keep their patience and courage and their Christian consistency, and after awhile their success will come. There is generally retribution in some form for greediness. The owners of the big business will die, and their boys will get possession of the business, and with a cigar in their mouths and full to the chins with the best liquor and behind a pair of spanking bays they will pass everything on the turnpike road to temporal and eternal perdition. Then the business will break up, and the smaller dealers will have fair opportunity, or the spirit of contentment and right feeling will take possession of the large firm, as recently with a famous business house, and the firm will say: "We have enough money for all our needs and the needs of our children. Now let us dissolve business and make way for other men in the same line." Instead of being startled at a solitary instance of magnanity it will become a common thing. I know of scores of great business houses that have had their opportunity of vast accumulation and who ought to quit. But perhaps for all the days of this generation the struggle of small houses to keep alive under the overshadowing pressure of great houses will continue. Therefore, taking things as they are, you will be wise to preserve your equilibrium and your honesty and your faith and throw over all the counters and shelves and casks the measuring line of divine right. "And the Lord said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumb line."

In the same way we need to rectify our theologies. All sorts of religions are putting forth their pretension. Some have a spiritualistic religion, and their chief work is with ghosts, and others a religion of political economy, proposing to put an end to human misery by a new style of taxation, and there is a humanitarian religion that looks after the bodies of men and lets the soul look after itself, and there is a legislative religion that proposes to rectify all wrongs by enactments of better laws, and there is an aesthetic religion that by rules of exquisite taste would hit the heart out of its delinquencies and religions of all sorts religions by the peck, religions by the square foot and religions by the ton, all of them devices of the devil that would take the heart away from the only religion that will ever effect anything for the human race, and that is the straight up and down religion written on the book which begins with Genesis and ends with Revelation, the religion of the skies, the old religion, the God given religion, the everlasting religion, which says, "Love God above all and your neighbor as yourself." All religions but one begin at the wrong end and on the wrong place. The Bible religion demands that we first get right with God. It begins at the top and measures down, while the other religions begin at the bottom and try to measure up.

I want you to notice this fact, that when a man gives up the straight up and down religion of the Bible for any newfangled religion it is generally to suit his sins. You first hear of his change of religion, and then you hear of some swindle he has practiced in a special mining stock, telling some one if he will put in $10,000 he can take out $100,000, or he has sacrificed his integrity or plunged into irremediable worldliness. His sins are so broad he has to broaden his religion, and he becomes as broad as temptation, as broad as the soul's darkness, as broad as hell. They want a religion that will allow them to keep their sins and then at death say to them, "Well done, good and faithful servant," and that tells them, "All is well, for there is no hell." What a glorious heaven they hold before us! Come, let us go in and see it. There are Herod and all the babes he massacred. There are Charles Guiteau and Robespierre the feeder of the French guillotine, and all the liars, thieves, house burners, garroters, pickpockets and libertines of all the centuries. They have all got crowns, and thrones and harps and scepters, and when they chant their song, "Thanksgiving and honor and glory and power to the Lamb" religion that lets us all into heaven without repentance and without faith in those humiliating dogmas of ecclesiastical old fogyism."

My text gives me a grand opportunity of saying a useful word to all young men who are now forming habits for a lifetime. Of what use to a stonemason or a bricklayer is a plumb line? Why not build the wall by the unaided eye and hand? Because they are insufficient, because if there be a deflection in the wall it cannot further on be corrected. Because the other law of gravitation, a wall must be straight in order to be symmetrical and safe. A young man is in danger of getting a defect in his wall of character that may never be corrected.

Hear it, men and boys, women and girls, all the fun is on the side of right. Sin may seem attractive, but it is deathful, and like the manchineel, a tree whose dews are poisonous. The only genuine happiness is in a Christian life.

There they go, two brothers. The one was converted a year ago in church one Sunday morning during prayer or sermon or hymn. No one knew it at the time. The persons on either side of him suspected nothing, but in that young man's soul this process went on: "Lord, here I am, a young man amid the temptations of city life, and I am afraid to risk them alone. Come and be my pardon and my help. Save me from making the mistake some of my comrades are making, and save me now." And quicker than a flash God rolled heaven into his soul. He is just as jolly as he used to be, is just as brilliant as he used to be. He can strike a ball or catch one as easily as before he was converted. With gun or fishing rod in this summer vacation he is just as skillful as before. The world is brighter to him than ever. He appreciates pictures, music, innocent hilarity, social life, good jokes and has plenty of fun, glorious fun! But his brother is going down hill. In the morning his head aches from the champagne debauch. Everybody sees he is in rapid descent. What cares he for right or decency or the honor of his family name? Turned out of employment, depleted in health, cast down in spirits, the typhoid fever strikes him in the smallest room on the fourth story of a fifth-rate boarding house, cursing God and calling for his mother and fighting back demons from his dying pillow, which is besweated and torn to rags. He plunges out of this world, with the shriek of a destroyed spirit.

God is now throwing that plumb line over this republic, and it is a solemn time with this nation, and whether we keep His Sabbaths or dishonor them, whether righteousness or iniquity dominate, whether we are Christian or infidel, whether we fulfill our mission or refuse, whether we are for God or against Him, will decide whether we shall as a nation go on in higher and higher career or go down in the same grave where Babylon and Nineveh and Thebes are sepulchered.

"But," say you, "if there be nothing but a plumb line, what can any of us do, for there is an old proverb which truthfully declares, 'If the best man's faults were written on his forehead, it would make him pull his hat over his eyes.' What shall we do when, according to Isaiah, 'God shall lay judgment to the line and righteousness the plummet?'"

Ah, here is where the gospel comes in with a Saviour's righteousness to make up for our defects. And while I see hanging on the wall a plumb line I see also hanging there a cross. And while the one condemns us, the other saves us if only we will hold to it.

And here and now you may be set free with a more glorious liberty than Hampden or Sidney or Kosciusko ever fought for. Not out yonder or down there or here, but just where you are you may get it.

The invalid proprietress of a wealthy estate in Scotland visited the continent of Europe to get rid of her maladies, and she went to Baden-Baden, and tried those waters, and went to Carlsbad and tried those waters, and went to Homburg and tried those waters, and instead of getting better she got worse, and in despair she said to a physician, "What shall I do?" His reply was "Medicine can do nothing for you. You have only one chance, and that is the waters of Pit Keathly, Scotland." "Is it possible?" she replied. "Why, those waters are on my own estate." She returned and drank of the fountain at her own gate, and in two months completely recovered. Oh, sick and diseased and sinning and dying, who go trudging all the world over and seeking here and there relief for your discouraged spirit when close by and at your very feet and at the door of your heart, aye, within the very estate of your own consciousness, the healing waters of eternal life may be had and had this very hour, this very minute! Blessed be God that over against the plumb line that Amos saw is the cross, through the emancipating power of which you and I may live and live forever!

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Waiting on God—Always at It—The Gospel an Opportunity — God Must Be Judge — The Call of Christ — Speak Often of the Dead—Truly Following.

Waiting on God! It is sitting down
Beside the way to rest awhile,
And learning the secret of perfect peace
In the light of a Father's smile.

It is ceasing to look with anxious eyes
On the cares of coming days,
It is resting the future to God alone,
With a heart overfull of praise.

It is never a thought of 'how' or 'why'
In the matter of daily life,
It is simply letting him take his way
Through the midst of toil and strife.

It is leaving everything in his hands,
Believing He worketh best;
Assured that He never can make mistakes,
Ah, this is perfect rest."

Always at It.

The planner is the performer and prophet. Systematic, orderly, organized work is prompt and successful work. It will not do to take up things at random, to begin at the wrong place, to work at loose ends, and then to do them at haphazard. Nothing great was ever done in this foolish fashion. Nevertheless, he who plans assiduously and strenuously runs a great risk. He is in danger of becoming so much absorbed to his plans that he will persist in them not only in the face of human opposition, but in the teeth of God's voice. He will not take no even from the Almighty. He gets a delicate point to work, is discouraged by difficulties, proceeds to bring himself into a complicated tangle, refuses to disentangle himself, refuses to discern the difference between things put in our way by certain 'Natural Enemies' and things put in our way for the trial of our perseverance, and things put in our way for their advance. It is well to plan. It is also well to hold our plans subordinate to the will of God. He does some of His best work in answering our plans and refusing some of our urgent requests.

The Gospel an Opportunity.

The thought of the Gospel as opportunity, not merely to escape the penalties of wrong-doing, but of entering into the personal, original power of God, is taking hold of the middle classes today, with a force which will not follow the discussions of the Ecumenical conference. Is it not evident that the Protestantism of today is coming to a new appreciation of what the Gospel saves us for? And are we not also beginning to see that the beginning and the power of the new life are to be found in coming to Christ and taking Him as a model upon ourselves? It is His character, not our theories or machinery that is to save the world. There is always something mechanical in attempting to describe the vital relationship of two human beings to whom their exists the tie of personal sympathy and fellowship. Nothing like 'love' and 'sympathy' can be found rather than embody the idea.

God Must Be Judge.

If we could see ourselves from the divine point of view, it would be plain that disappointment is often best for us, and involves no contradiction of the sufficiency of faith. Often we have exercised our faith with pure intent but without perfect comprehension of existing conditions. Sometimes we have thought our faith genuine and free from any ignoble element, when God sees, as we later come to see, that it was not entirely worthy of reward as we thought it was. Sometimes the needs of others, of which we have been unaware, are blended so closely with our own that the granting of our faith in the form in which our desire would work evil to them, which we should regret, did we know of it. We are to be encouraged by difficulties, not to bring ourselves insanely against them, but to discern the difference between things put in our way for the trial of our perseverance, and things put in our way for their advance. It is well to plan. It is also well to hold our plans subordinate to the will of God. He does some of His best work in answering our plans and refusing some of our urgent requests.

The Call of Christ.

There is no element in human life more pregnant with tragedy as the power of the human will to resist the appeal of Christ. It is possible to be within reach of perfect good and not to see it. It is possible to see it and not desire it or desire it as to secure it. We would not be treated like sheep and be driven into our pasture; we are treated as men, and so we miss our way and lose our life. For Christ will not overpersuade a man. For the success of his appeal depends upon the conviction of the individual. We must for ourselves reach our own conclusions about him. Our treatment of the call of Christ is the central determining act in our history. The fact of such a call is its redeeming factor. Nothing lifts human life to its true level but this call. It is this which glorifies and gladdens our sad, defeated, stained existence.

Speak Often of the Dead.

Let men talk pleasantly of the dead as those who no longer suffer and are tried as those who pursue no longer a fleeting, but have grasped and secured the real. With them the fear and the longings, the hope and the terror, the pain are past; the fruition of life has begun. How unkind, that when we take away their bodies, we should cease the utterance of their names. The broken-hearted dead who struggle so in pain from us—why should we speak of them in awe, and remember them only with sighing? Very dear were they while hand clasped hand, and heart responded to heart. Why are they less dear when they have grown worthy of a higher love than ours? By their heartbeats and to their grave-side, in solitude and amid the multitude, think cheerfully and speak lovingly of the dead.—Amos.

They who are truly following their Master and are really united with Him are delivered from selfish isolation and brought into the fellowship of holy love. They understand that they are saved to serve, and that they can only save themselves unless they are willing to save others. Although in one sense we are to go to heaven alone, being perfectly willing to stand forth in the world in sublime independence whether anybody is disposed to stand by our side or not, in another and extremely important sense no one can go to heaven alone. He must at least do his very best to get somebody else along with him. Other than he has not the spirit of Jesus, he is a stranger to the heart of Christ.

Wish not, dear friends, my pain away,
Wish me a wise and thankful heart,
With God in all my griefs to stay,
Nor from his loved correction start.
—John Keble.

The weakest plant may be safe in the garden, but our Lord Jesus is a refuge for protection to his weak and defenseless ones even in a wilderness.—Thomas Watson.

Fight Your Liver

If you want to. But look out, or it will get the start of you. If it does, you will have dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache, poor blood, constipation.

Perhaps you have these already. Then take one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime. These pills gently and surely master the liver; they are an easy and safe laxative for the whole family; they give prompt relief and make a permanent cure. Always keep a box of them in the house.

"I have raised a family of eleven children, all living at the present time, and I would not think I could keep house without Ayer's Pills. I have used them for twenty years, and there is no family laxative their equal."—S. C. DARDEN, Myrtle, Miss., May 22, 1900.

CARLYLE ON WAR.

The Famous English Writer Condemned It in an Unique Way.

Thomas Carlyle, the famous English writer, has scathingly condemned war. The following is the argument he puts into the mouth of one of his characters in his Sartor Resartus: "That speaking in unofficial language, is the purport and upshot of all my knowledge there dwells in the British village of Dumdrudge annually some 500 souls. These, by certain 'Natural Enemies' of the French, there are successively shot during the French war, some dozen able-bodied men. Dumdrudge at her own expense, has suckled, fostered, them; she has, not without effort and sorrow, fed them with her own milk and even trained them to the useful trades, that one can weave, another hammer, and the third can forge. Nevertheless, amid much weeping and swearing, they are selected, dressed in red; and shipped away, at public charges, some 2,000 leagues, only to the south of Spain, and there fed till wanted. And now to the same spot, in the south of Spain, are thirty similar French artisans from a French Drumdredge, in the manner wending; till at length, after infinite effort, the two parties are extant in mutual juxtaposition, and thirty and thirty fronting. Thirty, each with a gun in his hand. Straightway the word 'Fire!' is given; and they blow the inside out of one another, and in place of sixty useful brick craftsmen, the world has sixty dead carcasses which it must bury and anew shed tears for. Had these men any quarrel? Busy as the devil is, not the smallest! They lived wide enough apart, were the entirest strangers; nay in so wide a universe, there was room, unconsciously, by commerce, for mutual helpfulness between them. How then? Simpleton! Their governors had fallen out, and instead of shooting one another, had the cunning to make these poor blockheads shoot. Alas so it is in Deutschland, and hitherto in all other lands; still of old 'What deviltry soever Kings do, the Greeks must pay the piper.'"

To prevent stock from jumping over fences a Virginian has designed a harness which leaves the animals' heads free to graze comprising a crupper and halter, connected by straps running between the animal's forelegs, which prevents lifting the head high enough to jump.

HOW MILLIONAIRES GET EVEN WHEN OFFENDED.

Two Instances Where They Spent Fortunes to Wipe Out Real or Fancied Wrongs—The Case of Citizen Train—Built a Hotel and Ran Other Out.

As a general rule it doesn't pay to have trouble with millionaires. This is brought to mind by the relations between Millionaire W. S. Stratton and Maxey Tabor in Denver. Mr. Stratton is the gentleman who discovered the Independence mind at Victor, Col., and made a "boom" mining camp out of the place. Since then his men have been taking silver and gold and other dross out of the hole in the ground at a rate of speed which makes the average tenderfoot dizzy, and most of it has been credited to the account of Mr. Stratton in various banks. He also dug into the good things at Cripple Creek to the enlargement of his fortune, and, taking everything into consideration, it is generally conceded that Mr. Stratton is fixed to keep a whole pack of wolves away from the door should occasion arise.

Maxey Tabor, son of H. A. W. Tabor, ex-senator from Colorado, builder of the Tabor opera house, and original "boomer" of Denver, is manager of the Brown Palace hotel. Last winter Stratton was stopping at the hotel. There chanced to be a vaudeville queen in town at the same time, who was considered quite the swellest, daintiest and most alluring vaudeville queen that had crossed the plains for some moons. And to her, the story runs, Mr. Stratton extended the courtesies and gallantries which a man of his wealth and position was eminently fitted to exercise. There were little lunches on afternoons when the matinee did not claim the actress and little suppers after the performance. Manager Tabor became dispeased and notified the actress that her absence would be agreeable. Mr. Stratton became indignant, but bided his time. A short time ago he carelessly asked the owners of the Brown Palace what they considered the property worth. They lit a fresh cigar and murmured that a million and a half would take the whole thing just as it stood. Mr. Stratton yawned and observed that he would take it. And now they do say that Manager Tabor will be out of a job just as soon as the new owner moves into the second floor front suite.

Along in 1867 or thereabouts, when the Union Pacific road wandered over the prairie and discovered Omaha, there was something of a rush to the place and the hotel which had held its own for some years as a half-way house for the trains of prairie schooners was a bit crowded. Among those who flocked to Omaha to see what was doing was Citizen George Francis Train, then in the possession of scads of money. One morning at the hotel the biscuits were cold or the coffee gave grounds for complaint—something of the kind happened and led to an argument with the waiter on the part of Citizen Train. The manager of the hotel was called and as he had a monopoly in the hotel line he was just a bit ungracious, or at least it so appeared to the mind of Mr. Train.

"All right," said the citizen, "you'rd the boss just now. But I'll build a hotel here within the next 60 days and you'll come around and ask me for a job before I get through." Thus said Citizen Train and more to the same effect.

The landlord of the existing hotel smiled blandly and in an idle way turned to the head clerk and raised the rates. Then he went away.

In a few days an army of men were at work under Mr. Train's orders building the hotel and in 60 days it was completed. He didn't go into the thing to make money—merely to get even, and he didn't care for expense. Therefore he imported chefs from New York and edibles from every other old place and he cut the rates away down and put up the grandest service west of Chicago for prices that were a joke. And everyone came over to Train's hotel and things fell out almost as the citizen had predicted. Which taught the other hotel man a few new tricks.

"There is a suit, my friend," said the dealer, "that will wear like iron."

"I guess that feller was no liar," said the victim two weeks after. "The suit is ready already."

HEROES IN POLITICS

SHERMAN THE ONLY WARRIOR TO RESIST.

Taylor Also Preferred Private Life to the White House, But Yielded — Some Conspicuous Successes and Failures.

The solitary, brilliant exception to the popular heroes of this country, one who would not accept the nomination for the presidency, was Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman. Repeatedly he was urged to be a candidate and earnestly besought "to save our party" by becoming a standard bearer; but no arguments that were presented, no inducements that could be made, influenced his decision. His reply to all such proposals was that he was not a politician; that he could not become one; did not want the place, and, finally, when his patience was exhausted with the importunities of those who assured him that he would be elected if he would run, he roared out his last emphatic, "No, let me hear no more of it. I will not accept the office."

Every other American over whose head has been suspended this temptation has succumbed and welcomed the opportunity to be the recipient of this greatest of civic honors. If there be an exception Gen. Taylor would represent, in a measure, that exception. He objected and then protested that he did not want the office, but finally permitted himself to become a candidate and was elected to fill the office. His candidacy was not furthered by himself in any way. When urged by a delegation of visiting statesmen to visit the north for electioneering purposes his reply was:

"I would not go across yon ferry to influence the public choice or to secure my election. I have never aspired to the presidency; if the people elect me of their own free choice my humble services are at their disposal. If they elect some other candidate I shall not be in the slightest degree mortified."

Taylor deplored the necessity that compelled him to resign his commission in the army, and his election did not compensate him for the severance of ties that bound him to his comrades in arms, and the life he loved. Mrs. Taylor had shared with her husband his frontier life, and had for a quarter of a century practically lived in a tent, his happy comrade and caretaker. She used all her influence to prevent a consideration of the proposition made to her husband, and when he had reached the conclusion that he should accept the call of his countrymen, she sadly pointed out to him that his acquired habits as an army officer would not permit him to live under the restraints of life in Washington, and she repeatedly expressed the fear that if elected his life would be shortened by reason of the new responsibilities put upon him. When Taylor's untimely death occurred a year and four months after his election, there were sincere mourners among those who had known of Mrs. Tayor's opposition "to the plot," as she had termed it, to take her husband from the army and nominate him for the place which had, in a sense, cost him his life.

Jackson was the first military man after Washington's time, who became president by reason of his services in the field. He was a volunteer soldier, whose great success in arms had made him a hero in the west and southwest, and whose nomination was due to this fact. It was a political issue that persuaded him to go into politics.

Gen. William Henry Harrison was the next military hero who reached the presidency by way of the battlefield. His unfitness for the office was such that one month of worry and responsibility in it killed him.

Gen. Grant's military reputation carried him into the white house, and no more eloquent judgment has been passed upon his fitness for the place of chief magistrate, or his success in performing its duties, than the place assigned him in history. There he is ranked as one of the greatest generals of modern times, and the statement made regarding his presidency is usually the simple announcement that he was twice elected to fill the office. His fame rests on his achievements as a soldier. No distinctly military man can hope to add laurels to his crown by becoming president of the United States. The truth that they do not is attested by the history of every soldier who has held the position.

Military men who have been candidates, and been defeated as such, have injured their military prestige without gaining anything in the popular estimation. Among these defeated presidential candidates have been Gen. Winfield Scott, Gen. George B. McClellan, Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock. All these men bitterly regretted having run for the office, an office for which not one of them had the training or the temperament to fill with distinction.

The naval branch of the national military service was not represented in the list of presidential candidates until Admiral Dewey offered himself as such.

FASHION'S PARASOLS.

Some of the Latest Fancies in Season's Sunshades.

If the woman who uses a parasol would be particularly far in advance of her feminine rivals this summer she will buy herself the very latest creation in parasol ingenuity, the sunshade with square edges. It is not a thing of beauty, perhaps, but at least it is strikingly odd and to be odd is at least to be noticed. The square parasol is covered with a bandana handkerchief in the gaudiest pattern obtainable and the effect is certainly bizarre and unusual. The newest handles for the season's parasols are club shaped, and some of them are adorned with bunches of flowers and fruit. Among the elaborate handles wooden ones are seen mounted in gold and silver and set with real or imitation jewels. Ivory, coral, and lapis lazuli are also cut up into the parasol handles. Parasols for morning service are always of plain design and material. Silk is, of course the rule. For carriage use a white satin sunshade is always a desirable requisition and it may be beautified by lace butterflies and flowers appliqued upon the satin. One of the fancy shades shows a parasol formed of stitched bands of white taffeta put together with strips of insertion and hemstitching.

FAMINE SHADOWED INDIA.

BY EDWARD S. HUME.

For Twenty-five Years an American Resident of Bombay.

Having just returned from India, I have read the accounts of the famine in American papers. I have seen the pictures. I have seen the conditions in the famine districts, and I can assure you that the actual state of affairs is much more terrible than painted or pictured. And the worst of it is that, even if the June rains are entirely favorable, no relief can be expected till the crop is gathered in October. Famine photographs frequently represent half starved and dying persons lying on the street or in some field. They are poor but self respecting people, who have never been the objects of public charity and have refused to go to famine relief camps until at last death has stared them in the face, and unbearable distress has driven them out in search of help. Weary and hungry, they have laid themselves down to rest and have died before waking. Not long before leaving India, while walking with a brother missionary at Ahmedabad, not far from his house, he pointed to a tree at the roadside and said: "The other day I saw the emaciated figure of a man lying, face down, under that tree. On going near and touching the body I found it already stiff and cold. Examining it more carefully, I found one side torn away, evidently eaten by jackals. A couple of rods away lay the dead body of an infant. A little farther on was found a woman, still alive. She was the wife of the man and mother of the child. She, too, poor thing, died before she could reach the poorhouse, which stood within sight and call of the spot where these patient, helpless ones had fallen down to die."

HINDOO PEASANT WOMAN IN HAPPY TIMES.

A starving man is devoid of judgment and of most of his natural feelings. In April we received a group of famine girls. Among them was one who, although much emaciated, began to improve from the day she came to us. After a week she rapidly grew worse. In spite of everything that could be done for her she soon died. We learned at last that, while she was so ill that we were giving her a few spoonfuls of nourishment at a time, raising her gently, because she seemed unable to make any effort to help herself, and even later, when she seemed unable to see or to speak, she had been dragging herself at intervals, when we were absent, out into the garden, a distance of 50 yards, in order to get some green mangoes to eat. For the poor famine child they were deadly poison. She knew it, but the awful gnawing in her stomach made prudence impossible.

The only effective preventive to the spread of plague that has yet been discovered is inoculation with plague serum. Wherever an outbreak of the disease is imminent, inoculation stations are opened. Doctors are sent to them; serum, instruments and everything needed for efficient work are provided, but the Hindoos have not taken kindly to this remedy. All kinds of wild rumors have been spread and have been widely believed to the effect that inoculation is most harmful; that it has been devised by the European doctors to punish the Hindoos for supposed disloyalty and as a means for destroying caste. In view of this the government offers two days' wages to every man, woman or child who is inoculated. I know a little fellow 8 years old, whose mother died and whose father is a helpless invalid. Hearing that money was paid to every person who was willing to be inoculated, this poor little lad presented himself at one of the inoculation stations. As soon as his arm was healed he went to another station, and this thing went on until the poor boy had actually been inoculated five times in each arm for the 84 cents he received and with which he supported himself and father for six weeks.

The government has already expended more than $47,000,000 in the free distribution of food to those who are unable to work and in employing the ablebodied at cash wages in the construction of reservoirs, irrigation ditches and other public works that will mitigate future droughts. In addition, there are generous and splendidly organized systems of private charity, the funds being supplied from every part of the civilized world and managed chiefly by American and European missionaries of long experience in India. It is the duty and privilege of every one to have some share in this sacred work of humanity. Gifts may be sent to Brown Bros. & Co., 59 Wall street, New York, treasurers of the committee of one hundred; William E. Dodge, chairman, and Dr. L. T. Chamberlain, executive director, by whom they will be cabled promptly to the responsible and representative Americo-Indian relief committee, under the chairmanship of United States Consul William H. Fee, at Bombay, with the veteran missionary, Robert A. Hume, as executive secretary.

FAMINE CHILDREN FROM GUNGERAT.

The New York committee of one hundred on India famine relief co-operates with committees of the same name in Boston, New Haven, Baltimore, Washington, Indianapolis and other cities, each of which has charge of the work in its own section. The committee states that on receipt of a postal addressed "Committee of One Hundred, 73 Bible House, New York," supplies of illustrated literature are sent without charge and expressage free. The help of individuals, clubs, lodges, labor unions, employers, proprietors of hotels and summer resorts, churches, Sunday schools, young people's societies, King's Daughters, etc., is earnestly sought in distributing this free literature. Many who will lend a hand in this way can aid the cause as much as if they were able to draw a handsome check themselves.

VOL. VIII | CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY AUGUST 23, 1900 | NO. 44.

Judge of Probate

NECROLOGICAL.

MRS. GIVHAN.

Early on Sunday morning the spirit of Mrs. Zelia Givhan took its flight from earthly scenes to scenes of celestial glory. She had only been sick about ten days and the devote affection of her mother and sister did much to lessen the pangs of dissolution. Mr. Givhan was the beloved eldest daughter of Col. and Mrs. W. A. Collier and was in the bloom of womanhood being but 32 years of age, the greater part of which had been spent in Clanton where she had innumerable friends. She was buried at Clanton on Monday. To the bereaved parents and relatives and the two young children who mourn the loss of a loving mother we offer our deepest sympathy.

MR. WILLIAM MIMS.

Every one around Clanton knew "Old Bill Mims," and all respected him as a hard-working honest man. His long life of some seventy years was closed on Monday and the body laid to rest at Mount Creek on Tuesday. Peace with him.

GEORGIA JONES.

"It's only a little while and we shall meet again." Only a few short weeks on earth have separated Miss Georgia Jones and her father, who passed on before to the glory land last June. In life they were inseparable and death has not divided them. Miss Georgia was the daughter of the late Rose R. Jones, and was about 65 years of age at the time of her death. She was a poetess of local reputation.

AUNT JULIA CAMPBELL.

This good old negress passed away last Saturday evening at the ripe old age of 89, the last thirty years of which had been passed in Clanton. Aunt Julia was one of the good old-fashioned negroes who so conducted her life as to earn the respect and good will of both white and colored. She was buried at Clanton cemetery Sunday, several of her white friends attending the funeral.

We notice that Mr. Lester is having pretty good luck with his fish basket and is bringing in some nice fish. STAR.

Clanton, August 20th, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Dear Sir: I beg leave to express my gratitude through your paper, to my friends for their hearty support in the election on the 6th inst.

Gentlemen, I thank you all from the very depths of my heart for your support in the election of myself to the position of sheriff of this county. I shall never forget you. I am always ready to do all I can to accomodate a friend.

Now a word to the public. Gentlemen, I have endeavored to make an open-handed, clean race. I have not said or done anything that I am ashamed of or afraid to meet at any time or any place. Now, gentlemen, I shall do all I can to discharge my official duties irrespective of anyone—in other words I shall know no man in my official duties. But when it comes to private matters I shall know my friends.

Gentlemen, there have been false reports told on me for political gain, but thank God it has done no good for those that told it. There is one request I want to make of every man in the county and that is this, when you hear anything that I should have done during my term of office that don't sound right, you will afford me great pleasure if you will come and tell me instead of trying to hang me without a trial. I know its impossible for me to please everybody, so the main ones I want to please are myself and my God. I mean by that to discharge my duties in full as near as possible, and then I will feel my conscience clear. So I thank my friends again for the honor they have conferred upon me, promising you that I will never do anything to cause you to regret casting your ballot for me.

Yours very truly,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

Stanton, Aug. 21, 1900

To the voting citizens of Beat 8 I feel under many obligations to you for your kind support as I was almost unanimously elected to the office of J. P. I am a Democrat but have nothing against any political party. I feel safe in saying that the larger portion of the People's Party supported me and all or nearly all of the Democrats. Only a few of the Democratic votes was cast against me, those who could be influenced by some designating me. And I will say that I will do my best to make all those who supported me and those who did not support me in the election the best officer that my judgment will allow.

Yours Respectfully,
W. J. A. MILTON.

Jemison, Aug 20, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Please allow me space in your paper to express from the depths of my heart the gratitude I feel towards the people of Chilton for the support they gave me at the last election. Rest assured that I have never turned my back on a friend and when the people of Chilton need me, call me, and I will respond.

By the way I see in the Montgomery Journal of the 16th where the Hon. Tipton Mullins gave out an interview where he intimates that I will never carry my contest through; says it will be too costly. I reckon he thinks I am too poor, and in this he is right, but I will spend the last cent I have to show that I was honestly elected. Now, I haven't been as fortunate as he has in many matters, but I will get up enough to show who got the most votes in the last election, Mr. Oliver or myself. There was eleven boxes changed after they reached the court house and my vote taken from me and given to Mr. Oliver. I will not ask space to mention all Solomon Parker.

The recent lamented death of this man closed the long and useful life of an honest and upright citizen. Where is the man that he ever wronged, defrauded or deceived. He did not seek wealth or fame, was content with the sphere in which he moved, just in all his dealings with his fellow man, and has a heart full of humanity, and full of faith in God and His promises. It matters not how humble such a life may have been, the influences left behind are a benediction to mankind without the example of such lives, whether in the lowly or higher walks of life, the wickedness of the world would soon pass all human endearence.

When Feb. 12, 1861, the Perote Guards left Perote, (Bullock Co., Ala.,) with flying banners for the seat of war at Pensacola there were only two old men in the company—Solomon Parker and Joel Brooks, affectionately called "Uncle Solomon" and "Uncle Joel" by the boys. All the rest were young men, most of them school boys in their "teens." John Boykin, formerly tax collector of this county, was one of us, and only 14.

"Uncle Solomon" was our company commissary, and "Uncle Joel" our quartermaster. Every old soldier will testify that "Uncle Solomon" had the most delicate task—that of dividing the rations of the company among the messes. When it came to dividing rations among ill-fed Confederate soldiers as we were, it took a man of fine judgment and high sense of justice to so divide them that nobody would go away dissatisfied. We were more jealous of our scant rations than of our rights. But "Uncle Solomon" was held in such high regard by the boys that when he divided the rations there was never a word of complaint. Everyone felt that he had received his just share.

But the war ended in 1865, and "Uncle Solomon" passed out of my sight. As he was considered quite an old man in '61, I supposed he had long since gone to join his "boys" on the other shores. When seven years ago I came to Clanton to establish the University School I was astonished beyond measure to find "Uncle Solomon" here, looking as young to me as in 1861, and having three children for school.

During my seven years' residence here I have spent many pleasant hours with him on the streets talking over "war times."

But he "has crossed over the river and rests in the shade of the trees." Peace to his ashes.

E. Y. MCMORRIES.

The Constitution, of Atlanta, Ga., is now offering its Daily and Sunday editions complete to new subscribers, from the date the order reaches that office until November 10th for only $1.00. This last campaign offer will take the subscriber beyond and give him the full news of the Presidential election. The period thus covered will be of unusual interest, not only because of the election and the questions pending thereon, but it will be full of events, and guesses at the truth of of reported events in China. A One-Armed Man Tried to Exterminate Miners at Pratt City.

Jerry Thomas, a one-armed man of bad repute, while under the influence of whisky, created much excitement at Slope No. 5, Pratt City, Monday by attempting to exterminate the miners as they came out of the opening, and was himself perhaps fatally wounded. Thomas appeared at the mine about 4 o'clock, armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, and stationing himself near the entrance, opened fire on two negro miners, who were the first to come out. A few minutes later Will Yeager, a white miner, came out and was shot and painfully wounded by Thomas, who then ran into the mine and attacked Henry Jordon, an engineer, who was on his way out. Jordon, in an effort to save his own life, fired upon the desperate man, the shot taking effect in the abdomen, inflicting a serious wound.

Terrible Act of a Crazy Woman.

Several days ago Mrs. Ivey, a widow in good standing and well connected, who lives in Jackson county, while mentally unbalanced, attempted the life of her 6-year-old child, and then turned the weapon upon herself.

Mrs. Ivey is reported to have been very despondent since the loss of her husband a few years ago, and the death of a beloved daughter a few days ago entirely unbalanced her mind and caused her to commit the rash deed. The weapon was a razor, and she would have accomplished her purpose but for the child, whose screams brought neighbors to the rescue.

Jacobi Landed in Montgomery Jail.

Sanford Jacobi, charged with attempted assault on a young lady of Clanton, in Montgomery, about six weeks ago, and who has been imprisoned in New Orleans for several weeks, was taken to Montgomery Monday afternoon. The prisoner was in charge of a deputy sheriff and a detachment of soldiers, and an immense throng of people met the party at the union passenger station. Though there was no evidence of intended violence, a large posse of policemen and deputy sheriffs was on hand to prevent any disturbance.

Destructive Fire at Boaz.

A destructive fire broke out in the Sand Mountain Signal office at Boaz Monday and was beyond control when first discovered. The flames reached from house to house until nine buildings and contents went up in smoke. The loss will reach about $30,000, with about $16,000 insurance. The largest losers were John A. Snead, loss $14,000, insurance $7,000; C. E. Snead & Bro., loss $10,000, insurance $550. The Signal office, where the fire started, is a complete loss, as well as several other buildings.

Sun Stroke in Birmingham.

The first sun stroke of the season in Birmingham occurred Monday, when two men were overcome with heat, one of them dying during the afternoon. This was the first death from sun stroke that ever occurred in Birmingham. Dan Brennen, a barkeeper, was overcome by heat and fell to the pavement and died soon afterward. Joe Grady, a miner, was also prostrated, but may live.

Able Educator Dead.

Prof. A. B. Goodhue died in Gadsden Monday, after a long illness. Death was due to old age. Professor Goodhue was 83 years old and was one of the ablest educators in the state. He was professor of mathematics in one school for forty continuous years and was the first principal of the Gadsden public schools.

A curious feature of the long record of charitable and educational donations in the United States is the growing frequency of cases in which the donors withhold their names. Since the beginning of the present year the total given by unknown donors is $1,158,000. Two anonymous donors in New York City have given a total of $550,000 to charitable enterprises. Unknown benefactors have given $100,000 to Columbia college, $80,000 to Cornell, $50,000 to Harvard, $102,500 to the University of Chicago, $100,000 to Harvard college, and $50,000 to the Illinois Manual Training school. Other donations of smaller amounts bring the total to the figure named above.

WEARY WITH THE STRUGGLE

China Makes Formal Application for Peace Commissioners

TO NEGOTIATE CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES

Probability That the Proposals Will Be Rejected on Ground That Conditions in the American Note Were Not Complied With.

A Washington dispatch says: The Chinese government made formal application through Li Hung Chang, as its envoy, for the appointment of an American commissioner, Mr. Conger or some other official, to bring about the cessation of hostilities in China and the restoration of general peace. This, coming since the capture of Pekin, is the first showing of China's complete weariness with the struggle and her desire to make terms.

Li Hung Chang's application came to the Chinese minister and was delivered by him to the state department at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Shortly afterwards the president was acquainted with China's desire.

Overtures May Be Rejected.

The American reply to China's latest appeal for a cessation of hostilities, received Monday from Li Hung Chang, has not yet been made known, and it is likely that the matter will be one of the main subjects of consideration at the cabinet meeting Tuesday. But there is reason to believe that the overtures will in effect be rejected on the ground that the conditions laid down in the American note of August 12 have not been complied with, and until complied with the government must proceed without reference to China's appeal for a halt in the proceedings.

The Chinese envoy proposed no terms as to the withdrawal of troops, and made no other suggestion as to what was to come before the committee, his sole anxiety being to secure the cessation of hostilities. The application is understood also to have been made to the powers in the hope that if all would name a commissioner there would be a general council of peace between Li Hung Chang on the one hand and the several representatives of the nations on the other.

TWO AMERICANS MISSING.

A Birmingham Woman Believed to Be in the Hands of the Boxers.

A cablegram from Shanghai under date of Sunday has been received at the office of the Cheney Company in Toledo, O., conveying the information that Dr. Roberts and several members of his party stationed at the Cheney farm at Koo Fon have been located, but that Mrs. Roberts, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., is missing, and has probably fallen into the hands of the Boxers.

The dispatch conveys the welcome news that the Roberts party, with two exceptions, are safe and sound with the foreign legation in Pekin. Two female members of the party are missing, Mrs. Nellie Parker and Mrs. Charles Roberts. The former is known to have been killed by the Boxers.

A later cablegram from a Shanghai correspondent reports the probable safety of Mrs. Roberts with friendly Chinese near Ksh, and that a relief party is being organized.

STILL FIGHTING IN PEKIN.

Chinese Fled to the Imperial Palace When the Allies Appeared.

The Japanese legation at Washington has received several important dispatches. One received from Taku, dated August 19, says:

"After entry into Pekin was effected by the allied troops, the Chinese troops, on August 15, betook themselves to and remained in the imperial palace. A body of Japanese troops was sent to guard the palace and there they met with obstinate resistance by the Chinese troops. Fighting is still going on. The headquarters of the Japanese army is in the legation and the division is mainly quartered in the villages outside of An-Ting-Men."

Mine Owner Ferris Killed.

George Ferris, principal owner of the celebrated Ferris-Haggerty mine, was killed near Transfer, Wyo., by being thrown from his buggy.

CHAFFEE CONFIRMS THE NEWS.

Empress Dowager Detained Within the Forbidden City.

From General Chaffee Sunday the war department received official confirmation of the fall of Pekin and the rescue of the besieged legationers.

The dispatch of the American commander was not long and contained few details, but the unconcealed satisfaction with which it was received by the officials at Washington indicated clearly the anxiety that has been engendered by his prolonged silence.

A cablegram from Admiral Remey contains some important information not mentioned by General Chaffee. He makes the startling statement, on Japanese authority, that the inner city of Pekin was being bombarded by the allied forces. Admiral Remey says, also, that the Dowager Duchess is detained in the inner city by Prince Yungedo.

Advices received from the foreign office at Tokio, Japan, by the Japanese legation in Washington confirm and amplify previous accounts of the capture of Pekin by the allied troops.

Following is the text of the dispatch from General Chaffee:

"PEKIN—We entered legation grounds at 5 o'clock last night with Fourteenth and light artillery. Eight wounded during the day fighting; otherwise all well."

THE WAR AGAIN.

Confederate Veterans Object to General Gordon Going to Chicago.

The Confederate Association of the Army of the Tennessee, which includes a large majority of the confederate veterans in New Orleans, at a meeting in that city has protested against Gen. J. B. Gordon, commanding the United Confederate Veterans, attending the G. A. R. encampment at Chicago.

General Chalaron offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"In view of the recent occurrences at Atlanta and the utterances there of the commander of the G. A. R., this association deprecates and objects to all so-called reunions of the Blue and the Gray, and protests against John B. Gordon accepting an invitation to be present at the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic in his capacity of commander of the United Confederate Veterans."

Georgia Cotton Crop Short.

Commissioner O. B. Stevens, of the Georgia department of agriculture, has compiled statistics indicating that 74 per cent of an average crop of cotton will be realized in Georgia this year. Twenty-six per cent off the average crop gives 958,892 bales for the year, against an estimated crop for 1899 of between 1,000,000 and 1,200,000 bales.

It is further estimated from the reports in the hands of the commissioner that the cotton acreage is 8 per cent less than in 1899.

An imperial ukase has been issued by the Russian government prohibiting the exportation of arms or ammunition to China.

MINISTERS ARE RESCUED

Allied Forces Have Entered and Captured the Chinese Capital.

ATTACK MET WITH STUBBORN RESISTANCE

Three Hundred Chinese Slain at the Gates of Pekin—Emperor and Empress Dowager Fled to Hsian Fu With Imperial Escort.

A Washington special says: The allied armies captured and entered Pekin in the face of obstinate resistance, and the members of the foreign legations are safe. Official confirmation of the fall of the Chinese capital came to the United States government Friday night in the shape of two cablegrams, one from Admiral Remy and the other from Consul Fowler at Chee Foo. Admiral Remy's dispatch follows:

"Taku.—Just received a telegram from Tien Tsin, dated 16th, 10 p. m, 'Pekin was captured on August 15. Foreign legations are safe. Details follow shortly.'"

That from Consul Fowler is contained in the following:

"Chee Foo, 17th.—Japanese Admiral reports allies attacked Pekin, east 15th. Obstinate resistance. Evening Japanese entered capital with other forces. Immediately surrounded legations. Inmates safe. Japanese loss over 100. Chinese 300."

Previous information which has been received here showed that the allied armies took possession on August 12 of Tung Chow, twelve miles from Pekin. After a half of three days for rest and recuperation the army attacked the capital.

There are four entrances to the city on the east, two leading to the Chinese city and two to the Tartar City. Just which one of these was selected as the attacking point Consul Fowler's dispatch does not disclose.

Consul Fowler's dispatch shows that the attack on the city met with strong re-istance. The Japanese force engaged with the advance numbered 10,000 men.

Shanghai dispatches say that Emperor Kwang Su accompanied the Empress Dowager to Hsian Fu much against his will. Prince Tuan commands the rear guard of the imperial escort, of which Boxers form 65 per cent. It was expected that General Tung Fuh Siang would follow after the arrival of the allies. All the palace treasures were sent to Hsian Fu.

Roberts' Proclamation.

A Pretoria dispatch says: Lord Roberts' proclamation, after the fact that many have broken the oath to maintain neutrality and that the leniency extended to the Burghers is not appreciated, warns all who break their oath that they will be punished by death, imprisonment or fine. He declares that all Burghers in districts occupied by the British, except those who take the oath, will be regarded as prisoners of war and transported, and that buildings on farms where the enemy or his courts are harbored will be liable to be razed.

Three Men Entombed.

Three men and sixty mules are imprisoned in Slope No. 8, of the Lehigh Valley company's Primrose colliery, near Mahony City, Pa. The unfortunate miners are William and George Tomkiss and Charles Initis, and it is feared that they have been suffocated. It is not known whether any others are in the mine.

Ingalls' Remains Laid to Rest.

Funeral services over the remains of Ex-Senator Ingalls was held at Atchison, Kan., Sunday and the interment was made in the family vault in Mount Vernon cemetery. The ceremony was very simple. The clergyman announced that the interment would be strictly private and only members of the family and the pall bearers, young men, sons of old friends of the dead ex-senator, were to go to the cemetery.

Judge A. G. Otis, a close business and personal associate of Mr. Ingalls, estimates his fortune at $250,000.

PORTO RICANS ASK FOR AID.

Strikers Write to Social Democratic Party for Help.

The social democratic party received a letter in New York Sunday from Alwin Huechler, secretary of the Federation Libre, a central labor body of San Juan, Porto Rico, asking for aid on behalf of a number of strike leaders who were arrested there.

The letter states that the cigar makers, painters, carpenters and brick layers were on strike in San Juan, and the strike was beginning to spread over the whole island. In all twenty strike leaders were arrested.

The subject was brought up at a meeting of the Central Federal union, where the letter was read, and it was decided to send a letter to the Porto Rico strikers and also to ask President McKinley to act in the matter.

WORSE THAN SAVAGES.

Cruel Treatment of a Negro Charged With Incendiary Language.

Jim Strickland, a negro living in Henry county, Georgia, was taken out by a crowd and given 150 lashes on the bare back, and then shot once in the arm, twice in the thigh and once in the leg.

It is stated that Strickland has been using highly incendiary talk, saying what he would do if a white man crossed his path, and has been regarded as a firebrand in the community. He had been repeatedly warned to modify his language and actions, but these warnings had no effect. The mob went about its work quietly, but effectively. After they had finished with the unfortunate wretch, he was taken to a negro house and his injuries attended to. It is not thought that he will die.

THE SHAH ATTACKED

By an Anarchist in Ostend, Belgium, But Escapes Unscathed.

The Paris Seicle says a private telegram from Ostend states that an attack similar in all points to that made by the anarchist, Salson, in Paris on August 2 was made on the shah of Persia Saturday.

The Echo de Paris publishes the bare statement from Ostend that an attempt had been made on the life of the shah, adding that owing to the lateness of the hour, it was impossible to obtain confirmation of the report.

Jacobi Will Be Returned to Montgomery.

A Montgomery dispatch says: Sanford Jacobi, wanted in this city on a charge of attempted assault on a young woman who resides in Clanton, will be brought back here for trial. A detachment of militia left Saturday morning for New Orleans, to escort Jacobi here. The prisoner, who has been in prison in New Orleans, since his flight from this city, will be turned over to Detective Payne, who went to New Orleans Saturday morning. The militia who accompanied the detective are subject to his orders.

This condition of affairs was brought about by the refusal of Judge Shelby to grant an appeal from his recent decision in the habeas corpus proceedings.

Another Treaty Made Public.

The state department gave out a treaty between the United States and Great Britain relating to the tenure and disposition of real and personal property. The instrument was signed last year, but ratifications were not exchanged until last month. It is a long document of seven articles and provides in detail the manner of distributing the property of deceased citizens of either country who die in the other country.

Old Confederate Officer Suicides.

Major A. B. Martiniere, aged 75 years, who won his title in the Confederate army, died at his home in Canadian, I. T., from an overdose of morphine. He moved there from Texas twelve years ago and engaged in the cotton business. He was at one time very wealthy.

Judge Snodgrass Withdraws.

Judge D. L. Snodgrass, chief justice of the state supreme court, has withdrawn from the race for United States senator from Tennessee. His action leaves Hon. E. W. Carmack the only avowed candidate for the position.

It is understood here that they are charged with complicity in the recent plot to assassinate the late King Humbert. All of the American secret service men unite in denying that any of the fourteen Italians detained are accused of plotting against the life of President McKinley.

TO ASSASSINATE M'KINLEY

Fourteen Foreign Anarchists Arrested in New York.

THE SCHEME WAS HATCHED IN NAPLES

Lots Were Drawn to See Who Should Assassinate the President—Eleven Italians and Three Austrians Were Selected.

The New York World prints the following relative to the news received from Washington of the detention at the barge office in New York by secret service agents of Notabile Maresca and Michil Weida, supposed anarchists, who arrived Saturday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. These two men are understood to have come to this country as conspirators whose object it is alleged, was the assassination of President McKinley. The Evening World says:

Instead of two, a high government official informed the Evening World that there are fourteen anarchists under arrest at the detention prison at the Bureau of Immigration. They are all charged with being in a conspiracy to assassinate President McKinley and have been taken singly and in pairs from incoming ocean steamers within the last ten days.

United States secret service agents learn that an anarchist circle in Naples had cast lots who should be the assassin. Eleven Italians and three Austrians were selected. Closely followed, they sailed for different ports. Their object was to strike individual blows at the president at the same time. That as fast as the men arrived secret service agents disguised as emigrants went among them and they were arrested. Maresca and Weida, caught Saturday, were two of the fourteen.

The conspiracy was made on a night early in August. By working with the Italian police the secret service agents got wind of a great meeting of the circle in Naples. The men selected for the work of assassination in this country were quickly notified what they were to do and separated, going singly or in pairs to different ports in Europe. Some went to France, others to Germany, while still others crossed the channel to England. Step by step they were followed to the gang planks of the steamers.

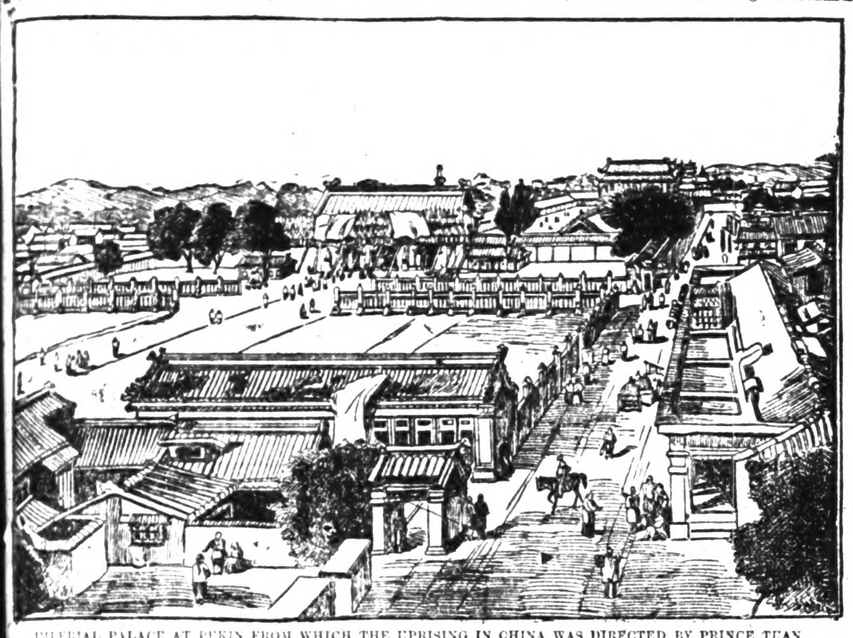
Sketches Among the Chinese.

From the Notebook of an American Consul.

A GREAT deal has been written about the peculiarities of the Chinaman's character. Fastidious foreigners object to his cuisine for a cat and dog diet; others become by the odors which emanate from his habitations. In truth the Chinese coolie is not a beautiful picture, but he is a good servant, he is quick, he is honest; he is faithful, he is as regular in the performance of his duties as clockwork; and he can be forced to some degree of cleanliness.



IMPERIAL PALACE AT PEKIN FROM WHICH THE UPRISING IN CHINA WAS DIRECTED BY PRINCE TUAN.

In the big foreign hotels which abound in all the treaty ports—Hongkong, Shanghai, etc.—as a waiter he is perfect. He wears a loose white robe, immaculately clean; milk white stockings, with black satin slippers, a shiny black queue divides his back from neck to heels. He moves about as silently as a cat. His duties once have been explained to him, he never forgets. He is reliable.

TYPE OF CHINESE MANDARIN.
(Chang-Chih-Tung, Governor of the Province of Hupeh.)

At the American Consulate he was housekeeper, chambermaid and butler. He did the marketing, and should any complaint arise in regard to the cooking this head servant considered it his duty to whip the cook, another Chinaman. He wears a clean white cotton gown—that is, of course, in summer—May to September—when the temperature ranges between eighty-five and ninety degrees. His black satin slippers have noiseless paper soles, so that in the long corridors of his master's house he glides about like a ghost. He speaks the jargon of the treaty ports, known as "Pidgin English." When dinner is ready he presents himself, with hands carefully folded in the loose, flowing sleeves of his dress—a sign of respect—and says, with a deep bow:

"Master comes catchee chow."

Should he be a little out of temper, and wish to show the slightest degree of disrespect, he will allow a small portion of one hand to be seen, and say:

"Chow have got."

"Master," in order that the domestic machinery may run smoothly, must adapt himself to the language of his man servant. Should he be asked to "go upstairs and fetch my slippers," he would stare in bewilderment.

"John makee go top side and catchee slippers."

This is perfectly intelligible to John, the name by which all foreign residents call the servant.

The average Chinaman possesses a remarkable memory. He will learn to make himself understood in almost any foreign language in less than half the time it requires an intelligent Englishman or American to make himself understood in any one of the many Chinese dialects. This disparity has led to some curious anomalies in the trade of the country. Thus at all the open ports trade with foreigners is carried on by means of middlemen, or agents, who are always natives. They are called "compradores."

If a foreign merchant wishes to buy tea, silk, porcelain or other articles of native product he must do so through his "comprador." If he wishes to sell any article of foreign product to a native house he must again call in the "comprador." The "comprador" employs all the servants of the foreigner's establishment, fixes their salaries and is responsible for their honesty. He keeps the foreign trader's bank account straightened out with the native bankers and makes out shipping lists and invoices. Practically, though nominally a mere upper servant, he is the real head of the house, and his word is law. He is usually a shrewd fellow, and watches closely his employer's interests, not forgetting his own. He has certain legitimate commissions or "squeezes," as they are called, on all of his transactions. His income is considerable.

A foreign merchant, having acquired after a long residence a sufficient knowledge of the language, decides that his business is too much in the hands of natives, and dismisses his "comprador." He goes in person to some native "hong" and asks for samples and quotations. He is politely shown through the establishment and otherwise treated with consideration. But when, with a view to buying, he inquires for prices he gets a "No have got" for answer. He goes to another "hong" and another and another, but always with the same result. No one has anything to sell! All are behind with their orders! Let the foreign dealer return to his office and send his "comprador" on the same errand, and his orders will be promptly filled. This is so in every department of business where foreigners are concerned. In all of the treaty ports the financial affairs of every foreign house practically are in the hands of the natives. Foreign merchants cannot hope to reach the market except through a class of middlemen. This is the irrevocable custom of the country. Thus commerce has utterly failed to break down the barriers between these strange people and the outside world.

THE TOMBS OF THE MING DYNASTY.

"It was at Chin-Kiang," writes the American Consul in his notebook, "that the peculiar lantern custom of the Chinese was brought to my notice. I was to be the guest of the American Consul there, and had just landed with him at the foreign merchants' wharf on the Yang-tse, some distance from the foreign settlement. It was about 9 p. m. Two Chinese coolies of my host's household were on the banks awaiting us. They carried each a lantern the size of a flour barrel. Congregated about the landing were several thousand Chinamen of all grades and conditions. Every third man among them carried a lantern, none of which, however, were quite as large as those of my host's coolies.

"'Those are my official lanterns,' said the Consul. 'In this country size represents rank. Big man, big lantern; little man, little lantern. None but the higher officials can have large sized lanterns.'

"'And who are those grave-looking gentlemen in white nightgowns, each attended by a lamp coolie?'

"'They,' said my host, 'are merchants, clerks, "compradoes" and traders. You see their lamps are a little under the medium size. The common coolies not attending as servants carry the very smallest sized lamps. All are required to carry them; it is the local municipal regulation.'

THE TEMPLE OF HEAVEN IN PEKIN.

"It seemed to me an absurd custom for the American Consul to have to spend his evenings out with a couple of lanterns the size of barrels in constant attendance, and I announced my intention of having one only, large enough for practical purposes.

"'In that case,' said my host, 'you will be set down as a small and insignificant person, whose wishes may be safely "disregarded."'"

The pictures which accompany the article are reproduced from the Chicago Record. Chang-Chih-Tung is Governor of the Province of Hupeh. His costume is the type of that worn by the mandarins.

The Temple of Heaven is the edifice where the Chinese Dowager Empress worships her Josses and here the young Emperor used to find a quiet retreat before his step-mother deposed him and began her intrigues with the Boxers.

The most sacred spot in all China is the plain near Pekin, where repose the bones of the Ming Dynasty. It has been proposed that their tombs be destroyed by the Allies as the most terrible blow that could be struck at Chinese pride.—New York Tribune.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Mission of Cities—Morally They Are No Worse Than the Country—Vice Is More Apparent, But Not More Prevalent—A Plea For Honest Living.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—From St. Petersburg, the Russian capital, where he was cordially received by the Emperor and Empress and the Empress Dowager, Dr. Talmage sends this discourse, in which he shows the mighty good that may be done by the cities and also the vast evil they may do by their allurements to the unsuspecting and the unguarded. The text is Zechariah i, 17: "My cities through prosperity shall yet be spread abroad."

The city is no worse than the country. The vices of the metropolis are more evident than the vices of the rural districts, because there are more people to be bad, if they wish to be. The merchant is as good as the farmer. There is no more cheating in town than out of town, no worse cheating; it is only on a larger scale. The countryman sometimes prevaricates about the age of the horse that he sells, about the size of the bushel with which he measures the grain, about the peaches at the bottom of the basket as being as large as those at the top, about the quarter of beef as being tender when it is tough, and to as bad an extent as the citizen, the merchant, prevaricates about calicoes or silks or hardware.

And as to villages, I think that in some respects they are worse than the cities, because they copy the vices of the cities in the meanest shape, and as to gossip, its heaven is a country village! Everybody knows everybody's business better than he knows it himself. The grocery store or the blacksmith shop by day and night is the grand depot for masculine tittle tattle, and there are always in the village a half dozen women who have their sunbonnets hanging near, so that at the first item of derogatory news they can fly out and cackle it all over the town. Country men must not be too hard in their criticism of the citizen, nor must the plow run too sharply against the yardstick.

Cain was the founder of the first city, and I suppose it took after him in morals. It takes a city a long while to escape from the character of the founder. Where the founders of a city are criminal exiles, the filth, the vice, the prisons, are the shadow of those founders. It will take centuries for New York to get over the good influence of the pious founders of that city—the founders whose prayers went up in the streets where now banks discount, and brokers bargain, and companies declare dividends, and smugglers swear custom house lies, and above the roar of the wheels and the crack of the auctioneer's mallet ascends the ascription, "We worship thee, O thou almighty dollar!"

Cities are not evil necessarily, as some have argued. They have been the birthplace of civilization. In them popular liberty has lifted its voice. Witness Genoa and Pisa and Venice. After the death of Alexander the Great among his papers were found extensive plans of cities, some to be built in Europe, some to be built in Asia. The cities in Europe were to be occupied by Asiatics; the cities in Asia were to be occupied, according to his plans, by Europeans, and so there should be a commingling and a fraternity and a kindness and a good will between the continents and between the cities. So there always ought to be. The strangest thing in my comprehension is that there should be bickerings and rivalries among our American cities. New York must stop caricaturing Philadelphia, and Philadelphia must stop picking at New York, and certainly the continent is large enough for St. Paul and Minneapolis. What is good for one city is good for all the cities. Here is the great highway of our national prosperity. On that highway of national prosperity walk the cities.

A city with large forehead and great brain—that is Boston; a city with deliberate step and calm manner—that is Philadelphia; a city with its pocket full of change—that is New York; two cities going with a rush that astounds the continent—they are St. Louis and Chicago; a city that takes its wife and children along with it—that is Brooklyn. Cincinnati, Louisville, Pittsburg, all the cities of the north, and all the cities of the south, some distinguished for one thing, some for another, one for professional ability, another for affluence, another for fashion, but not one to be spared. What advantages one advantages all. What damages Boston Common damages Washington square. Laurel Hill, Mount Auburn, Greenwood, weep over the same grief. The statue of Benjamin Franklin in New York greeting the bronze statue of Edward Everett in Boston. All the cities a confraternity. I cannot understand how there should go on bickerings and rivalries. I plead for a higher style of brotherhood or sisterhood among the cities.

Again, in all cities I am impressed with the fact that all classes and conditions of society must commingle. We sometimes cultivate a wicked exclusiveness. Intellect despises ignorance. Refinement will have nothing to do with boorishness. Gloves hate the sunburned hand, and the high forehead despises the flat head, and the trim hedgerow will have nothing to do with the wild copsewood, and Athens hates Nazareth. This ought not so to be. I like this democratic principle of the gospel of Jesus Christ which recognizes the fact that we stand before God on one and the same platform. Do not take on any airs. Whatever position you have gained in society, you are nothing but a man, born of the same Parent, regenerated by the same Spirit, cleansed in the same blood, to lie down in the same dust, to get up in the same resurrection. It is high time that we all acknowledged not only the Fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man.

Again, in all cities I am impressed with the fact that it is a very hard thing for a man to keep his heart right and to get to heaven. Infinite temptations spring upon us from places of public concourse. Amid so much affluence, how much temptation to covetousness and to be discontented with our humble lot! Amid so many opportunities for overreaching, what temptation to vanity! Amid so many saloons of strong drink, what allurements to dissipation! In the maelstroms and hell gates of the street, how many make quick and eternal shipwreck! If a man-of-war comes back from a battle, and is towed into the navy yard, we go down to look at the splintered spars and count the bullet holes, and look with patriotic admiration on the flag that floated in victory from the masthead. But that man is more of a curiosity who has gone through thirty years of the sharpshooting of business life, and yet sails on, victor over the temptations of the street. Oh! how many have gone down, under the pressure, leaving not so much as a patch of canvas to tell where they perished. Their dishonesties keep telling in their ears.

Again, in all these cities I am impressed with the fact that life is full of pretension and sham. What subterfuge, what double dealing, what two facedness! Do all the people who shake hands love each other? Are all those anxious about your health who inquire concerning it? Do all want to see you who ask you to call? Does all the world know half as much as it pretends to know? Is there not many a wretched stock of goods with a brilliant store window? Passing up and down the streets to your business and your work, are you not impressed with the fact that society is hollow, and that there are subterfuges and pretensions? Oh, how many there are who swagger and strut, and how few people who are natural and walk! While fops simper and fools snicker and simpletons giggle, how few people are natural and laugh! I say these things not to create in you incredulity or misanthropy, nor do I forget there are thousands of people a great deal better than they seem, but I do not think any man is prepared for the conflict of this life until he knows this particular peril.

Again, in all cities I am impressed with the fact that there is a great field for Christian charity. There are hunger and suffering and want and wretchedness in the country, but these evils chiefly congregate in our great cities. On every street crime prowls and drunkenness staggers, and shame winks, and pauperism thrusts out its hand asking for alms. Here want is most appalling, and hunger is most lean.

A Christian man going along a street in New York saw a poor lad, and he stopped and said: "My boy, do you know how to read and write?" The boy made no answer. The man asked the question twice and thrice. "Can you read and write?" and then the boy answered, with a tear plashing on the back of his hand: He said in defiance: "No, sir. I can't read nor write neither. God, sir, don't want me to read and write. Didn't He take away my father so long ago I never remember to have seen him? And haven't I had to go along the streets to get something to fetch home to eat for the folks? And didn't I, as soon as I could carry a basket, have to go out and pick up cinders, and never have no schooling, sir? God don't want me to read, sir. I can't read nor write neither."

In all cities, east, west, north, south, I notice great temptations to commercial fraud. Here is a man who starts in business. He says: "I'm going to be honest," but on the same street, on the same block, in the same business are Shylocks. Those men, to get the patronage of any one, will break all understandings with other merchants and will sell at ruinous cost, putting their neighbors at great disadvantage, expecting to make up the deficit in something else. If an honest principle could creep into that man's soul it would die of sheer loneliness. The man twists about, trying to escape the penalty of the law, and despises God, while he is just a little anxious about the sheriff. The honest man looks about him and says: "Well, this rivalry is awful. Perhaps I am more scrupulous than I need be. This little bargain I am about to enter is a little doubtful, but then I shall only do as the rest." And so I had a friend who started in commercial life, and as a book merchant, with a high resolve. He said, "In my store there shall be no books that I would not have my family read." Time passed on, and one day I went into his store and found some iniquitous books on the shelf, and I said to him, "How is it possible that you can consent to sell such books as these?" "Oh," he replied, "I have got over those Puritanical notions! A man cannot do business in this day unless he does it in the way other people do it." To make a long story short, he lost his hope of heaven, and in a little while he lost his morality, and then he went into a madhouse. In other words, when a man casts off God, God casts him off.

Hundreds of men going down in our cities every year through the pressure of politics.

That man in the fear and love of God goes into politics with that idea and with the resolution that he will come out uncontaminated and as good as when he went in, but generally the case is, when a man steps into politics, many of the newspapers try to blacken his character and to distort all his past history, and after a little while has gone by, instead of considering himself an honorable citizen, he is lost in contemplation and in admiration of the fact that he has so long been kept out of jail!

If a man should go into politics to reform politics, and with the right spirit, he can come out with the right spirit and unhurt. That was Theodore Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey. That was George Briggs, of Massachusetts. That was Judge McLean, of Ohio.

Then look around and see the allurements to dissipated life. Bad books, unknown to father and mother, vile as the reptiles of Egypt, crawling into some of the best of families of the community, who may read them while the teacher is looking the other way or at recess or on the corner of the street when the groups are gathered. These books are read late at night. Satan finds them a smooth plank on which he can slide down into peridition some of your sons and daughters.

Reading bad books, one never gets over it. The books may be burned, but there is not enough power in all the apothecary's preparations to wash out the stain from the soul. Fathers' hands, mothers' hands, sisters' hands will not wash it out. None but the hand of the Lord can wash it out.

And what is more perilous in regard to some of these temptations we may not mention them. While God in His Bible from chapter to chapter thundered His denunciations against these crimes, people expect the pulpit and the printing press to be silent on the subject, and just in proportion as people are impure are they fastidious on this theme. They are so full of decay and death they do not want their sepulchers opened. God will turn into destruction all the unclean, and no splendors of surrounding can make decent that which He has smitten. God will not excuse sin merely because it has costly array and beautiful tapestry and palatial residence any more than He will excuse that which crawls, a blotch of sores, through the lowest cellar. Ever and anon, through some lawsuit, there flashes upon the people of our great cities what is transpiring in seemingly respectable circles. You call it "high life," you call it "fast living," you call it "people's eccentricity," and while we kick off the sidewalk the poor wretch who has not the means to garnish his iniquity, these lords and ladies, wrapped in purple and in linen, go unwhipped of public justice. Ah, the most dreadful part of the whole thing is, that there are persons abroad whose whole business it is to despoil the young. What an eternity such a man will have! As the door opens to receive him thousands of voices will cry out, "See here what you have done," and the wretch will wrap himself with fiercer flame and leap into deeper darkness, and the multitude he has destroyed will pursue him and hurl at him the long, bitter, relentless, everlasting curse of their own anguish. If there be one cup of eternal darkness more bitter than another, they will have to drink it to the dregs. If in all the ocean of the lost world that comes billowing up there be one wave more fierce than another, it will dash over them. But there is hope for all who will turn.

I stood one day at Niagara Falls, and I saw what you may have seen there—six rainbows bending over that tremendous plunge. I never saw anything like it before or since. Six beautiful rainbows arching that great cataract! And so over the rapids and angry precipices of sin, where so many have been dashed down, God's beautiful admonitions hover, a warning arching each peril—six of them, fifty of them, a thousand of them. Beware, beware, beware!

Young men, while you have time to reflect upon these things and before the duties of the office and the store and the shop come upon you again, look over this whole subject, and after the day has passed and you hear in the nightfall the voices and footsteps of the city dying from your ear, and it gets so silent that you can hear distinctly your watch under your pillow going "tick, tack," then open your eyes and look out upon the darkness and see two pillars of light, one horizontal, the other perpendicular, but changing their direction until they come together, and your enraptured vision beholds it—the cross.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

The Heavenly Life of Love—Christianity Its Own Proof—Skilled Labor for the Master—Better to Avoid Than Fight—A Prayer of St. Anselm—Out of the Rut

Do you long for heavenly life,
Free from blighted sin and strife?
You can have it here.
In it you can live today
Take it with you all the way
To a higher sphere.
Heaven may in your spirit rest
Day by day to make it best,
Filling life and soul.
With God's overflowing love,
Hushing you to sin above
In love's sweet control.

Would you Christ's disciple be?
Man divinely gifted he?
Would you follow him?
Seek not in professions long
Nor in speech in prayer or song,
Nor in psalm or hymn
But by living in the light
His example keep in sight,
Resting in his love,
Joying in this gift of God
Earthly life whose Christ has trod,
Leading souls above.

—The Rev. Mary C. Billings in Universalist Leader.

Christianity Its Own Proof.

Christianity is essentially life, and life is essentially undemonstrable. Its one proof is itself. It is proven that it is. So Christianity is proved by the Christian. The fruit proves the tree. Many are searching for proofs among relics of buried cities, in fragmentary records of dead empires, in the customs and hieroglyphs of lost tongues, and are trying to trace its beginning in moral protoplasm and its development through all moral and religious evolution. But its essential life is not proved that way. No man can afford to wait and delay action till he can settle for himself all the questions that are raised concerning the Book of Books. Life is too short and the process too wasteful. "By their fruits we shall know them." The Christian is the living truth-use of Christianity. He stands the most advanced and highest of the foremost phalanx of humanity. He is the miracle of spiritual life. He is of purest morals, utmost integrity, truest benevolence, broadest philanthropy, and deepest self sacrifice. The world has noted this spiritual element for centuries, and has come to give it the title of Christianity. It demands these proofs of genuineness in those who call themselves Christians. As Jesus pointed to His Works such as "none other man did" as proof of His divine character and mission, so now He points to His disciples and says, "These are they that testify of Me," and to His followers He says, "Ye are My witnesses."

Skilled Labor for the Master.

Phillips Brooks was the chosen one to tell Helen Keller of God. With one soul as his parish, he did as faithful intellectual and spiritual work as when he preached to the crowds under the great lantern of Trinity. His letters to that bright soul shut up in a maimed physical organism will be read when many of his great sermons are out of print. From village and country congregations have come great statesmen, great generals, great preachers, who told, as Patrick Henry did of Samuel Davies, that the mightiest intellectual and spiritual inspiration of their lives came from the man of God who fed both brain and heart from the pulpit of a small parish. Such preachers are the tutors of kings. Nathan never spoke with more power than when he turned David's thoughts back to his flocks, and to just such a poor lamb as he had often borne in his bosom when caring for those "few sheep in the wilderness"—for there he had first learned of God. How much of the moral safety of the nation is in the keeping of the faithful preacher whose parish is the world! It was just such a man as Chaucer paints in imperishable lines that moisten many an eye with their tender memories, as he tells of "this good man of religion," whom he calls "the poor Person of a town," of whom it is said, "Christ's lore, and his apostles twelve, He taught, and first he followed it himself."

—Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix, in "Skilled Labor for the Master."

Better to Avoid Than Fight.

If a temptation can be honorably avoided it is far better than to meet it in a face to face fight, and less likely to result in lifetime scars. There were two ways in which the ancients kept from yielding to the music and ultimate destruction of the Sirens. One was that of Ulysses, who fortified himself with bonds that held him fast to the mast while his boat carried him, listening, by the tempting strains. The other was that of the Argonauts, who carried Orpheus with them in their boat, and who were so engrossed in listening to his music that they never heard the sounds from the fatal shore. They bore through life no memory of the tempters' allurements, as Ulysses did. The man who can keep his mind and body so occupied with the better things that he has no time for unnecessary conflict with the devil is going to be the greatest power for good in the Lord's service. But if the fight must be fought, then let him throw himself against the foe with all the strength that legions of angels can give.—S. S. Times.

A Prayer of St. Anselm.

O God, thou art Life, Wisdom, Truth, Bounty and Blessedness, the Eternal, the only true Good! My God and my Lord, thou art my hope and my heart's joy. I confess, with thanksgiving, that thou hast made me in thine image that I may direct all my thoughts to thee, and love thee. Lord, make me to know thee aright, that I may more and more love and enjoy and possess thee. And since, in the life here below, I cannot fully attain this blessedness, let it at least grow in me day by day, until it all be fulfilled at last in the life to come. Here be the knowledge of thee increased, and there let it be perfected. Here let my love to thee grow, and there let it ripen, that my joy being here great in hope may there in fruition be made perfect. Amen.

The only reason that many people give for doing anything in a certain way is that it has always been done so. And that is often no reason, or the poorest reason that can be given; for, following out to its logical conclusion, that would make all change impossible and carry us back to the Dark Ages, when nearly everything was not only wrong, but was done in a wrong way. A disposition to resist change in thought and practice is the immovable immediocrats that stands in the way of Christian thought and reform.

Many Christians live and do in this world as if religion was but a by-business and this world the one thing necessary; when indeed, all the things of the world are but things by the by, and religion only the one thing needful.—John Bunyan.

The Hard Work of Congressmen.

Let those who are blissfully ignorant laugh at congressmen for the easy time they have at Washington. Only those who have been through the mill know how hard a congressman must work if he is to fulfill his public duties. A hardworking senator said to me, "I might have made $50,000 during my term in the senate if I had given as much attention to my private business as I have given to the public business." The amount of work which is laid upon a member or senator is simply enormous. What with the demand for pensions, postoffice documents, applications for promotion or discharge in the army and many other things, a member's time may be taken up with the exactions of his daily mail. A good clerk may be of immense help, but some senators employ two or three and then find there is a great deal which they must answer or attend to in person.

The daily sessions from 12 to about 5 take up half a day, and committee meetings often take up the other half for two or three days in the week. It is hard to tell when the busiest members, who are never absent from a session or from a committee meeting, find time to prepare the elaborate speeches which they sometimes deliver. It is not strange, then, that so few members of either chamber are found in the reading rooms devoted to them in the Congressional library. When they want books from that or any other depository, they have them sent to their homes.—Independent.

Crane Carried His Satchel.

Arthur A. Leeds of Tioga met Stephen Crane once under circumstances which showed how little the novelist traded upon the fame that came to him. Mr. Leeds got off a train at Delaware Water Gap. The only man on the platform was humped up against the side of the depot gazing into space. He looked like a farmer's boy. His trousers were baggy, his coat battered and his hat rowdy.

"Say, carry this stuff to the hotel for me, will you?" asked Mr. Leeds. The man grasped the bags and started in the wake of Mr. Leeds toward the hotel.

When the hotel was reached, Mr. Leeds lost sight of his porter for a few minutes while he greeted friends. Looking around for his baggage, he saw the man who had packed it to the hotel sitting on the piazza with his legs on the railing. He was reading a book.

"Who's that man?" asked Mr. Leeds.

"Oh, that's Stephen Crane," some one said. The next day Crane left the place before Mr. Leeds had an opportunity for explanations.—Philadelphia North American.

A Trunkless Body.

An explorer lately returned from his travels was relating his adventures. "I peered," said he, "into the thicket, and there before me lay a trunkless body." "Nonsense," remarked an interfering critic, "who ever heard of a trunkless body?" "My friend," replied the traveler quietly, "the body was that of an elephant." He then resumed his story.—London Globe.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE.

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1776, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2.00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive, July 18th and Aug. 2d. Return limit Oct. 31, 1900.

Any ten-year old boy can go to the returns and see my vote where the tallies were scratched from me and given to Mr. Oliver. Now, if Mr. Mullins will go with me to Wetumpka and look over the returns just as the managers sent in my vote, and if he does not say that I was elected I will pay him $50.00 for his day's work, or any one else that doubts my election who will go with me, and if I cannot show them that I was elected I will pay them $50.00. Why I have never seen a Democrat that has looked at the returns but what says I was elected, and let me say right here that all the managers of the election in Elmore that I have seen (and I have seen nearly all of them) are more than anxious to make statement of what my vote was; they do not want this stigma to rest on them. Yes, while I know it is costly to contest an election I think it is my duty to the people in Shelby, Chilton and especially in Elmore, to show such frauds as this, and rest assured, dear readers, that if it takes me from now until November I will do it, if Mr. Mullins does think it will cost more money than I have got. That seems to be the only hope, that I am not able to make the contest, but I will be with it. I have not stopped a day since the election and I will leave no stone unturned. Thanking the people again for their support.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." SUBSCRIBER.

IN GAY PARIS.

Baden-Baden, Germany, July 26.

I wrote you last from Brussells. In my letters I was still in London, England. I left that great city at night, came via Dover and Calias to Paris. I had a pleasant voyage across the channel, so dreaded by tourists, in 70 minutes, in middle of the night, catching a first glimpse of that mercurial country, France, about one o'clock at night by the pale moon light. I had a pleasant meeting of my old employer, Mr. Gus Berg, who lived at Pleasant Hill, Dallas Co., Ala., 22 years ago, and was in the general merchandise business, a partner of Mr. B. Wolff, now of Montgomery, Ala. I had wired him I would be there and he came to my hotel to see me at Paris.

"Sortie Sortie" "Foolie Foolie". This was one of those things that will happen. The boys said Crumpton you go ahead in the exposition grounds and we will follow you, as you seem to catch on to these Frenchy things and ways. So on I went leading the crowd. All at once I came to a gate way and a policeman in an excited manner said "Sortie Sortie." I did not know whether I was being put under arrest or that he was trying to sell me a bottle of beer. I moved again forward, the boys following while he again set up his old song of "Sortie Sortie," so I growing bold said "Foolie Foolie" and out the gate we went, when lo and behold outside of the exposition ground we found our fool selves. Quickly we stepped back to the gate-way to tell "Mr. Frenchy" we were the "Foolie Foolie" alluded to, and how sincerely we regretted not taking his sound advice but Mr. Frenchy smiled serenely and said "Go udder gate for ticket," "dis haire ist exit." We had been in the grounds only a few moments and had to go and buy us all a new ticket each. So friend watch "Sortie" as the French have quit using "exit" since the English adopted it.

The exposition held my attention just one day; see one you see all; see your first one and you could not write it up either. It is too collossal. Miles of merchandise of all kinds; miles of beer tables and beer maids; acres of houses and fountains, towers and castles and bricabrac. Acres of men and women and children, and bridges and rivers. The Hindoo from Bombay, the Turk from Syria, the Persian from Teheran, the negro from Africa and America, John Chinaman, the Yellow Jap., and all things you want and many things you do not want, and that's the great exposition to me. So I went to work to see all of Paris I could. Wicked sinning joy and frivolous Paris. Saw Champs Elyses, Place de la Concorde, Column Vindome, Tuilleries Jordin, Place des Invalides, Notre Dame Cathedral, Morgue, St. Cloud, Versailes, Luxembourg and the Louvre. It would be too detailed a thing to tell you of each one of these places. Any good guide book will give it to you in detail. I will only mention the things which attracted me. The two palaces of St. Cloud and the Tuilleries were destroyed, so there is nothing but the grounds to see there. But at Versailes, the beautiful palace built by Louis 14th, we passed through room after room whose walls and ceiling were one master piece of picture, one after the other. There are at Versailles two other palaces, the great Trianon and the small Trianon. You see the private room of Louis the 14th or the 1st or 3d Napoleon. You see Eugene's room or Josephene's, where Queen Victoria slept when she visited France in the time of the 3d Napoleon. The carriages of the past kings and queens; the carriage of Charles the 10th, weighs seven tons and costs $200,000, and so on, until you grow weary with the waste of money and grow tired of kingly glory.

Tapestry 200 years old, painting 400 years old, and you will finally not be so certain but that you yourself lived along about that time. The French or someone else was kind enough to put a picture of the seige of Yorktown in among these pictures which kinder brought me back to my senses and pulled me out of the misty past as I saw the familiar picture of George Washington. There is also an equestrian statue of him in the city of Paris. I saw a live Indian prince from faraway Hindoostan, and the girls of the party "liked to have torn me to pieces" at the hotel that night because I did not call them in time to see him.

Jumping from the Indian prince to the common place, I would like to say I saw one quite familiar thing in the old palace, and that was a pair of dog irons with their brass knobs, just like my mother had in her parlor before the Civil war. Notre Dame did not impress me so much, as I had seen the older churches of York minster and Melrose Abbey. While in that church a familiar voice sounded in my ear, and young Mr. Seigel, of Selma, Ala., greeted me. No one knows the joy of a familiar face until he stays weeks away from all you know and love on earth, and see millions and yet among them all still alone. Jule Stern, my friend of Montgomery, Ala., has a mother and two sisters here, but as I did not speak any French nor they any English I could not risk a call that would only prove a dumb show. Speaking about a familiar face reminds me that on returning from Versailles, I sought with all my ears and eyes to see if I could find one English or American, on walking up to the last car I thought I caught the sound of an English word, so I put my head in the car and said to two boys in the compartment, can I get a seat in here? "For God's sake, yes" came the answer quick. "Keep on talking, partner, we have not heard so sweet a sound in weeks," they continued. It proved two American boys traveling alone. Good night, I am tired and sleepy too.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle drug co.

Mr. Tab Traywick has met with a double loss within a few days. On Saturday night, August 11, his dear little girl, Birdie, about three years old, died, and on Tuesday following another of his little girls, Annie, followed her sister to their home in heaven. The little cherubs were laid to rest at Macedonia. Our sympathies are with the bereaved parents and family in their double bereavement.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. Take only DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cures piles and all skin diseases. Campbelle drug co.

The Hard Work of Congressmen.

Let those who are blissfully ignorant laugh at congressmen for the easy time they have at Washington. Only those who have been through the mill know how hard a congressman must work if he is to fulfill his public duties. A hardworking senator said to me, "I might have made $50,000 during my term in the senate if I had given as much attention to my private business as I have given to the public business." The amount of work which is laid upon a member or senator is simply enormous. What with the demand for pensions, postoffice documents, applications for promotion or discharge in the army and many other things, a member's time may be taken up with the exactions of his daily mail. A good clerk may be of immense help, but some senators employ two or three and then find there is a great deal which they must answer or attend to in person.

The daily sessions from 12 to about 5 take up half a day, and committee meetings often take up the other half for two or three days in the week. It is hard to tell when the busiest members, who are never absent from a session or from a committee meeting, find time to prepare the elaborate speeches which they sometimes deliver. It is not strange, then, that so few members of either chamber are found in the reading rooms devoted to them in the Congressional library. When they want books from that or any other depository, they have them sent to their homes.—Independent.

Crane Carried His Satchel.

Arthur A. Leeds of Tioga met Stephen Crane once under circumstances which showed how little the novelist traded upon the fame that came to him. Mr. Leeds got off a train at Delaware Water Gap. The only man on the platform was humped up against the side of the depot gazing into space. He looked like a farmer's boy. His trousers were baggy, his coat battered and his hat rowdy.

"Say, carry this stuff to the hotel for me, will you?" asked Mr. Leeds. The man grasped the bags and started in the wake of Mr. Leeds toward the hotel.

When the hotel was reached, Mr. Leeds lost sight of his porter for a few minutes, while he greeted friends. Looking around for his baggage, he saw the man who had packed it to the hotel sitting on the piazza with his legs on the railing. He was reading a book.

"Who's that man?" asked Mr. Leeds.

"Oh, that's Stephen Crane," some one said. The next day Crane left the place before Mr. Leeds had an opportunity for explanations.—Philadelphia North American.

A Trunkless Body.

An explorer lately returned from his travels was relating his adventures. "I peered," said he, "into the thicket, and there before me lay a trunkless body." "Nonsense," remarked an interfering critic, "who ever heard of a trunkless body?" "My friend," replied the traveler quietly, "the body was that of an elephant." He then resumed his story.—London Globe.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1776, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2 00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive. July 18th and Aug. 2d. Return limit Oct. 31, 1900.

CORRESPONDENCE.

but will give you a few. Take Beat 9, (Deatsville) just below us. I received 162, Oliver 106; but 60 of my votes was taken from me and given to Mr. Oliver, and on the official count he received 166 and I only got 42. Beat 8, (Wetumpka) 30 was taken from me and given him. Beat 3, (Tallassee) 80 was done the same way; Beat 5, 30 the same; Beat 6, (Central) 40 the same; 7, 11, 15, 1, 2 and 16 just the same way. Any ten-year old boy can go to the returns and see my vote where the tallies were scratched from me and given to Mr. Oliver. Now, if Mr. Mullins will go with me to Wetumpka and look over the returns just as the managers sent in my vote, and if he does not say that I was elected I will pay him $50.00 for his day's work, or any one else that doubts my election who will go with me, and if I cannot show them that I was elected I will pay them $50 00. Why I have never seen a Democrat that has looked at the returns but what says I was elected, and let me say right here that all the managers of the election in Elmore that I have seen (and I have seen nearly all of them) are more than anxious to make statement of what my vote was; they do not want this stigma to rest on them. Yes, while I know it is costly to contest an election I think it is my duty to the people in Shelby, Chilton and especially in Elmore, to show such frauds as this, and rest assured, dear readers, that if it takes me from now until November I will do it, if Mr. Mullins does think it will cost more money than I have got. That seems to be the only hope, that I am not able to make the contest, but I will be with it. I have not stopped a day since the election and I will leave no stone unturned. Thanking the people again for their support.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." SUBSCRIBER.

IN GAY PARIS.

Baden-Baden, Germany, July 26

I wrote you last from Brussells. In my letters I was still in London, England. I left that great city at night, came via Dover and Calias to Paris. I had a pleasant voyage across the channel, so dreaded by tourists, in 70 minutes, in middle of the night, catching a first glimpse of that mercurial country, France, about one o'clock at night by the pale moon light. I had a pleasant meeting of my old employer, Mr. Gus Berg, who lived at Pleasant Hill, Dallas Co., Ala., 22 years ago, and was in the general merchandise business, a partner of Mr. B. Wolff, now of Montgomery, Ala. I had wired him I would be there and he came to my hotel to see me at Paris.

"Sortie Sortie" "Foolie Foolie".

This was one of those things that will happen. The boys said Crumpton you go ahead in the exposition grounds and we will follow you, as you seem to catch on to these Frenchy things and ways. So on I went leading the crowd. All at once I came to a gate way and a policeman in an excited manner said "Sortie Sortie." I did not know whether I was being put under arrest or that he was trying to sell me a bottle of beer. I moved again forward, the boys following while he again set up his old song of "Sortie Sortie," so I growing bold said "Foolie Foolie" and out the gate we went, when lo and behold outside of the exposition ground we found our fool selves. Quickly we stepped back to the gate-way to tell "Mr. Frenchy" we were the "Foolie Foolie" alluded to, and how sincerely we regretted not taking his sound advice but Mr. Frenchy smiled serenely and said "Go udder gate for ticket," "dis haire ist exit." We had been in the grounds only a few moments and had to go and buy us all a new ticket each. So friend watch "Sortie" as the French have quit using "exit" since the English adopted it.

The exposition held my attention just one day; see one you see all; see your first one and you could not write it up either. It is too collossal. Miles of merchandise of all kinds; miles of beer tables and beer maids; acres of houses and fountains, towers and castles and bricabrac. Acres of men and women and children, and bridges and rivers. The Hindoo from Bombay, the Turk from Syria, the Persian from Teheran, the negro from Africa and America, John Chinaman, the Yellow Jap., and all things you want and many things you do not want, and that's the great exposition to me. So I went to work to see all of Paris I could. Wicked sinning joy and frivolous Paris. Saw Champs Elysees, Place de la Concorde, Column Vindome, Tuilleries Jordin, Place des Invalides, Notre Dame Cathedral, Morgue, St. Cloud, Versailles, Luxembourg and the Louvre. It would be too detailed a thing to tell you of each one of these places. Any good guide book will give it to you in detail. I will only mention the things which attracted me. The two palaces of St. Cloud and the Tuileries were destroyed, so there is nothing but the grounds to see there. But at Versailles, the beautiful palace built by Louis 14th, we passed through room after room whose walls and ceiling were one master piece of picture, one after the other. There are at Versailles two other palaces, the great Trianon and the small Trianon. You see the private room of Louis the 14th or the 1st or 3d Napoleon. You see Eugene's room or Josephene's, where Queen Victoria slept when she visited France in the time of the 3d Napoleon. The carriages of the past kings and queens; the carriage of Charles the 10th, weighs seven tons and costs $200,000, and so on, until you grow weary with the waste of money and grow tired of kingly glory.

Tapestry 200 years old, painting 400 years old, and you will finally not be so certain but that you yourself lived along about that time. The French or someone else was kind enough to put a picture of the seige of Yorktown in among these pictures which kinder brought me back to my senses and pulled me out of the misty past as I saw the familiar picture of George Washington. There is also an equestrian statue of him in the city of Paris. I saw a live Indian prince from faraway Hindoostan, and the girls of the party "liked to have torn me to pieces" at the hotel that night because I did not call them in time to see him.

Jumping from the Indian prince to the common place, I would like to say I saw one quite familiar thing in the old palace, and that was a pair of dog irons with their brass knobs, just like my mother had in her parlor before the Civil war. Notre Dame did not impress me so much, as I had seen the older churches of York minster and Melrose Abbey. While in that church a familiar voice sounded in my ear, and young Mr. Seigel, of Selma, Ala., greeted me. No one knows the joy of a familiar face until he stays weeks away from all you know and love on earth, and see millions and yet among them all still alone. Jule Stern, my friend of Montgomery, Ala., has a mother and two sisters here, but as I did not speak any French nor they any English I could not risk a call that would only prove a dumb show. Speaking about a familiar face reminds me that on returning from Versailles, I sought with all my ears and eyes to see if I could find one English or American, on walking up to the last car I thought I caught the sound of an English word, so I put my head in the car and said to two boys in the compartment, can I get a seat in here? "For God's sake, yes" came the answer quick. "Keep on talking, partner, we have not heard so sweet a sound in weeks," they continued. It proved two American boys traveling alone. Good night, I am tired and sleepy too.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle drug co.

Spartland.

Mr. Tab Traywick has met with a double loss within a few days. On Saturday night, August 11, his dear little girl, Birdie, about three years old, died, and on Tuesday following another of his little girls, Annie, followed her sister to their home in Heaven. The little cherubs were laid to rest at Macedonia. Our sympathies are with the bereaved parents and family in their double bereavement.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. Take only DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cures piles and all skin diseases. Campbelle drug co.

INDIAN STORY OF A SILVER MINE REVIVED

Directors of the State Fair Hold Important Meeting—Young Man Tried to Murder His Sweetheart—Brevities.

Gen. John B. Gordon will deliver a lecture at the Birmingham Auditorium September 6, 1900. The subject will be "First Days of the Southern Confederacy."

Negroes Boycott Street Cars.

At a meeting of negroes in Montgomery, they decided to boycott the street car companies because of the passage by the city council of a law to separate the negroes and whites in the cars.

Tried to Murder His Sweetheart.

At Huntsville Ashton Marcum, a young painter, attempted to murder his sweetheart and then made an attempt to end his own life by taking a big dose of morphine. Marcum was reading a novel with Miss Minnie Bell, and they disagreed on some question. He slapped her and then drew a pistol and attempted to shoot her.

Preparing for Street Fair.

Montgomery is making extensive preparations for the fall street fair to held during the last week of October. The fair held last year was a brilliant success, taking to the city upwards of 40,000 visitors, acc rding to the estimates of the railroads. The committee on arrangements are preparing a much more extensive show this year. Among the many attractions being arranged will be a wedding day, for which it is hoped to secure six couples. Many handsome presents are offered to couples accepting the invitation.

Colonel West Dead.

Colonel John P. West died at his home in Calera Saturday morning, after an illness of several weeks. At the time of his death Colonel West was 83 years old, having been born in Shelby county in 1817. He had the distinction of being the last democrat to represent that county in the general assembly of Alabama, having been elected to that body in 1892. During the war between the states he served with the Second Alabama cavalry, being promoted for gallant service until he was finally placed in command of the regiment and given a colonel's commission.

Directors of State Fair Meet.

A meeting of the directors of the Fair association was held in Birmingham Friday. Captain J. M. Falkner, of Montgomery, the originator and promoter of the Fair association and its president, was present and presented a general outline of some of his plans for a State Fair. If these are carried out it will be the most complete exhibit of the resources and manufactured products of Alabama that has ever been assembled at any place. It will be on a most elaborate plan and will comprehend every line of industry and enterprise in the state, from the farm to the mine and from the saw mill to the steel mill.

An Indian Story Recalled.

The discovery of an artificial sarcophagus in an old cliff on the Hewlett property, near Gurley, and the skeleton of an Indian giant, has revived an old Indian story of a silver mine in that locality, and the people are very much excited. They intend to make a close investigation.

Several years ago an Indian visited Kenilworth Cove and told one of the residents there that if he would go with him he would locate an old Indian silver mine. William Acuff accompanied the Indian, who, when in the mountains, dodged him and disappeared. Mr. Acuff finally found a ten-foot hole, freshly dug, out of which it is believed the Indian secured the buried treasure.

It is known that an Indian camp was located in that vicinity more than a hundred years ago, and many skulls have been ploughed up in recent years.

Gerald Convicted.

At Montgomery, after being out four night and three days and a half, the jury in the case of A. S. Gerald, Jr., charged with the murder of D. A. Hyatt, a railroad engineer, brought in a verdict. The defendant was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree and the punishment was fixed at ten years in the penitentiary.

Gift for the Alabama.

Among the cities of Alabama which will share in the purchase of a silver service for the battleship Alabama are Huntsville, Mobile, Birmingham, Anniston, Montgomery and others. Already subscriptions are being raised for the purpose.

Col. McDavid Paralyzed.

Colonel J. J. McDavid, a local newspaper correspondent of Montgomery, and father of Secretary of State McDavid, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis while at work in his office Friday. His left hand and arm were rendered completely useless by the stroke.

New Blast Furnace.

A movement has been started at Iron City, near Anniston, to build an iron blast furnace at that point. Considerably money has already been subscribed to the enterprise and the people of the Iron City neighborhood are very sanguine that the furnace will be built at an early date. There are inexhaustible beds of fine iron ore at that point.

List of Successful Officers in Marshall.

Following are the county officers elected at the recent election for Marshall county: Representative, W. H. Bartlett, republican; sheriff, G. Z. Adamson, democrat; tax assessor, A. J. Beard, republican; tax collector, Leonard P. Lewis, democrat; treasurer, W. H. Carter, populist; superintendent of education, James S. Barnard, democrat.

Killed About a Dog.

A killing at Pitchford's store, ten miles north of Dadeville, occurred Saturday morning. Taylor Burnett shot Freeman Evers, death resulting instantly. It is said that Burnett had accused Evers of taking his dog, and Evers had gone to the store to see Burnett in regard to it. Witnesses say that after a few minutes' conversation Evers began to run, Burnett calling to him to stop. Evers then turned and faced Burnett, who fired at him with a shotgun, the entire charge taking effect in his stomach.

Burnett is an old man, probably 60 years of age. Evers was about 23 years old. Both have always borne good reputations.

Third Regiment in Camp.

The encampment of the Third regiment, Alabama National Guards, commenced at East Lake Saturday. By night the following companies were in camp: Company A, Woodlawn Light Infantry; Company B, of Florence; Company C, of Gadsden; Company D, of Anniston; Company E, of Decatur; Company F, of Huntsville; Company G, Jefferson Volunteers, of Birmingham; Company H, of Bessemer; Company I, of Oxford; Company L, of Talladega; Company M, of Jasper, with a detachment from Fayette.

The camp was named after Sergeant Phil Finch, who was a member of one of the Birmingham companies and responded to the call of the president during the Spanish-American war, who contracted typhoid fever while in camp in Florida, from which he died.

BREVITIES.

Rev. F. P. Ramsey, formerly president of the Fredricksburg, Va., college, has been elected president of Oxford college, at Oxford, Ala.

A young married man by the name of Reed, living on the Branford plantation near Scottsboro, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head.

Mr. Newton Sandlin, a prosperous farmer living in the eastern portion of Limestone county, died very suddenly from an acute attack of congestion.

An old gentleman by the name of Cantrell voted at Piano, Beat 8½, in Cherokee county, at the state election. He is 91 years old and never voted anything but a democratic icket in his life.

The Blue Springs Cotton Mills at Oxford are to be doubled in size and capacity as soon as the material for the enlarged building can be placed on the ground. The capital stock of the company, which is now $50,000, is to be increased to $100,000.

The local and long distance telephone is a sure thing for Scottsboro now. Enough subscription has been gotten up to make it a go.

Major C. A. F. Flagler, of the Montgomery office of United States Engineers, has received orders transferring him to the island of Porto Rico. Captain W. V. Judson, of the Engineer Corps, will succeed Major Flagler in charge of the local office.

CALEB POWERS CONVICTED

The Jury Finds Him Guilty of Complicity in Goebel's Murder.

THE PUNISHMENT IS LIFE IMPRISONMENT

Jury Was Out Less Than an Hour, and the Vote Was Unanimous for the Verdict—The Prisoner Was Ghastly Pale.

A Georgetown, Ky., dispatch says: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and fix the punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for the rest of his natural life."

This was the wording of the verdict in the case of Ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with being an acce sory before the fact to the murder of Wm. Goebel. The jury returned its verdict after being out fifty-five minutes. Juror Craig stated afterward that the verdict could have been returned even sooner, but considerable time was taken up in reading the instructions.

The vote in favor of a life sentence was unanimous. When the jury retired the belief was general the jury would fail to agree, and in this opinion the defendant himself was firmly convinced. When the verdict of guilty was returned Powers for the first time during the weary six weeks of the trial betrayed his feelings. Under all the trying incidents of the trial he had maintained a changeless expression, the same whether things were going favorable or against him. The verdict of guilty, however, apparently staggered him.

Powers, always pale, as soon as the verdict was head his face betokened great mental anguish. This was only for a few seconds, however, and then, somewhat regaining his composure, he turned to the Misses Dangerfield, who had been in conversation with him, and said:

"I was not expecting that. The verdict is unjust."

There was no sort of demonstration following the verdict and the vast crowd filed out of the court room almost instantly. Powers remained in the court room some time after the verdict was rendered in conference with his attorneys, who will at once move for a new trial, and failing in that will take an appeal.

Towne Will Answer Roosevelt.

According to information given out at democratic national headquarters, in Chicago, in his tour of the west Governor Roosevelt will have an orator on his trail in the person of Charles A. Towne, the silver republican leader.

Mr. Towne will tour Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California and other western states, keeping close to Governor Roosevelt's path. Mr. Towne will make an occasional trip to the south, speaking at Atlanta, Louisville, Memphis, Nashville and other important cities. Throughout it will be Mr. Towne's mission to pay special attention to the republican vice presidential nominee and to answer arguments by the latter during the campaign.

Demanded Surrender.

A Pretoria dispatch says that General Dewet appeared at North Commando Nek, held by General Baden-Powel, and sent in a flag of truce, asking the surrender of the British force. General Baden-Powell replied asking what terms Dewett was prepared to offer. Dewett evidently moved eastward. General Lord Roberts is issuing new, severe and rigorous orders rescinding the one previously issued.

Has full college courses and privileges and advantages, on usual "attendance" or "college extension-work" plans.

Has seven schools, covering a wide scope, in all, on an "ideal plan of organization."

Healthful location, easy of access via Central of Georgia and Western and La Fayette railways, and possessing a cultured, church-going and school-loving population.

All expenses very low, and limited opportunities to earn wages while attending school.

Trained teachers are in great demand and furnished to school officers requesting them.

CALLED ON TO ORGANIZE.

Democrats in Every Precinct Asked to Form Clubs.

The following was issued at Chicago Saturday:

"To the Democrats of the United States:

"In order that the fight for the rescue of the country from republican policies may be carried on everywhere with vigor and earnestness, we urge all citizens throughout the United States who are willing to support the Kansas City platform to meet in their respective communities on Saturday afternoon or evening, September 1, 1900, for the purpose or organizing city or precinct democratic clubs where such clubs have not already been organized. These organizations of the democrats should avoid ostentation and extravagance. The fight must be carried on by American citizens for American principles, and there should be no delay in perfecting club organizations. When a club is organized, the secretary should at once send to W. R. Hearst, president of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, No. 1870 Broadway, New York City, the name of the club, roster of the officers, date of organization and number of members.

"Wm. J. Bryan,
"Adlai E. Stevenson,
"James K. Jones, Chairman Democratic National Committee.
"Wm. R. Hearst, President National Association of Democratic Clubs."

Strike of Coal Miners.

About 100 coal miners in the La Follette coal mines near Knoxville, Tenn., have struck because the company asked them to sign a contract releasing it from liability on account of accidents in the mines, and also pledging that they would not affiliate with unions. The wage and hour scales were satisfactory to the miners.

Storm in Wisconsin.

A terrific wind storm struck Shebergan, Wis., Monday. The storm came very suddenly from the north. Eight large buildings were completely wrecked and 200 small houses were blown down. The loss will be upwards of $300,000.

Heath's Successor Appointed.

William M. Johnson, of Hackensack, N. J., the president of the New Jersey state senate, has been tendered and has accepted the office of first assistant postmaster general, made vacant by the resignation of Perry S. Heath.

Judge Reilly Dead.

Judge William Reilly, of the supreme court of appeals, died at Houston, Virginia, Monday, aged 61 years, after a brief illness. He served in the confederate army, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Negro Shot by Mob.

An armed mob numbering fifty men forcibly entered the jail at Doe Run, Ga., Saturday and taking Bill Cater, a negro, out, riddled him with bullets. He died instantly. Cater was charged with attempted criminal assault on a white woman.

The Alabama's Official Trial.

Prohibitionist Candidate for Governor.

Colonel R. S. Cheves, of Unica, has been named as a candidate for governor of Tennessee by the prohibition party.

Kentucky Feuds Renewed.

The Adkins and Howards had a bloody battle in Elliott county, Ky., a few days ago, in which one of the Howards was shot dead and another was shot through the lung and is expected to die. The difficulty was caused by one of the Howards and one of Linsay Adkins' boys quarreling over a young woman in their neighborhood. After quarreling both went home and brought back other members of their families for reinforcements. Adkins' father, who is a preacher, was in the fight with his boy.

Another Fire.

The saw mill, grist mill and cotton gin at Hightower, Cleburne county, owned by W. J. Fowler, have been destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $4,000, with no insurance.

Chicago's Population.

The population of Chicago, according to the official count of the twelfth census, is as follows: Chicago, 1,698,575 in 1900; 1,099,850 in 1890.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

While the powers of the world are making history in China, the school book publishers are happy in the thought that they are also making geography.

A legislator in Missouri would prevent the people from eating green watermelons by appointing a watermelon inspector, and the bill was only defeated when a venerable member moved that the inspector's title should be "The Official Plugger Muncher and Taster of the State of Missouri."

In all the new school buildings of New York City space has been left for installing a system of shower boths. Baths are now ready in two or three of the schools on the East Side, where bathing facilities are most needed. Children are required to furnish their own towels and soap.

A Boston newspaper praises a certain clergyman because of "the tactful and reviving way in which he conducts a funeral service. And it detracts neither from the sincerity of this opinion nor from the dignity of his calling to add that his success at a dinner party is equally marked."

The Germans are applying the same rules in regard to trade secrets in Germany as were applied in England during the early part of the nineteenth century. The German Federal Court has recently punished a foreman who was found guilty of imparting an invention of his employer used in "rustling" velvet.

Says the Philadelphia Inquirer, in condemnation of the Italian anarchist: "It may be that capital punishment is not right. As for us, we believe it is. But no death which could be inflicted upon the assassin of the late King of Italy would be too severe, and we do not believe that any civilized nation would think it so."

An Ohio judge has set aside a verdict of one cent damages for the alienation of a wife's affections on the ground that too low a valuation was placed on a woman's love. That is probably good law, and, moreover, if women had the right of suffrage it would insure that judge's re-election by a big majority.

[The Field Museum in Chicago prom]ises soon to have a fine collection of relics of the Western Indians. Dr. George A. Dorsey, curator of anthropology, was very successful on his recent expedition, as he has added no less than 1800 separate objects to the museum. It is such expert work as this that will preserve the life and customs of the Western Indians after most of their representatives are gone.

If all official inspectors of buildings in Chicago should tell the truth as fearlessly as one of them has done that place would lose its ill repute as a city of fire traps. At least ninety-five per cent of the buildings there are said to be unfit for the uses to which they are put. Of 600 factories and manufacturing plants a large majority are cheaply constructed and have narrow wooden stairways with seldom more than one exit.

This is the Philadelphia Inquirer's explanation of the success of American athletes abroad: "Our athletes are carefully trained. Exercise, food, sleep and work are portioned out to them as though thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars depended on their success. And this not only in the main events, but in every minor contest. The man is handled so that he comes to his contest in the pink of condition."

The Chamber of Commerce of San Diego, California, is making an effort to establish the production of raw silk in the agricultural districts about that city. Steps have been taken to secure a large number of silk worms, and 5000 mulberry trees will shortly be planted. The climate of Southern California is deemed even preferable for this industry to that of France, the home of silk culture. The consumption of raw silk in this country is enormous, and the entire supply comes from foreign countries, principally from Japan, China and Italy. In 1899 the total imports of this raw material were valued at $43,546,872.

Professor G. W. MacRae, of Toledo, has discovered a new disease, "electromosis," a breaking down of the nervous system and destruction of the vital organs by the "vagrant" currents that enter the systems of trolley car passengers. He says that persons are always ill tempered after a ride in a trolley car. Possibly you have supposed that your irritation was due to the surliness of the conductor, or to the fellow passenger who stood up in front of you and trod on your toes, or to the fellow who carried an ill smelling cigar stump in his fingers; but now you know it was "electromosis."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR AUGUST 26.

Subject: Jesus the Good Shepherd, John x., 1-16 — Golden Text: John x., 11 — Memory Verses, 9-11 — Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "By the door." The sheepfolds of the East are not covered like our stables, but are mere enclosures surrounded by a wall of loose stones with thorn-bushes upon the top, but usually an effectual barrier against the wolves. There is only one door to Oriental sheepfolds. Here the door is the way appointed by God for entering His kingdom, and the leadership in it. It includes consecration to God's service, unselfish devotion to the good of others, preparation by the knowledge of the truth, by spiritual experience, by the presence of God, to enable the disciples to shepherd the sheep. Later, Christ Himself is represented as the door, all the above being found in Him. "The sheepfold." The true church of Christ. "A thief and a robber." A thief endeavors to gain his booty slyly and avoid detection; a robber is a brigand prepared to do violence. These false teachers, who rejected Christ and who were devouring the sheep from a purely mercenary standpoint, were the thieves and robbers. The application was easy.

2. "By the door." Openly, with no need to conceal His purpose. By the way which He directs the sheep to enter. There is not one salvation for the teacher and another for the taught; the door is the same to all.

3. "To him the porter openeth." The Holy Spirit is one who opens the door to the shepherds; see frequent uses of this symbolism by the apostles. Acts 14:27, 1 Cor. 16:9; 2 Cor. 2:12; Col. 4:3. The Holy Spirit recognizes true shepherds by especially annointing and qualifying them for the work of rescuing lost men. "The sheep." True Christians. Those who, like sheep, are "innocent, trustful, teachable, obedient." "Hear His voice." His voice is a pleasant voice. It sometimes seems severe, but is always in love. "By name." In the East in a flock of hundreds each sheep would have its own name. Christ knows us and loves us as individuals. "Leading them out." Psa. 23. When we trust ourselves to the leadership of our great Shepherd, He will lead us out of our trials and difficulties, into "green pastures" of joy and blessing and heavenly sunshine.

4. "The sheep follow Him." We must follow where Christ leads. Sometimes the best pastures and the waters of rest lie beyond deserts and mountains, and rough ways lead to them; still, Jesus leads His chosen ones there.

5. "A stranger will they not follow." This is true among the sheep in the eastern countries, and it is equally true among God's people. Shrewd men may deceive for a time, but some day the mask will be torn off by Christians themselves.

6. "Understood not." Aware that these descriptions were leveled at themselves Matt. 21:45; Luke 20:19), they did not see the exact hinge on which the application turned. They did not wish to understand Him. The blind beggar found no trouble in knowing what He meant.

7. "I am the door." Works, ordinances, character, are not the door; the church is not the door; Christ alone is. Eph. 2:18. 1. Jesus brought the truths of salvation. 2. He made an atonement for sin. 3. He brought new spiritual life. 4. The sheep enter this door by faith.

8. "All that came before Me." Those who came pretending to be pastors or guides to the people. The scribes and Pharisees claimed to be instructors of the people, claimed the right to regulate the affairs of religion; whose only aim was to promote themselves and oppress the people.

9. "If any man enter in." What are the benefits to be received by entering in through Christ? 1. Salvation—"shall be saved." 2. Liberty of soul—"go in and out." 3. Soul satisfaction—"find pasture." Isa. 58:11. 4. Protection and care. "Go in and out." We must "go in" to trust, to rest, to think, to pray, before we can "go out" to effective work for the Lord.

10. "And may have it abundantly." (R. V.) Christ is able to give His people abundant life. Many are seeking "more" life; what such need is "life"—the Christ life, the abundant life. "By this is meant, 1. Fulness of life. 2. Overflowing life." Such a life is a growing, increasing life.

11. "Giveth His life for the sheep." Precious truth? John 3:16; 1 John 4:10. What a contrast was this, between Himself and the unholy men He was addressing.

12. "An hireling." The hireling is the one who labors simply for wages, with no love or concern for the work. Such a person seeks his own interest and happiness, and neglects and destroys the flock. He sacrifices the sheep for himself, and not himself from the sheep. "The wolf." The wolf is the enemy of souls in any of his manifold disguises, such as persecution, heresy, worldly living, or a low standard of morals.

14. "I am the good shepherd." Watching, feeding, guarding, teaching, dying for the flock. "Know My sheep." There is a mutual affection between the shepherd and the sheep. There is a mutual affection between the Father and the Son; one is parallel with the other. As the Father knows the Son, so does the Shepherd know the sheep; as the Son knows the Father, so do the sheep know the Shepherd. As His Father read His heart, so did He read the heart of man and recognize His own.

16. "Other sheep I have." The Gentiles who were soon to be brought into His church. The Good Shepherd sweeps the world with His thought. Here is the universal relation of Jesus to sinners of all nations and tongues. "Shall become one flock." (R. V.) One flock not in creed, or name, but in what is far more essential—one in Christ. One in heart, one in purpose, one in the service of God and man.

Teachings.—Christ's sheep. 1. Know the Shepherd's voice. 2. They hear—or heed His voice. This is one of the surest marks of a sheep. 3. They follow Him. The way may seem dark and difficult, and even dangerous, but where He leads they follow. 4. They know not the voice of "strangers" and will not follow them. Strangers talk glibly, and many professed Christians will go after them, but the sheep will not. 5. On the contrary the sheep flee from them. The Good Shepherd, 1. Knows His sheep. 2. Is known by His sheep. 3. Has a personal interest in His sheep. 4. Gives them liberty. 5. Gives soul satisfaction. 6. Careth for the sheep. 7. Giveth His life for them. 8. Giveth them eternal life.

The writer of an article on "The Passing of Birds," in the New England Magazine, says that "in the localities yet favored by great flights of geese, ducks, crane and plover during the migrations it is not a matter for unusual comment when a single individual brings down fifty birds in an afternoon; and for a party of half a dozen to bag five hundred or more in a day is a record that is repeatedly achieved. Indeed, an effective style of advertising now adopted by some Western railroads is the publishing of photographs of literal wagon-loads of dead game-birds taken in a single day's hunt at some of their resorts."

TENANTS OF DUMPS.

Tribe in Washington More Picturesque Than Ragpickers.

The work of reclaiming the lowlands, where once stood famous Berry's row—the despair of missionaries and the nightmare of the police—goes merrily on, and from the city's waste grows up, like the famed phoenix rising from its own ashes, the most unique village ever found by an anthropologist, says the Washington Post. Here on the bare stretch of ashy waste exists a tribe more picturesque by far than the Paris ragpickers, famed in story, and the adored model of the amateur artist in the Latin quarter. Right within sight of the capitol and the historic part of Washington is the most unique village, peopled by the most unique inhabitants to be found on the globe. The Digger Indians, the Moundbuilders, nor, in fact, any of the queer people of this or other countries, can compare with these. Their life and their occupation prove beyond doubt that there is a use for everything on the face of the earth, save the city foundling. A company for the promotion of tenement districts could not draw a quarter of a cent dividend off the tenants of the dumps. They pay neither rent nor tax, nor yet is the reservation allotted to them by the government. They just pitch their tin houses where they like, and while the only signal for Sunday is the cessation of carts and tumbledown wagons backing up, there is yet a profound respect shown for the rights of each inhabitant. There may be no lock on the door or fence about the yard, but every man can depend upon his pile of scrap iron, old bottles, rags, and so on remaining intact without a bull dog tied to it. There is always a scurry like unto a football contest over every load of ashes, but once the contest is won, every fellow respects the champion's rights. No one could well calculate the revenue from this part of the city's waste, but it is large, men, women and children all plying the trade with a vengeance. The men sell all that they rescue from this source, while the women work to keep their children warm and maybe also do laundry. The children toil back and forward, their little backs forever bent under the burden of the bag, or groping and scratching among the refuse. Many of them warm whole families in this way, while almost the entire colored population in the vicinity of the dump depend upon it for fuel.

WOMAN'S SECOND GROWTH.

Her Most Beautiful and Fruitful Years Are Late in Life.

Since woman is in the main but a bundle of paradoxes, it is not so surprising to hear that a normally healthy woman is younger, mentally and physically, at 50 than at 40. The reason is somewhat recondite, but still one to be rendered in plain words. This rejuvenation comes from a sort of second growth of nerve tissue, or, more accurately, a new arrangement of nerve cells, which takes place commonly in the decade between 35 and 45. The rearrangement is somewhat analogous to the root-making of a rose or a flowering shrub. Almost every one has noted how the riotous vitality of the vernal impulse wreaths rose trees in blossom up to the period of midsummer. Then, though the blooming continues laggardly, the flowers are poor and small, as though the tree were tired of fashioning them and fretful beneath the strain. By and by, as August yields to September, the flowers, though they may be fewer, swell to more than the glory of spring. They are truly royal, loose-leafed, long-stemmed, heavy-headed blossoms, full of every virtue—size, fragrance, color and endurance. Then the gardener tells you it is because in the height of the warm weather the rose struck new roots, and is full of the rich juices of a second growth. It is somewhat the same with fruit trees—which, indeed, occasionally blossom and let fall crops of young fruit. Invariably they make new wood, which, if only it harden sufficiently, is the best of all wood for either cuttings or grafts—because, say the orchardists, "it has more life in it." Grape vines, too, have a trick of putting forth new blooms in the fall. If they chance to be very abundant, new wine in the cask which has ceased fermenting often begins again to hiss and bubble.

Dr. C. I. S. Cawthon, of Andalussia, Ala., writes: "I find Tetterine to be superior to any remedy known to me for the care of Eczema and other stubborn forms of skin diseases." Pink Pearl Turns Green.

Seattle (Wash.) Spe. Chicago Tribune: When Lieutenant Whipple, while at dinner at the Waldorf Astoria bit into a pearl of wonderful size concealed in a big oyster, he recovered a gem that has since puzzled the lapidarists of the country. That pearl has recently betrayed Irish tendencies which are unaccountable. When first brought to public view it was of a pale pink hue. This color was supposed to be the result of the baking process to which it had been exposed. But since then it has gradually turned green, until now it looks not unlike a brilliant green pea.

BILE IN THE BLOOD

No matter how pleasant your surroundings, health, good health, is the foundation for enjoyment. Bowel trouble causes more aches and pains than all other diseases together, and when you get a good dose of bilious bile coursing through the blood life's a hell on earth. Millions of people are doctoring for chronic ailments that started with bad bowels, and they will never get better till the bowels are right. You know how it is—you neglect—get irregular—first suffer with a slight headache—bad taste in the mouth mornings, and general "all gone" feeling during the day—keep on going from bad to worse untill the suffering becomes awful, life loses its charms, and there is many a one that has been driven to suicidal relief. Educate your bowels with CASCARETS. Don't neglect the slightest irregularity. See that you have one natural, easy movement each day. CASCARETS tone the bowels—make them strong—and after you have used them once you will wonder why it is that you have ever been without them. You will find all your other disorders commence to get better at once, and soon you will be well by taking—

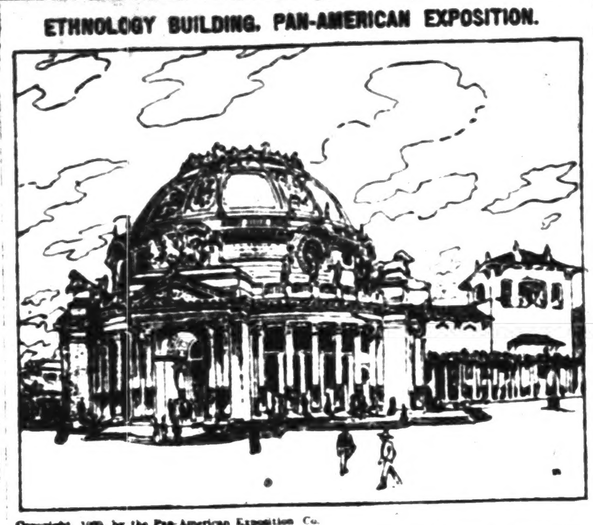
ETHNOLOGY BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

One of the handsome structures at the great Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will be the Ethnology building. It will contain an exhibit of unusual interest to all Americans. Ethnology is the science which treats of the division of mankind into races, their origin, distribution and relations and the peculiarities which characterize them. At Buffalo the Ethnology building will be a veritable mine of information concerning the countries of North and South America. This will be peculiarly appropriate for the reason that the Exposition is a Pan-American, or All-American, event, and everything of interest concerning the various nations inhabiting the new world discovered by Columbus will be represented by an interesting exhibit in Buffalo when the Exposition's gates open on May 1, 1901. Strange to relate, the most interesting exhibits concerning several countries in South America are already in this country. Peru, for example, will send many interesting exhibits to the Pan-American Exposition and will use her influence to have exhibited in her section the remarkable collection of Peruvian antiquities now owned by various American museums.

Sailors call a low lying iceberg a growler, and the world would in general suggest something cool were it not for bulldogs and London four wheel cabs, to which it is also applied.

Nearly £300,000 worth of articles are pawned in London weekly.

ELECTRIC TOWER AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan American Exposition Co.

The dignified and stately beauty of the great Electric Tower, which will form the conspicuous centerpiece of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will command the rapt admiration of every visitor. The entire exterior of the 350 foot high tower will be studded with electric lights.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clanton, Aug. 29, 1900

Mr. Editor—Please allow me space in your paper to return my sincere thanks to my friends throughout the county and express to them my gratitude for their confidence and esteem manifested by their support in the last election. I beg to assure them I appreciate their support very much, and will always strive to merit their confidence and esteem and I further wish to compliment them on their splendid victory on Aug. 6, 1900. It was like old times, and demonstrates the fact that we still have enough true and tried Populists to maintain our principles in this county for a long time to come.

Yours truly,
ALEX G. DAKE.

Editor BANNER.—Just a word to my constituents and to all the people. I wish to say that I am profoundly grateful for the trust which you have reposed in me, and I only want to know your wishes fairly expressed and as your servant in the next general assembly I shall endeavor to serve you fairly and impartially so far as my ability extends, considering of course, the circumstances under which I will be placed and will say further that I am profoundly impressed with the fact that we live in an age of rapid progress and improvement and that we cannot afford to hinder legitimate enterprise by erecting barriers in the way, yet we see that it is necessary to proceed with the utmost caution that we may not open the gateway to measures that come in the disguise of benevolence and improvement. I will say in this connection that there is likely to be several features of local legislation that will, of course, effect to a greater or less extent all the people, and shall at all times endeavor to serve that phase of the question that in my judgment is demanded by the majority interest of my people. Yours sincerely.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Much Interest Manifested in Tuskaloosa's Coming Street Fair.

The people of Tuskaloosa are manifesting great interest in the success of their third annual street fair, which is to take place the week of October 8-13. The premium list is valued at from $2,500 to $3,000. The free attractions and the Midway will be thoroughly up-to-date, as only the best have been engaged. Tuskaloosa was the first town in Alabama to have a free street fair.

The recent rains have proven very beneficial to the crops in Pickens and Tuskaloosa, especially along the Warrior river. The greatest benefit seems to be that done the late corn crop, although cotton has also been greatly helped by these rains.

The old state capitol building in this place is undergoing a thorough renovating. It will be occupied by the Alabama Central Female College, the Baptist institution of learning.

Captain Marchant Released.

Captain Marchant, of the Second infantry, A. N. G., has been restored to the command of his company, and all is harmonious at Camp Lawton, East Lake. Captain Jeptha P. Marchant, of company L, of Phenix City, whose conduct on Sunday afternoon caused himself and the larger part of his company to be placed under arrest and confined in the guard house, Monday wrote out an apology, which he handed to Colonel Wiley, and the latter, after severely reprimanding him, released him from arrest.

State Committee Without Quorum.

The state democratic executive committee held two short meetings in Birmingham Monday, at neither of which was any business transacted. The meeting had been called to hear the appeal from the action of the Fifth district committee in the Brewer-Thompson contest. At the last meeting an adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning, at which time a quorum is expected to be present.

Seven Children Orphaned.

Pitt, a well known citizen of Moulton, were left orphans Mr. Pitt was taken suddenly ill at 8 o'clock Friday morning with congestion and died three hours later. Ingenious Agricultural Implement.

A very ingenious agricultural implement has been invented by Dr. L. E. Starr, of Camden. It is a potato and peanut digger. It is so constructed that the blade underground is held by two pieces, one at each end. Fingers turn the potatoes out of the ground behind this blade of the plow. The patent is quite a valuable one.

HUNTSVILLE SECURES A COTTON MILL

Miner Killed by a Train Near Attalla. Agitating a Dispensary in Lauderdale—Brewer-Bulger Delegates Win—Brevities.

Preparations are being made by the Merrimack Manufacturing company for the erection of another cotton mill of 25,000 spindles, to be adjoining and operated by the engine which operates the recently completed mill. Man Killed by a Train.

A man named Ralls, a white union miner from Coal City, Tenn., was killed in Attalla by Alabama Great Southern train No. 1, south bound. He was riding the rods on the passenger train, and just as the train crossed the car tracks at the freight depot he fell under the wheels and was horribly mangled. He was cut on the head and his brains ran out. His left leg was broken in two places and his back was also broken.

Brewer-Bulger Delegates Win.

The democratic executive committee of the Fifth Congressional District arrived at a conclusion in the contests from Elmore, Clay and Coosa counties a few days ago. The vote of Elmore was given to Brewer and Clay and Coosa prorated half and half between Thompson and Brewer. This gives the control of the convention to Brewer and Bulger on temporary organization if they can combine their forces, of which there is considerable doubt. Notice of appeal was given to the state committee.

Duties Assigned to Capt. West.

Lieutenant Vincent M. Elmore, Jr., who was in June last selected by the board of trustees of the State University to be commandant of cadets, is still in the Philippine Islands, and President Powers has been authorized to assign the duties of the position to Captain James E. SENSATION AT CAMP LAWTON.

Captain Jeptha P. Marchant Arrested for Insubordination.

The second day of the encampment of the Second Regiment of Alabama National Guards at East Lake was marred by one of the most sensational incidents that has ever occurred in the history of the state militia.

As a result Captain Jeptha P. Marchant, commanding Company L, the largest company in the camp, is under arrest by order of Lieutenant-Colonel Wiley and a large number of men are closely confined in the regimental guard house. The charge against Captain Marchant is insubordination and it is said he will be vigorously dealt with.

While the regiment was engaged in a series of maneuvers following dress parade, Captain Marchant, in shirt sleeves, walked deliberately across the field in the presence of 1,500 persons and directed his lieutenant to march his men into camp and take no further part in the drill. His action was based on the grounds that his men were being overworked, and, to save them from exhaustion, he decided to take personal charge of them, regardless of the colonel's orders.

The affair has created intense excitement among officers and men throughout the regiment and startling developments are expected. It is a question as to who will prove the mightier—Lieutenant Colonel A. A. Wiley or Captain Jeptha P. Marchant.

Many of the men, and, it is said, several officers have notified the captain that they indorse his action and and will be found on his side when the courtmartial, which will without doubt follow, has been assembled. On the other hand, there are many officers who maintain that to preserve discipline Captain Marchant should be punished.

Two months ago in Barbour county, Edward Searcy attempted to enter the home of Joe Jemison at night and as he broke down the down the door, Mrs. Jemison, her husband being absent, fired on the intruder with a shot gun, inflicting a serious wound in his head. STEVENSON SUBSTITUTED

For Vice Presidential Candidate on the Populist National Ticket

RESULT OBTAINED AFTER LONG DEBATE

Motion to Place a Populist on the Ticket Lost by a Vote of 24 to 71. Original Motion to Endorse Stevenson Adopted.

At a meeting of the People's party national committee in Chicago Monday the declination of Charles A. Towne as the vice-presidential nominee of the party was accepted, and the name of Adlai E. Stevenson put in its place. This result was obtained after a long debate beginning at 2 p. m. and ending about 6:30 p. m. In the beginning there were three courses advocated by different members of the committee, viz.: to nominate a populist, to leave the place blank or lastly, to endorse Mr. Stevenson.

Senator Butler, chairman of the committee, in a warm speech of some length, advocated leaving the place blank, contending that Bryan and Stevenson would receive more populist votes than if a candidate for vice-president was named. A motion was made to endorse Mr. Stevenson. For this motion, Mr. Washburn, of Massachusetts, moved as a substitute that a populist be placed upon the ticket. The substitute was lost on a call of the roll by a vote of 24 ayes to 71 nayes. The original motion was then adopted by a viva voce vote. There were 124 members of the committee present or represented by proxy.

BATTLE IN PEKIN.

Rumors of a Fierce Fight Inside the Walls of the Chinese City.

A special dispatch from St. Petersburg says:

"It is persistently rumored in St. Petersburg that the Russian government has received a dispatch that after a fierce battle inside the walls of Pekin, the allies retreated, losing 1,800 men, mostly Russians. It is further said that the Chinese occupy fortified positions, from which they are bombarding the allies in a murderous manner."

Requests Arrest of Prince Tuan.

The allies, resuming aggressive operations, have taken the district west of Pekin. This statement is based on Chinese authority, and is cabled from Shanghai. Message From Conger.

The department of state makes the following dispatch from Minister Conger public. It was received Monday morning:

"No important movement since last dispatch. Military is trying to restore order. No representative of the Chinese government encountered yet. Several ministers of Tsung Li Yamen reported in the city and are expected to appear soon. Generals decide not to enter the imperial palace, leaving it practically vacant. Two thousand Germans arrived today."

This dispatch was undated, but from the fact that it mentions the arrival of a German force at Pekin which has not yet been reported from any other quarter, it is supposed to be of recent origin.

STORIES OF SUFFERING.

Storm Causes Great Loss of Life and Property at Nome.

The San Francisco Bulletin prints the following special dispatch dated Seattle, Wash., August 24.

A terrific storm raged at Nome August 7. It wrought disaster along the water front, and as a result the beach is lined with wreckage and stranded vessels of all descriptions. According to a water-front man, out of sixty-eight steam launches only five remain afloat, and of seventy-two barges only seven are riding the sea, the others having been either sunk or drifted ashore. Twenty dead bodies were washed ashore and taken to the morgue for identification. Among them were the remains of J. W. Beatty, of Alameda, Cal. Five dead bodies were washed ashore at Topkuk, three miles north of Nome, the mouth of the Nome river; eight in front of Nome camp; three twelve miles below Bluff City and two below Topkuk.

A tale of disease, death and suffering among the Eskimos which beggars description is told by Guy Stockslager, who is conducting a relief expedition sent out by the government. Stockslager has returned from York and reports the natives dying by wholesale, dozens of dead bodies lying around unburied.

FIGHTING IS OVER.

Allied Troops Have Surrounded the Imperial City.

A Pekin dispatch says: The allied troops have surrounded the Imperial City and stationed sentries at the gates. They refrain from entering pending instructions from their governments. General Chaffee says the fighting is ended. The Japanese troops have relieved the Pei Tang cathedral, where fifteen French nuns and forty French and Italian soldiers have been isolated and besieged two months. They found that five had been killed.

Captain Reilly, battery F, Fifth United States artillery, who was killed before the imperial palace, was buried in the legation grounds. Gen. Chaffee, the British and Japanese generals and many civilians were present at the interment.

The American troops are encamped in the grounds of the Temple of Heaven. The Chinese are supposed to have fled northward.

CARDUA'S EXECUTION.

Details of the Shooting of the Transvaal Lieutenant.

A special dispatch from Pretoria, dated August 24, gives details of the execution on Friday of Lieutenant Cordua, of the Transvaal artillery, convicted by a courtmartial of breaking his parole in plotting to abduct Lord Roberts and kill brother officers. Cordua walked fearlessly to the garden behind the jail. At his own request, he was not bound, and sat in a chair with folded arms. He told Captain Barchard, commanding the firing party, that he was ready, and ten bullets struck him. The body was buried near the spot where the lieutenant fell.

William M. Williams, an alleged anarchist, who is employed as a smelter in Omaha, Neb., it is said announced to one of his fellow workmen Saturday that he was going to kill William J. Bryan when he came to address the Jacksonian picnic. The police were notified and arrested him an hour later. Williams was released. The police believe that the information denouncing Williams was irresponsible if not also malicious.

TO AMEND GOEBEL LAW.

Kentucky Legislators to Meet in Special Session Tuesday.

The Kentucky legislature will meet Tuesday in special session for the purpose of amending the state election law. Governor Beckham will send a brief message to the legislature with suggestions regarding changes. About a dozen members have declared in favor of the Ohio election law. The advocates of this bill declare that the Ohio bill is similar in some parts to the Goebel law of this state, and that to adopt it will be to disarm the republicans argument.

Lightning Destroyed Church.

A special from Elkton, Ky., says that during the progress of a storm at Fairview, eight miles from Elkton, lightning struck the fine Baptist church, setting fire to it and burning it to the ground. THE SITUATION AT Imperial City is Still Invested, Not Occupied.

ATTACK FROM 30,000 BOXERS

General Chaffee Recommends Withdrawal of Troops From China. Famine is Imminent. News From Seat of War.

The latest news from Pekin indicates that the situation there is unchanged. The Imperial City is invested, but has not been occupied. The allies who have command, were still refraining from aggressive action, awaiting instructions from their governments.

An attack from the Boxers was anticipated, but this the whole American and the British artillery opened, a dispatch to the Morning News from Pekin, dated August [illegible] to the outer city was [illegible].

The Boxers were [illegible] from the south.

"The villagers are escaping to Tsin at the rate of about [illegible] a day. As there is not more than a month's food supplies there is prospect of a famine shortly."

This declaration that a famine is imminent in consequence of the inadequacy of provisions for the support of refugees at Tien Tsin adds a new element of peril to the situation.

RECOMMENDS WITHDRAWAL.

General Chaffee Advises Recall of Troops From China.

Maj.-Gen. Chaffee has recommended that the United States troops in China be withdrawn as soon as the Americans in Pekin have reached places of safety.

His cable dispatch advising this and accumulating evidences of the lack of harmony among the powers are the main subjects of discussion at the cabinet meeting. The president and all the members of the administration are anxious to get the troops out of China at the earliest possible moment, but it can be said on authority that there will be no immediate withdrawal of American troops, as there is an immediate change in conditions.

Latest Authentic Information.

A dispatch received at the Chinese legation in Washington from the foreign office of Japan contains the latest and most authentic information of the situation in and around Pekin. In a measure the reports were of a disquieting nature, as they indicated that the Chinese had massed their forces and were preparing to make an attack upon the allies in the event it should prove that the allied troops were besieged in Pekin. It will account for the lack of advices from General Chaffee.

A dispatch from Bingess, W. Va., says: Logan county is in a tumult of excitement. Court has just adjourned, and there is no probability that a grand jury for two months to come. The epidemic of assassination is sweeping over the county. Within twenty-four hours three men have been waylaid. On the head waters of Island creek Ira Ellis was found dangerously wounded from gunshot. About the same hour Lieut. Elmore was fired upon and his horse shot from under him. At 6 o'clock Friday Rev. Millard Gore was waylaid in the head waters of the Guyan by two persons who attempted to kill him. He was shot in the left side and arm, but will recover. No arrests have been made.

DEATH IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Crops Have Suffered to the Extent of Seven Million Dollars.

A special from Columbia, S. C., says: South Carolina crops have suffered disastrously from the present drought, combined with the drought of last year. A few local showers have occurred over very limited areas, but in no case has there been no rain in [illegible] days. Some farmers estimate that the cotton yield has been reduced 40 per cent, but only allowing a loss of 25 per cent on an average yield on the acreage planted, the loss will be 250,000 bales, or $4,500,000. The loss to other crops, sugarcane, late corn and peas, will make the total over $7,000,000. Unless there are general rains within a very few days, the drought will become a disaster.

Woman and Child Burned to Death.

As the result of a coal oil explosion during a fire, the home of Frank Steel near Franklin, Tex., was destroyed. Mrs. Brown and one child were burned to a crisp, and another will probably die of injuries received.

New Orleans' Population.

The population of the city of New Orleans according to the official figures of the returns of the twelfth census is as follows: 287,104 in 1900 against 242,039 in 1890. These figures for the city, as a whole, show an increase in population of 45,065, or 18.62 per cent. from 1890 to 1900. The population of 1880 was 216,090, showing an increase of 25,949 or 12.01 per cent. from 1880 to 1890.

THE SITUATION AT

Imperial City is Still Invested
Not Occupied.

ATTACK FROM 30,000 BOXERS ANTICIPATED

General Chaffee Recommends Withdrawal of Troops From China—Famine is Imminent—Other News From Seat of War.

The latest news from Pekin indicates that the situation there is changed. The Imperial City is invested, but has not yet been occupied. The allies, when the last message left, were still refraining from aggressive action, pending instructions from their governments.

An attack from thirty thousand Boxers was anticipated, and for this the whole American force, the British artillery, according to dispatch to the Morning Post from Pekin, dated August 18, were moving to the outer city wall.

The Boxers were reported coming from the south.

General Dorward, in his report of the engagement outside Tien Tsin, when the American, British and Japanese signal corps defeated a large force of Boxers, August 13, says, in a dispatch dated August 25:

"The lines of communication to Tien Tsin are now free from danger. The enemy had been treacherous. The villagers have suffered badly. Several decapitated bodies were found in their camps.

"The villagers are flocking to Tien Tsin at the rate of about a thousand a day. As there is not more than a month's food supplies, there is the prospect of a famine shortly."

This declaration that a famine is imminent in consequence of the inadequacy of provisions for the thousands of refugees at Tien Tsin adds a new element of peril to the situation.

RECOMMENDS WITHDRAWAL

General Chaffee Advises Removal of Troops From China.

Maj. Gen. Chaffee has recommended that the United States troops in China be withdrawn as soon as all Americans in Pekin have reached places of safety.

His cable dispatch advising this and accumulating evidences of a spirit of harmony among the powers represented at the main subjects of discussion at the cabinet meeting. The president and all the members of the administration are anxious to get the troops out of China at the earliest possible moment, but it can be said on authority that there will be no immediate withdrawal of American troops and that there is an immediate change in conditions.

Latest Authentic Information.

A dispatch received at the Chinese legation in Washington from the foreign office of Japan conveys the latest and most authentic information of the situation in and around Pekin. In a measure the dispatch confirms reports that were of a disquieting nature, and indicated that the Chinese had massed their forces and were preparing to make an attack upon the allies in Pekin. It should prove that the allies in Pekin were besieged in Pekin, it would account for the lack of advices from General Chaffee.

TROOPS DIVERTED.

Ordered from Service in China Will Go to Philippines.

Orders have been issued by the war department directing that the troops at Newport Meade intended for service in China, be sent from Nagasaki instead of there, to Manila. The troops at the Meade consist of thirty officers and 512 men of the Fifth Infantry; ten officers and 869 men of the Third Cavalry, four officers and 145 men of the engineer corps.

This is the first order diverting troops intended for China to Manila. The government is satisfied that it has now sufficient soldiers in the islands for present purposes.

Orders also have been issued diverting other transports now en route to Manila for China, from Nagasaki to Manila. About 4,000 troops will be affected by this order.

THREE MEN RESCUED.

Almost Perish From Thirst on a Texas Desert.

A runner arrived at El Paso, Tex., Sunday, from the Cole ranch, sixty miles north of El Paso, bringing news that three men were found almost perished of thirst on the desert beyond there. He says that one of the men is Prof. R. H. Cook, who recently came from the east. The men left Alamogordo, N. M., on bicycles, bound for El Paso. On the route there is a desert of sand seventy miles across. When the three men had gone about thirty miles their bicycles gave down and they had to walk. One of the men reached the Cole ranch, but had to be treated for several hours before he could speak. He then told of his companions. Two men with jugs of water tied on saddles went back in search of them. One was found fifteen miles away, exhausted and unconscious in the sand, and was brought to the ranch. The other, Prof. Cook, was found twenty miles further away, in spasms, and would probably have died in an hour had he not received water. All the men are now in a critical condition at the Cole ranch. The names of the other men were not learned.

ANXIOUS FOR THE CANAL.

Nicaragua Would Agree to Almost Anything to Secure It.

General E. P. Alexander, who was appointed by President Cleveland arbitrator in the boundary dispute between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, has just returned from those countries, on the completion of his mission.

An interesting feature of General Alexander's work lay in the fact that his labors on the boundary questions were the cause of a close survey of the line of the proposed Nicaragua canal. He said that he did not think the commission now preparing a report would advise a new route.

While disclaiming definite knowledge on the subject, he was inclined to think that a proposition from the Nicaraguan government to ours had already been made. He believed that rather than not have the canal built the Nicaraguan government would accede to almost any terms made by the United States.

Sad Drowning Near Waycross, Ga.

A sad drowning is reported from Screven, a little town east of Waycross, Ga. A few days ago Mr. C. L. Harris and family left Screven for a day's fishing at Coleman Creek, a stream near the town. Shortly after reaching the place the little baby, playing near the water, tumbled in, and the mother, who was near the little one, frantically jumped in after the child. Hearing their screams, Mr. Harris rushed to the scene and succeeded in getting the child out, but Mrs. Harris was drowned.

Disastrous Drought in North Carolina.

The department of agriculture's crop report up to August 20, based on returns from over 1,000 correspondents, is the most unfavorable ever issued in North Carolina. It gives the following percentage of conditions:

Corn, 75; cotton, 73; tobacco, 65. All these figures are under government estimates, which were made August 1, and show the disastrous effects of the unprecedented heat and drought.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

The Heavenly Sowing—Love the Supreme Test—There Is Always a Response—Rose Leaves and Old Lace—A Prayer by Phillips Brooks—There Will be Joy.

Sower Divine!
Sow the good seed in me,
Seed for eternity.
'Tis a rough, barren soil,
Yet by Thy care and toil,
Make it a fruitful field,
An hundred fold to yield.
Sower Divine!
Plough up this heart of mine!

Sower Divine!
Quit not this wretched field
Till Thou hast made it yield;
Sow Thou by day and night,
In darkness and in light
Stay not Thy hand, but sow;
Then shall the harvest grow.
Sower Divine,
Sow deep this heart of mine!

Sower Divine!
Let not this barren clay,
Lead Thee to turn away;
Let not my fruitlessness
Provoke Thee not to bless;
Let not this field be dry,
Refresh it from on high.
Sower Divine!
Water this heart of mine!

Love the Supreme Test.

In these days, when much is said and written about confessions of faith and the tests that should be applied in determining who are Christians, it is well to bring to mind the statements and requirements of the New Testament. The Gospels and Epistles have much to offer directly and inferentially on the subject. "Hereby shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." "By their fruits ye shall know them." Peter said to the inquirer by the wayside, that in asserting "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God," he was entitled to be baptized as a Christian disciple. Paul declares that "as many as are led by the spirit of God they are sons of God," and he also declares, "he that hath not the spirt of Christ is none of his." John wrote. "He that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God." "He that loveth, is born of God and knoweth God." Jesus emphasized the two great commandments as expressing the essential principles of the religious life. Again, Paul, in harmony with Jesus and John, says, "that love is the fulfilling of the law." This is the essence of the Gospel. Love is made the condition of close fellowship with the Father, of true discipleship with the Saviour, and of right relationship with the world. Jesus was the great exemplar of the divine love for man and of man's duty toward God and his fellow-beings. Love is the supreme test of sonship with God and of discipleship with Jesus. He who manifests this love is a Christian, because he has Christ's spirit and is seeking to live the Christ life.

There Is Always a Response.

"High hearts are never long without hearing some new call, some distant clarion of God, even in their dreams; and soon they are observed to break up the camp of ease and start on some fresh march of faithful service." It is the privilege of the Christian teacher to sound this new call, and to create the inspiration in the "high hearts," now resting in the "cramps of ease," and quickened them for the onward march. The responses are oft-times encouraging to the faithful minister, and he rejoices when his leadership is acknowledged and followed. Every faithful minister has the assurance that the divine voice of duty, voiced by one who would sincerely and prayerfully do good to his fellows, always finds an answering response in due time. "No voice, however feeble," writes Whittier, "lifted up for the truth ever dies amidst the confused noises of time. Through discords of sin and error, woe and death, it rises a deathless melody to blend with the great harmony of a reconciled universe."

Rose Leaves and Old Lace.

You cannot imtate them. There is something in the soft yellow of ancient meshes and something in the delicate fragrance of the leaves of roses which defy all efforts to copy them. They are the gift of the long years and the summer sunshine. Rose leaves and old lace have taken time into partnership and the bond cannot be broken. How gracious they are! You do not need to pull the odors out of the rose jar. Just leave the cover off. The odor of the roses and the spices will steal out of itself. You must never pull hard at laces. That only rends them. Let the soft folds fall as they will. There is grace enough in the pliant veil. It is nothing that the leaves and the laces have put on. It is something that is in their very nature, this ministry of grace and fragrance. If it were external, then we might make rose leaves and old lace by mechanical processes. But just because it is within and of the very nature of the thing itself, we are baffled.

A Prayer by Phillips Brooks.

On my country's birthday . . . I may ask you for your prayer in her behalf. That on the manifold and wondrous chance which God is giving her—on her freedom (for she is free, since the old stain of slavery was washed out in blood); on her unconstrained religious life; on her passion for education, and her eager search for truth; on her jealous care for the poor man's rights and opportunities; on her countless quiet homes where the future generations of her men are growing; on her manufactures and her commerce; on her wide gates open to the east and to the west; on her strange meetings of the races out of which a new race is slowly being born; on her vast enterprise and her illimitable hopefulness—on all these materials and machineries of manhood, on all that the life of my country must mean for humanity, I may ask you to pray that the blessing of God the Father of man, and Christ the son of man, may rest forever.—Phillips Brooks.

There will be joy for us in unexpected quarters if we will only look. Our temptations are not joyful; but it is written, "Count it all joy, my brethren, when ye fall into divers temptations." Life is often hard, yet it is the school which God deliberately chose for us and glorifies by his presence. We have special trials, persecutions, grievances; but of worse endurances than these Paul wrote, "Nay, in all these very things we are more than conquerors." If joy be hidden, she is not hidden far if with full confidence of love we only seek for her in unexpected places.—J. O. Rankin.

Good-bye to Pain and Care! I take Mine ease today;
Here where these sunny waters break,
And ripples this keen breeze, I shake
All burdens away from my heart, all weary thoughts away.
—Whittier.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 2.

Subject: The Seventy Sent Forth, Luke x., 1-11; 17-20—Golden Text: Luke x., 2—Memory Verses, 2-6—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "The Lord appointed." This appointment was temporary and not permanent like the appointment of the twelve apostles. "Seventy others." (R. V.) The twelve apostles had been commissioned and sent out about a year before this. As the number of the apostles had reference to the number of the tribes of Israel, so the seventy disciples sent out call to mind the number of the elders who were chosen to assist Moses in governing the people. "And sent them." The chief purpose of this sending was not to train these messengers for a later independent mission, but it was a new attempt to influence to decision at least a part of the people, and by word and deed to prepare the coming of the kingdom of God in the midst of them. "Two and two." The same manner in which He sent out the apostles. This was done. 1. To teach them the necessity of concord among the ministers of righteousness. 2. That in the mouth of two witnesses every thing might be established. 3. That they might comfort and support each other in their difficult labor. "Before His face." They were to visit those cities and places that He intended soon to visit. It was an important mission. Christ was about to make one final effort to reach the common people. As John the Baptist had, at the first, heralded the coming of Christ, so now two heralds appeared to announce His advent at the close of His ministry.

2. "Therefore said He unto them." The instructions given them were distinct from and yet similar to the instructions given the twelve apostles. The twelve had greater authority to work miracles, and they were to receive persecutions which are not mentioned with reference to the seventy. "The harvest truly is great." The harvest is plenteous, the grain is ripe and spoiling and must be garnered immediately or it will be lost. There was need for such a mission, as the district in Perea had been little visited by Jesus. There were multitudes who had not yet heard of the coming of "the kingdom of God." V. 9. "The laborers are few." True workers have always been hard to find. This is the greatest calling in the world, and yet there are so few who are ready to make the small, temporary self-denial that is necessary in order to see success in Christian work. "Pray ye therefore." They must set out with prayer, and have a deep concern for precious souls. "Send forth." True laborers must receive their commission from God. "Laborers." Real workers. If souls are brought to God to-day it will take earnest, persevering effort on the part of His people.

3. "As lambs among wolves." This was a strange way to encourage seventy men just starting out to preach, but they had faith and knew that when Christ sent them they were safe even among their enemies.

4. "Carry neither purse," etc. Trust God for your support. "Salute no man." Eastern salutations are elaborate and ceremonious. This would take a great deal of time, and their mission was urgent. 1. They had their particular places assigned them, and they must deliver their message without needless ceremonies. 2. They must go as men of business.

5. "Peace be to this house." Peace among the Hebrews had a very extensive meaning; it comprehended all blessings, spiritual and temporal. To wish peace to a family, in the name and by the authority of Christ, was in effect a promise of all the good implied in the wish. This was paying in advance.

6. "If the son of peace." Any truly pious man who is worthy of such a blessing. The disciples were to communicate their message of peace to all whether worthy or not, and if it falls on inattentive ears or stubborn hearts, yet it shall not be fruitless, since the duty performed shall bring peace to themselves—"it shall turn to you again."

7. "In the same house remain." Their stay was to be short. They were not to choose the best places and neglect the poor, and were not to spend time going from house to house in search of better accommodations. "Is worthy of his hire." The one who really labors is worthy, of being supported, but drones need not expect the workers to feed them very long.

8. "As are set before you." Probably Christ here refers to the traditions of the elders about their meat. They were extremely critical, and a dish of meat could hardly be set before them but there was some scruple concerning it. Christ would not have them regard those things, but eat what was set before them.

9. "Heal the sick." Their mission was twofold. 1. They were to gain the attention of the people by healing their bodies. "Say unto them." 2. The important part of their work was to preach the gospel of the kingdom.

10. "Receive you not." Do not receive you kindly and accept your message. "Into the streets." The most public place. Let every one see the result of rejecting the truths concerning the kingdom of God.

11. "We do wipe off against you." The Jews considered themselves defiled with the dust of heathen countries, and the action here enjoined signified that these Jews were holy no longer; it was, in reality, placing them on a level with the heathen. "Be ye sure." The message was again to be repeated, if, perchance, some might hear at the last moment.

17. "With joy." They had succeeded. "Devils are subject." Their commission did not reach this far; they were merely commanded to heal the sick, but, gaining confidence as they went forth, they had commanded the devils, and they had obeyed. "Through Thy name." Here was the secret of their power and success.

18. "I beheld Satan—fall." In this brief speech He sums up the whole great conflict with and defeat of the power of evil. He refers to the original fall of Satan, which had been proceeding ever since, step by step, and should continue until all things were put under the feet of Jesus. The fall was both very sudden and very apparent. Thus should be the fall of the currupt Jewish state, and of idolatry in the Gentile world.

19. "I give unto you power." Authority. (R. V.) And this forbids our taking the words in a literal sense. It is possible that by serpents our Lord means the scribes and Pharisees, whom He calls serpents, Matt. 23:33. By treading on such would signify a complete victory over them.

20. "Names are written." Do not rejoice in anything which you may be able to accomplish, for this might lead to self-seeking and pride, but rejoice rather that you are heirs of God.

Desperate Negro Killed.

James Biddle, a desperate negro and gambler, was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Sheriff Bunnell, at Bunnell Station, in the southern part of St. Johns county, Fla. Biddle attempted to kill a women and the officer interfered.

Three new bales of cotton reached Anniston Saturday. One was by wagon from Weavers and was sold for 12¼ cents. The other two bales were shipped in from Childersburg.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Baby Hammocks.

Baby hammocks, a comparatively modern addition to the hammock line, are now made in some variety and commonly sold. The newest thing among them is one provided with a stand upon which it can be spread and supported and swung. The stand is a framework that can be readily put together and as easily taken apart; folded it is like a bundle of sticks, which can be put into a trunk; it can be set up on a veranda or lawn or anywhere. The little hammocks are made in different colors and finished with a trim valance.

A Hint for the Refrigerator.

Nothing should be put into the refrigerator until it has become cold. Warm meat, warm vegetables should be left standing on a table until they are cold before putting them into the refrigerator; otherwise there is likely to be a strange mingling of flavors. It is also a poor policy to store cooked onions or any vegetable that is likely to communicate its taste in with the other food. If there is any disagreeable odor in the refrigerator, a small saucer of charcoal placed within will do much toward cleansing the air.

A Remedy for the Moths.

The methods of moths differ widely from the methods followed by mosquitoes, but every one is willing to allow that the two insects are pests. One of the best plans for clearing the room of mosquitoes is very useful for getting rid of the moth millers. Put a piece of gum camphor on a fire shovel and hold it over the lighted gas until it smokes. It should not blaze up, but burn slowly enough to form a good smudge. The doors of closets and the bureau drawers should be opened if one fears that the moth millers have found their way in.

A Simple Menu for Breakfast.

For the housekeeper who is in doubt a decidedly simple menu for breakfast may prove acceptable. The morning meal might begin with iced pineapple, which is hunger-provoking in itself. Fruit, by the way, is just as well eaten at the close as at the beginning of breakfast. Some folks disparage fruit in the morning, because, so they say, it destroys the appetite for other dishes. If that is the case in one personal experience, she should promptly transfer its place from the first to the last of the meal. But whether or not the pineapple leads, chicken hash makes an excellent, substantial dish. With fried tomatoes as an accompaniment, and with coffee or whatever one chooses to drink, the breakfast is complete. In making the chicken hash put a little of the chicken broth into a pan and add three raw potatoes cut into small pieces. If the potatoes are large use but two. Let them cook for ten or twelve minutes, then add the chicken cut into small pieces and mix well. A whole pepper chopped and added as an improvement. Season to taste and serve on toast. The tomatoes are either quartered or sliced and are fried in hot butter. When sliced it is well to dip them into beaten egg and into crumbs before frying. When quartered they need no such treatment, but should be covered with flour.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

Currant Ice—For every pint of juice from ripe red currants allow a pound of granulated sugar and a pint of water; when the sugar is thoroughly dissolved put into the freezer; add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs to the mixture when it is half frozen.

Colbert Sauce—Put into a saucepan one cup of white cream sauce; add to it very gradually one tablespoonful of stock; mix well together, remove from the fire, then squeeze in the juice of half a sound lemon and add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley when serving.

Strawberry and Pineapple Cream—To a quart of good cream just beginning to freeze add three quarters of a cup of chopped pineapple and three-quarters of a cup of crushed strawberries, each of which have had a scant half cup of sugar sprinkled over two hours previously. Continue to turn the crank until stiff and serve within a half hour.

Slepice, or Chicken in Batter—Prepare a chicken for frying. Have sufficient butter or lard in the frying pan so hot that a blue smoke begins to appear. Take two well-beaten eggs, two or three spoonfuls of milk and beat into a smooth, thin batter; add a small pinch of salt. Dip each piece of chicken into this batter and fry a nice brown in the hot lard. A handsome dish and a good one.

Tapioca Cherries—Soak a cupful of pearl tapioca over night. Put on the fire with one pint of boiling water; simmer slowly until the tapioca is perfectly clear; add a pinch of salt; stone a quart of sour cherries, stir into the boiling tapioca; add a cupful of sugar, or more if necessary. Remove from the fire, turn into a dish and set away to cool. Serve cold with whipped cream, slightly sweetened. This is worth trying.

COTTON GROWERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

A MEETING of the cotton growers of Chilton county is called for Tuesday next, September 4, at Clanton, for the purpose of forming the Cotton Growers' Protective Association of Chilton county. These associations are being formed in several counties of Alabama as well as all the other cotton states, and promise to be of much benefit to all our people. The by-laws, rules and regulations of the State Association will be on hand, and we hope to see a large assemblage.

Clanton's First Bale.

THE first bale of this season's cotton crop was marketed at Clanton last Tuesday, August 28. It was raised by Mr. Henry E. Culver, one mile west of Clanton, and weighed 529 pounds. The bale was bought by Mr. J. B. Downs at 9¼ cents per pound.

The second bale was brought into town on Wednesday and was raised by Mr. J. A. Rasberry of Strasburg. It weighed 560 pounds and was bought by Mr. W. I. Mullins at 8½ cents per pound. Both bales were ginned at C. J. Stewart's gin at Clanton.

The cotton season is fairly opened, and it would seem to be best for our planters not to be in too great a hurry in getting to market.

The price of cotton at Clanton to-day is quoted at 8½ cents.

Not Piety, but Pork.

The following bit of nonconformist humor is taken from "The Farringdons," an English romance. The speakers are Mrs. Bateson and Mrs. Hankey, worthy wives, but not altogether above feeling a certain pleasure in showing up the ways of husbands:

"They've no sense, men haven't," said Mrs. Hankey; "that's what's the matter with them."

"You never spoke a truer word, Mrs. Hankey," replied Mrs. Bateson. "The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are a-wrestling with them.

"Now, take Bateson hisself," continued Mrs. Bateson. "A kinder husband or better Methodist never drew breath, yet so sure as he touches a bit of pork he begins to worry hisself about the doctrine of election till there's no living with him. And then he'll sit in the front parlor and engage in prayer for hours at a time till I says to him:

"'Bateson,' says I, 'I'd be ashamed to go troubling the Lord with a prayer when a pinch of carbonate of soda would set things straight again!'"

Machine Made Jokes.

Some time ago a fellow got up a little book giving hints on how to be funny. Copies of this book are evidently in common use by the funny men connected with many of our newspapers. Witness this specimen joke attributed to a Chicago paper:

He—Who is that ugly old woman over there by the piano?

She—Oh, that's Mme. Cosmetique, the famous beauty specialist.

The book tells just how to make this class of jokes in bulk. The same idea will do for a whole batch. "He" asks: "Who is that baldheaded man?" "She" answers: "That is Dr. Quacknostrum, the Hair Renewer man." Again, "He" asks: "What is the matter with those crying brats?" And "She" responds: "Their mother has gone to lecture on the training of children." Once you catch the idea you can produce funny things of this kind automatically, and if you are a funny man on a newspaper your readers will laugh every time and other papers will quote your jokes and give your paper credit for them.—Pathfinder.

A Sermon in Brief.

A man met a bull in a field. "I'll toss you to see who stays," said the bull. He tossed, and the man lost. The moral is that it is never safe to indulge in games of chance, especially when all the odds are against you.—Philadelphia North American.

A conscientious person should beware of getting into a passion, for every sharp word one speaks lodges in one's own heart, and such slivers hurt no worse than any one else.

ON THE WING.

Venice, Italy, July 31, 1900

I wrote last from Baden-Baden, Germany. My letter was of Paris. I left it somewhat disappointed. I suppose my great admiration for the generous impulses of some of its historic sons, as well as my fervent admiration of the great Napoleon, had painted it a little too bright. I was off to Brussells at an early hour, and passed through northeastern France, a perfect garden for the entire distance to Brussells. Hay grows under the trees, and they plant the trees for the timber, I was told that they were the Lombardy poplar.

These French are a wonderful people anyway, despite their fickle nature. I find that their finances are in so perfect a condition that French coin is taken in Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Palestine, Egypt and Syria. In fact it is the best known money and most used. The French language is better known in the countries mentioned, and their fashions are copied all over the earth. I asked our conductor (I mean by conductor the man who goes everywhere with us, fights all our battles and pays all our bills) how was this, that the French stood so well in a financial way. He said it so wondertully fertile, and the national pride of the French was debt paying to the last cent. There is no way in the world to study the money question like traveling. Any nation's gold goes all "O. K." France's silver goes "O. K." because it's backed by gold. Most of my party bought little of credit on Europe. I brought along U. S. gold certificates, and I find no trouble in getting them cashed dollar for dollar, and here in poor debt ridden and assassin infested Italy I even get a little premium on it. Sound money for any nation is as essential as good morals in the home. It would save a vast amount of vexation and worry between the nations if a standard of value would be agreed upon by all, and turn these money changers out as the man of Nazerith did a long time ago. Every day's journey compels you to change coin and lose a little margin on it unless it were all made in gold. I have a pocket full sometimes, and worried with its weight and only 5 or 7 dollars of it.

You fellows over there that have been "howling" for government ownership of railroads ought to try it a little bit over here. There being no competition to fight, the trains and cars are all the same. They put you in like mules in a box car in Kansas City; stop a little while at Willow Springs, Mo., for water, go on to Memphis and give you something to eat, and if they find any dead "chunk" him out the door, then on to Birmingham, Ala., and let you out. Sore, thirsty, hungry, sick and ready to "cuss" any man who mentions government ownership of railways. I just can't tell you how bad it is, as the Editor would print the bad words necessary to express it. Even in the Alps where beautiful streams of melted snow tumble down the mountain side, we must drink water that runs from an old rusty hydrant and stick your "bill" under the spout and catch it on the "fly." They never build a new passenger coach until the old one won't bear patching any more. I could write a volume on railroads and money if I were so disposed, but I'll quit as I let off a little "steam" to you, and if I had not I would have busted to-morrow I know, as I have a long run from here to Florence.

Not having my good wife along to look after and feeling sorter lonely, I would help the girls in our party along, there being a dozen or so of them. I changed around every day so there could be no kick a coming (from home) or abroad, and got myself in trouble just four times this way. Mr. T. C. Clark contracts with us to pay all expenses except lunch. Now, lunch is something you get (and sometimes is something you don't get) in the middle of the day, dinner you call it in Alabama. Well, if the train would stop we would all rush in to the hotel and help along the girls would put them at table by me, and in making the grand rush back to train or back or boat, as the case might be, the girl would, as a rule, forget to pay for it, and the waiter would smile so sweet and hand me a bill for two lunches. I told him as best I could that this was the first time I had ever seen his blasted place, and the last lunch I had was 100 miles away, and I just was dead sure I had not swallowed two in the three minutes given us to eat, then he would smile again and say: "Yaas, yaas, but ze lady, ze wife did eat too. I paid for four and quit the girls. So boys don't be too gallant when abroad, even to the best of girls if you want to save your cash.

I must get on, or else I'll make a campaign document of this, joined with a moral treatise to travelers. I got to Brussells at 14:30 o'clock as they call it; 2:30 we call it p.m., and right straight out to the battle field of Waterloo we went, without even the lunch and the girls. It was clearly shown to us by a guide who spoke very good English, all the positions of the two opposing armies. I can now read Waterloo with new interest.

Brussells is a fine city of three-quarter million people. Women and dogs must never emigrate to Belgium as they work them together to the same cart while the men join the army and get $1.75 per week.

Now, I am afraid to say any more about "militaryism" for I could write a book or two about "armyism"-imperialism. Poor pitiful countrys of Europe that must keep millions of men ready to go after each other's threats in a moment's warning.

I was accosted by a woman guide who assured me that the gentleman guide I had "was a big liar," and then the gentleman guide in turn, assured me that "ze lady was a big liar." I assured both of them that I fully believed both and would act accordingly. The terms lady and gentleman suited them quite well as synonyms of liars.

We saw all the notable things of Brussells, including the Mannakin statue. We struck Brussells in the midst of their 4th July, being July 21, celebrating their independence of Holland, and all day Sunday and Sunday night was beer drinking, fire works, etc. I saw some street cars here which run on the street having no track laid.

My! my! Though the women were in "clover," I watched them by the hour, buy real Brussell lace. Some of them doubtless had long time ago dreamed of this rare glory, to buy real lace in real Brussells; some of them paying $10.00 for a handkerchief. It is now twelve o'clock and I will close and write up a little travel in my next letter if I live through to-morrow's railway journey

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle drug co.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE.

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1776, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2.00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive. Always at home

You will never find our Doctor out. He is here to give advice without charge to those who need him—to those who don't, sometimes. He doesn't always recommend the Ayer Medicines, because the Ayer Medicines are not "cure-alls." Perhaps if we tear a leaf from his correspondence it will show you what we mean. Here is a letter which came last March.

DEAR DR. AYER

I want your advice for my little boy. He is getting very thin. He is fifteen years old, his health was good until about three years ago when he began to fail. He has the appetite of a man at the present time and will eat anything he can get. He is very nervous, and weighs only 80 pounds.

MRS. MARGARET MURPHY.

March 5th, 1900.

And this is the way the Doctor answered Mrs. Murphy's letter.

DEAR MADAM:

We enclose our book on Diseases of Children, in which we think you will find all the information you desire.

You should begin at once to give your child Cherry Pectoral in small doses at first, gradually increasing to moderate doses. The combination of Cherry Pectoral and preparation of Cod Liver Oil, known as Ayer's Emulsion, will give him that which he needs. Pay particular attention to the child's bowels, keeping them regular, but not overdoing the matter. Let him live out of doors all he can in all weathers, summer and winter. There is nothing like fresh air. If it is possible, by carrying out these general suggestions we shall hope to hear from you that your son is improving in every respect very truly yours,

J. C. AYER.

You see, it wasn't only the proper medicines that we recommended. The first idea of the doctor was to cure that boy. The result is told in this letter:

DEAR DR. AYER

My little boy has improved so much since I received your advice that I want to write and tell you how thankful I am. When I first wrote you, on March 5th, he only weighed 80 pounds, but now weighs 82 pounds, and all this gain since the 8th of April, when I first began to follow your directions.

Please let me thank you again for what you have done for my boy.

April 17, 1900. MARGARET MURPHY.

Perhaps it was the cod-liver oil; perhaps it was the Cherry Pectoral. Probably it was both. But, more than either, it was the good, sound advice the Doctor gave in the first place. We are here to help you in just the same way, and we will tell you the medicine for your case or tell you what medicines to avoid.

Five out of ten of our correspondents need a doctor more than a prepared medicine, and we tell them so. If all doctors only knew it, we would be working with them every day.

OOM PAUL ON THE BIBLE.

His Eulogy on It One of Simple but Majestic Power.

A British correspondent in South Africa tells the following highly interesting story of Oom Paul: Once, when out on a shooting expedition, a party had gathered around a camp fire, and the conversation turned upon literature. There were Englishmen, Hollanders, Germans and Boers present, and each of them had much to say concerning celebrated writers of prose and poetry, except Oom Paul. He smoked his eternal "long stem" and held his peace. The Germans and the Englishmen nearly came to the stripping off of coats concerning the relative merits of Goethe and Shakespeare. At last the Englishmen turned to the one silent figure of the camp fire, saying, "Look here, now, Oom Paul, which do you think the greater writer of the two—Goethe or Shakespeare?" "Never read either of 'em," growled the even then celebrated man, with brutal frankness. "Mein Gott!" ejaculated the German; "here is a man whom the Boers call great, and he has not read Goethe!" "Never read Will Shakespeare?" howled the indignant Briton; "then what the deuce have you read?" "Only this," said Oom Paul, pulling a frayed and battered Bible from his pocket, "and I have not half mastered its glories, yet I have read it day and night for well nigh forty years. When I've exhausted the Bible, I'll perhaps find time for Shakespeare and Goethe. Tell me, had either of those men more wisdom to teach than I can learn from the Book of Proverbs? Could either of them write such glorious lines as King David, the ancient poet of the Jews, has left us in his wondrous Book of Psalms? Could either Shakespeare or Goethe have written the Songs of Solomon?"

Race Issue Raised in Cuba.

The race issue of Cuba has been raised lately in a peculiar way by a large number of Havana negroes and mulattoes. They have petitioned the authorities to prohibit the application to Cuban citizens of the descriptive words "black" or "brown" in warrants issued by the police court and to forbid the use of these adjectives in newspaper reports. The petitioners also ask that the newspapers be prohibited from making reference to the African origin of any one. Their argument is that the terms as now used perpetuate race antagonisms, and that since the negroes of Cuba have proved their worth in the struggle against Spain they should be called only Cuban citizens.

Five Thousand Against Custer.

There is a student at the Carlisle Indian school whose father was a leader in the battle of the Little Big Horn, where Gen. Custer and his entire command were killed. Some authorities tell us that 277 men fell in that awful massacre and none lived to tell the tale. The opposing Indian force is set down at about 1,200. This student says his father informed him that there were no less than 5,000 Indians in the battle. Nine thousand "tame" Indians were settled on surrounding reservations, and many of these slipped away in the night time to join Sitting Bull for a raid, returning under cover of darkness to their homes. Nearly 4,000 were with him when Custer made his fatal error.

Costly Wheels.

It is said that Queen Margherita has the most beautiful bicycle in the world. The wheels are of gold, and the frame is richly inlaid with jewels and mother-of-pearl. Lady Dudley, one of the famous beauties of England, has a white enameled wheel, whose handles are of ivory.

Her Everlasting Duty.

When a New England woman starts to go upstairs, she always asks herself whether it is her duty to begin with the right or the left foot, and what relation her step bears to the great laws of the universe.—Garden of Eden.

Miss Frederick's Letters Show How She Relied on Mrs. Pinkham and Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired and have bearing down pains. Menses have not appeared for three months; sometimes am troubled with a white discharge. Also have kidney and bladder trouble.

I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you and see if you could do me any good."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Aug. 6, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. Now I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough to you for what you have done for me."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1899.

Backache Cured

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. It is the only medicine I have found that helped me. I doctored with one of the best physicians in the city of New York, but received no benefit. I had been ailing for about sixteen years, was so weak and nervous that I could hardly walk; had continued pain in my back and was troubled with leucorrhœa. Menses were irregular and painful. Words cannot express the benefit I have derived from the use of your medicine. I heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. MARY BARSHINGER, Windsor, Pa.

Tasteless Chill Tonic

Is the standard prescription of America for Malaria, Chills and Fever.

How often do you hear imitators say "Our medicine is just as good as Grove's" or "It is better than Grove's". Do not be satisfied with the "just as goods". There are no "just as goods"—Grove's is the best as such comparisons admit—Grove's is many times superior both in merit and popularity to any other chill preparation manufactured, and is the only chill cure sold to jobbers in car load lots. Every druggist in the malarial sections of the United States and Cuba sells Grove's on a No cure, No pay, basis. Price 50 cents.

Grove's Tonic broke up a 10 days' spell of fever which a physician thought would last several weeks.

"During my recent illness your Chill Tonic proved of beneficial effect—it being highly endorsed by my family physician. 3 bottles broke up a 10 days' spell of fever which at first was thought by the doctor would last for several weeks. Your excellent remedy is having a tremendous sale throughout this section, more so than all other Chill Tonics combined as I am informed by various druggists."

of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of Peach Camp, Miss. "I had spent much time and money and had suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so weak from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, and even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after using several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

A Fine Shool Building.

Traveling on the road from Clanton to Thorsby, a few days ago, I was surprised to see on my way the structure of a fine school building going up. It is at the cross roads about two miles south of Thorsby. The building will be 27 by 40 feet with two stories. Both stories will be used by the school. It will be weather-boarded and well lighted, having over twenty windows.

This section of the country is making splendid progress along the school line. Only a few miles away is the Chapel Institute, run by Prof. Rasco, his faculty and fine board of trustees, with a splendid building, well equiped with school-room fixtures. The past session of this school was a remarkable success, having an enrollment of 95 with an average of, I think, about 75 per cent of enrollment.

The people at the cross roads will construct their building with a cash outlay of about $160, which is the cost of material, the work being done by the neighborhood.

It is being demonstrated that as good high schools as there are in the State can be run in our county. Success to all the communities that are trying to build up good schools—and there are a good many of them.

I know of no better index to the character and value of a community than its schools. J. S.

Riderville.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE.

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1776, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2.00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive. Governor Johnston and Staff Going to New Hampshire.

Governor Joseph H. Johnston, accompanied by his wife and several other ladies and the members of his official staff, will be present at the presentation of splendid gifts to the battleships Alabama and Kearsarge in Portsmouth harbor on September 28.

The party from Alabama goes in response to an invitation from the state of New Hampshire. A daughter of the late Admiral Semmes is among those who are invited.

The governor of New Hampshire will place on the Kearsarge a bronze tablet ten feet long and four feet wide. On this will be inscribed a sentiment commemorative of the historic combat at sea between the old Kearsarge and the old Alabama, and he will present to Governor Johnston an identical tablet for the Alabama when she shall be ready for sea in October.

Governor Johnston will deliver a speech during the exercises, as will the governor of New Hampshire and several other men who are nationally prominent, including former Secretary of the Navy Hilary A. Herbert, who named the Alabama.

$50,000 Given to Washington's School.

The press reported Booker Washington as being present at Mr. Huntington's funeral, and the other day when the dead millionaire's will was made public it was noticeable that it contained no reference to the Tuskegee school. That is now explained by the $50,000 gift made during Mr. Huntington's lifetime.

Writing from Tuskegee to the New York Tribune, Booker Washington says:

"The first time I saw Mr. Huntington he gave me $2 for our school at Tuskegee; the last time I saw him he gave me $50,000 toward the endowment of our school. Mr. Huntington not only aided our school at Tuskegee financially, but he took a deep and personal interest, not only in the Hampton and Tuskegee schools, as well as others, but in the entire negro race."

Tragedy at Rutledge.

Monday night John B. Beverly shot and killed John A. Johnson, his brother-in-law, at Rutledge. Johnson had been drinking and drove his wife, Beverly's sister, away from home. Armed with a shotgun, Johnson started to hunt his wife and terrified the town. He finally went to the home of his father-in-law and gained entrance to the house through a window. Just as he was preparing for a shot, Beverly fired two shots from a revolver, one bullet going through Johnson's heart. Beverly was discharged on examination. Both families are prominent.

M. F. Gardner Commits Suicide.

The people of Centreville were greatly shocked by the suicide of M. F. Gardner, a prominent citizen, Monday afternoon. He was seated in a room where his little daughter was sick, and suddenly said to his wife and a lady present that he was tired of living, and placed a pistol to his head and sent a bullet crashing through his brain. He was dead before a physician could reach him.

He was related to some of the most prominent families in Bibb county. Ill health probably caused the rash act.

The many scores of insects that have been introduced into the United States from Europe, South America, Asia and Africa have seemed to make the farmers' burden just about twice as heavy as it formerly was.

IN A WAITING ATTITUDE.

Germany to be the Stumbling Block in Withdrawal of Troops.

THE EMPEROR WILL NOT GIVE UP PEKIN.

Dispatch From Minister Conger Does Not Materially Change the Situation—Negotiations Continue Between the Powers.

Negotiations continue between the powers respecting the propositions of Russia. It appears that the proportion of the proposals which contemplate the removal of the legations to Tien Tsin does not meet with opposition; but the proposal that the troops should vacate Pekin will not be acted upon until after thorough examination of the case by other powers from a special view to the question of military advisability. Germany's programme is to await the action of the other powers.

Count von Buelow, the German foreign minister, has made a communication to this effect to the Russian Ambassador, Count Vanderosten-Sacken.

A high official of the German foreign office said in defining Germany's position:

"Germany has not answered Russia formally, although she has informed her confidentially as to the views of the German government. Certainly we do not object to the removal of the legations temporarily to Tien Tsin, as this would enable the members to recuperate from their recent hardships. So far as the answer of the United States to Russia is concerned we now see it to be in substantial agreement with Germany's position."

Most of the German papers are of the opinion that it is very doubtful if Germany can adopt Russia's suggestion, and they deplore the evidence of a threatening split in the European concert. One leading Berlin journal asserts that Emperor William while conversing with a group of officers last Saturday evening said, "under no conditions shall we give up Pekin, not even if every army corps has to be mobilized."

Conger Heard From.

A dispatch from Minister Conger was received by the state department Monday. It was chiefly interesting in being the first word from him since his dispatch of about the 27th ultimo, referring to the proposed parade of troops through the Imperial Palace in Pekin. The contents were not made public, but it was stated that it contained nothing materially changing the situation.

ANNUAL COTTON STATEMENT.

Secretary Hester Puts Crop of 1899-1900 at 9,436,416 Bales.

Secretary Hester's New Orleans cotton exchange annual report was issued in full Monday. He puts the cotton crop of 1899-1900 at 9,436,416 bales, a decrease of 1,838,424 under 1898-99. Of this, he says that Texas, including Indian Territory, shows falling off of 964,000, the group of other states, consisting of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Utah and Kansas, 400,000, and the Atlantic States, consisting of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia, 475,000.

He places the average commericial value of the crop at $38.55 per bale, against $25.08 last year; $28.62 year before last, and $36.76 in 1896-97. and the total value of the crop, $363,785,000, against $282,778,000 last year and $322,556,000 the year before.

He puts the total spindles in the south at 6,267,163, an increase over last year of 1,215,071. These include 1,418,497 net not complete. The net gain in the number of southern mills over last year has been 113, making the total now 663.

ELECTION IN ARKANSAS.

Democrats Carry Arkansas By an Usual Majority.

The entire democratic ticket, headed by Hon. Jefferson Davis, of Pope county for governor, was victorious in Monday's election in Arkansas. Early returns indicate that the vote will be lighter than was expected. H. L. Remmel, the republican candidate for governor, which was the only opposition, made a good showing, and his increased vote over two years ago will probably reduce the usually large democratic majority. A fair estimate places the total vote as follows:

Davis, democrat, 100,000; Remmel, republican, 40,000; Files, populist, 3,000. Davis' majority, 57,000.

From Nebraska he will go to Kentucky, where he will take the stump for three weeks, after which he will go to Ohio.

The total tax valuation last year amounted to a little less than $36,000,000. The total raises by the board of revenue last year aggregated about $4,000,000, or nearly the same amount as this year. The figures show that the taxable values of Jefferson are nearly one-sixth of the total values of all Alabama.

Interesting Suit in United States Court.

For alleged infringements upon the patent of the Montgomery Cotton Compress and Storage Company of Memphis, the Webb Compress Company of Savannah, Ga., has been restrained by a temporary injunction, granted by Judge David D. Shelby, at Huntsville, from further operating three improved cotton compresses in Savannah. Petition for a permanent injunction will be heard by Judge Speer, at Macon, October 3.

The petitioners in the case aver that they hold a patent for a compress that reduces the standard square cotton bale to less than half the size of the ordinary bale, packing fifty pounds of cotton to the cubic foot. The Montgomery company operates three presses of this kind in Memphis, and it is alleged that the Webb company infringed on the patent and had three pre-ses constructed secretly by a machine shop in Reading, Pa.

THIRTEEN LIVES WERE

Appalling Record of a [illegible] Wreck in Pennsylvania.

MORE THAN THIRTY PERSONS

Excursion Train Crased Into the End of a Milk Train—Seven Men Among the Dead—Picture of Horror.

Thirteen persons killed and thirty others injured is the shocking record of a rear-end collision between an excursion train and a milk train on the Bethlehem branch of the Philadelphia and Reading road Sunday morning at Hatfield, Pa.

The dead are: Miss Annie [illegible], Robert Miller, Ira Echet, [illegible] Echet, Joseph Mordaut, Charles Gonigel, Thomas Day, Miss [illegible] Kaelin, Goelfro Kaelin, [illegible] Blackburn, Harold Landis and [illegible] Ackermann.

The wrecked train consisted of seven day coaches and was the first section of the large excursion made up at Bethlehem, Allentown and surrounding towns to Atlantic City. The section carried only those who lived in Bethlehem and the town and left Bethlehem three minutes behind the milk train. The latter train consisted of two milk cars and two passenger coaches.

The milk train drew up at the station platform at Hatfield, and in less than two minutes the special excursion train, running at the rate of about forty-five miles an hour, crashed into the rear of the milk train. The engine ploughed through the two passenger coaches, as if they were [illegible]. The milk car immediately in front was also badly wrecked. Most of the persons on the passenger cars and the milk train were almost instantly killed.

The excursion train was a mass of indescribable horror. The force of the motive was a mass of bent and twisted iron and firmly held the bodies of the engineer and fireman beneath it. The great weight. Behind the engine and tender of the ten cars were also a mass of wreckage. The first car was completely shattered in twain, and the other five cars were thrown on their sides, completely demolished.

Nine persons were killed in the first two cars and the others in the three coaches were badly maimed. As soon as the crash came a terrible panic arose from the smashed cars and those who had not been injured fatally crawled or jumped from the cars. Many went to the assistance of the dying and injured. Many were pinned down by the wreckage and had to be freed by the use of axes. With three or four exceptions the dead were killed instantly, the others dying on the way to the hospitals.

Bishop Candler Speaks the Attitude of the Church.

Bishop Warren A. Candler was asked, "What will be the attitude of the church toward the Chinese missions in view of the present situation in China?" replied:

"The church is absolutely committed by the troubles in China. The missions there will proceed, as they have hitherto. It will be the same as when Paul went into Philippi. The troubles there had no effect upon him and his going was vastly more important to the world than anything which was in progress. The missionaries in China will have a great influence on the future of the country than the captains that have been sent over."

ARTHUR SEWALL SI...

Candidate for Vice President Is the Point of Death.

Arthur Sewall, democratic candidate for vice president in 1896, is in a critical condition at his summer home at Small Point, about 12 miles from Bath, Me. Mr. Sewall was seized with an attack of vertigo Sunday night, and has been unconscious most of the time since. It was stated by the physicians that there was absolutely no hope of his recovery. His death is expected at any moment.

Fatal Panic on an Electric...

As the result of a panic on an electric car at Akron, O., one person was killed and three others injured. The panic was caused by a fire breaking out and the flames bursting through the car floor. The passengers became terrified and made a frantic rush to get off. Ferdinand Bargus was killed in jumping. He struck a trolley pole.

...MATE OF COTTON CROP.

...Orleans Times-Democrat Gives Reports in the Southern States.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat has posted the following:

"According to the reports of our correspondents there was no essential change in the condition of the cotton crop during the month of August. There was a distinct improvement in some sections, but there was, on the whole, a distinct deterioration in ...Texas and the territories have the ...prospects and present indications ...point to a considerably increased yield from that important ...portion of the belt.

...The crop in Texas is fairly good, but the ...condition of this state is very spotted, and ...the weather during August has been in ...many sections of a decreased yield.

...Arkansas has also lost ground, the ...high temperature having caused ...cotton to throw off its fruit.

...Tennessee a slight improvement ...is noted, but there is no indication of ...anything more than a most moderate ...yield.

...In some portions of Mississippi ...the reports accounts of somewhat ...favorable conditions, but nothing ...has occurred to change the general ...belief that a practical disaster ...has befallen that state.

...Alabama the tendency has been ...toward improvement, although ...the crop is represented as being very ...poor.

...Georgia and the Carolinas this ...week is marked by distinct deterioration ...in consequence of drouth ...and excessive heat. Although modified ...reports have fallen within the last ...week, the concensus of opinion ...among correspondents is to the ...effect that the crop of the Atlantic ...states, as a whole, will fall below the ...crop of last year.

...It must be remembered ...that a date of frost will cut a quite ...large figure. Although no definite ...estimate may now be formed, it is ...quite evident that nothing more than ...a moderate result is to be expected ...from the belt as a whole, even ...under most favorable conditions ...from this time forward. It is, moreover, ...to be borne in mind that the ...enormous production of 1899 was hardly ...short of 9,000,000 bales, the ...movement of the commercial crop having ...been largely brought forward from the ...two successive bumper years. All ...estimates for 1900 must have a crop ...of more than 9,000,000 as a base line.

CONFEDERATE DEAD.

Mrs. Behan Writes to the Various Veterans' Association.

In response to urgent appeals from various members of the Confederate Southern Memorial association scattered throughout the south, Mrs. Wm. J. Behan, president of the confederation, has issued a circular letter, which will be sent to all the affiliated associations, the numerous camps of United Confederate Veterans of the confederacy, stating that the attention of the Confederate Southern Memorial association has been drawn to the proposed transfer from the national cemetery at Washington, D. C., of the remains of the 260 Confederate soldiers who are buried there. Congress in the sundry civil appropriation bill provides for the disinterment of these bodies of the southern dead and their reburial in a special section of the national cemetery at Arlington, Va. The Confederate Veterans' association of the District of Columbia, Camp 171 U. C. V., has taken a deep interest in the matter of disinterment and transfer, and have ascertained that the states which now have Confederate dead in the cemetery are North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee. Mrs. Behan appeals to all members of the Confederate Southern Memorial association, United Confederate Veterans and United Daughters of the Confederacy to co-operate in removing the remains of these Confederate soldiers to Hollywood, cemetery, Richmond, Va., where they will rest beside 30,000 of their hero comrades.

All answers to this appeal may be addressed to Mrs. Wm. J. Behan, Godcheaux building, New Orleans.

NEGOTIATIONS AT A STANDSTILL.

All Now Dependent on Responses of the Powers.

The entire course of negotiations on the Chinese question is now dependent upon the responses of the Powers to the Russo-American proposals. It was stated authoritatively at the close of of official hours Saturday that no answers had been received from any source, other than those of a preliminary and inconclusive character, heretofore announced. Moreover, it is stated by responsible Administration officials that not until the last answer is received will the negotiations assume any definite form, as the last answer may prove to be the dissent from an international accord toward which all efforts are now bending.

As the negotiations progress the view is strengthened among officials that the Russo-American plan of withdrawing from Pekin to Tien Tsin ultimately will be concurred in by all of the Powers. In diplomatic quarters this outcome is looked upon as practically assured. It is pointed out that if the Russian, American and Japanese troops are withdrawn from Pekin, the other Powers would not have 5,000 men remaining there, which would be a force utterly inadequate to garrison and defend the capital.

Convict Killed.

Wes Austin and Bob Armstrong, two escaped convicts, have been killed and a third wounded by pursuers near Whiteside, fifteen miles from Chattanooga, Tenn. Austin, Armstrong and Jim Westbrook escaped from the convent stockade at Coal City, Ga., Monday. Warren Brock came upon the men cooking at a camp near Whiteside and demanded their surrender. The convicts fled and the possee opened fire. Westbrook escaped.

Man Burned to Death.

Dwight Inn, a hotel at Alabama City, the cotton factory town two miles from Gadsden, was destroyed by fire Saturday, and A. C. Baer, a guest, lost his life. The building was enveloped in flames when the fire was discovered, and evidently was caused by a defective flue. Dwight Inn cost $4,000 and had $2,500 insurance.

Burned to Death.

At an early hour Friday morning the store of W. G. Sutton, at Ways, Ga., was burned. D. I. Haymans was asleep in the second story. He was seen at one of the windows, surrounded by flames, but could not be rescued. His charred trunk was found in the ruins.

Lightning Kills Mrs. Cobb.

During a shower at Statesboro, Ga., a flash of lightning struck the house of Rev. T. J. Cobb, killing his wife and seriously injuring one of his children.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

No doubt two people can live cheaper than one, but nobody ever saw an instance where they did.

Only one Chinaman has been regularly ordained a minister of the Gospel. His name is Jam Jee, and he lives in San Francisco.

The municipal control of the gasworks at Rochdale, England, is so successful that a profit of $65,000 has been turned over toward reducing the rates.

The most characteristic feature of Siberian farm life is that the farmers live, not scattered all over the country, remote from neighbors, but in villages as near as possible to land they are cultivating.

Notwithstanding the great enlargement of the city of Liverpool in 1895, when out-districts all around the city were added to the municipality, bringing the population up to the estimated total of 700,000, a movement is on foot to extend the city boundaries seven miles to the south, following the river line.—London Globe.

There are no pillows in Chinese beds. They have instead hollow square frames of rattan or bamboo, or blocks of wood fashioned so that they fit the nape of the neck and support the head when lying on the side. People who have used these substitutes for pillows say they are much more comfortable than soft, hot feather or hair pillows, especially in warm weather.

The Philadelphia Times, querying as to the necessity for the continuance of the Grand Jury system, says: "We would regard the abolishment of the Grand Jury as a mistake, as we do not see how many of its duties could be performed as well as the grand juries now render that service, but there certainly should be a very material modification of the old common law secrecy, conceived centuries ago, regulating preliminary proceedings in criminal cases."

In the Rangeley Lake region of Maine deer are so troublesome to the farmers this season that it is a question of whether a man shall give up farming altogether or shoot the deer and thus get into jail. The animals invade the gardens and dig up potatoes and carrots with their hoofs faster than a mon could throw them out with a hoe, and scarcely any crop escapes their ravages. As between bears and deer, the farmers say that bruin is far the less destructive.

A fruit tree propagator has at last produced a seedless apple, and the fruits have been seen by many interested in pomology, so that in a few years' time a good supply of these pipless apples will be found upon the market. It is said, too, that these new apples are superior in flavor to the ordinary kinds. Already high prices are being paid for the trees, which for some time yet will be bought up by rich amateurs.

General Greely has received a dispatch informing him that the signal corps' wireless telegraphy stations had been established and were in successful operation between Alcatraz Island, San Francisco Harbor and Fort Mason. It has been impossible to maintain cable communication between these points owing to interruptions by shipping, incoming vessels dragging their anchors and injuring the misplacing the cables continually. This is the first system of wireless telegraphy established as a practical working system where other means have failed.

Lupo Salvatore, an Italian, passed himself off as a solicitor, and so committed sixty-three separate acts of fraud. He forged the signatures of the President and Judges of the High Court and the Chancellor. For the latter splendid piece of fraud he actually stole the seal of the Chancery. To this bold and thorough-paced scoundrel English law would probably have given a sentence of ten—possibly fifteen—years' penal servitude. But the Italian Judges, by way of vindicating the majesty of the law, pronounced one of three years for each offence—189 in all.

It is not generally appreciated that ice is a factor in transporting animals of various kinds long distances from their habitats. A large iceberg that had floated out into the Atlantic some years ago was boarded by a sealer for the purpose of taking the seals that had clung to it. To their surprise the men found embedded in the ice a large polar bear. The assumption is that years before the bear in crossing a crevasse of a glacier had fallen in and had been caught and frozen in. Finally, this section of the glacier reached the sea, broke off and drifted away, the bear being finally taken out as perfect as when it died. It was skinned, and some of the flesh eaten.

According to German statisticians, there are nine cities with more than 400,000 German inhabitants, though the term German seems to be rather elastic. They are: Berlin, 1,650,000; Vienna, 1,146,000; Hamburg, 626,000; New York 583,000; Amsterdam, 513,000; Brussels, 458,000; Munich, 411,000; Chicago, 407,000; Liepsig, 400,000. Forty-four others have over 100,000, including, in the United States, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Cleveland and Baltimore. The percentage of Germans is given as 39 in New York, 37 in Chicago and St. Louis and 18 in Philadelphia.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"Laugh and grow fat" is a proverb that is worthy of being made a part of one's creed for daily living. Proverbs are merely epitomes of human experience, and that particular saying commends itself to the observant mind. A laugh is complex in its workings, but direct in its result. It has a physical movement, causing the arteries to dilate and the flow of blood to hasten, thus promoting an increase of vital processes and a mental action through stimulating the blood vessels of the brain. A nervous invalid was induced to try a "laughter treatment" a year ago. She read all the funny books she could find, laboriously conned even the comic weeklies, and when she could find nothing else to laugh at laughed at herself for the effort. Every one knows how inevitably a forced laugh, if continued, will merge into a genuine burst of hilarity, and the invalid found herself shrieking with laughter over the absurdity of it. In a month she began to feel stronger and in less than a year wholly recovered.

The New York World says: "As a lawyer, Mr. Stanley, of Kansas, defended a negro murderer, and after his sentence wrote to the Governor a strong indorsement of the negro's application for a pardon. Now, as Governor Stanley of Kansas, he has had to pass upon a new application for his old client's pardon, and his own letter, written as a lawyer, has been laid before him. But he refuses to grant the pardon and says that as Governor it is his right and duty to view the matter "in an entirely different light." This raises the very interesting though by no means new question: In the code of legal ethics what does a client's fee buy and what does it leave unbought?

It is pertinent to the present passion for professional and amateur pugilism to note that life insurance companies, which make a systematic study of vital statistics, regard pugilists and professional athletes of all classes as extremely bad "risks"; regard ministers, the least muscular class of all, as the very best risks. There are many preachers in the pulpit of eighty. A prize-fighter, like Fitzsimmons, who can enter the ring at thirty-eight is a rarity. The average minister earns about $350 a year. The average prize-fighter earns about that much for a single appearance in the ring. But the prize of longevity is not for him, but for the man of only enough muscle to carry his frame about.

It is extremely difficult to get anything but approximate figures concerning the number of deaths resulting from forest fires, but isorated paragraphs tell something of the story. During the terrible fires of 1894, when millions of feet of lumber burned, the town of Hinckley lost over 200 souls of its population. In 1871, a year made so memorable by its great conflagrations, the loss of life from the towns on the west shore of Lake Huron was over 5,000, and this territory was a mere tithe of the burned-over country. In the Minnesota fires of four years ago the villages lying on a line between Carlton and Pine City, where the flames took their course, in 130 miles of territory over twenty towns were wiped out and in Carlton and Pine counties alone the loss of life was over 1,000 persons. If one considers the fact that these figures come from small tracts and that they are from but one fire, while millions of acres are burned over every year, and the fires have been doing their work since America has been in existence some idea of the awful loss of life may be approximated. It is safe to say that fire in the forests has been responsible for the deaths of millions of people.

There has long been a legend that there is a lost Spanish gold mine in Mohave County, Arizona. It is reported that this mine has just been rediscovered, and that a sample of the ore has been taken out and assayed. It runs $240 to the ton. This mine was certainly worked by the Spaniards seventy-five years ago. Its abandonment was caused by the Halpi Indians, who massacred all the miners and filled up the shaft. The rediscovery of this mine was made by F. B. Johnson, of El Paso, who came into the possession of the plot and description of the property while in the city of Mexico a few years ago. An old Spanish gold mine is located in San Diego County, Cal., and is alleged to be haunted. It was discovered about five years ago by two Mexicans. The two Mexicans went to work to clear the shaft of its rubbish, and had only got down a short distance when a terrifying manifestation took place in the shaft where they were working. They fled for their lives, leaving their picks and shovels behind them. They never went back. Several different persons to whom they related their experiences have tried to open up the mine since, but in every case they have been frightned off. The mine will remain abandoned until some one with courage undertakes to open it.

Japan got its first telegraph line in 1869. To-day it has 144,570 miles of line in service, with 1,397 offices.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 9.

Subject: The Good Samaritan, Luke x., 25-37—Golden Text: Lev. xix., 18—Memory Verses, 33-35—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

25. "A certain lawyer." A teacher of the law. A modern theologian. "Stood up." Jesus must have been in some building, discoursing on some subject that suggested the question asked by the lawyer. "Tempted Him." Or tested Him. The question was not asked from any desire to know his own duty, but for the purpose of testing the knowledge of Jesus. "Master." Or teacher, the same as rabbi. "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" The question is highly important. Eternal life is the true spiritual life of the soul—that which is natural to it in its highest state, and of all things in this world is most worthy the seeking. His question was, How can I become a child of God and a possessor of that true spiritual life that will endure forever?

26. "What is written." As a teacher of the law He should be able to tell, and He was able, as His answer shows. "How readest Thou." What we gain from the Bible depends upon how we read it.

27. "He answering said." He replied by quoting the great summary of man's duty toward God in Deuteronomy 6: 5, and a statement of the law of love from Leviticus 19: 18. "Thou shalt love." The religion of the Bible does not consist in good external acts, in prayers, in our zeal for Christ, in performing the deeds of the law, or in being made happy, but in love to God and man. "With all thy heart." This is supreme affection to God. The heart is the seat of the affections, desires, motives and will. It is the centre of all physical and spiritual life, the central focus from which all the rays of the moral life go forth. "With all thy soul." He loves God with all his soul, or rather, with all his life, who is ready to give up life for His sake—to endure and suffer rather than dishonor God. "With all thy strength." To the extent of giving all of our physical powers in His service. "With all thy mind." The intellect belongs to God. This embraces the whole man. A persons who thus loves God will be wholly and unreservedly given to God and will be satisfied with Him. He will admire and obey God. There will be no looking to this vain world for delight and happiness, for all our joy will be in Him. "Thy neighbor as thyself." This is nothing short of the golden rule. Matt. 7: 12. 1. We will have no ill will for our neighbor. 2. We will recognize his rights. 3. Protect his interests. 4. Actually love him. We are even required to love our enemies.

28. "This do, and thou shalt live." Shalt have already eternal life, the life of heaven; for this heart of love is eternal life. It is the life of saints and angels in paradise. It makes heaven what it is.

29. "Desiring to justify himself." (R. V.) The conscience of this learned lawyer was touched and he saw that he was destitute of the love he had just declared to be necessary in order to inherit eternal life. "Who is my neighbor?" The degree in which he had kept the law of love would depend on the answer to this question. How wide a circle does "neighbor" embrace? Unwind that word neighbor, and it measures off the whole of our earthly life, it covers all our practical, everyday duties. But to the Jewish mind "neighbor" was simply "Jew." The Samaritans and Gentiles were, of course, excluded.

30. "Jesus answering said." Here it was that Christ could, in a parable, show how far Judaism was from even a true understanding, much more from such perfect observance of the law, as would gain heaven. "From Jerusalem to Jericho." It was a very dangerous road, lying much of the way in a deep ravine through soft rocks in which caves abound, affording shelter to miscreants who sallied forth to prey upon travelers.

31. "Certain priest." A large number of priests and Levites dwelt at Jericho. This priest might have been passing to or from the temple service at Jerusalem. "He saw him." And knew that a fellow man was suffering and in need. "On the other side." He no doubt could frame many excuses for not stopping.

32. "Likewise a Levite." A Levite was one of the tribe of Levi; a priest was of the family of Aaron in that tribe. The Levites performed the humble services of the temple, as cleaning, carrying fuel and acting as choristers. The scribes and lawyers were frequently of this tribe, which, in fact, was set apart by Moses as the intellectual body in the nation. "Passed by." His conduct was the same as the priest's had been. These two men would naturally be expected to befriend the man. Being in the line of religious work does not necessarily make a man religious.

33. "A certain Samaritan." The Samaritans were a half-heathen people, greatly despised and hated by the Jews. "Had compassion." Although they had no right to expect any help from a Samaritan yet he hastened to assist the suffering man.

34. "Bound up his wounds." He did the very best he could for the man with the remedies he had at hand. "On his own beast." This all took time and effort, but he did not hesitate and make excuses. Real love does not ask how little, but how much it may do. "To an inn." This was a public house where all comers were received.

35. "On the morrow." He evidently remained with him that night. "Two pence." A pence or Roman denarius is worth about sixteen cents, but it would be equivalent to eight or ten times as much in our day.

36. "Which—thinkest thou." This question almost compelled the lawyer to speak highly of the Samaritan. "Was neighbor unto him." The parable implies not a mere enlargement of Jewish ideas, but a complete change of them. It is truly a gospel-parable, for the whole old relationship of mere duty is changed into one of love. The question now is not, Who is my neighbor, but, Whose neighbor am I? The gospel answer the question of duty by pointing us to love. Wouldst thou know who is thy neighbor? Become a neighbor to all by the utmost service thou canst do them in their need. The parable points up to Him who, in our great need, became neighbor to us, even at the cost of all He had.

37. "Do thou likewise." He to whom you ought thus to show mercy in order to become his neighbor is your neighbor. I should be ready to help every person who needs my assistance. The command is imperative, "Go and do thou likewise." I should "go" wherever a human soul is to be found and, with a heart filled with love, carry the gospel of Christ. There are burdened and sorrowful hearts who need a word of cheer; hearts crushed under the load of sin who need to be pointed to the Saviour, and it is my duty to use my best endeavor to do this even though they may live on the other side of the globe. To the extent of my ability I am responsible for the salvation of the world.

Bubonic Plague in Glasgow.

Consul Taylor, at Glasgow, reports to the state department that nine cases of suspected bubonic plague exist in that city, two deaths having occurred, and that the disease is spreading.

It is reported that Lord Roberts has issued a proclamation formally annexing the Transvaal to the dominions of the British crown.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Sympathy—The Blessing of Sacrifice—Desiring a Better Country—A Prayer for Honesty—Help Us to Trust Thee—"Send Thy Blessed Spirit."

A woman sang within the market-place,
Unto the motley throng that passed her by;
A hooded cloak half hid her writhled face,
And clung about her gaunt form pityingly.

To youth and maid she sang of Love and May,
To tired hearts she crooned a vesper hymn,
And children laughted to hear her roundelay,
And death was calmer for her requiem.

She cheered a wanderer with song of home,
A doubting heart she led to Hope's fair morn;
Such varied songs! and when the night had come
This sweetest singer of the world had gone.

Men seek her vainly through the passing years,
She only comes to them an unsought guest,
Giving her tender songs for smiles and tears,
Leaving their tears and smiles forever blest.

—Alice Joy Mason in Universalist Leader.

The Blessing of Sacrifice.

History tells of the servant whose master was sold into Algeria, and who sold himself and wandered years in the great desert in the mere hope of at last finding and freeing his lord; of the obscure man of the Eastern city who, misunderstood and unpopular, left a will stating that he had been poor and suffered for the lack of water, and so had starved and slaved through life to build an aqueduct for his native town that the poor might not suffer as he had; of the soldier in the battle, wounded in cheek and mouth and dying of thirst, but who would not drink lest he should spoil the water for others, and so yielded up his life. But this capacity of sacrifice and sympathy is but the little in man answering to what is large in God. Here deep answers unto deep. The definition of the Divine One is, He remembers those in bonds, and it is more blessed to give than to receive; more blessed to feed the hungry than starving to be fed; more blessed to pour light on darkened misunderstanding than ignorant to be taught; more blessed to open the path through the wilderness of doubt than wandering to be guided; more blessed to bring in the bewildered pilgrim than to be lost and rescued; more blessed to forgive than to be forgiven; to save than to be saved.—Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D.

Desiring a Better Country.

God's end and the soul's good are attained, if the breaking up of the temporary desert home quickens the onward march; lip and heart attuned to the resolve, "Now we desire a better country, that is, an heavenly." But for that trial you might have forgotten that the wilderness was not your final rest or portion. You might otherwise have permitted fond fibres of affection to root you to earth. You might have continued in the pursuit of tinted air-bubbles; like one of Bunyan's well-known characters in his dream, preferring feathers and dust to the beckoning angel and the gleaming crown, dimming your eye to "the Better Country." God has, in mercy, shut out the garish noontide, and lighted up His own fiery column with its own golden splendor. He has illuminated it with the words which you can turn, in all time to come, into a pilgrim chant—a "song of degrees," like one of those used by the Jews in going up to their greatest feast: "God is not ashamed to be called their God, for He hath prepared for them a city." Your affliction has brought heaven nearer. It has served to wean from the too alluring fascinations of the present. It has forged adamantine chains to link you to the unseen and eternal.—J. R. Macduff, D. D.

A Prayer for Honesty.

O Lord Jesus Christ, Pattern and Teacher of all mutual love and human brotherhood, so fill thy Church with the pure spirit of thy grace that it may show to men the pattern of thy thought in common life. In all social relations let pride and covetousness be cast out and selfishness restrained. May our judges decide in righteousness, our legislators deliberate in thy fear, our rulers execute the laws without respect of persons. Quicken the conscience of our citizens, that they may think and choose aright. In all business may honesty prevail. In all social meetings may the spirit of brotherhood control the thoughts of men. So purify our national life that more and more thy love may shine through it for the help of the world, and the problems of our dwelling together be solved by the guidance of thy Good Spirit. And to Thee be praise for all progress and pure attainment, ever more! Amen.

Help Us to Trust Thee.

Light of the World, whose glory shines in the face of Jesus Christ, grow in our darkness to the splendor of the perfect day! Thou dwellest in mystery of light, and we reach up toward Thee in full assurance of Thy presence and Thy will to make us pure. Disperse our fears. Transforms our ambitions. Teach us to leave the paths of shadow for the ways of truth. Help us to trust Thee wholly and to take each step Thy wisdom shows in quiet confidence and joyful hope, assured of Thee whatever else may fail. May the revelation of Thyself through us grow ever clearer as we walk with Thee. Let it shine in common things and quiet hours, from Thee to us; from us, by Thee, to those who need and see Thee not, that we may show Thy glory and be made partakers of the joy of Christ. Amen!—Closet and Altar.

"Send Thy Blessed Spirit."

Thou living God, who art the Eternal Love, who hast taught us that all our doings without love are nothing worth: send thy blessed Spirit and from thine own fulness of life pour into our hearts that most excellent gift of a holy love, which is humble, meek, kind, and long-suffering, the very bond of peace and of all perfectness. This we ask in the name of the Savior, Jesus Christ, the Son of thy love, who is forever glorified with thee, O Father, and the Holy Spirit—one God of all grace. Amen.

Do what your hands find to do, but do not reach out and take what does not belong to you and which was never intended for you.—Anon.

Man is not sufficient for his own happiness; he is not happy except the presence of God be with him.—Newman.

FOR PRESIDENT:
WM. J. BRYAN,
of Nebraska.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
of Illinois.

FOR MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM THE FOURTH DISTRICT:
SIDNEY J. BOWIE,
of Calhoun.

IN placing the above ticket at our mast-head THE BANNER would wish to set before its readers the various causes which have led the national Populist party to forego making any nominations of its own and endorsing the nominees of the Democratic party.

The fundamental principles of both the Populist and the Democratic parties are the same—the rule of the people, by the people, for the people. The formation of the People's Party was not a deviation from the principles of the Democratic party, but merely accentuated the fact that the old Democratic party had become sluggish and inert; that new conditions had arisen which demanded prompter action than it appeared probable the older party was willing to take.

The Peoples Party may well be termed the advance guard of the Democratic party. It sought the greatest good to the greatest number, and has shown its unselfishness by seeking this end through the most accessible means. Why delay for years, for the sake of mere partisanship, what can be accomplished at once by joining hands with those ready and willing to aid us? Upon its organization it was at once noticeable that the Populist platforms contained the essence of democracy, and the Democratic party recognizing this fact has adopted the leading planks as a prominent feature of their own platform. Thus Democrats and Populists have now one common platform.

By common consent, in 1896, both Democrats and Populists recognized Wm. Jennings Bryan as the one man possible to lead the combined parties to victory, but there was a division of opinion upon the best man for Vice-President, and the consequence was that Mr. McKinley was elected President.

In this year of grace, 1900, the Populist party in national convention again nominated W. J. Bryan, and the Democratic party followed suit by doing likewise. At first there was repeated the difference of opinion as to the Vice-President, but remembering four years ago, this difference has been overcome and the Populist party and the Democratic party have the same nominees, whose names we are proud to place at the head of our columns.

The same causes that in national affairs have brought the Populists and Democrats together have been operating right here at home, although we had one other grievance in Alabama. That was honest elections. As long as the Populist imagines he is being, or about to be, deprived of his vote, so long does he continue to desire a separate organization. Let him feel convinced that his vote will be honestly counted and in nearly every case he is willing to return to the Democratic party. To accomplish this end we believe is the desire and earnest wish of every good man, whether Populist or Democrat. We are assured that the forthcoming election will be all that could be wished, and the Fourth District of Alabama will hold an election when every man's vote will be counted for the candidate he has voted for. The unanimous nomination of Sidney J. Bowie of Calhoun, and the high esteem in which he is held, induces us to accept him as our candidate for member of congress from this district, believing that by so doing we are supporting a gentleman who desires nothing but the honest vote of every honest man, and that the best interests of all the people will be best served by his election by an overwhelming majority in the white counties.

HON. L. H. Reynolds has filed notice of contest with Circuit Clerk E. B. Deason. Amongst other things he cites, that at twelve boxes in Elmore county votes were taken from him and given to Oliver; and at Beat 18, 176 votes were taken from Reynolds and added to Oliver. There are other interesting charges but those above mentioned are the most important.

It has been suggested that, on account of the muddled figures in Elmore county, Mr. Oliver will decline to defend the contest. We have always had a high regard for Mr. Oliver, and believe that if he is convinced that some of his indiscreet friends in Elmore county have been over-zealous in his behalf and made fraudulent returns, he is not the man to wish to take advantage of it, but will cheerfully accept the expressed wish of the people and stand aside.

It is also rumored that suit will be brought against Dan McCoy, ex-Sheriff of Elmore county for $5000 damages for neglect of duty in the August election.

Mr. Reynolds seems to have a strong case and intends to fight the matter to a finish.

WE are glad to learn that some of Clanton's leading citizens are bestirring themselves in the matter of a first-class hotel for the town There is a splendid opening here for a modern, up-to-date hostelry, and it would be of lasting benefit to the town, as well as a remunerative investment to its proprietors.

THE Populist National Committee has issued a stirring address o the people, especially appealing to all Populists to stand by the nominees, Bryan and Stevenson, and so elect them by a magnificent majority.

Cotton Growers Protective Ass'n

A meeting was held at the court house, Clanton, on Tuesday morning for the purpose of organizing the Cotton Growers, Protective Association of Chilton county.

W. H. Conway was elected chairman and W. H. Sartor sec.

After some discussion a temporary organization was formed with W. H. Conway, president, W. I. Mullins, vice-president, and Alex. G. Dake, secretary-treasurer.

Vice-presidents for each beat were then elected as follows:

Bert 1—J. W. Sorrell, W. L. Honeycutt. Beat 2—L. H. Reynolds, I. N. Langston, Ira Campbelle. Beat 3—W. P. White, A. S. Jones, John Nix. Beat 4—J. W. Littlejohn, Wylie Fosher, W. H. Sartor. Beat 5—H. A. J. Harris, Ben H. Wells, H. B. Oliver. Beat 6—John Vinson, A. T. Hathcock. Beat 7—R. H. Martin, C. J. Coburn. Beat 8—R. P. Kendrick, C. W. Dyer. Beat 9—A. F. Childress, W. A. Mims, J. W. Franzen.

Beat meetings were called to be held next Tuesday at the several polling places in the county, except Beat 9 where the meeting will be held at Thorsby instead of Strasburg, and the Vice-presidents will be supplied with all the necessary literature, etc., to form beat organizations. Each beat will be entitled to elect ten delegates to the county convention to be held at Clanton on Tuesday, September 18, at 10 a.m. when the permanent organization will be affected.

The vice-presidents are instructed that if not less than 400 members are included in the organization the annual dues will be not more than 25 cents per member.

UP THE RHINE.

Rome, Italy, Aug. 4, 1900

I left mirth loving, lace making, woman and dog working Brussells after a short stay of two days, and was off for Cologne. I was quite happy to get into German talking folks as I had not been able to "shoot off my bassoo" all through France and Belgium, as French is spoken in both countries and I could ask for bread and water and some other things too. Thanks to my old friends B. Wolff, of Montgomery, and Frank Hattemer, of Ft. Deposit, Ala., both of whom taught me German as a boy, and which stood me in hand well all through Germany and Switzerland, as that country speaks German through most of it. A little French and a little Italian on two sides lying next to these two countries. We reach Aix la Chappelle, the ancient capital of the Germano-Roman Empire, founded by the great Charlemagne, whose body still lies in its original tomb in that town. Saw the much spoken of cathedral of Cologne where a piece of the real cross is, and where the ashes of the three wise men of the east are kept, so they say. Saw the church of St. Ursula where the bones of the 11,000 virgins are imbeded in its walls. You can read the story, it's too much for me to tell it all. I went to see the church as it was named Ursula, that being the name of my old "dumpling" over in America. Again, who cares anything about the bones of a virgin. I, like they, dressed in flesh and skin and clothes. Then I took steamer up the Rhine from Cologne to Mayence (look at your map) and there I beheld all that fancy can conceive, that artist can paint, that sculptor can carve, that poet can write, that dreamer can dream, that visions can be, all in truth that nature can be in prestine beauty adorned by man, "haloed" in historic glory and withal covered with a bloody memory and the play ground of the accursed feudal system of the dark ages. Here a castle, there a cliff, yonder a rapid, here a wall, while railway trains hurry along both sides of the cliff changing this moment into a dark tunnel through solid rock, thence out in the sunlight on the edge of a rock ledge 1,000 feet above a town; thence again disappearing only to appear again in like manner and place. The Hudson is grand in yards while the Rhine is grand in miles. Take this trip by all means, tourist, if you love nature in a frolic, and the creator in glee. Any guide book will give you a detailed account of the castles as they come and the legend that belongs to each. The great puzzle to me is how they ever raised any children on those battlements and cliffs. Wife would break me buying rope if we lived on a castle on the Rhine, to tie the children in I know. So pretty as they are, I would not swap my little white wood cottage on level ground for two of them. We disembark at Mayence at 10 o'clock p.m., quite hungry. I try a restaurant for a beefsteak, can't remember the German word for beefsteak, so I call for cow flesh, which set the pretty waitress into convulsions of laughter, though laughed at I enjoyed seeing her laugh and had a merry time talking and eating. Next day we took rail for Heidelberg and there I saw the "castle-palace" as I am pleased to call it. I do so as it is a combination of palace and fortress. I feel fully paid for all the money I spent on this trip in fairly reveling through room after room, dungeon after dungeon, grotto and vale and hol-

Motive: Money Not Philanthropy.

In the absurd publications with which compress owners fill certain Southern papers they fail to inform the public that their motive is not philanthropy but dollars. Long accustomed to make big profits out of the necessity of reducing the old bale's size by a second compression, they have come to believe that cotton is grown in order that it may be compressed. The farmer, however, does not labor early and late merely to provide a fat living for a privileged class. He sells his cotton to the man who will give him the most money, and he has it baled in the way that will cost him the least. If he is within reach of a Roundlap bale plant, he hauls his cotton there because he knows that by having it put in Roundlap bales the burlap covering used will cost him at out 50 cents per bale less than bagging and ties, and that his cotton, not needing to be recompressed, will sell for a premium more than sufficient to pay the baling charge. He knows, too, that if the time should ever come when it will not pay him to have his cotton put up in Roundlap bales he can have it baled in some other way that will pay him

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. S. Johnson, Jr. Drug Store.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN

Popular Square Purses.

The oblong square purses, which open with an ordinary clasp like that which closes the change divisions of ordinary purses at the side, are rather more popular now than the envelope-shaped purses which have jeweled buttons and two buttonholes to fasten them. These purses are studded with jewels in gold ring settings. In some the jewels outlining the edges of the purses, and in others dotting the whole of the side.

Exercise For Young Girls.

If growing girls with flabby muscles and a backbone in a perpetual state of collapse, and wives and mothers relieved from the cares of home and the spur and necessity that has kept them moving through the year, would make it a matter of conscience to take a brisk walk in the early morning, followed by a more leisurely stroll in the late afternoon,they would derive much more benefit from their summer's outing. Walking is the best possible form of exercise, infinitely better than the wheel, and walking with some object in view is better than an aimless saunter. To stay in the house two or three days at a time, even with doors and windows open, is the surest way to bring on headaches and lassitude.

The Club Woman's Bonnet.

To-day the finest type of club-woman refuses to wear a murdered bird on her bonnet. More than this, she is co-operating with earnest Audubonites, by petition and bird programme at the club, to save her feathered friends from the hand of the mercenary slayer. It may be suprising, but not only does thoughtless fashion lead the fair sex into a custom that borders onto savagery, thus threatening the extinction of entire species of birds, but there is to be considered a serious economic side. Specialists who are members of the American Ornithologist's Union are authority for the statement that the bird population has been so reduced that the increase and ravages of insects are positively dangerous to agricultural interests.—Bertha Damaris Knobe,in the Woman's Home Companion.

The Women of China.

The important work of woman, we believe, is in the home. This does not mean that we think women are fit only to do housework. On the contrary, most of our housework is done by men. Among foreigners, who have experience in our country, it is a saying that the Chinese cook is second only to the French, and the Chinese house servant is second only to the German serving man. The work of woman among us is to bear children, and it is desired that she shall be free from the burden of toil, so that she may have time and strength to rear her family well and to make her home happy. The Chinese mother is most anxious for the welfare of her children, watching them with great care as they grow up. She attends to the education of the daughters, and the father directs the education of the sons. The family tie is very strong among my people, and the lov. and attention which parents give to the bringing up of children is equaled only by the veneration and respect which children show toward their parents. This family love is part of the nature, the religion, the history, and tradition of China.—Madame Wu, in Harper's Bazar.

Women and Golf.

Golf has won its way to the forefront of popularity for a number of reasons. It may be played by men with men, by women with women, by sons of all ages. In no other game is there the same opportunity for healthful exercise without much or necessary danger of that overexertion which tells unfavorably upon the physical condition in the long run. Besides, golf is the very poetry of athletics, picturesque, exciting, stimulating and social. The recent tournament at Morristown, N. J., has shown much splendid skill on the part of women golfers, some of them, as Miss Ruth Underhill and Miss Beatrix Hoyt, already renowned among fair votaries of outdoor sport, and coming to the links with former honors thick upon them; while others, as Miss Genevieve Hecker and Miss Elsa Huribut, approximate the highest excellence in the staying power of their play. Little wonder it is that the young women whose mettle is so finely proven in this delightful game are specimens of vigorous endurance which Hebe might envy. Our girls are taller, finer and more beautiful than at any previous era, and much of their improvement in looks and health must be attributed to their fondness for outdoor life.—Collier's Weekly.

The Cult of the Painted Button.

Painted buttons are almost as much of a fad with the Parisienne as jeweled tortoises used to be. The artist of name and fame does not think button-painting beneath his skill. To be sure, the button craze of the French mondaine has nothing in common with the button-wearing mania of the politician and newsboy element of the country. Portraits and "sentiments" do not adorn the buttons which enhance the splendor of Madame's gown —and cost her many a hundred francs. Small, antique buttons are much coveted and cost as much as $15 apiece. The approved button for gowns of white or pale-tinted cloth is a single jewel or metal set with tiny pearls or turquoises. The painted button is sometimes so perfect a work of art in miniature that a cabinet would seem a more fitting place for it than a frock. Some of these buttons are adorned with wee landscapes, the wearer's favorite flowers, or symbols of her favorite sports or pastimes. Some have only a monogram, others are painted with no special design, merely two or three shades of one color "poetically blended." A set of these buttons, decorated with originality, is the favorite birthday or wedding gift of the day, in Paris.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Mrs. Mary G. Rhenbottom, of Indiana, is said to be the most successful woman preacher in the West. For five years she has been pastor of the Christian Church at Millersburg, Ind., and circuit preacher for the towns of Wakarusa, Pleasant Hill and Bellevile.

The Queen of the Belgians takes a personal interest in dumb creatures. It was through her efforts that the dogs in Spa are no longer muzzled in the streets, and she constantly visits her stables, attached to her villa, to assure herself of the welfare of her horses.

FADS AND FANCIES

An autumn gown of plaid will be in good style.

Miles of narrow black ribbon velvet are used on thin muslin gowns.

Pale blue remains in high favor in everything and for everything.

Dressing jackets are now made after the style of the kimono wrapper.

Tucks are still used in blouses and skirts, though cords are looked upon as newer.

A fichu of fringed silk is admirably adapted to elderly women who like to look smart.

The high collar is still worn, but it is not as new as the neck being cut low and finished severe.

Transparent effects in every possible guise now stand at the head of the list of prevailing fashions both here and abroad.

Colored silk laces are some of the new things seen in the pretty new gowns. They match exactly the materials with which they are used.

Silk petticoats are made with a gathered fulness at the back, and across the front and hips are fitted quite plain and drop far down from the waist-line.

The newest skirts are shirred or corded at the back for about five inches down from the waist, and from there stand away from the figure in graceful folds.

The prettiest lounging jackets and robes are made with straight-hanging loose fronts, which are about one and one-half inches in width and stitched in several rows, and are worn so as to pitch down in front and up in the back.

The pretty little belts that some women are wearing in France bring out the monogram again. They are of suede or pig skin, and have a large monogram clasp in front and the same monogram in smaller letters at the back and sides.

DEVICES TO KILL BOXERS

INVENTIVE GENIUS STIMULATED BY THE NEWS FROM CHINA.

General Greely Receiving Hundreds of Letters Containing Devices, Mostly Chimerical, to Be Used by the Nations to Destroy the Chinese Rebels.

Brigadier-General A. W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, Washington, is receiving so many letters containing suggestions for devices to be used in the war of the nations of the world against China that the problem of disposing of the communications is a serious one, declares the New York Sun. The inventive genius of the entire civilized world appears to have been stimulated by the news from China, and communications are received from many quarters of the globe, written in various languages. The letters received by General Greely and the Signal Office every day present countless ideas, ranging all the way from a cipher code to a scheme for destroying the combined forces of the "Boxers" at a single blow.

While some of the suggestion are practical, the greater number are wholly chimerical. Most of the letters are accompanied by drawings, some of them works of art and others a few scratches on yellow wrapping paper. A large percentage of the communications are from ignorant persons, two letters having recently come from persons in this country addressed to "The Hon. United States." One reached General Greely which was addressed to "Grover Cleveland, President of the United States Republic." Many of the communications are sent by persons giving fictitious names, the correspondents in some instances explaining that they do not care to have their identity disclosed because it would subject them to the ridicule of their friends if the War Department rejected their plans. Hardly a letter reaches the Signal Office which does not contain the clause, "Do not let the newspapers learn of this." The letters contain widely different ideas, but the greater number pertain to air ships and war balloons. So many letters are received on these subjects that a clerk has been designated "Balloon clerk."

Probably the most absurd idea concerning aerial navigation was recently received in a communication accompanied by beautifully executed drawings. The first drawing represented an eagle soaring in the clouds and carrying a lamb in its claws. Then followed a picture of two eagles fastened together and carrying a full grown sheep. Under the second picture was written, "If the first is possible, why not this?" Then followed four eagles fastened together carrying a basket far above the clouds. The last and largest picture represented the climax of the scheme. On this could be seen twenty-five eagles fastened by small cords to a car containing a man, who was calmly driving in the great birds among the clouds, while he casually dropped chunks of dynamite on the "Boxers" below.

The letter from this genius says: "Nature furnishes this flying machine. It is very easy to raise the eagles for the purpose and they can be trained easily. My last picture shows that the twenty-five eagles, plus the tractability shown in falconry, plus my experiments, equal practicability."

Countless are the suggestions for propelling balloons by means of a bicycle gear. One inventor has a device, consisting of a balloon covered with propellers, "for the purpose," he explains, "of making the balloon go wherever you want it to and to prevent its turning over in a wind." Another drawing represents a balloon fitted with an inverted umbrella fastened to the balloon, "which," says the inventor, "will prevent the thing going up too fast. This is the trouble with all balloons." For this General Greely thanked the inventor most politely.

One elaborate drawing, accompanied by what was designated a working model made of wood represents three great cylinders, which are to be filled with gas and are made to float horizontally in the air. From these cylinders is suspended a small car, equipped with ordinary boat oarlocks. The inventor explained in his letter: "This perfect machine does not necessitate any other motive power than the ordinary light oars which are used in boats. They are used on air instead of water. By this means the ship can be guided or propelled anywhere. You have no idea what a hold you can get on the air with a large oar. You can give it a real hard crack."

Another inventor has made an airship which is fitted with wagon wheels to be used in case the ship meets with an accident and falls to the earth. In such an emergency the ship is intended to run on the ground. A similar idea was suggested in a drawing received showing a balloon carrying a car which was made in the form of a boat. This was thought to be very useful by the inventor, as it obviated all danger of the aerial navigator being drowned if he should by mishap drop into the sea. The propeller blades were so arranged that when the craft struck the water they converted it into a sidewheeler boat. Very appropriately the inventor called this the "Sea Scout."

One aspirant for fame submitted an idea which he termed his "balloon fleet." This was composed of twenty or thirty balloons carrying nitro-glycerine. On each balloon was placed a time fuse so arranged that the explosion would occur directly over the enemy. The inventor wrote an enthusiastic note to accompany his model, in which he said he was certain that the plan was practical, "as it was only necessary to turn loose a sufficient number of balloons. Some of them are bound to drop on the Boxers." The writer closed by stating: "I will be glad to furnish quotations for large or small lots."

An inventor from a Western State suggests the making of an air ship, to be propelled by an electric motor, the power to be furnished by a dynamo located on the ground. To quote from the original letter: "It would be an easy matter for the allies to start an airship when they meet the Boxers. The wire supplying the current could be dragged behind, as it is so light it would not interfere with the progress of the ship. If the ship cannot be propelled by electricity, a gas engine can be supplied with gas by means of a long rubber hose."

A genius from Vermont has submitted elaborate drawings in colors representing a system of signals to be used on "any airship which may be bought by the Government."

A numerical cipher code has been received from a Western man who declares that "it baffles human skill to unravel this code." To this statement General Greely agrees most heartily. The letter explains that the code consists of a system of numbers which are to be spoken. For instance. If a General should call out to his aides: "thirty-seven plus fifty-three minus eight," he would mean "attack on the right flank." The letter offering this suggestion has a postcript stating that the code is for sale.

Details of the countless ideas which are being submitted to the War Department could be continued indefinitely. Almost without exception the letters refer to an offer having been received from a foreign Government. Then the inventor sets forth in detail his preference for this Government above all others, and his strong desire that his invention should be purchased by it before some foreign Power profits by the result of his ingenuity.

The number of crank letters is increasing every day. As the news from China develops graver features, the legions of "inventors" who would destroy by means of their war machines the many millions of the Flowery Kingdom grow rapidly in numbers, and their growth means more work and worry for the Chief Signal officer of the Army.

Ingenious Work of a Versatile Convict.

One of the most ingenious attempts at escape ever known has just been nipped in the bud by warden Dowe, of the Utah State Penitentiary. The convict who tried the plan is Clarence L. Maxwell, bank robber, horse thief, author and inventor, who is serving an eighteen-year sentence for the robbery of the Springfield Bank in 1898.

Maxwell took a piece of pipe an inch in diameter and eight inches long from the foot railing of his iron bed, bent the end to form a handle, filled this with lead. Then he rimmed out the barrel of the improvised pistol until it was smooth, and drilled a touch-hole in the top. This is as far as he got when the weapon was discovered. He had planned a spring which would serve as a hammer and strike the head of a match; thus exploding the weapon. How he accomplished all this is a mystery.

His powder was in the heads of parlor matches ground fine, and his bullets pieces of lead and iron. The guards tested some of the powder in a rifle and found it effective. It is supposed he intended to escape when he was being taken into court next month to testify in a case.—Denver Republican.

A Find at Shanghai.

There was dug up a few days ago from the bottom of a mouldy mass of half-forgotten articles, hidden away in the strong-room of the British Consulate, at Shanghai, a genuine relic of Prince Charles Edward Stuart, the young Pretender. It was a handsome white metal "tea-caddy," which an ancient-looking piece of parchment enclosed within stated to have been the identical receptacle in which the unfortunate Prince carried his tea, whenever he was lucky enough to have any through the dark year 1746, when he was being hunted through the Highlands and Western Isles after the fatal field of Culloden. The parchment further relates that the caddy was originally the property of Flora MacDonald, the heroic sharer of the Prince's adventures. It stands about eight inches high, and is inscribed with Flora MacDonald's monogram on the cover.—Shanghai Press.

What a Brindle Cow Did.

An interesting account of the profits in cattle raising was related to me by a friend of mine, who is a well-known stockman in Western South Dakota. He said: "I'll tell you a story that will start you to thinking. A neighbor of mine who lives ten miles west of Rapid City, has a herd of forty-eight cows, which represent the family of a twenty-year-old brindle cow he still owns. He bought the cow fifteen years ago, and in that time she and her offspring have produced that herd, besides $1305 worth of steers sold during those years from the family. The old cow appears just as valuable a breeder as ever, and will likely increase the family before she dies."—Correspondence of the Omaha Bee.

High Prices For Chinese Pottery.

In London recently very high prices were given for some pieces of Nahkin pottery, the purchasers being probably moved to unusual prodigality by a suspicion that after the present Chinese troubles shall have been settled such pottery will be more than ever difficult of procurement. Three vases each ten inches high, brought $113 and a pair of long-necked bottles sold for $1050.

In enlisting for the United States cavalry recruiting officers never accept an enlistment from a man who weighs over 165 pounds, while for infantry or artillery recruits who weigh up to 190 pounds are accepted.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: Children of a King—The Royal House of Jesus, and the Sun, the Moon, the Stars and All Nature Are Its Heritage — Cross Its Heraldic Sign.

(Copyright, 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage who, during his journey homeward has seen much of royal and imperial splendors, in passing through the capitals of Europe, shows that there is no higher dignity nor more illustrious station than those which the Christian has as a child of God; text, Judges viii, 18: "Each one resembled the children of a king."

Zebah and Zalmunna had been off to battle, and when they came back they were asked what kind of people they had seen. The answered that the people had a royal appearance, each one resembled the children of a king. That description of people is not extinct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, they are the sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty. Though now in exile, they shall yet come to their thrones. There are family names that stand for wealth, or patriotism, or intelligence. The name of Washington among us will always represent patriotism. The family of the Medici stood as the representative of letters. The family of the Rothschilds is significant of wealth, the loss of $40,000,000 in 1848 putting them to no inconvenience, and within a few years they have loaned Russia $12,000,000; Naples, $25,000,000; Austria, $40,000,000, and England, $200,000,000, and the stroke of their pen on the counting room desk shakes everything from the Irish Sea to the Danube. They open their hand, and there is war; they shut it and there is peace. The Romanoffs of Russia, the Bourbons of France, the Stuarts and Guelphs of Great Britain are houses whose names are intertwined with the history of their respective nations symbolic of imperial authority.

But I preach of a family more potential, more rich and more extensive—the royal house of Jesus, of whom the whole family in heaven and on earth is named. We are blood relations by the relationship of the cross, all of us are the children of a King.

First, I speak of our family name. When we see a descendant of some one great, celebrated in the last century, we look at him with profound interest. To have had conquerors, kings or princes in the ancestral line gives lustre to the family name. In our line was a King and Conqueror. The Star in the East with baton of light woke up the eternal orchestra that made music at His birth. From thence He started forth to conquer all nations, not by trampling them down, but by lifting them up. St. John saw Him on a white horse. When He returns He will not bring the nations chained to His wheel or in iron cages, but I hear the stroke of the hoofs of the snow-white cavalcade that brings them to the gates in triumph.

Our family name takes lustre from the star that heralded Him, and the spear that pierced Him, and the crown that was given Him. It gathers fragrance from the frankincense brought to His cradle, and the lilies that flung their sweetness into His sermons, and the box of alabaster that broke at His feet. The Comforter at Bethany. The Resurrector at Nain. The supernatural Oculist at Bethsaida. The Saviour of one world, and the chief joy of another. The storm His frown. The sunlight His smile. The spring morning His breath. The earthquake the stamp of His foot. The thunder the whisper of His voice. The ocean a drop on the tip of His finger. Heaven a sparkle on the bosom of His love. Eternity the twinkling of His eye. The universe the flying dust of His chariot wheels. Able to heal a heartbreak, or hush a tempest, or drown a world, or flood immensity with His glory. What other family name could ever boast of such an illustrious personage?

Henceforth, swing out the coat of arms! Great famines wear their coat of arms on the dress, or on the door of the coach, or on the helmet when they go out to battle, or on flags and ensigns. The heraldic sign is sometimes a lion, or a dragon, or an eagle. Our coat of arms worn right over the heart hereafter shall be a cross, a lamb standing under it, and a dove flying over it. Grandest of all escutcheons! Most significant of all family escutcheons! In every battle I must have it blazing on my flag—the dove, the cross, the lamb, and when I fall, wrap me in that good old Christian flag, so that the family coat of arms shall be right over my breast, that all the world may see that I looked to the Dove of the Spirit and clung to the Cross, and depended upon the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.

Ashamed of Jesus, that dear friend,
On whom my hopes of life depend;
No! When I blush, be this my shame—
That I no more revere His name.

Next, I speak of the family sorrows. If trouble come to one member of the family all feel it. It is the custom, after the body is lowered into the grave, for all the relatives to come to the verge of the grave and look down into it. First those nearest the departed come, then those next of kin, until they have all looked into the grave. So, when trouble and grief go down through the heart of one member of the family, they go down through them all. The sadness of one is the sadness of all. A company of persons join hands around an electric battery; the two persons at the ends of the line touch the battery and all the circle feels the shock. Thus, by reason of the final, maternal and paternal relations of life, we stand so close together that when trouble sets its battery, all feel the thrill of distress. In the great Christian family the sorrow of one ought to be the sorrow of all. Is one persecuted? All are persecuted. Does one suffer loss? We all suffer loss. Is one bereaved? We are all bereaved.

Their streaming eyes together flow
For human guilt and mortal woe.

If you rejoice at another's misfortune, you are not one of the sheep, but one of the goats, and the vulture of sin hath alighted on your soul, and not the Dove of the Spirit.

Next, I notice the family property. After a man of large estate dies the relatives assemble to hear the will read. So much of the property is willed to his sons, and so much to his daughters, and so much to benevolent societies. Our Lord Jesus hath died, and we are assembled to-day to hear the will read. He says, "My peace I give unto you." Through His apostle He says, "All things are yours." What, everything? Yes, everything! This world and the next! In distinguished families there are old pictures hanging on the wall. They are called the "heirlooms" of the estate. They are very old, and have come down from generation to generation. So I look upon all the beauties of the natural world as the heirlooms of our royal family. The morning breaks from the east. The mists travel up, hill above hill, mountain above mountain, until sky lost. The forests are full of chirp, and buzz, and song. Tree's leaf and bird's wing flutter with gladness. Honeymakers in the log, and beak against the bark, and squirrels chattering on the rail, and the call of the hawk out of a clear sky make you feel glad.

The sun, which kindles conflagrations among the castles of cloud and sets minaret and dome aflame, stoops to paint the lily white, and the buttercup yellow, and the forget-me-not blue. What can resist the sun? Light for the voyager over the deep! Light for the shepherd guarding the flocks afield! Light for the poor who have no lamps to burn! Light for the downcast and the lowly! Light for aching eyes and burning brain and weeping captive! Light for the smooth brow of childhood and for the dim vision of octogenarian! Light for queen and for sewing girl's needle! Let there be light! Whose morning is this? Mine? Your morning. Our Father gave the order and hung it on the sky as a picture and hung it on the wall of fire. It is the heirloom of our race. And so the night. It is the full of the mists from shore to shore from shattered mirrors, and the cross in her glance comes up with great power panting upon the beach, as the waves were foam and fire. The [illegible] blesses God for throwing [illegible] light through the broken window into his cabin, and to the [illegible] light from the other shore this great door of human [illegible] If the sun seem like a king from heaven, instruments [illegible] and earth with great harmony [illegible] plaintive and mild as the throne of their sending sweet voices of those who [illegible] and the sky. No mother [illegible] is guarded [illegible] keeper [illegible] the night [illegible] weary hearts [illegible] is this life's travail [illegible] tree of the night? It [illegible] our family. Ours the [illegible] spring, the crystals of [illegible] of the beach, the [illegible] harmonies of the air.

You cannot see a morning. You must [illegible] around it. The [illegible] royal house of Jesus [illegible] must take [illegible] walks [illegible] of its extent. Let [illegible] around this earth. All [illegible] harvests that wave in [illegible] the [illegible] that pasture [illegible] ains and the [illegible] with them, and [illegible] sat at the feet of [illegible] all these lakes there [illegible] ments, are ours. In the [illegible] among the street [illegible] see stretching off on [illegible] tons of worlds. For [illegible] as they sang at a [illegible] as they will when [illegible] finger flaming torches [illegible] your triumph on the [illegible] other day were made [illegible] go around the eternal [illegible] near it, look to the [illegible] and the wobbling [illegible] The bell of heaven [illegible] high noon. We look [illegible] lets which never fade [illegible] weep, the temples that [illegible] loved ones that never [illegible] that never hurts, the [illegible] wither, the walls that [illegible] tured, the sun that [illegible] can no longer [illegible] and exclaim, "Eye hath [illegible] heard, neither have entered [illegible] of man, the things [illegible] pared for Elect, that [illegible] tides of glory rise we [illegible] held fast lest we [illegible] in the emotions of gladness and triumph.

Almost every [illegible] homestead [illegible] You grow up [illegible] You feed the [illegible] the first [illegible] You ransacked [illegible] the book. You [illegible] appointments [illegible] of the old home. [illegible] My Father's house [illegible] When we [illegible] Chateaubriand [illegible] circumstances [illegible] are modest the world [illegible] that contain the [illegible] Canova and Thorwaldsen [illegible] and the queens who have [illegible] ly halls, or flung over the heather, [illegible] hunted the grouse. But all the [illegible] places of dukes and princes and queens [illegible] as nothing to the family mansion that [illegible] already awaiting our arrival. The [illegible] of the Lord Jesus lifted the pillars [illegible] swung the doors, and painted the [illegible] Angels walk there, and the good of [illegible] ages. The poorest man in that house [illegible] millionaire, and the lowliest a king. [illegible] the tamest word he speaks is an [illegible] and the shortest life an eternity.

It took a Paxton to build for [illegible] worth a covering for the wonderful [illegible] Victoria regia, five feet in diameter. [illegible] our lily of the valley shall need no [illegible] from the blast, and in the open [illegible] God shall put forth its full bloom, [illegible] heaven shall come to look at it, [illegible] aroma shall be as though the [illegible] had swung before the throne a [illegible] censers. I have not seen it yet. I [illegible] a foreign land. But my Father [illegible] for me to come home. I have [illegible] and sisters there. In the Bible I [illegible] ters from there, telling me what [illegible] place it is. It matters not much [illegible] whether I am rich or poor, or what [illegible] world hates me or loves me, or what [illegible] go by land or by sea, it only I [illegible] my eyes at last on the family mansion. [illegible] is not a frail house, built in a month, [illegible] to crumble, but an old mansion, which [illegible] as firm as the day it was built. Its [illegible] are covered with the ivy of many [illegible] and the urns at the gateway are filled [illegible] with the century plants of eternity. [illegible] Queen of Sheba hath walked its halls, [illegible] Esther, and Marie Antoinette and [illegible] Huntingdon and Cecil, and Jeremy [illegible] and Samuel Rutherford and John [illegible] and the widow who gave two mites, [illegible] the poor men from the hospitals, [illegible] last two perhaps outshining all the [illegible] and queens of eternity.

What clasping of hands! What meetings! What coming together of [illegible] What tears of joy! You say, "[illegible] there were no tears in heaven," [illegible] must be, for the Bible says that [illegible] shall wipe them away," and if there [illegible] no tears there, how could He wipe them [illegible] away? They cannot be tears of [illegible] tears of disappointment. They will [illegible] tears of gladness. Christ will come [illegible] say: "What! Child of heaven, is [illegible] much for thee? Dost thou [illegible] under the gladness of this reunion? [illegible] I will help thee." And, with His [illegible] around us and the other arm around [illegible] loved ones, He shall hold us up to [illegible] eternal jubilee.

While I speak some of you with [illegible] hearts can hardly hold your peace. [illegible] feel as if you would speak out and [illegible] "Oh, blessed day!' speed on. Tow[illegible] I press with blistered feet over the [illegible] way. My eyes fail for their weeping. [illegible] faint from listening for feet that [illegible] come, and the sound of voices that [illegible] not speak. Speed on, oh day of [illegible] And then, Lord Jesus, be not [illegible] me if after I have kissed Thy blessed [illegible] I turn around to gather up the [illegible] treasures of my heart. Oh! be not [illegible] with me. One look at Thee were [illegible] But all these reunions are heaven. [illegible] cling heaven, heaven overtopping [illegible] heaven commingling with heaven.

I was at Mount Vernon, and [illegible] the dining room in which our first [illegible] dent entertained the prominent [illegible] this and other lands. It was a very [illegible] esting spot. But, oh, the banqueting [illegible] the family mansion of which I [illegible] Spread the table, spread it wide, [illegible] great multitude are to sit at it. [illegible] the tree by the river gather the [illegible] manner of fruits for that table. [illegible] clusters from the heavenly vineyard [illegible] press them into the golden tankard [illegible] that table. On baskets carry in the [illegible] of which, if a man eat, he shall never [illegible] per. Take all the shot-torn flags of [illegible] ly conquest and entwine them [illegible] arches. Let David come with his [illegible] and Gabriel with his trumpet, and [illegible] with the timbrel, for the prodigal is [illegible] home, and the captives are free, and [illegible] Father hath invited the mighty of [illegible] and the redeemed of earth to [illegible] dine!

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

The nearest approach of a comet to the earth observed was in 1770, when one approached to within 1,400,000 miles of our planet.

The earth within the Arctic circle supports a considerable population, but the Antarctic circle is without trace of human life. Upon eight million square miles surrounding the south pole, the foot of man has never trodden.

Recent experiments, especially in Russia, by Messieurs Tyurin, Spyeshneff and Kravkoff, show that size and weight of vegetables can be greatly increased by electricity. In the case of tubers and roots the simplest means is placing in the ground vertical plates of copper and of zinc connected by wire.

Every kind of glass at a sufficiently high temperature, says Professor Carl Barus, must eventually show complete solubility in water. Under pressure glass dissolves in water heated to 440 degrees Fahrenheit. Sea-water more than about 600 feet beneath the surface will remain liquid at that temperature, and if it penetrates the earth's crust where the temperature is equally high, it will, apart from the pressure, liquefy the silicates or glassy rocks. Professor Barus concludes that at a depth of about five miles, silicates in contact with water are virtually fluid, and that the level of aqueous fusion in the earth is five times nearer the surface than is that of igneous fusion.

The discovery that graphite is an allotropic form of carbon was made in 1880, and it is expected that in 1900 the artificial production of this material will take its place as an important industry. Graphitized carbon electrodes have now been made at Niagara Falls for a year or more. The process that patented by Mr. E. G. Acheson, who believes it the only commercial way of making graphite—consists in breaking up a carbide by heat, practically freeing carbon from chemical or elementary substances. The form of product expected to be in greatest demand is an intimate mixture of pure amorphous carbon and graphite, this mixture being most desirable for paint and foundry facings.

A very interesting and curiously happy coincidence is reported by a divisional forest officer of the central provinces of India. The male bamboo trees, of which there are immense forests in these sections, began recently for the first time, so far as any competent observer knows, the exudation of a sweet, gummy substance, rich in sugar, which the famine-stricken natives have found very palatable, and are consuming in considerable quantities in lieu of other food. The substance, known in India as vansa-lochana, and to Europeans as tabashir, which is taken from the inside of the bamboo stems, is quite a different compound, composed largely of silica. The new substance is thought to depend for its sweetness on a saccharose, very similar, if not identical, with our ordinary cane sugar. The bamboos and sugar canes belong to the same natural order of grasses, and it is not at all surprising that they should yield a similar sweet substance, suitable for food.

An Episode in South Africa.

One man in Smaldeel—an English storekeeper, who had been straddling war issues for months in striving to save his stock in trade—almost cried for joy when the British troops arrived, and instantly urged the correspondents to retire to the secrecy of his chamber, where he opened fizzing bottles to celebrate the occasion. An hour afterward he was very unhappy. Tommy, when he is tired and hungry and in the "bloomin' enemy's country," has not a very delicate conscience regarding property rights vested in wandering poultry and sheep, and he is—that is, some of the soldiers are—inclined to seek for a few odd sovereigns that may have been carelessly tucked away in old stockings. The Englishman, a loyal British subject, stood inviting us cordially to dine with him, when in rushed a black boy exclaiming, "Master! dar killin' de ducks!" Yes, the ducks were all gone, and down the street rode a procession of innocent men, with nice fat fellows, struggling in pairs, flopping from their saddle-rings. It is strange how a flock of fowls, sociably clucking and quacking about a yard, will dwindle away in one short half-hour, as they review a passing army. The Englishman's next shock was when the commanding officer commandeered all his forage and put a sentry over it; that was not so bad, for he was to be paid by Government voucher. He later rushed in shouting: "By God! Do you know they have killed two hundred of my sheep? What shall I do?" "See the provost marshal, of course," we explained, "and get vouchers for them," but before he could act on this sound advice, again he started down the street, and shot away to haul an inquisitive Tommy by the legs out of a window of his house.—William Dinwiddie, in Harper's Weekly.

COLD AIR HEALTH.

Winter About the Best Stimulant People Can Have.

Many persons regard the winter season as an unfortunate visitation. It is considered both uncomfortable to the body and harmful to health. This is an error. Cold is a most potent agent for the restoration and preservation of normal activity on the part of the organs of the human body. It is a wise plan of providence which gives us a change of seasons. The winter cold comes as a tonic to repair the injuries done by the enervating heat of summer. Summer, it is true, has many wise uses in the matter of health. It induces outdoor life, rids the system of poisons through copious perspiration and through the scorching rays of sun destroys germ life. Winter is the great bracer of the system. It stimulates activity in every organ. When cold attacks the surface of the body the blood is set into more free circulation as a means of bodily warmth. It is through the circulation of the blood that the human anatomy is kept in a state of repair. When the food has been digested and converted into liquid form, it is taken up by the blood and carried the rounds of the system for the purpose of repairing the waste places. When the cold causes increased circulation, it also brings about more perfect nutrition. Man's face and hands illustrate how weather-proof the body becomes when exposed to air. Continued activity in circulation on the surface, caused by the air coming in contact with the skin, tends to nourish and thicken the skin. Thus man's skin grows thicker in winter just as animals are supplied with a double coat of fur. The savages who dwell bareheaded in the open air, are seldom, if ever, known to be afflicted with bald heads, while, with the civilian who shields his scalp from air, baldness is prevalent. The Indians, who, if not now, in former days roamed our western borders, practically without clothing to shelter their bodies, became, through long exposure, so inured to the cold that it gave them but little discomfort.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DINING OUT.

Hostess Sometimes Depends on Hair-Trigger Intellects.

If the hostess can catch no comet, she must be contented with meteoric wits, who make up for real brilliancy by saying what they do say quickly and spontaneously—with the punsters, in short, and such hair-trigger intellects. Failing these, says the presumably humorous Gelett Burgess in Harper's Bazar, the last class above the bores positive are those well meaning diners out who load themselves with stories for a dinner as a soldier goes into an engagement with a belt full of cartridges. They may not get a chance for a shot very often, but, given an opening, their fire is accurate and deadly till the last round is gone, when they are at the mercy of a more inventive wit. Yet even these welterweights have their place at the table, for we must have bread, as well as wine. It was one of Lewis Carroll's pet fancies to have a dinner table in the shape of a ring, and half the guests seated inside upon a platform which revolved slowly around the circle till each one had passed opposite every guest seated on the outside of the table. But this would break up many of the little secret schemes for which the modern dinner is planned, and many a young man would suddenly find himself flirting with the wrong lady across the board. And this last hint carries me from the exoteric to the esoteric charms of the dinner. Here however, you must guess your own way. I dare not tell you precisely what it means when Celestine shifts her glass from left to right of her plate, nor what I answer when I raise my serviette by one corner, for Celestine may dine with you some day, and you may remember. You would better not invite me, anyway, for, though I am not a comet, yet I admit I would be mad enough to upset the claret purposely rather than have nothing exciting happen.

"My home town of Grangeville, Idaho, is an example of the rapid growth of communities," says Mr. J. F. Ainslie. "A few years ago the county-seat was established at the town of Mount Idaho. Today Mount Idaho, with its court house, has about twelve families, and Grangeville, only a few miles distant, has a population of 1,200 people."—Washington Post.

Royal Castle at Homburg.

The German empress, accompanied by her children, has gone to Homburg for a stay of about two months and the emperor is to go there for a shorter period. The royal castle at Homburg, where the empress is to reside, is a quaint old place. Its history can be traced for about a thousand years and some historians assert that the "White Tower" rests upon the foundation of an old Roman stronghold. This "White Tower," rising 180 feet in the courtyard of the castle, is the only reminder of the ancient building; all the rest was destroyed by fire in the Thirty Years' war and has been rebuilt since 1690 by the landgraves of Hesse-Homburg. From the Homburg castle there is a lovely view of the Taunus range and a straight avenue from its park leads right up to the mountain ridge.

Puffs under the eyes; red nose; pimple-blotched, greasy face don't mean hard drinking always as much as it shows that there is BILE IN THE BLOOD. It is true, drinking and over-eating overloads the stomach, but failure to assist nature in regularly disposing of the partially digested lumps of food that are dumped into the bowels and allowed to rot there, is what causes all the trouble. CASCARETS will help nature help you, and will keep the system from filling with poisons, will clean out the sores that tell of the system's rottenness. Bloated by bile the figure becomes unshapely, the breath foul, eyes and skin yellow; in fact the whole body kind of fills up with filth. Every time you neglect to help nature you lay the foundation for just such troubles. CASCARETS will carry the poisons out of the system and will regulate you naturally and easily and without gripe or pain. Start to-night—one tablet—keep it up for a week and help the liver clean up the bowels, and you will feel right, your blood will be rich, face look clean, eyes bright. Get a 10c box of CASCARETS, take as directed. If you are not cured or satisfied you get your money back. Bile bloat is quickly and permanently

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Maplesville, Sept. 3, 1900

Editor BANNER: If you will allow me space in the columns of your paper to express a few thoughts, as my time as commissioner is ended in this good old Populist county. I want to express my thanks to the voters of Chilton for the trust reposed in me, and as I feel that I have done my duty as best I could, being a new man in the business, and have served the people to the best of my ability, and have nothing to regret, and thinking that I had given satisfaction to the entire people of my district, but low and behold, after my time is out I am charged with letting niggers at twice their value to certain men, and let them draw the money and they would divide with me. Now, I want to say, right here, that it is false and the person that started it knew better when he told it, and I will refer any man that thinks that I am guilty of such a thing to my friends, both Democrats and Populists, who know me best. Now, Mr. Editor, I know that I am not a perfect man and am liable to make mistakes, which most men do, and I do not say that I have not made some mistakes in my administration as it was one of great responsibility, but we cannot please everybody, but I am as clear of the charge that is against me as the angels of Heaven, and no sane man would believe it. With best wishes for the Banner I remain yours in the work.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1776, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2 00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive. Agricultural Department of State Fair Will Make Fine Display.

A Montgomery dispatch says: The state of Alabama will be represented at the coming state fair, to be held in Birmingham this fall, by the most magnificent agricultural display ever arranged in this state. Commissioner of Agriculture Poole has become interested in the fair, and he stated Monday that he proposed to arrange an exhibit that would excel anything heretofore attempted. The commissioner had a conference with Governor Johnston, and the latter told the commissioner to go ahead with the exhibit and the state would foot the bills. At least $2,500 will be expended on the exhibit. Mr. Poole said that he had not outlined the plan of his exhibit yet, but that he would immediately begin its arrangement. Mr. Poole is one of the most progressive men that has ever held the commissioner's office in this state, and this fact guarantees the success of his exhibit.

Railroad Organized With $20,000,000.

The Birmingham, Alabama and Georgia Railroad company has been chartered by the state of Alabama, with a capital stock of $20,000,000. The incorporators are T. H. Hubbard, E. C. Osborn, John Scott, Thomas H. Kelly, Eugene Zimmerman, J. B. Cobbs, C. H. Hudson, Edward Kelly and E. P. Miller.

The application for the charter stated that the company would build lines of railroad in the counties of Jefferson, Walker, Winston, Lawrence, Blount, Cullman, Marshall, Shelby, St. Clair, Etowah, Cherokee, Calhoun, Talladega, Clay, Randolph and Bibb. The principal office and place of business will be in Birmingham.

It is stated that the active construction of the road will begin at once under the direction of F. W. Kimball, the chief engineer. The contract for the construction work has been let to the Manhattan Construction Company, whose general manager, D. Rogers, is now going over the route.

The nucleus of this new road is said to be the East and West Railroad of Alabama, which now runs from Pell City, Ala., to Cartersville, Ga., and the Tredegar Mineral road, a short line at Jacksonville, Ala.

Big Sum of Money Coming to Alabama.

W. H. Skaggs has returned from Chicago and will remain in Birmingham several days. Mr. Skaggs has recently closed a deal with an English syndicate by which the latter acquires several thousand acres of mineral lands in Alabama, a portion of which is located in the Birmingham district. Mr. Skaggs stated that while the deal had been closed and that the syndicate was one of the strongest in England, still he did not feel justified in giving out the details at present.

He said the sale of the lands meant great things for Birmingham and the mineral district of Alabama. It is in contemplation by the company to develop the properties as soon as practicable, and in doing this an enormous sum of money will be invested in addition to the purchase price of the lands. Among the industrials that have been considered by the purchasers are pig iron furnaces and mills for working the iron into the finished products.

Campaign Committee to Meet.

The official call for the meeting of the state democratic campaign committee, to be held in Birmingham on the 15th inst., was mailed to the members of the committee, the presidential electors and chairmen of the district committee Monday.

Secretary Pugh mailed a copy of the call to Colonel Brewer and one to Colonel Thompson, each of whom claims to be the regular democratic nominee for congress in the Fifth district, and he will mail a copy to the chairman of each of the two campaign committees.

Professor Verner Dead.

Prof. W. H. Verner, president of the University preparatory school, died at his home in Tuskaloosa Monday. He was one of Alabama's most prominent educators and highly respected.

DEATH AND DESOLATION AT GALVESTON

A Message From Governor Sayers Says Three Thousand Lives Were Lost in a Tornado.

AWFUL SCENES WITNESSED IN THE ILL-FATED CITY.

The Damage to Property Will Amount to Millions of Dollars—A Great Commercial City is Stricken With Misfortune, and Her People Appeal for Aid—Every Town in Storm's Path Reports Fearful Loss of Life and Property.

The following message from Governor Sayers, of Texas, was given out Sunday afternoon:

"Information has just reached me that about 3,000 lives have been lost at Galveston, with enormous destruction of property. No information from other points.

"JOSEPH D. SAYERS, Governor."

Galveston, Tex.—(Special.)—The most appalling calamity in the history of modern times has befallen Galveston. Everywhere there is death and ruin and desolation. A great commercial city is stricken with misfortune and her people appeal to the outside world for help. Estimates of the loss of life vary from 600 to 1,000. Parents mourn their children and children are made orphans by the terrible hurricane which swept all of South Texas Saturday and Saturday night.

The damage to business and residence property is beyond computation. The city is almost ruined. The wharf front is entirely gone. Every ocean steamer is stranded. The fine steamer Alamo lies upon the top of the Mallory wharf, and a big English cotton laden steamer was driven ashore at Texas City. Other vessels are aground in different parts of the bay, some hopelessly wrecked. The tug Louise, of the Houston Direct Navigation Company, is under water at Red Fish. Two of the crew were drowned, the remainder escaping in the life boat.

No pen can depict, or language adequately describe the awfulness of the situation. It is simply immense unparalleled, and even those who went through the experience of the storm and survived are so dazed they can hardly realize the enormity of the loss.

In the confusion of Sunday morning it was impossible to secure a list of the dead. A boat was chartered to run to Texas City and on this the Houston Post correspondent had to hurriedly depart. But from what he saw during Saturday and heard from some of the leading business men he can assure the public that they need immediate relief. The object in sending to Texas City was to get into touch with the outside world and let it know that a stricken city is in misfortune and asks the people of the country to send food and clothing and water.

The water works are in ruins and the cisterns all blown away so that the lack of water is one of the most serious of the present troubles. Debris is everywhere. Electric light and telegraph poles are nearly all prostrated and the streets are littered with timbers, slate, glass and every conceivable character of debris. There is hardly a habitable house in the entire city and nearly every business house is badly damaged. The school buildings are unroofed, such edifices as the Ball high school and Rosenberg school buildings being badly wrecked. The fine churches are almost in ruins. The elevators and warehouses are unfit for use, the electric light plant has collapsed and so has the cotton factory.

From Tremont to P street, thence to the beach not a vestige of a residence is to be seen.

In the business section of the city the water was from three to ten feet deep in stores, and stocks of all kinds, including foodstuffs, are total losses. Men in newspaper life are used to harrowing scenes, but the experience of newsgatherers on this fatal Saturday night beggars description. In making the rounds it was nothing to see women and children emerging from once comfortable and happy homes, dazed and bleeding from wounds, the women wading neck deep with babies in their arms. To add, if possible, to the calamity, the city is cut off entirely from the world. The telegraph lines are down and the cable which connects Galveston with Mexico is cut.

In sailing for Texas City Sunday the Post correspondent used a strong glass, but could see nothing of any of the bridges which connect the island with the mainland, but where the bridges should be a big ocean vessel was stranded.

At Texas City the wharves are destroyed and the water front for a mile is littered with the ruins and much of the debris blown there from Galveston. At Texas City three lives were lost.

Galveston is situated on an island extending east and west for twenty-seven miles and is seven miles in its greatest width north and south. No city could be in greater danger with such a horrible visitation as has come to Galveston. In no part of the city with its 68,000 population is it more than 6 feet above the sea level. The flat condition not only points to the desperation of the situation of the people at such a time as this, but their danger may be considered emphasized when it is known that exactly where the city is built the island is only one and one-quarter miles wide.

The storm commenced raging between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning and by noon the waters from the gulf had inundated the island as far inland as Twelfth street. From there the waters were gradually encroached further inland, rising about 15 inches an hour. At 6 p. m. there was 36 inches of water in the lobbies of the Tremont Hotel, the highest point in the city. At 9 o'clock the water on Market street was level with the seats of the cars. After that it gradually receded, but the wind was cyclonic in its force. It reached a velocity of 84 miles an hour and then the instruments in the government observatory were wrecked.

Dr. West, one of the prominent physicians in Galveston, was drowned near the Roseberg school building.

As soon as daylight came and the fury of the wind had abated the work of rescue and searching for the dead commenced. In one room the Post reporter counted seven dead bodies.

The Tremont hotel was converted into a rendezvous for the living. The women and children slept in the dining rooms and parlors and the men lay on the floors and in the hallways.

The first house to collapse was a new three-story brick known as the Dulitz building. Next the Reuter's saloon, a two-story brick, fell with a crash, killing three of the most prominent men in Galveston—Stanley E. Spencer, agent of the German Lloyd Steamship company; Richard Lord and Charles Kilmer, the latter cotton men.

At noon the big wagon bridge went down with a crash and it is thought the other bridges are totally or almost totally wrecked.

Partial List of Dead.

The following is a partial list of the dead:

Stanley E. Spencer, Richard Lord, Charles Kilmer, Mrs. George Burnett and child, Mrs. Geary Burnett and child, Mrs. Judson Palmer, wife of secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mrs. P. Levine and six children, Mrs. John Boone and three children, Captain Pix and family, Dr. Sawyer, Mrs. M. J. O'Keefe, Joe M. McNamara, Mrs. Claude Fordtram, Mrs. Sarah Summer, Mrs. George Reed, Mr. and Mrs. John Becker and four children.

Moyle for Governor of Utah.

The democratic convention at Salt Lake City, Utah, adopted a resolution providing that in case of a democratic legislature the selection of a United States senator should be determined by a caucus of the democratic members.

W. H. King was renominated for congress by acclamation.

For governor, James H. Moyle was nominated on the first ballot.

Earl Li Wants American Escort.

A special dispatch from Shanghai says Li Hung Chang has made a request for American escort to accompany him on his journey to Pekin, and that United States Consul Goodnow is considering his request.

Nashville's Population.

The census bureau announces that the population of Nashville, Tenn., is 80,865, against 76,156 in 1890. This is an increase of 4,697.

HOUSTON SUFFERED HEAVILY.

Every Town in the Storm's Path Reports Fearful Loss of Life.

A Houston dispatch says: The storm that raged along the coast of Texas Saturday night was the most disastrous that ever visited this section. The wires are down and there is no way of finding out just what has happened, but enough is known to make it certain that there has been great loss of life and destruction of property all along the coast and for a hundred miles inland. Every town that is reached reports one or more dead, and the property damage is so great that there is no way of computing it accurately.

The last news from Sabine Pass was received Saturday, and at that time the water was surrounding the old town at the pass and the wind was rising and the waves coming high. From the new town, which is some distance back, the water had reached the depot and was running through the streets. The people were leaving for the high country known as the Back Ridge, and it is believed that all escaped. Two bodies have been brought in from Seabrook, on Galveston bay, and seventeen persons are missing there. Three persons were drowned at Morgan's Point, and others are missing.

Reports From Interior Towns.

At Walter, half the houses in the town were demolished. The south Texas Baptist college is badly damaged and the school house is a wreck.

Not a house in the town of Chappel Hill escaped damage and many were demolished. Business houses also suffered and a fine gin was wrecked.

At Brenham the court house was nearly wrecked and the city hall completely so. Every business house and residence suffered to a greater or less extent.

At Guston stores were unroofed and residences destroyed.

At Rock Island the Baptist church was totally wrecked and several residences unroofed.

At Eagle Lake the damage amounts to $250,000 to the railway and cotton crops and to residences.

At Altair fruit trees were blown out of the ground and residences levelled.

At Rosenberg, in addition to the damage to residences, the opera house and the Baptist church were wrecked. Several persons were injured, Mrs. Coots, an aged lady, probably fatally. Three persons were killed in the county near there, namely, Rev. Mr. Watson, Mrs. L. J. Cantrell and a man named Herman.

Many houses were unroofed at Lexington and their contents ruined by the rain.

Forty-two dwelling and business houses were wrecked at Wallis.

At Fulshear 50 houses were blown down. One person was killed.

In Hardin county a large amount of timber was blown down and there was much damage to property at Village Mills. No damage was done at Corpus Christi or Rockport, on the lower coast.

At Richmond three negroes were killed by the collapse of a church and three others were killed near there. One also was killed at Booth. No names obtainable.

The Town of Alvin Destroyed.

Meagre reports are arriving from the country between Galveston and Houston along the line of the Santa Fe railroad. The tornado was the most destructive in the history of the state. The town of Alvin is reported to be practically demolished. Hitchcock has suffered severely from the storm while the little village of Alta Loma is reported without a house standing. The town of Pearl has lost one-half of its buildings.

L. B. Carlton, president of the Business League of Alvin, reports that not a building is left standing in the town, either residence or business; stocks of goods and house furniture are ruined, and crops are a total loss. Alvin is a town of about 1,200 inhabitants. Seven persons were killed in and near the town. They are: Mrs. Prather, killed in Santa Fe railroad wreck; J. M. Johnston, Mrs. J. M. Johnston, sister of Mrs. Johnston, name not known; S. O. Lewis, John Glaspy, a boy named Richardson.

Defended His Son.

At Sanderson, Fla., Andrew Green shot and killed Alex Hickox. The trouble started between Hickox and Green's son, when the father took the son's part. There were several shots fired, but only one took effect. That was in Hickox's back, causing death almost instantly.

It is said that Hickox drew his pistol first, and that Green killed him in self-defense.

GREAT DISASTER VERIFIED

Not Less Than 1,500 and Possibly 5,000 People Were Destroyed.

PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH MILLIONS

The Bay and Gulf Met, Covering Galveston Island to a Depth of Six to Twelve Feet—Many of the Dead Were Recovered.

The first reports of the appalling disaster which has stricken the city of Galveston, Tex., do not seem to have been magnified. Communication was had with the Island City Monday by boat and reports received at Houston indicate that the death list will exceed 1,500, while the property loss cannot be estimated, although it is known it will reach several millions of dollars.

The following statement of the situation at Galveston and all the coast was sent out from Dallas Monday night:

"From the latest reports, which are considered reliable, the disaster at Galveston and along the coast has not been exaggerated. The bay and gulf met, covering the island to a depth of 6 to 12 feet. During this sudden flood a most terrible storm was raging; the wind blew about an hour. Many of the dead have been recovered; others are still under the debris; others were carried out to sea. It is impossible to give at this time a reliable report as to the number of deaths. From a reliable person who has just come from Galveston it is believed that not less than 1,500 and possibly as many as 5,000 people were destroyed. Of course the wounded and broken are numerous. The damage to property is most shocking.

"It is safe to set this down as one of the greatest disasters that has ever visited the United States. The loss of property and the loss of life is appalling.

Government Help.

Following is the text of President McKinley's telegram received by Governor Sayers at Austin Monday.

"Washington, Sept. 10, 1900.

"To Hon. J. D. Sayers, Governor of Texas:

"The reports of the great calamity which has befallen Galveston and other points on the coast of Texas excite my profound sympathy for the sufferers, as they will stir the hearts of the whole country. Whatever help it is possible to give shall be gladly extended. Have directed the secretary of war to supply rations and tents upon your request.

(Signed), "WILLIAM MCKINLEY."

The president stated that 10,000 tents and 50,000 rations had been ordered to Galveston. Governor Sayers also adds to the appeal that the state asks for immediate assistance in caring for the wounded.

Reports from the interior confirm the loss of life and destruction of property reported in the dispatch last night.

LI HUNG CHANG APPOINTED.

Imperial Edict Gives Him Absolute Power to Settle Chinese Affairs.

The Chinese Minister, Mr. Wu Ting Fang, delivered the state department at Washington an imperial edict conferring on Li Hung Chang absolute and unconditional authority to negotiate with the powers for peace and the settlement of questions growing out of the war. The edict is dated on the last day of the seventh moon, Chinese calendar, which is about August 24. It is issued by the Emperor and not the Empress Dowager, indicating that the former is now exercising those imperial functions which some of the powers, notably Great Britian, have insisted belonged to him rather than the Empress Dowager.

Maine Remains Republican.

Carrying out its traditions of many years, with but one break, Maine went republican in the state election Monday by a majority of 33,000. The republican state ticket, headed by John P. Hill for governor, was elected, with all four congressmen and a great majority of the legislators.

Cleveland May Announce for Bryan.

Former President Grover Cleveland, according to a report in circulation in New York, is about to announce his support of William J. Bryan for president. The report emanates from a Boston newspaper, and the rumor was that Mr. Cleveland soon would make public a letter giving his reasons for desiring Mr. Bryan's success at the polls.

WORK ON STATE FAIR

Will Begin This Work and Will Include a Machinery Hall.

The directors of the Alabama Fair association met Friday and decided to go ahead with the preparations for the state fair, to be held in Birmingham in November. The question of finances had been settled a few minutes before when Messrs. Joseph and Jemison, of the finance committee, gave assurances that the required guarantee fund would be forthcoming when called for.

Colonel J. M. Falkner, president of the association, outlined what he thought should be done to make the fair a success, and his ideas were concurred in by the other directors present. It was agreed by the directors that a machinery building adequate to accommodate such machinery display as might be desired would be erected and that a magnificent mineral exhibit would be arranged. Colonel Falkner stated that he had assurances of a fine agricultural display and that he felt reasonably sure of being able to secure other exhibits that would be both instructive and interesting.

The directors decided to have a special Labor day, a Negro day and other special days.

The directors also decided, by a unanimous vote, to give all work to be done on the buildings and grounds to union labor and to employ none but union labor about the grounds.

Secretary John W. O'Neill, of the association, made an approximate estimate of the expenses necessary to be incurred in making for the opening of the gates of the fair. His estimate, not including machinery hall, aggregated something over $10,000, which he said was on a liberal basis.

Two items of expense to be provided for and which will receive the special attention of the directors are the premiums and the advertising bills.

The guarantee fund is now within about $2,000 of the amount the finance committee undertook to raise, and the entire amount is expected to be in hand before the middle of the week.

In speaking to this meeting Colonel Falkner stated that if the fair should be held it would be a success, but that he would not contract for a dollar to be spent until that dollar was in the treasury. He said if a creditable fair was not held this year, a creditable one would not be held next year.

The premium lists will be given to the printer at once, and will be ready for distribution in a few days. A force of men will be put to work at the fair grounds this week, and when the gates are thrown open on the first day of November the best and most complete fair ever held in Alabama will be opened to the public.

$200,000 City Hall for Birmingham.

At a meeting of the new city hall committee of the city council in Birmingham Saturday, it was determined to ask for plans from local architects for the construction of a four-story building, not to cost exceeding $200,000. The lower floor is to be used for the central fire station, and stores, and the upper floor will contain the usual city offices, a number of other offices, and probably an armory for the military companies.

Taking Options on Timbered Lands.

Mr. Chapman, representing a company of Northern capitalists, is in Letohatchie taking option on timbered lands lying along Big Swamp, between that place and Hayneville. He says it is highly probable that his company will build a railroad from Letohatchie to Hayneville to haul this timber.

Farmers Organize.

A Cotton Growers' Protective Association for Talladega county was organized in Talladega Saturday with G. T. McElderry, president; H. M. Burt, vice-president; S. W. Pace, treasurer, and D. M. Remson, secretary.

Wheeler Coming Home.

General Joe Wheeler will arrive in Florence on next Tuesday. He will be retired from the army on Monday, September 10, and will leave Chicago that night for Florence.

At Work on New Court House.

The work of excavating for the foundations of the new Calhoun county court house at Anniston was commenced Saturday. The work of erecting the building will begin as soon as the contractors can get some of the material on the ground. The new court house will be one of the handsomest in the state and will cost complete $94,150.

PREPARE FOR WITHDRAWAL

Is the Order Cabled by War Department to Gen. Chaffee at Pekin.

TROOPS WILL BE SENT TO PHILIPPINES

United States Government Preparing to Carry Out Its Pledge Made to Russia—More Missionaries Murdered.

Orders have been cabled to General Chaffee to prepare his forces for withdrawal from Pekin. Further than that the war department has taken steps to have at Taku a satisfactory number of transports to remove these troops to the Philippines as soon as they reach the post.

These orders do not necessarily indicate that our government has decided upon an immediate withdrawal from China. It is simply placing itself in a position to carry out the pledge conveyed in the reply to the Russian note in this language: "The result of these considerations is that unless there is such a general expression by the powers of continued occupation we shall give instructions to the American forces to withdraw from China."

Up to the present moment our government has not changed its policy in the matter of withdrawing troops. It has given the subject much consideration since the original note was written, but at all times there has been kept steadily in mind the propriety of removing the American troops from China as soon as this could be done consistently. It is intimated that the prospect for securing these objects through completely harmonious action by the powers is brightening every day.

MURDERED MISSIONARIES.

Men, Women and Children Lose Their Lives.

The state department is in receipt of a cablegram from United States Consul Goodnow, at Shanghai, dated September 7, reporting the deaths, about July 31, at Funchu and Taiku, of the following missionaries:

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Price and daughter Florence; Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Alateer and two children; Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Clapp, Rev. George L. Williams, Rev. T. W. Davis, Miss Rowena Bird and Miss Mary L. Partridge. The department has notified the respective missionary boards of which the victims were members and their relatives as far as possible.

PHILIPPINE COMMISSION

Will Discuss the Appropriation for Construction of Roads.

The Philippine commission, at its first public session to be held next Wednesday in Manila, will discuss the appropriation of one-third of the treasury's $6,000,000 for the construction and repairs of roads and bridges throughout the archipelago. The people profess to be much gratified at the prospect of this work of development.

The reports of military operations show that of late these have been trivial.

Manila is now experiencing the heaviest typhoon known for years.

Padgett Nominated.

The democratic primary in the Seventh Tennessee district for the nomination of a candidate for congress resulted in the selection of Senator L. P. Padgett, of Giles county, who received about 5,000 votes out of a total of 12,000.

CROPS DAMAGED.

Storm Played Havoc in and Around Waco, Tex.

The wind blew tempestuously in Waco, Tex., from 8 o'clock Saturday morning to 5 Sunday afternoon, wrecking orchards and destroying cotton fields, the chief damage being to fruit trees and the cotton crop. The big cotton plantations in the Brazos valley look as though armies had fought battles in them, the plants being laid low as though leveled with a machine. The wind blew 60 miles an hour for fifteen hours before subsiding.

Fatally Injured.

News has been received of a serious accident to Mrs. Mary L. Wilson, an elderly woman, of Vinemont, Cullman county. While Mrs. Wilson was standing in front of a spirited horse that was being unhitched, the animal became frightened and ran away, knocking her down and demolishing the vehicle. She has since been unconscious and her condition is critical.

MR. GAGE'S SILVER BOGY

A CONFESSION OF REPUBLICAN HYPOCRISY AND DISHONESTY.

No Sane Person Believes Mr. Bryan Would Go Out of His Way to Force Silver Dollars Upon the Public Creditors—Alleged Danger That Does Not Exist.

A lady whose intelligence should make her the voter of the household instead of the husband whose obtuseness she is trying to overcome writes to the Journal that the chief difficulty she finds in landing the family vote for Bryan is her husband's fear that Democratic victory would put the country on a silver basis. She asks us to answer Secretary Gage's recent statement about the power of Mr. Bryan, as President, to upset the national finances.

Mr. Gage said:

There is no doubt Mr. Bryan could order his Secretary of the Treasury to make payment in silver of all the public debt payable in coin, and for all current disbursements of the Government as well, which amount to a million and a half to a million and three-quarters dollars a day That he would give such an order, too, is very certain, if he is in the same mind that he was in 1896, for he was then quoted as saying: "If there is any one who believes that the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I want him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in the country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

This is on its face a confession of Republican hypocrisy and dishonesty. The Republican party, being in control of all branches of the Government, had the power to put the monetary system of the country beyond the reach of executive disturbance. If it deliberately chose to leave the law it passed imperfect from its own point of view, so that it might work up a scare among the voters before the next election, it was guilty of a cynical betrayal of trust that ought to deprive it of any further opportunities of playing tricks of the same kind.

As a matter of fact, the alleged danger does not exist. The silver coins now in circulation in the United States have no more relation with a "silver basis" than if they were made of gold, copper or platinum. They are not connected with the world's stock of silver. In the absence of free coinage they are purely token money. Their quantity is strictly limited, and hence the Government never has had and never can have any difficulty in keeping them at par with all other forms of money. France, with half our population, keeps afloat nearly twice the quantity of silver coin that we do, at a more difficult ratio, and the Bank of France has no hesitation about redeeming its notes in silver instead of gold whenever it feels so inclined.

Mr. Bryan is in favor of the free coinage of silver, which it would be impossible for him to secure from any Congress that could be elected. In the absence of free coinage it would be no object to him to create a needless disturbance by juggling with the token dollars in the Treasury. He is as deeply interested in the maintenance of prosperity as anybody else.

The interest on the public debt is paid now by checks. Mr. Bryan would doubtless continue to pay it in the same way. The checks, as a rule, are passed through the Clearing Houses. They would doubtless continue to be. Balances due to the Clearing Houses, banks or individuals are paid now in any kind of money that comes handy. If you present a fifty-dollar money order to be cashed now at the postoffice you will probably find yourself in the possession of some greenbacks, some national bank notes and some silver certificates. No doubt the same thing would happen under a Bryan administration.

If you have a check for interest on a Government bond and you insist on your legal right to have it cashed in coin you can get the coin, and as there is fifteen times as much free gold as silver in the Treasury, the payment will naturally be made in gold. There is no reason to suppose that Mr. Bryan would make any change in this respect.

Nobody who really understands the bimetallic theory can honestly believe that a convinced bimetallist like Mr. Bryan would go out of his way to force our little stock of token silver dollars upon the public creditors. Such a proceeding would in no way advance the cause of bimetallism, nor could it disturb the gold standard any more than it does in France. In the absence of a free coinage law Mr. Bryan will let the currency alone and devote himself to the more practical problems of restoring the republic and curbing the trusts.—New York Journal.

Germans Revolt.

There is a widespread German-American revolt against McKinley and his trust administration. The carpetbag scandals in Porto Rico, the imperialistic system inaugurated in our new possessions and the kaiserphobic utterances of Republican leaders have all combined to alienate the Teutonic element from the party owned by the monopolies and operated by Hanna for their benefit.—Washington Times.

The Injunction Craze.

A member of the Republican National Committee has seriously suggested that application be made to the courts for an injunction to restrain the Democratic stereopticon campaigners from using the portrait of Abraham Lincoln. The injunction idea has taken a strong hold on the Republicans, and eventually they may endeavor to have Democratic electors enjoined from voting.

The Emperor May Appear.

"Imperialism," says the New York Times, "implies an Emperor." This leads us to ask: "What sort of figure would Major McKinley make as an Emperor?"

We are bound to admit that the amiable President with the flexible spinal column does not approach anybody's ideal of an exalted and arbitrary potentate. Compared with Mr. McKinley even the Third Napoleon would take on unsuspected imperial attributes. Our ideas of the personality of an Emperor have been drawn from Nero, Julius Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte, William II. of Germany and kindred characters. It does not follow, however, that because we have imperialism we must have an Emperor. When a republic goes into the empire business it upsets a great many established doctrines, including that on which the Declaration of Independence rests. We have a state of imperialism whenever a people, apart from those who are under the immediate rule of a sovereign, are governed by arbitrary power. It does not matter whether that power be exercised by a King of Prussia or by a President or Congress or both. The essence of the imperialistic condition is in the rule of an outlying territory without the consent of its people and without the authority of a Constitution.

The republic would be in less danger from the usurpations of those in authority in the nation if Mr. McKinley should display the characteristics of an over-ambitious tyrant. It is the stealthy growth of imperialism and the serene confidence of the people in those who overstep the boundaries of the Constitution that pave the way for serious consequences. Some day, when we shall have become familiar with the exercise of arbitrary power by mild-mannered McKinleys, a Napoleon or a Caesar may make a throne of the Presidential chair

THE FULL DINNER PAIL.

The Fallacy of This Argument When Examined in a Practical Way.

One of our Republican contemporaries prints a picture of a workman's dinner pail on every page of every issue. There is an inscription which says that the pail is full, and as we are not allowed to look inside we have to take the editor's word for it.

"The Full Dinner Pail" is the chief Republican argument this year. It is on the ground that a workman is able to fill a tin bucket with edible matter that the American people are asked to consent to the transformation of this republic into an empire.

Well, let us assume for the moment that the "Full Dinner Pail" is a reality, and not a myth. Let us assume that the workingman who puts in eight or ten hours of exhausting labor a day is really able under Republican "prosperity" to put two or three sandwiches, a wedge of pie and a pint of coffee into a tin bucket.

Under those conditions, the contents of the "Full Dinner Pail" may be worth fifteen cents. Mr. John D. Rockefeller has an income of about $40,000,000 a year. That is over $130,000 per working day. Mr. Rockefeller's daily income would fill the dinner pails of 900,000 workmen. In other words, Republican prosperity puts the dinners of 900,000 workers into one man's modest little pail.

That is the Republican idea of good times. Nine hundred thousand men happy and grateful because they can put fifteen cents' worth of dinner apiece into their tin buckets, and one man who absorbs as much from their earnings as the cost of the whole nine hundred thousand dinners put together.

There are scores of monopolists like Mr. Rockefeller, differing only in degree, and the unearned income of 100 of them could probably pay for the dinners of all the workingmen in the United States. If the policy of favoring such concentrations of wealth were altered, the workers might have not only full dinner pails, but possibly some of the little luxuries that Republican policy considers entirely out of their sphere.—Journal.

Disposed of the "Flag" Appeal.

Mr. Bryan disposed of the "flag" appeal very neatly in a recent speech. "The American flag," he truly said, "represents the purpose of the American people." And he added:

"I want the American flag to come down from the Philippine Islands in order that the flag of a republic might rise in its place. I would rather that we have two flags representing two republics than one flag representing an empire. If any Republicans say that we cannot take it down in the Philippines I want to remind that Republican that our flag floats in Cuba, and the Republican President promised to haul down the flag in Cuba as soon as the Cuban flag is ready to rise in its place."

Opposition to Militarism.

The opposition to militarism in this country is not because the country has a standing army of 70,000 soldiers, but because of the tendency of the Republican party to increase this number by leaps and bounds until the spirit of militarism is too firmly saddled upon the country to be shaken off except by sweeping out of existence any and every party which may be tainted with the spirit of militarism.—Mobile Register.

In John Bull's Wake.

Imperialism is best defined in the history of Great Britain's subjugation of inferior races in India, South Africa and around the world. McKinley would have us ally with John Bull and follow in his wake. If McKinley prevails in this policy the statue of Liberty will be a sham and its beacon light a mockery.

A DISHONEST ARGUMENT

ARRANT TRICKERY IN REPUBLICAN PRESENTATION OF IMPERIALISM

According to McKinley's Policy the Filipinos Are to Be Forever Held as a Conquered People—Why Imperialism Is a Menace to Our Institutions.

There is arrant trickery in the Republican presentation of the issue of imperialism. Those who speak for that party pretend that there are but two paths open to our Government—that of the Administration, and that of Mr. Bryan. They pretend that it is simply the retention of the Philippines under any conditions that is meant by imperialism. The New York Times states the case in the orthodox Republican way when it says that the Republican policy "which is called imperialism" is "to establish order under the sovereignty of the United States and develop self-government among the natives as fast and as far as practicable," and that opposed to this is the demand for the absolute independence of the Philippines, this Government to protect them from outside interference. The Times shows that the Bryan idea is impossible, and, therefore, "nothing remains but what is called imperialism." Not a word is said of the vital difference between the Republican policy and the demand of the expansionists who are opposed to Mr. Bryan's plan. No notice is taken of the fact that a great majority of those who denounce imperialism are strongly in favor of the retention of the Philippines by this nation. No hint is given of the only policy that accords with the fundamental doctrine of the Declaration of Independence, with the Constitution of the United States, with all the traditions and with the spirit of our institutions and with the sentiment of a large part of the American people.

The measure of self-government promised to the Filipinos by the Republican doctrine is sternly limited. They are to be forever held as a conquered people, subject to the arbitrary rule of a President and of a partisan majority in Congress, whose chief concern is to find places of profit for an army of office-seekers backed by the influence of party leaders. They can have no remedy against the oppressions of the carpet-bag politicians who will rule them, for the latter will have the protection of men of power in the dominant party. Efforts were made to shield even such petty Hoosier politicians as those who stole the Cuban postal funds, and greater efforts might succeed in the case of the more influential plunderers of the Philippines. No matter how fit for American citizenship the best races in the islands might become, the politicians would never relinquish their hold on so profitable a source of wealth. To keep these people under purely arbitrary and unconstitutional authority; to deny to them free commerce with the nation to which they belong; to hold them as foreigners in their relations to this country and as Americans in their relations to foreign countries—all this is not only oppressive to the Filipinos, but it is a policy of imperialism that is bound to react on the American people, familiarize them with usurpations and destroy the influence of our best traditions. Far-seeing patriots do not object to the retention of the Philippines, but to the Republican conditions of ownership; and not chiefly out of pity for the Filipinos, but in fear for our own future. There is no law for the Republican policy. The consent of Congress could not warrant any violation of the fundamental law by the President. The consent of Congress would not make the President's policy any less imperialistic. As between imperialism and the independence of the Philippines, the patriot who has read history must prefer the latter. It is not necessary, however, that this Government should choose either; it is of tremendous importance that it should choose neither.—Philadelphia Record.

The Empty Dinner Pail.

The "dinner pail" is not overflowing in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania, according to recent advices from that section. In order to reduce production the trust, it is stated, has cut down the number of workdays, regardless of the "full dinner pail" promises of the trust party. Miners who are given only three days' work in a week are not likely to become too fat or to be spoiled by prosperity. Up in Massachusetts, where there is an immense Republican majority, the "dinner pails" in many homes are not running over. Some of the cotton factories are closed altogether, and some are working only half time. The silk mills of New Jersey are also operating on short time. A party which is running its campaign with appeals to the appetites of voters instead of to their reason ought to be supported more loyally by the beneficiaries of its tariff system. Before any further promises of "full dinner pails" are given the trusts and the Republican managers ought to "get together" and agree upon a programme.—Baltimore Sun.

Appealing to Anarchy.

Now, when the Democrats have given the silver question a subordinate place among the issues of the day, and have turned their attention to more pertinent and more important questions, we find the Republican agitators "appealing to the forces of anarchy" and doing their best to alarm and disturb our business interests.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Rocking-Broncho.

Some are of opinion that Roosevelt's violent strenuousness may be akin to the boy's on a rocking-horse—plenty of motion, but no progress.—Philadelphia Times.—Ind.

FOR PRESIDENT:
WM. J. BRYAN,
of Nebraska.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
of Illinois.

FOR MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM THE FOURTH DISTRICT:
SIDNEY J. BOWIE,
of Calhoun.

GENERAL Joseph H. Wheeler met with a hearty and enthusiastic welcome home upon his retirement from the U. S. army.

THE Republicans, or at least some of them, will hold a convention at Calera on Saturday next, when it is expected that Hon. W. F. Aldrich will be for the fourth time nominated for Congress.

THE State Fair at Birmingham which will open in November, under the presidency of Col. J. M. Falkner, is bound to be a success. Everything is working to that end, and the causes that worked so disastrously to the fair last year, have this year been engaged on the other side.

THE census returns published show Mobile to be still the largest city in Alabama, Birmingham second, and Montgomery third. Mobile is only 54 ahead of Birmingham, having a population of 38,469, and Birmingham 38,415. Montgomery's figures are not yet to hand.

IT would seem that Chancellor Kelly is determined to explode the old tradition that it is easy to get into chancery but hard to get out. He has cleared all the cases off the docket in this county with the exception of two, and they are carried over on demurrers. The Register, Dr. W. E. Stewart, says that never within his experience has the work of the court been carried on so expeditiously and satisfactory, Chancellor Kelly's decisions are generally accepted, and very few appeals are taken, and of those carried to the supreme court we believe only one has been reversed.

THE appalling catastrophe at Galveston, Texas, is without parallel in modern history. A town of some 49,000 inhabitants was almost destroyed, with a loss of human life which at present cannot be determined, but is variously estimated at from 5,000 to 10,000 people. The city of Galveston is only about six feet above sea level, and the cyclone coming from the Gulf was followed by the breaking in of the sea. Wind and water made sad havoc with man's industry, and the work of years was destroyed in a few minutes, while death reaped a harvest. The prevailing distress is frightful, and the entire country is hastening to relieve it as far as possible.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company has generously consented to carry all articles intended for the relief of the sufferers free of cost. Mr. Guy Higgins, depot agent at Clanton, and all other agents on the line will forward anything you may wish to send, but consignments should be made at once.

A subscription list was being carried around Clanton this morning for the relief of the destitute sufferers, and from the way it started, W. I. Mullins heading the list with $5, we hope a goodly sum will be realized. Rev. S. C. Speer will gladly forward any contributions.

POPULISM UP-TO-DATE.

We have received a letter from an old Populist friend, and he so evidently misunderstands the present political situation as regards the status of the former Populist party as an organization at this time, we feel it our duty to enlighten him, and any others who may possibly be inclined to that way of thinking.

Our friend, we know, has been a good Populist right from the inception of the movement. We believe he has the principles of the party implanted in his heart, and we would say for ourselves that so far as the principles of the party are concerned we hold the same high opinion of them now that we have always had. Every true Populist must wish to see those principles made effective.

Now we will ask our friend, how can that be done? Can it be done by a defunct organization? The Populist party has gone all to pieces, but our principles still exist, and can yet be made a power of good for humanity if we will only use the means at our command. If the Populist party still existed, then, of course, it would be our duty to stand by it and accomplish our purposes through its medium. But it has gone, and however much we may regret it, it is of no use to try and blind ourselves to that fact. And yet we have no reason to despair. The great Democratic party (with which at least Southern Populists have never had any wide differences) has incorporated several of our most cherished principles in its platform, and the election of Bryan to the presidency, and Sidney J. Bowie to a Democratic congress is the most direct means to accomplish that for which we have been working for years past.

There is no alternative. Either Populist principles may be made effective through the Democratic party or they must be forever abandoned. A vote in November for Bryan and Bowie is furthering the principles we advocate, and a vote for the opposition is a direct vote against those self-same principles. We do not believe there will be any who have heretofore stood by those principles who will now be found on the other side.

PROTRACTED MEETING.

A healthy protracted meeting has been in progress this week at Liberty Hill Baptist church, four miles west of Clanton. It was commenced last Saturday and was brought to a close Wednesday night. Judge Adams, whose soul delights in working for the Lord, has been putting in some of his best work there, and the result is twenty-five accessions to the church

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow. Eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides. No appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters" and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three week's and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

IN ANCIENT GREECE.

Constantinople, Turkey, Aug. 18

We left Brindisi promptly at 12 o'clock midnight, and woke next morning off Corfu, the capital city of the Ionian Islands. We had a fine steamer, the Poseidon, of the Austrian-Lloyd line. We reached Patras, the next largest city in Greece, to breakfast next morning. Dr. King suggested a walk before eating so as to get up an appetite; it only served to spoil what little we had, as we saw the milk of the town was furnished by driving a flock of goats through the town and milking them at the purchaser's door, being generous enough to "throw in" for good measure such Grecian soil that was loosened by the friction and the moisture from the udder of the goat and the unwashed hand of the man. We could fairly smell the goat in our coffee. Captain Byeres lost his breakfast after eating it.

Only one acre in five of this famous old land is cultivatable. No wonder they sought other lands in ancient days nor have they quit it yet. We took train here, which skirts the gulf of Cofinth all the way to that city, thence across the small isthmus that connects the Peloponesus with the main land of Greece, thence along the gulf of Soronica to Athens; our steamer in meantime sailing around the Peloponesus was to pick us up again at Athens. Beggars were here, as elsewhere, and dodged our footsteps always. Our hackman helped us sometimes with his whip. The chief crop of this poor old land is currants and olives. It was harvest time with the currants, and the little level places on the rock mountain sides were full of women and children gathering in the crop. This is the dry season here, and the country looks like a perfect rocky mountain desert. I am told it looks well in the early spring. And poor old Corinth, the city whose famous architecture gave world wide names for architectural column designs. There is none of any kind there now. The old site of the city was on the isthmus, three miles wide, and the city was large enough to border on both gulfs. (get your map) To-day Corinth is a little town of mud daubbed, sun-baked brick, containing 4000 people, all on the eastern end of the Corinthian gulf. The government has cut a canal across this three mile isthmus now, and small steamers can go through the site of ancient Corinth. Occasionally you can see one of the old style Greek costumes, where the man wears a short dress and long stockings. We soon passed through Megara, the Greek town which furnished the colony to found Constantinopie, thence through Eleusis, the old city in which the Greek mysteries were celebrated of which Cicero on seeing them celebrated said: "Here men learn to live a better life and die with a fairer hope." I was on the lookout for Athens from the car window, and I recognized it in the distance by the bell of the Acropolis ir the midst of the city. You get your history and read up on this, it can tell you more and better than I. While there is nothing outside of the Acropolis (the Parthenon being a part of it); the Stadium, the Temple of Jupiter, the Areopagus, (Mars Hill) the Thesion and the theater of Dyonysius. Yet anyone who is an American and has read enough to know what he owes these people who built these old ruins will not tire of looking day after day on their splendid condition after 2500 years. The Parthenon has been a Pagan temple, then

Does the Baby Thrive

If not, something must be wrong with its food. If the mother's milk doesn't nourish it, she needs SCOTT'S EMULSION. It supplies the elements of fat required for the baby. If baby is not nourished by its artificial food, then it requires

Half a teaspoonful three or four times a day in its bottle will have the desired effect. It seems to have a magical effect upon babies and children. A fifty-cent bottle will prove the truth of our statements.

THE PHILIPPINES IN WAR AND IN PEACE.

Luzon Method of Salt Making.

John T. McCutcheon, Philippine correspondent of the Chicago Record, writes as follows: It is very difficult, even here in Manila, to get a comprehensive idea of "the situation in the Philippines." The most we know is that our troops are scattered over every province in Luzon, as well as in the chief cities of the other islands, and that in Luzon alone there are 216 separate garrisons holding cities and villages and strategic points in the twenty-seven provinces of the island.

The Filipino method of warfare has changed from their old, defiant methods to a new and more insidious one, that is as much if not more to be feared.

Long before Tarlac was taken Aguinaldo realized that his troops could not stand against ours. Even a force numerically much stronger could be driven at will by comparatively small American forces. This was where discipline, morale and esprit du corps combined to make the smaller force vastly superior to the larger one, because the latter lacked these elements.

Soon after this discovery, which he seems to have been long in making, he heard that the United States was going to increase the Philippine army to about 65,000, a force that could annihilate him if he contested its advance or will. He then issued, along in October, a proclamation advising many of his followers to return to their homes, hide their rifles and await a call at some future time. Others of his followers were held under arms and directed to begin a guerilla warfare in the territory held by the Americans at that time, or to be held by them later on.

That proclamation, which was undoubtedly forced by the vigorous campaign inaugurated at the time by Generals MacArthur, Lawton, Wheaton and Young, marked the end of organized resistance on a large scale. It will be remembered that Tarlac was taken without a shot, and that our troops occupied in turn all the provinces of the north with fewer than a dozen fights of any consequence. From that time on it became a foot race after the demoralized bands that were leaving the Tarlac lowlands. There was no established capital, no machinery of government, no grand army and half the cabinet surrendered or were captured.

Officially the revolution was crushed,

SPANISH-FILIPINO MESTIZA GIRLS.

but General Concepcion, Aguinaldo's chief of staff, uttered a dissenting opinion which, as since proved, was prophetic.

"You think it is over, but it isn't. You have now disrupted the army and scattered it far and wide. You have some of the leaders in prison and your troops occupy the whole north country. But how many rifles have you captured? When you've got the arms, then and only then, will the revolution be over."

They have a curious custom at the Filipino balls. All the girls sit in a row on one side of the room and all the men on the other. When a man wants to dance he goes over across the dead line, selects his girl, and, after dancing, delivers her back to her chair. He returns to his own side. There is no chance for any flirtation.

The Filipino girls are not flirtatious. On great occasions they always seem to be overwhelmed with a sense of rigid propriety. There are no soft brown eyes coyly glancing, or little hands gently pressing. When Miss Filipino treads the stately national quadrille or whirls lightly to the stirring measures of a quick-played waltz she dedicates her thoughts and soul to grace and symmetry and completely forgets those dainty little coquetries which every maiden is entitled by ancient decree to use.

and, contrary to all precedents, I was consigned to the heart of the enemy's country.

On each side was a mestiza. Across the table was a row of dark girls who were evidently overwhelmed by the radical departure from an old custom, and I suspect that I figured prominently as the subject of many of their whispered Visayan remarks. By exhibiting industry in passing things I finally won their friendship and restored confidence.

Everybody his own salt-maker, so the Ilocanoes and Pangasinans of Northern Luzon believe, and they follow out the theory in practice, for nearly every family living on the coast of the great Lingayen Gulf manufactures salt for home consumption, and sells the surplus to the villages of the interior.

In one settlement near Dagupan the occupation reaches the dignity of an industry, and an entire village is engaged in crystalizing the salt out of the earth. The process is the exceedingly simple one of scraping the salt-soaked land of the low coast country with a wooden harrow and allowing the sun to evaporate the moisture until the ground takes on a condition of dry powder. This almost impalpable dust is scraped up in baskets and packed into a narrow bamboo splint-woven trough, some six feet long, plastered with clay. Water is then poured upon the dry salt earth by the jarful, and leaches through, passing out by a small tube at the bottom. The clear water with salt in solution is then boiled down until it crystalizes in an iron kettle built in the top of a clay oven, as seen in the foreground of the picture, which is reproduced from Harper's Weekly.

In the south, among the Tagalogs of Cavite province, the process varies somewhat. Every family living on the coast has its own salt-ponds, which, skirted by beautiful bamboo clumps and great mango-trees, make very picturesque artificial lakes. These ponds are shallow basins, sometimes more than an acre in extent, walled in with a low mud dike, and provided with an entrance sluice, through which the tidal waters may overflow the ground and be penned in. Over the entire surface of these flats are raised circular beds, ten to twelve feet in diameter, flat on top and a foot in height. The salt water of the ocean is allowed to come in till it reaches just to the tops of these circular beds, soaking them through and through. The sun does the rest of the work by rapidly evaporating the moisture from them, and the salt appears as a white efflorescence at the surface, to be carefully scraped off by the owner. In this way they become practically self-feeding salt-machines of an exceedingly novel character, though the output of salt per diem from each bed is very small.

The native music of the Philippine Islanders, according to Harper's Weekly, is rendered almost exclusively on home-made instruments. These are built of bamboo, the big horns having but one note each, while the reed (at the left in the picture) carries the air.

A Hint to Any Man.

Education is seldom the controlling factor in success. What! Must we belittle education after all our furore about the value of education? By no means. The secret of success is a man's disposition. The man who is willing to and able to take responsibilities will beat him who is unwilling or unable. The man who has the disposition to lift the burden of trivial matters from his superior's consideration is the man who will be looked for when promotions are to be made. The question is not, Have you done your duty? but, Do you rise to greater responsibilities? The opportunities for rising to greater responsibilities are ever present.—The Manufacturer.

There was an extemporized supper. All the girls sat at one end of the table and all the men at the other. All the chairs at the man end were taken when I went in to the feast.

A View of Panama.

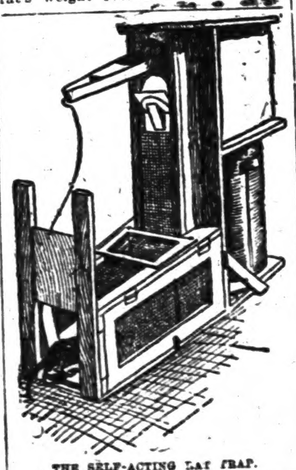
With its ancient walls and fortifications, its tall buildings of gloomy gray and roofs of red tile, Panama has an oriental appearance as viewed from the harbor, and the shapely architecture of the twin spires of the cathedral adds much to the beauty of the scene. The fortifications are feeble and crumbling, but are picturesque. The sea walls which have resisted the incessant surf for more than two centuries are covered with barnacles and moss. The cafes which overlook the water seem cool and comfortable from the bay, but are filled with the all-pervading smell which the nostrils of a newcomer resent, but the acclimated foreigners and natives have long ago ceased to perceive.—Chicago Record.

INVENTS A SELF-ACTING TRAP.

S. Ruckersberg Thinks He Can Make Rats Annihilate Themselves.

A Milwaukee avenue inventor thinks he has solved the problem of how to induce rats and mice to exterminate themselves and assist in the annihilation of those that come after them. He is S. Ruckersburg, and his annihilator is a self-acting trap.

The first night the trap is in action it is tightly closed and loaded with a table d'hote dinner. The second night the hearts of the hungry rodents are made glad by the sight of an open door at one end. As it advances the rat's weight overbalances a sheet-iron false floor, the door falls with a click and his ratship is doomed. Inspection discloses but one way of escape—up a boxlike flue—and this he accepts. Once again an automatic door closes. The way leads into a large funnel. The rat walks on until the funnel tips and it is precipitated into a can of water. The tipping of the funnel raises the door to the first entrance and things are in readiness for the next adventurer. In four nights 113 rats were captured and disposed of in one of the big clubhouses.—Chicago Record.



THE SELF-ACTING RAT TRAP.

"I know that a great many people do not like my business," said the chimney-sweep; "but it soots me." After the due acknowledgment of the courteous smiles of his audience, he went up the flue.—Baltimore American.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Garden of the King—Christ the Founder and Gardener—The Flowers and Fruits of Religious Devotion—The Beauty of Right Living.

[Copyright 1898.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This sermon Dr. Talmage sends from a halting place in his journey through the valleys of Switzerland. It seems to have been prepared amid the bloom and aroma of a garden midsummer. The text is Song of Solomon v. 1, "I am come into my garden."

The Bible is a great poem. We have in it faultless rhythm and bold imagery and startling antithesis and rapturous lyric and sweet pastoral and instructive narrative and devotional psalm; thoughts expressed in style more solemn than that of Montgomery, more bold than that of Milton, more terrible than that of Dante, more natural than that of Wordsworth, more impassioned than that of Pollok, more tender than that of Cowper, more weird than that of Spenser. This great poem brings all the gems of the earth into its coronet, and it weaves the flames of judgment into its garlands and pours eternal harmonies in its rhythm. Everything this book touches it makes beautiful, from the plain stones of the summer thrashing floor to the daughters of Nahor filling the troughs for the camels; from the fish pools of Heshbon up to the psalmist praising God with diapason of storm and whirlwind, and Job's imagery of Orion, Arcturus and the Pleiades.

My text leads us into a scene of summer redolence. The world has had a great many beautiful gardens. Charlemagne added to the glory of his reign by decreeing that they be established all through the realm—decding even the names of the flowers to be planted there. Henry IV., at Montpelier, established gardens of bewitching beauty and luxuriance, gathering into them Alpine, Pyrenean and French plants. One of the sweetest spots on earth was the garden of Shenstone, the poet. His writings have made but little impression on the world, but his garden, "The Leasowes," will be immortal. To the natural advantages of that place was brought the perfection of art. Arbor and terrace and slope and rustic temple and reservoir and urn and fountain here had their crowning. Oak and yew and hazel put forth their richest foliage. There was no life more diligent, no soul more ingenious than that of Shenstone, and all that diligence and genius he brought to the adornment of that one treasured spot. He gave £300 for it; he sold it for £17,000. And yet I am to tell you to-day of a richer garden than any I have mentioned. It is the garden spoken of in my text, the garden of the church, which belongs to Christ, for my text says so. He bought it, He planted it, He owns it, and He shall have it.

Walter Scott, in his outlay at Abbotsford, ruined his fortune, and now, in the crimson flowers of those gardens, you can almost think or imagine that you see the blood of that old man's broken heart. The payment of the last £100,000 sacrificed him. But I have to tell you that Christ's love and Christ's death were the outlay of this beautiful garden of the church, of which my text speaks. Oh, how many sighs and tears and pangs and agonies! Tell me, ye women who saw Him hang! Tell me, ye executioners who lifted Him and let Him down! Tell me, thou sun that didst hide! ye rocks that fell! "Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it." If the garden of the church belongs to Christ, certainly He has a right to walk in it. Come, then, O blessed Jesus, to-day, walk up and down these aisles, and pluck what Thou wilt of sweetness for Thyself!

The church, in my text, is appropriately compared to a garden, because it is a place of choice flowers, of select fruits and of thorough irrigation.

That would be a strange garden in which there were no flowers. If nowhere else, they would be along the borders or at the gateway. The homeliest taste will dictate something, if it be only the old-fashioned hollyhock or dahlia or daffodil, but if there be larger means, then you will find the Mexican cactus and blazing azalea and clustering oleander. Well, now, Christ comes to His Garden, and He plants there some of the brightest spirits that ever flowered upon the world. Some of them are violets, inconspicuous, but sweet as heaven. You have to search and find them. You do not see them very often, perhaps, but you find where they have been by the brightened face of the invalid and the sprig of geranium on the stand and the new window curtains keeping out the glow of the sunlight. They are, perhaps, more like the ranunculus, creeping swiftly along amid the thorns and briers of life, giving kiss for sting, and many a man who has had in his way some great black rock of trouble has found that they have covered it all over with flowery jasmine running in and out amid the crevices.

These flowers in Christ's garden are not like the sunflower, gaudy in the light, but wherever darkness hovers over a soul that needs to be comforted, there they stand, night blooming cereuses. But in Christ's garden there are plants that may be better compared to the Mexican cactus—thorns without, loveliness within; men with sharp points of character. They wound almost every one that touches them. They are hard to handle. Men pronounce them nothing but thorns, but Christ loves them notwithstanding all their sharpnesses. Many a man has had a very hard ground to cultivate, and it has only been through severe trial he has raised even the smallest scrap of grace. A very harsh minister was talking to a very placid elder, and the placid elder said to the harsh minister: "Doctor, I do wish you would control your temper." "Ah," said the minister to the elder, "I control more temper in five minutes than you do in five years." It is harder for some men to do right than for other men to do right. The grace that would elevate you to the seventh heaven might not keep your brother from knocking a man down. I had a friend who came to me and said, "I dare not join the church." I said, "Why?" "Oh," he said, "I have such a violent temper. Yesterday morning I was crossing very early at the Jersey City ferry, and I saw a milkman pour a large quantity of water into the milk can, and I said to him: 'I think that will do,' and he insulted me and I knocked him down. Do you think I ought to join the church?" Nevertheless that very same man, who was so harsh in his behavior, loved Christ, and could not speak of sacred things without tears of emotion and affection. Thorns without, sweetness within—the best specimen of Mexican cactus I ever saw.

There are others planted in Christ's garden who are always radiant, always impressive—more like the roses of deep hue that we occasionally find, called "giants of battle;" the Martin Luthers, St. Pauls, Chrysostoms, Wycliffes, Latimers and Samuel Rutherfords. What in other men is a spark in them is a conflagration. When they sweat, they sweat great drops of blood. When they pray, their prayer takes fire. When they preach it is a Pentecost. When they fight, it is a Thermopylae. When they die, it is a martyrdom. You find a great many roses in the gardens, but only a few "giants of battle." Men say, "Why don't you have more of them in the church?" I say, "Why don't you have in the world more Humboldts and Wellingtons?" God gives to some ten talents, to others one.

Again, the church may be appropriately compared to a garden, because it is a place of fruits. That would be a strange garden which had in it no berries, no plums or peaches or apricots. The coarser fruits are planted in the orchard or they are set out on the sunny hillside, but the choicest fruits are kept in the garden. So in the world outside the church Christ has planted a great many beautiful things—patience, charity, generosity, integrity, but He intends the choicest fruits to be in the garden, and if they are not there, then shame on the church.

Religion is not a mere flowering sentimentality. It is a practical, life giving, healthful fruit—not pomes, but apples. "Oh," says somebody, "I don't see what the garden of the church has yielded." Where did your asylums come from, and your hospitals, and your institutions of mercy? Christ planted every one of them. He planted them in His garden. When Christ gave sight to Bartimeus, He laid the cornerstone of every blind asylum that has ever been built. When Christ soothed the demoniac of Galilee, He laid the cornerstone of every lunatic asylum that has ever been established. When Christ said to the sick man, "Take up thy bed and walk," He laid the cornerstone of every hospital the world has ever seen. When Christ said, "I was in prison, and ye visited Me," He laid the cornerstone of every prison reform association that has ever been organized. The church of Christ is a glorious garden, and it is full of fruit. I know there is some poor fruit in it. I know there are some weeds that ought to be thrown over the fence. I know there are some crab apple trees that ought to be cut down. I know there are some wild grapes that ought to be uprooted. But are you going to destroy the whole garden because of a little gnarled fruit? You will find worm eaten leaves in Fontainebleau and insects that sting in the fairy groves of the Champs Elysees. You do not tear down and destroy the whole garden because there are a few specimens of gnarled fruit.

I admit there are men and women in the church who ought not to be there, but let us be frank and admit the fact that there are hundreds and thousands of glorious Christian men and women—holy, blessed, useful, consecrated and triumphant. There is no grander collection in all the earth than the collection of Christians. There are Christian men in every church whose religion is not a matter of psalm singing and churchgoing. To-morrow morning that religion will keep them just as consistent and consecrated in their worldly occupation as it ever kept them at the communion table. There are women with us to-day of a higher type of character than Mary of Bethany. They not only sit at the feet of Christ, but they go out into the kitchen to help Martha in her work, that she may sit there too. There is a woman who has a drunken husband, who has exhibited more faith and patience and courage than Ridley in the fire. He was consumed in twenty minutes. Hers has been a twenty years' martyrdom. Yonder is a man who has been fifteen years on his back, unable to feed himself, yet calm and peaceful as though he lay on one of the green banks of heaven, watching the oarsmen dip their paddles in the crystal river!

I have not told you of the better tree in this garden and of the better fruit. It was planted just outside Jerusalem a good while ago. When that tree was planted, it was so split and bruised and barked men said nothing would ever grow upon it, but no sooner had that tree been planted than it budded and blossomed and fruited, and the soldiers' spears were only the clubs that struck down that fruit, and it fell into the lap of the nations, and the men began to pick it up and eat it, and they found in it an antidote to all thirst, to all poison, to all sin, to all death, the smallest cluster larger than the famous one of Eshcol, which two men carried on a staff between them. If the one apple in Eden killed the race, this one cluster of mercy shall restore.

Again, the church in my text is appropriately called a garden because it is thoroughly irrigated. No garden could prosper long without plenty of water.

It has seemed as if Jesus Christ took the best. From many of your households the best one is gone. You know that she was too good for this world. She was the gentlest in her ways, the deepest in her affection, and when at last the sickness came you had no faith in medicines. You knew that the hour of parting had come, and when, through the rich grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, you surrendered that treasure you said: "Lord Jesus take it—it is the best we have. Take it. Thou art worthy." The others in the household may have been of grosser mold. She was of the finest.

The heaven of your little ones will not be fairly begun until you get there. All the kindnesses shown them by immortals will not make them forget you. There they are, the radiant throngs that went out from your homes. I throw a kiss to the sweet darlings. They are all well now in the palace. The crippled child has a sound foot now. A little lame child says, "Ma, will I be lame in heaven?" "No, my darling, you won't be lame in heaven." A little sick child says, "Ma, will I be sick in heaven?" "No, my dear, you won't be sick in heaven." A little blind child says, "Ma, will I be blind in heaven?" "No, my dear, you won't be blind in heaven." They are all well there.

I notice that the fine gardens sometimes have high fences around them, and I cannot get in. It is so with a king's garden. The only glimpse you ever get of such a garden is when the king rides out in his splendid carriage.

It is not so with this garden, this King's garden. I throw wide open the gate and tell you all to come in. No monopoly in religion. Whosoever will, may. Choose now between a desert and a garden. Many of you have tried the garden of this world's delight. You have found it has been a chagrin. So it was with Theodore Hook. He made all the world laugh. He makes us laugh now when we read his poems, but he could not make his own heart laugh. While in the midst of his festivities he confronted a looking glass, and he saw himself and said: "There, that is true. I look just as I am, done up in body, mind and purse." So it was of Shenstone, of whose garden I told you at the beginning of my sermon. He sat down amid those bowers and said, "I have lost my road to happiness. I am angry and envious and frantic and despise everything around me just as it becomes a madman to do."

O ye weary souls, come into Christ's garden to-day and pluck a little heartsease! Christ is the only rest and the only pardon for a perturbed spirit. Do you not think your chance has almost come? You men and women who have been waiting year after year for some good opportunity in which to accept Christ, but have postponed it five, ten, twenty, thirty years—do you not feel as if now your hour of salvation had come? O man, what grudge hast thou against thy poor soul that thou wilt not let it be saved?

Some years ago a vessel struck on the rocks. They had only one lifeboat. In that lifeboat the passengers and crew were getting ashore. The vessel had foundered and was sinking deeper and deeper, and that one boat could not take the passengers very swiftly. A little girl stood on the deck waiting for her turn to get into the boat. The boat came and went, came and went, but her turn did not seem to come. After awhile she could wait no longer, and she leaped on the taffrail and then sprang into the sea, crying to the boatman: "Save me next! Save me next!" Oh, how many have gone ashore into God's mercy, and yet you are clinging to the wreck of sin. Others have accepted the pardon of Christ, but you are in peril. Why not this moment make a rush for your immortal rescue, crying until Jesus shall hear you and heaven and earth ring with the cry: "Save me next! Save me next!" Now is the day of salvation! Now! Now!

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 16.

Subject: The Rich Fool, Luke xii., 13-23 — Golden Text: Mark viii., 36 — Memory Verses, 19-21 — Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

13. "One of the company." Probably a stranger in the crowd, who had been listening to the address Jesus had been delivering to His disciples. "Speak to my brother." This was evidently a family dispute about the property that was to be divided. We are not told any of the particulars, but Jesus proceeds immediately, by a parable, to show the result of gratifying a covetous spirit.

14. "Man." Apparently in reproof. "A judge or a divider." In matters of this nature Christ would not assume either a legislative power to alter the settled rule of inheritance, or a judicial power to determine controversies. This shows that Christ's kingdom is spiritual and not of this world. It does not interfere with civil powers, or encourage our expectations of worldly advantages.

15. "Take heed." Covetousness is a sin which we have need constantly to watch against, and therefore frequently to be warned against. "Of covetousness." All inordinate desires. Such a disposition of mind is never satisfied; for as soon as one object is gained, the heart goes out after another. "Man's life consisteth not, etc." Our happiness and comfort do not depend upon our having a great deal of this world. 1. The life of the soul doth not depend upon it and the soul is the man. 2. The life and happiness of the body doth not depend upon the abundance of earthly things.

16. "A parable." To teach. 1. How short and transitory life is. 2. That riches are of no avail for prolonging it. 3. That the great duty of all, both rich and poor, is to be rich toward God. The parable consists of two parts, of which the first shows the folly and the second the sin and danger of caring for what is beyond our present need, which is the characteristic of covetousness. "Brought forth plentifully." He did not acquire his wealth dishonestly, but it was given him by his Creator. What good he might have accomplished had he used it in a proper manner instead of hoarding it up.

17. "He thought within himself." The worldly rich are often miserable. They have: 1. Discontent. 2. Anxieties and cares. 3. False hopes. 4. The terror of losing their possessions. "What shall I do?" That his increased prosperity offers him opportunity to do something for his poor brethren, does not even enter his mind, selfishness strikes the keynote. "Because I have no room." The poorest beggar in the country, who did not know where to obtain the next meal, could not have been more anxious. The more men have the more perplexity they have with it, and yet the more anxious they are to obtain more. "To bestow my fruits." A wise man will desire no more than what he can get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully, and leave contentedly. One of the greatest evils to-day is the spirit of "greed" which has taken possession of so many.

18. "This will I do." Man proposes. 1. How boastful! He says my fruits, my barns, my goods and my soul. 2. How shortsighted! He speaks of many years as a certainty. 3. How selfish! There is no provision made for others. 4. How unworthy! His idea of life is a low one; indolent ease, eating, drinking and merry making. "Build greater." This was the decision he reached. He desired more room for his earthly goods. He was planning to hoard them "all" up.

19. "I will say to my soul." The soul, considered as an immortal spirit, was no way interested in a barn full of corn, or a bag full of gold. The soul has exigencies and desires which these things will in no way satisfy. "Take thine ease, etc." This was exactly the creed of the ancient atheists. What a wretched portion for an immortal spirit! and yet those who know not God have no other and many of them not even this. "Eat, drink, and be merry." The ambition of many worldlings seems to rise no higher than this. They serve the gods of this world. Their chief desire is to gratify the flesh. "What shall we eat? or, what shall we drink? or, wherewithal shall we be clothed?" is their principal creed. Paul shows the outcome of such a life in Phil. 3: 18, 19.

20. "But God said." Sooner or later God will speak, and our worldly plans will be interfered with. "Thou fool." His folly is fourfold. 1. He forgets God. 2. He appropriates all he receives to himself. 3. He counts these things soul-food. 4. He thinks not of death. 1. Looking at this man simply in the light of this world, He is, (a) Wise. (b) Industrious. (c) Careful and frugal. (d) Thoughtful and judicious. (e) Successful. (f) Respected. (g) Influential. 2. Looking at him in the light of eternity this wise and successful man turns out to be a fool. He shows his folly, (a) In his total misapprehension of the true end of life. (b) In his misapprehension of the nature and the necessities of the soul. (c) In his mistaken notion of the right use of wealth. (d) In the proposals which he makes to himself in respect to time. "This night." Immediately, with no time for preparation. "Is thy soul required of thee?" (R. V.) That is, thou shalt be called upon to leave this world and meet thy God. He has lost all. He comes before his Judge with a lost name—God says, "Thou fool;" a lost soul; a lost world—his possessions must be left behind; and a lost heaven. "Whose shall those things be?" It will not matter to him into whose hands they pass. This is only an emphatic way of saying that they will not be his.

21. "So is he." Here is a personal application of the truths taught to his hearers and also to us. This is not an individual case. All who make this life their portion and are destitute of the salvation of God, shall sooner or later be surprised in the same way. "For himself." For himself only. A covetous man gains riches to please and gratify himself, with no thought of the good he ought to do with his wealth. "Is not rich toward God." Does not lay up treasure in heaven. We can be rich toward God by turning what we possess over to God. Prov. 19: 17. How thankful we ought to be that God has granted us the privilege of entering with Him in the work of saving men from sin.

22. "Be not anxious for your life." (R. V.) Do not allow the things of this life to cause undue anxiety and unrest. Prudent care is not forbidden, but only anxious, distracting care. We should be diligent in business and yet trust God for all things.

23. "The life is more than meat." The God who has given the greater things—the life and the body, will surely give the smaller—food and raiment. The God who provides for the ravens, the lilies and the grass (vs. 24-28) will surely provide for His disciples. The farmer who feeds his chickens will certainly feed his children. "O ye of little faith." "Your Father knoweth that ye have need of these things."

According to information furnished by Consul Skinner the French have discovered rich petroleum bearing territory of considerable extent in Algiers. The question of fuel supply has become such an important one in Europe that the development of the oil fields in Algeria would prove of much more consequence both from a financial and industrial standpoint than the working of gold mines in interior Africa.

Sharks Are Cowardly Fish.

Many tales have been told of how human beings have been devoured by the fish that is known as the man-eater. Although many of these have been greatly exaggerated they are to a certain extent true. It is also true that sharks have been known to follow a ship for days, picking up and eating that which had been thrown overboard as waste.

Notwithstanding all of this, the cowardliness of sharks is well known among men who have been much at sea in southern waters. The fiercest shark will get out of the way of a swimmer, if the latter sets up a noisy splash. A shark fears anything that splashes in the water. Among the south sea islands the natives never go bathing alone, but always in parties of half a dozen or so, in order that they may make a great hubbub in the water and thus frighten away the sharks. Once in a while a too venturesome swimmer among these natives foolishly detaches himself from his party and forgets to keep up his splashing. Then there is a swish and the monster comes up from under him like a flash and he is gone.—New York Herald.

The report that the Southern Pacific Railway company is offering to place lands in Western Louisiana and Eastern Texas at the disposal of Boer colonists is repeated with many circumstantial details. There is probably some truth in the report so far as it relates to the wishes of the railroad company. It is doubtful, however, if the Boers are quite ready as yet to entertain an immigration or colonization proposition on a large scale.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wealth and Invention.

Patents on inventions are sometimes objected to as tending to create monopolies, but there can be little doubt that the American patent system has had a remarkable influence in stimulating the inventive faculty of the people and in giving the nation its present supremacy in the industrial world. A writer in the July number of Cassier's Magazine brings together some interesting statistics on this subject. He shows that our inventions and our manufactures have increased on parallel lines, and that labor and capital have alike shared in the vast wealth produced by improved machinery.

Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions, and is in a tasteless form. He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was overburdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

Standing at the great Electric Tower and looking north, the visitor to the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will have before him the Plaza, or square, a beautiful open space 270 by 500 feet. On the opposite, or north, side of the Plaza will be the Propylea, or monumental entrances connected by a curved colonnade 280 feet long. A large building at the left, 341 feet long and 52 feet wide, with towers 164 feet high, will be used for restaurant purposes. This forms also the eastern entrance to the Midway, or pleasure ground, where the visitor may find a collection of novel entertainments that will astonish the most cosmopolitan traveler. Directly across the Plaza from the Restaurant building is a companion structure, forming the entrance to the Stadium, or athletic field, where 25,000 people may be seated to enjoy the high class athletic sports.

Providence.

Farmers are quite busy picking cotton in these parts. Yes the price of cotton is quite improved since this time last year. (Look at your Banner) the writer sold last week at 10 90, which is more than he has received since the year 1879. What has got the price up so high. Be it what it may, whether McKinley prosperity, or The Protective Association or anything else, please give us some more of it.

Prof. James A. Thomas' school is out at the Cross Roads and all seem well satisfied with his work.

Messrs. Frank and Jackson Mims, Will E. and James A. Thomas and families and Mr. M. Thomas spent the day Sunday at Weldon's Cove, out on the Coosa, all report a nice time.

Mr. J. E. Robinson of this place is attending the University at Clanton.

Prof E. Robinson has procured the school at Cross Roads this winter, Prof Thomas having refused to take the task.

We are having rain, lots of it. Before the rain set in farmers were very busy gathering cotton; quite a number of bales have been sold at Randolph at 10½ cents—a fair price indeed.

We are now in hearing of four gin whistles, so we will surely have no trouble in having our cotton ginned.

The meeting at this place only lasted two days after Sunday; the meeting was good, the church being revived, although no additions.

Miss Cora Martin, of Jemison, spent a week with her brother, Mr. J. T. Martin, of this place.

Mr. Henry Ray, is very sick at this writing. We hope he will soon be better.

Prof. John Anderson, of Providence, was here last week.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halleway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and had suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by Clanton Drug co., and D. J. Deramus, Verbena.

AN IDEAL CLIMATE.

The first white man to set foot on Utah soil, Father Silvestre Velez de Escalante, who reached the Great Salt Lake on the 23d day of Sept., 1.76, wrote in his diary: "Here the climate is so delicious, the air so balmy, that it is a pleasure to breathe by day and by night." The climate of Utah is one of the richest endowments of nature. On the shores of the Great Salt Lake especially—and for fifty miles therefrom in every direction—the climate of climates is found. To enable persons to participate in these scenic and climatic attractions and to reach the famous Health, Bathing and Pleasure Resorts of Utah, the Union Pacific has made a rate to Ogden and Salt Lake City of one fare for the round trip plus $2.00, from Missouri River, to be in effect June 21st, July 7th to 10th inclusive, July 19th and Aug. 2d. LOSS PLACED AT 6,500.

Work of Relief is Being Vigorously Prosecuted at Galveston.

The Dallas News staff correspondent, wiring from Houston, Tex., says:

"I should say after investigation that a conservative estimate of the loss of life in Galveston would be 6,500. The names of thousands of victims will never be known. They have simply passed out of existence like so many flickering candles might be extinguished in the wind. As to the property loss, it is hard to make an estimate. Colonel Lowe's estimate of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 is conservative."

Galveston, Tex., (Special.)—Gen. McKibben is engaged in an effort to learn the damage done to government property. The first real attempt to clear away the great mass of debris piled along the beach front for a distance of several miles was begun Friday.

Advertisements were printed asking for hundreds of men and boys to do this work. A multitude responded. They were formed into squads and promptly put to work with police and deputy sheriffs in charge. It is hoped that a vigorous prosecution of this work will lead to the early recovery of bodies still in the debris. That there are many of them, there is no shadow of doubt. It is difficult indeed to imagine how half the people that did escape got free of this fearful flotsam and jetsam.

An Associated Press representative traversed the beach for some distance, and the stench at different points was absolutely sickening. Everywhere little groups of men, women and children, some of them poorly provided with raiment, were digging in the ruins of their homes for what little household property they could save. In many cases those seeking their former residences were utterly unable to discern a simple remnant of them, so hopeless is the confusion of timbers and household furniture.

Work of Relief Progressing.

Governor Sayers stated to an Associated Press correspondent at Houston Friday that the work of relieving the flood sufferers was making excellent progress. He said:

"Most generous contributions are coming in from all parts of the country, sufficiently large to relieve the immediate wants as to food and clothing, and in the meantime the people of Galveston are recovering themselves, and I have no hesitancy in expressing the firm conviction that a strong reaction from almost a mortal blow to the city has already set in, and that in a short while the city will be in a condition to resume its normal and progressive position in commercial life. After a full conference with an authorized committee from Galveston I am more than convinced that the people there will be able, with the assistance already given, to handle the situation successfully."

During the day the Governor received quite a large number of subscriptions and it is estimated that the subscription lists to date will reach a total of $1,300,000.

Sensational Shooting in Covington, Ga.

Colonel Usher Thomason, in command of the Second Georgia, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Otto Fowler at Covington, Ga., Sunday. Both men were armed, but Fowler was prevented from shooting Colonel Thomason by his (Fowler's) brother, who was with him. The shooting took place in front of Fowler's residence. The trouble between the two men is said to be of long standing.

Li Hung Chang Goes to Pekin.

The Chinese minister called at the state department Friday morning to deliver a dispatch from Li Hung Chang, stating that the latter would leave Shanghai Saturday for Pekin. Russia has insisted that the emperor shall return and assume full direction of governmental affairs, entirely displacing the empress dowager, and that Prince Tuan shall be punished for his part.

An imperial decree named Yung Lu to join with Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang as a commission to negotiate peace.

The rush for Cape Nome is developing the usual sequel of hunger and disappointment. There is absolutely no hope of protecting mankind against the limitless variations of the gold-brick game.

THE STRIKE HAS BEGUN

Thousands of Pennsylvania Miners Lay Down Their Tools.

STRIKE IS CONFINED TO FOUR DISTRICTS

Efforts to Tie Up the Mines in the Anthracite Region Exceeds the Expectations of the Strike Leaders.

A Philadelphia dispatch says: The great strike of mine workers in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, which represents possibly the hard coal output of the world, begun Monday. According to President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, the success of the first day's efforts to tie up the mines exceeded the expectations of the strike leaders.

The strike is confined to four districts—the Lackawanna, the Wyoming, the Lehigh and the Schuykill regions. In the first two representing 90,000 men the tie up is almost complete. In the Lehigh region the situation is a standoff, about 800 of the 1,600 mine employes having quit.

Principally because the union has comparatively light strength in the Schuykill region, the workmen there have no decided grievance, as in other districts, and the strike was not general among the upward of 50,000 employed.

Indications, however, point to the closing of some mills in the last named district that operated Monday, despite the assertion of officials of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company and other companies operating the regions that they will continue their collieries in operation. Nearly all the efforts of the strike leaders are being devoted to organizing the men in weak Schuykill and Lehigh regions.

SENSATION IN HOWARD'S TRIAL.

Witness Swore that Howard Said He Fired the Shot That Killed Goebel.

A Frankfort, Ky., dispatch says: The first really sensational testimony in the trial of James Howard, charged with having fired the shot that killed William Goebel, was given Monday by Bowman Gaines, a local liveryman, and James Stubblefield, a former deputy sheriff of Clay county. The former identified Howard as the man who ran out of the rear of the state house grounds and jumped over the fence immediately after the shooting.

The most sensational witness, however, and at the same time the most important from the prosecution's standpoint, was James Stubblefield, a one-legged and one-armed ex-deputy sheriff of Clay county. Stubblefield testified that Howard exultantly told him that he fired the shot that took Goebel's life.

Official Vote in Arkansas.

The complete vote in the recent state election for Governor of Arkansas, the only contested office, was announced Monday officially. The total number of votes cast was 182,979, of which Jeff Davis, democrat, received 88,637; H. L. Remmell, republican, 40,701; Abner W. Files, populist, 3,641. Davis' majority is 44,295; plurality, 47,985.

Battle for the Hand of a Maiden.

A rumor from Seminole Camp at Turtle Mound, near Fort Myers, Fla., reports that in a big sun dance last week four Seminole braves had a bloody fight, all being aspirants for the chief's daughter. All four were killed in the melee. The girl then drowned herself from grief for one of the dead braves.

Roosevelt's Letter of Acceptance.

Governor Roosevelt's letter of acceptance was made public Monday. It is quite lengthy and is chiefly devoted to expansion, which he defends. He reviews the country's different acquisitions and argues that the Philippine purchase is in line with similar acquisitions of territory. He quotes Jefferson at length on expansion. The letter indorses the McKinley administration and touches upon free silver and trusts.

Colorado Republicans.

The republican state convention was organized at Denver, Col., Monday, and James M. Downing, of Aspen, who has been prominent as a silver republican, was chosen permanent chairman. These nominations were made:

Governor, Frank C. Goudy, Denver.
Justice supreme court, Earl D. Cranson, Denver.

Steamer Reported Sunk.

It is reported at Columbus, Ga., that the steamer W. C. Bradley, the finest boat on the river, has sunk with all on board at some point down the river.

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

Wharton Barker, Populist Nominee for President, Visits Birmingham.

Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, nominee for president of the middle-of-the-road populites, was in Birmingham Monday. To a local newspaper reporter Mr. Barker said, substantially:

"In reference to the national campaign, and speaking from the standpoint of conditions as they now seem to exist, I believe that I will get 1,500,000 votes of the 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 votes that will be cast. In the last election Mr. Bryan got 2,000,000 populite votes. I do not believe he will get 250,000 this time. The balance will come to me. We are very strong in the states of Texas and Georgia in the south, also in West Virginia and Kentucky. * * * There is a great apathy among the voters north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi. Two out of every seven democrats and three out of every seven republicans are very indifferent. * * * As between Bryan and McKinley, I will candidly state that, in my opinion and according to present indications and conditions, Mr. McKinley has the best chance to be elected."

Republicans Name Campaign Committee.

A state campaign committee for the presidential election was selected in Birmingham Monday by the republican state executive committee. The committee selected was as follows:

For the State at Large—J. C. Allison, J. W. Hughes, F. F. Conway, W. F. Aldrich, L. J. Bryan, Pope M. Long and C. D. Alexander.

First district, J. T. Peterson; Second district, Henry Irwin; Third district, D. B. Smith; Fourth district, L. T. Smith; Fifth district, W. R. Towles; Sixth district, T. B. Moore; Seventh district, H. C. Ashley; Eighth district, J. T. Lawler; Ninth district, Ad Wimbs.

Chairman, F. A. Dille.
Secretary, W. K. Cornish.
Treasurer, T. H. Miller.

Montgomery Physician Dies Suddenly.

Dr. Jesse H. Naftel, one of the most prominent physicians of Montgomery, died suddenly at his home Monday. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for several years, and his physicians state that his death is due to that trouble. Sunday Dr. Naftel attended the funeral of his 7-year-old son, and so keenly had he felt the death of the little one that at times he was uncontrollable. The suddenness of Dr. Naftel's death gave rise to a rumor that he had taken an overdose of morphine, but this was denied by his physicians. Several years ago he shot and killed young Walter Bragg, only son of the late Captain Walter Bragg. Naftel fired the fatal shot after he had been knocked down by Bragg and shot.

Byron Williams Instantly Killed.

At 1:30 Tuesday morning Byron Williams, a boss in the stockyards of the city furnaces of the Sloss Iron and Steel company, Birmingham, fell from the fourth story of the Eagle Hotel and was instantly killed. He occupied room No. 66 in the hotel, and had gone to bed earlier in the night. When found on the sidewalk he was in his night clothes. He had evidently been taken sick at his stomach during the night and went to the window, but lost his balance and fell out on his head.

Extraordinary Showing.

Three thousand five hundred and seventy-five pupils were classified in the public schools of Birmingham Monday, the opening day of the scholastic year. Of these, 2,400 were white children and 1,175 colored. That is an extraordinary showing for all the schools on the first day. At the end of the first week last year the total enrollment in the white schools was 2,258 and of the colored schools 1,180.

Pipe for Denmark.

Three train loads of gas pipe have been shipped from Anniston this week to Newport News, Va., where it is to be loaded on vessels for Copenhagen, Denmark. This is the largest shipment of pipe ever made in a single week to a foreign point by a southern manufactory.

STATE BREVITIES.

Mrs. J. Craig Smith, wife of Alabama's state treasurer, died in Montgomery Monday.

Hammond Bros. have started work again in their ore mines near Gadsden. They have a contract for 100 tons a day.

The Elks will no doubt put the street fair project through to success at Anniston.

DEATH ESTIMATES GROW

Believed That From 5,000 to 8,000 Persons Perished in Galveston.

THE EXODUS FROM THE CITY GROWING

The Work of Rebuilding the City Commenced—Authorities Working Against Threatened Pestilence—Appeal for Help.

Governor Sayers, of Texas, received the following official report from Mayor Jones, of Galveston, as to conditions there:

"Galveston, Tex.—Hon. Joseph D. Sayers, Governor: After the fullest possible investigation here, we feel justified in saying to you, and through you to the American people, that no similar disaster has overtaken any community or section in the history of our country. The loss of life is appalling, and can never be accurately determined. It is estimated at 5,000 to 8,000 people. There is not a home in Galveston that has not been injured, while thousands have been destroyed. The property loss presents accumulations of sixty years, and more millions than can be safely stated. Under these conditions, with 10,000 people homeless and destitute, with the entire population under a strain and stress difficult to realize, we appeal directly, in the hour of our great emergency, to the sympathy and aid of mankind.

"WALTER JONES, Mayor."

EXODUS FROM GALVESTON.

The Number of Departures Increases With Better Facilities for Going.

The exodus from Galveston continues growing in numbers as the facilities for getting away from the stricken city are increased. Boats left the city Saturday more frequently than on any day since the storm, some proceeding direct to Houston via Buffalo bayou and others making connection at Texas City with the Great Northern railroad train.

The British steamer Norna and the American steamer Alamo have been floated. The British steamer Roma is in a bad way on Deer island. The British steamer Kendall Castle is hard aground in shallow water at Texas City and the British steamer Hilareus is still ashore to the westward of Bolivar, but it is thought she can be gotten off with comparative ease. The British steamer Taunton is hard ashore at Cedar Point, but it is believed that she, too, can be floated without great difficulty.

The Sweet railroad company suffered a loss of about $250,000, and its wire system is torn to pieces. An effort is to be made temporarily to operate the cars with mule power.

PESTILENCE IS FEARED.

Authorities Working Against a New Danger.

A Dallas, Tex., dispatch says: There is urgent call for more troops at Galveston. Those are worn out with guard duty, burying the dead and cleaning up the wrecks, or are sick from sanitary conditions. Gov. Sayers has ordered the Craddock light infantry, of Terrell, to Galveston.

A special from Galveston says; There is no concealment of the fact that a pestilence is feared. Efforts of the local and military authorities are directed now to minimizing this new danger. They are sending the women and children to the interior as fast as possible. All the able-bodied men must remain for a time at least. There is work for thousands of them, and work that must be done.

Result in South Carolina.

The state executive committee of South Carolina has canvassed the returns of the late primary. Total vote for governor was 88,775, and Governor McSweeney's majority over Colonel Hoyt was 13,951. Colonel James Tillman received 18,802 more votes than Colonel Cloane for lieutenant-governor. J. H. Wharton defeated W. D. Evans, present chairman of the railroad commission, by 3,300. Lieutenant-Governor R. B. Scarborough defeats James Norton for congress by 1,071.

Empress Dowager Located.

A dispatch from Pekin says: The empress dowager and the emperor, with 8,000 troops as a guard, are staying with a Mongol prince, in Mongolia, 150 miles northwest of Pekin, near the Kalgan Pass, watching events there. No pursuit of them is intended by the foreign troops.

KRUGER HAS FLED.

England Determined to Carry War to a Conclusion.

A dispatch received at the war office from Lord Roberts, dated Machadodorp, September 18th, says that Kruger has fled and Botha has given over the command of the Boer army temporarily to Viljoen, on account of ill health. Lord Roberts gives the text of a proclamation which he has circulated, in which he says Kruger's desertion of the Boer cause should make clear to his fellow burghers that it is useless to continue the struggle any longer. Lord Roberts declares the British empire is determined to carry the war to a conclusion; says the fighting has degenerated into irregular operations which must be brought to an early end.

TWO HUNDRED KILLED.

American Soldiers Rout a Force of 2,000 Boxers.

A British signal officer reports a sharp engagement between a company of the Fourteenth United States Infantry and 2,000 Boxers at Mo Tao (Ma Tow) on the road to Pekin. The Americans made a stand, and a detachment of Bengal Lancers near by, hearing the firing, came to their rescue and charged the Boxers in the rear. The Chinese were routed, leaving 200 dead. The Americans had no casualties.

The Germans report an engagement with a large number of Boxers while off Pekin Thurday. The German loss is said to have been twenty.

Indications now point strongly to the withdrawal of all the powers from Pekin to Tien Tsin.

REBUILDING THE CITY.

Railroad Companies and Property Holders Will Not Give Up.

The news which was printed in Galveston Saturday in the shape of a personal telegram from Vice President Huntington, of the Southern Pacific road, not to abandon Galveston, has created intense satisfaction and has materially accelerated the movement for the speedy reconstruction of the city. Mr. Huntington's telegram was to Mr. A. H. Belo, of the Galveston and Dallas News, and said:

"I see it reported that we expect to abandon our work at Galveston. Nothing is further from our thoughts. We expect to resume work there as soon as we can. You can assure the people to that effect."

COAST COUNTRY

Strewn With Corpses—Scores Still Unburied.

The coast country of Texas is beginning to be heard from. A bulletin from Hitchcock says that the country districts are strewn with corpses. The prairies around Hitchcock are dotted with the bodies of the dead. Scores are unburied, as the bodies are too badly decomposed to handle and the water too deep to admit of burial. Any inquiries about the dead should be addressed to T. J. Williams. A pestilence is feared from the decomposing animal matter lying everywhere. The stench is something awful. Disinfecting material is badly needed.

Amount of Relief Fund Exaggerated.

The following note was sent to the Associated press correspondent at the request of Governor Sayers, of Texas:

"Reports sent out from this place by whomsoever may, that eight or nine hundred thousand dollars has already been paid in, are absolutely false, and made without authority, calculated to do great harm to the needy sufferers on our coast. No such sum of money has been received or anything approaching it."

STRIKE INAUGURATED.

It Was Officially Begun Monday Morning.

A Philadelphia dispatch says: The much-talked of strike of the anthracite mine workers in the coal regions of Pennsylvania under the auspices of the United Mine Workers of America and which affects about 145,000 union and non-union workers was practically inaugurated Monday and reports received from the various sections indicate that according to the strike order issued by President Mitchell, very few of the collieries are in operation.

KRUGER A PRISONER

Held in Governor's Residence at Lorenzo Marques.

According to the Lorenzo Marques correspondent of the London Daily Telegram, Mr. Kruger is virtually a prisoner in the residence of the district governor. This is at the instance of the British Consul.

The French Consul has been forbidden access to Mr. Kruger, as have also the latter's own officials.

Presentation of Commemorative Tablets.

Governor Joseph F. Johnston, accompanied by his staff and a party of friends, left Birmingham Saturday in a special car over the Southern railway for Portsmouth, N. H., to take part in the presentation of the bronze commemorative tablets to the United States battleships Alabama and Kearsage, which takes place Tuesday at the Portsmouth navy yard. On Tuesday morning the ceremony of presenting the tablets will take place. The tablets will be alike, except as to the necessary wording in regard to the name of the ship. The tablet for the Alabama reads: "The state of New Hampshire to the U. S. S. Alabama. This tablet, companion to that on the U. S. S. Kearsage, placed here by courtesy of the state of Alabama, perpetuates in enduring peace names once joined in historic combat."

One of the most attractive features of the reception was the line of one hundred and fifty young ladies from the Athens Female College.

Lightning's Queer Freak.

Lightning played a most curious trick in a recent storm near Whitsett in Hale county. Four persons were riding in a spring wagon, two men on the front seat, and two women on the back. The lightning struck one woman on the back of the head, scorching her hair, running down her clothing, tearing her stockings and knocking off the sole of her shoe, not injuring her. It then passed between the men in front and struck one of the mules they were driving, killing it instantly.

EVILS OF M'KINLEYISM

THREATENS EVERY IMPORTANT ELEMENT OF OUR INSTITUTIONS.

The Present Administration Has Attacked, If It Has Not Overturned, the Four Cardinal Principles of the American Republic—Striking Texts For Bryan.

The following remarkable article is taken from the Trenton True American:

If Mr. Bryan comes into New Jersey to speak during the present campaign he will appear under totally different auspices from those of 1896.

Then his election was a menace; now it is a promise of deliverance from greater ills than were then dreamed possible of even contemplation.

Then the currency question was a novelty full of menace. Now the currency question has settled itself, just as all financial questions settle themselves under the insuperable rule of necessary supply and demand.

But under the Administration of President McKinley new evils have arisen which are full of destruction to every important element of our institutions.

There are just four great principles of government which distinguish the United States from other national institutions, and it is to their controlling influence that our phenomenal progress and development have been attributed.

First—The dependence of an honest Administration seeking the good of all the people upon the good will of an unselfish, patriotic people;

Second—The maintenance in integrity of our republican institutions;

Third—The absolute subordination of the military to the civil power;

Fourth—The refusal to imperil our own liberties by interference in foreign complications.

It is to the debit of the McKinley Administration that it has seriously attacked, if it has not overturned, each and every one of these four cardinal principles of the American Republic.

(1.) The McKinley tariff bill was but the forerunner of the McKinley Administration in that it set up classes of a few to be benefited at the expense of the many, and that principle has been carried into every ramification of the Administration. Every public question has been approached from the standpoint of productiveness in political power, and every attribute of government has been used, not for the benefit of all the people, but as a means of placating particular interests or producing money with which to corrupt the franchise. This political corruption has progressed more under the three years of the Hanna-McKinley Administration than in all the 120 years of our existence as a republic; it has risen to such condition that it may be said with entire fairness that every governmental favor has its price. The evident and inevitable result of this is that the Administration seeks its re-election by the same means—the self-interest and corruptability of the people. To this end everything is being turned and flagrantly turned. How different from the methods and means by and through which the election of every American President, from Washington to Garfield, was sought!

(2.) The foundation of republican institutions in this country is that all government shall be for all our people and that wherever our dominion exists there does our republic maintain itself. But, how different under the McKinley Administration, which sets up an empire in the Philippines; a territory in the Sandwich Islands; a province in Porto Rico, and a military protectorate in Cuba—and all managed by the same clique at Washington according, not to law, but to the personal ambition or desire of the Administration, or of those who have a pull on it.

(3.) In every preceding Administration it has been the aim of President and Congress to depend wholly upon the militia of the States for any emergency, and to maintain as small a standing army as was necessary to curb the Indians, watch our frontiers and occupy the forts erected as a provision against attack. But now the President must have an army of a hundred thousand men, and must have power to use them at his will. And we find that to-day Cuba is being held and controlled by military rule and by an armed force without any authority in Congress and without any right in the President except such as followed a warlike occupation of the island. Our own territory of Porto Rico is held under a military regime rendered necessary by the unpopularity of the civil government set up there. In the Philippines the civil government is a mockery and a pretence, and the military government makes the law, construes the law and executes the law. And yet we turn up our noses at the Central American republics.

(4.) The position of affairs in China demonstrates the wisdom which impelled Washington to demand, in the interests of public safety, that the United States should not interfere with the internal affairs of any foreign Government, nor entangle itself by alliances with any of them. What the outcome of the Chinese imbroglio may be none can tell, save that we are likely to pay dearly for that conceit which made us project ourselves into Asiatic affairs.

Any one of these four texts would furnish Mr. Bryan with a subject for effective amplification.

Enough Said.

The Republicans declare that they are not for the trusts.

The trusts are, however, undeniably "for" the Republican party.

Can anybody doubt why?

WELLINGTON AND OUR NAPOLEON.

The Maryland Republican Senator Gives His Support to Bryan.

The imperial observer will say that one of the chief events of the Presidential campaign thus far was the mass meeting at Cumberland, Md., at which Mr. Bryan received a pledge of support from George S. Wellington, a lifelong Republican and now Senator from Maryland.

It must have stirred the ten thousand at the mass meeting to their very American marrow when Senator Wellington said:

"I cannot see my way clear to inveigh against imperialism, again the unconstitutionality of the Porto Rican Tariff bill, the unrighteousness of attempting to enslave the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands and the dishonor of breaking our pledge to Cuba, and then, because of the mandate of a sinister influence which dominates the President, forswear my convictions, set at naught my declarations, and do as did Senator Hoar and others—appeal to the past and the future.

"The past is dead. I cannot change it. No appeal will reach its deaf ear. The future is not in my keeping, and it is not in my power to fashion it."

Behind this moral hero comes the usual and expected cry of "Traitor!" But that is not argument. The chagrined Republican press has no answer to the fearless Marylander except this:

"He hates McKinley. This is Wellington's revenge."

Senator Wellington answers:

"McKinley deceived me. He got my vote for the Paris treaty on a false pledge. He is weak and vacillating. He is not fit to be President."

Fair-minded men must justify resentment that is caused by deceit. Wellington's resentment is greater than personal aversion. He believes that McKinley's duplicity has wronged the people of his State and jeopardied freedom in this Republic.

Mr. Bryan's eloquence on this occasion was at its highest when, speaking of Senator Wellington, he said:

"What is his inspiration? Does he come to us for money? No man would come to the Democratic party for money. Does he come for honor? His own party has satisfied his ambition for honor. What brings him to the Democratic party at this time? What makes him act with those who support the Democratic ticket?

"Senator Wellington believes that an Administration that asks for an army four times as large as the army when it went into power tends towards imperialism. Let any of you deny it. Why, it was the boast of Republicans in years past that we did not need a large standing army in this country. If you can in one administration multiply your standing army by four and make it 100,000 instead of 25,000 will it not be easier for the next Administration to multiply it by four and make it 400,000 instead of 100,000?"—New York Journal.

Olney's Reasons For Supporting Bryan.

In my judgment nothing is now so important as that the American people should take this, their first opportunity to emphatically protest against that excrescence upon original republicanism, which may be called McKinleyism.

If the American people now solemnly record themselves as approving the McKinley Administration and all its works—

It will mean that the American people sanction a syndicated Presidency—a President got for the Republican party by the money of a combination of capitalists intent upon securing national legislation in aid of their particular interests.

It will mean that the American people approve the tactless and brutal policy pursued since the Philippine acquisition was made, whereby what was pressed upon the country as a treaty of peace was in fact but the signal for another more costly, bloody and prolonged war.

It will mean that the American people either do not see, or seeing, approve the great and growing, if not already overwhelming, influence of money in our politics. Our Government was not conceived or framed as a money making machine, even for the profit of all the governed—much less for the profit of particular classes or portions of the governed.

Should McKinleyism again prevail, for example, it will not be because it is not cordially distrusted by the great body of American electors. It will be because of the influence of the purse and of the solicitous application of an enormous campaign fund—because of an "investment scare," which, in some measure genuine, will be in much larger measure artfully worked up for election ends.

In the defeat of the Republican party in the coming election lies the only hope of the reversal of those policies and the beginning of a return to more wholesome policies.—Selections from Richard Olney's letter.

Hanna Raises a New Issue.

It has remained for Senator Hanna to suggest an issue which touches the stomach. This issue is the full dinner pail, and it is characteristic of the gross and sordid policy of the party in its dealings with the workingman. The American workingman has surely the right to expect more than a bare living. The privilege of toiling week in and week out for the bare necessities of life is not a very enticing prospect, and yet the Republican party has seen fit to elevate this privilege into a campaign issue.—Peoria Herald-Transcript.

Commerce a Flower of Peace.

Commerce is a sweet flower of peace, not a product of war, and it cannot be made to grow in the Philippines by the device of exterminating the inhabitants.

FEDERAL IMPERIALISM.

WHY IT IS NECESSARY TO ADMINISTER A REBUKE TO M'KINLEY.

Punish Him For His Surrender to a Caste Influence Which Demands a Strong Centralized Government and a Policy of Empire in Place of a Democracy.

It is unhappily true that President McKinley's surrender to a caste influence which demands a strong centralized Government and a policy of empire in place of a Democratic Government animated by Republican policies has made it necessary for the people of this country to administer to him and to his party a rebuke so severe that the world cannot fail to understand and appreciate its significance.

Once before in American history, at the very beginning of this Government, the alignment now necessitated, that of the friends of the people and believers in popular government against men who doubted the people's capacity to wisely govern themselves, was drawn. Thomas Jefferson then stood where Mr. Bryan now stands, the firm and fearless advocate of popular government, urging that the fullest measure of control and responsibility be placed in the people's hands. Alexander Hamilton, the friend of England, stood where now stands Mr. McKinley, denying the people's capacity for self-rule, fearful of liberty, hostile to a government of the people by the people for the people, claiming that the British Government was the world's model Government. The American issue of 1787 is now the American issue of 1900.

The issue of 1787 between Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton was decided in 1789 by the Patriot Fathers in favor of Jefferson and popular government. The anglomaniac Hamilton's plea for the establishment of a Government on the British model did not prevail. An American free Government was established instead. In little more than a century this Government has risen to first place in power and honor in the world. The American people have governed themselves wisely and well. In doing this they have by example held out to all the peoples of the earth the promise of an ultimate freedom akin to their own. They have supplied the one argument for popular government that is unanswerable. They have proved that it is the safest and most beneficent of all Governments. Liberty lovers and liberty seekers the world over have been enabled to point to the United States in proof that they were not mere Utopian theorists in contending for popular government against caste rule.

It is pitiful that in the flower of the nation's development as a free and self-governing nation, at the moment when we had crushed the pride of imperial Spain in order that little Cuba might have freedom, an American President has seen fit to repudiate the very principles upon which our greatness and our glory are based, and himself to urge the system urged by Alexander Hamilton in the earlier days. The American people cannot forgive Mr. McKinley's apostasy from American faith. They will in November rebuke and punish him for his grievous sin. They must do this in order to proclaim to the world that they are still true to the principle of popular government—that government of the people by the people for the people is not perishing from the earth.—St. Louis Republic.

Mr. Bryan Has Grown.

Every day it becomes more and more evident that Mr. Bryan has grown with the last four years.

The Pittsburg Post declares that he has not lost his hold upon the people. In the four years since the struggle of 1896 he has traversed the country from end to end, addressing thousands upon thousands of listeners of every shade of political belief and the result is an overwhelming confidence in his downright and upright sincerity of purpose. And his many frank utterances as appearing in print have only tended to strengthen that confidence. Honesty and sincerity, then, are generally recognized as making up a large part of Mr. Bryan's character.

Bryan is the great American of to-day.

What History Shows.

According to an organ of imperialism Mr. McKinley is too easy going and too amiable a man to undertake to overthrow the republican institutions of this country. Experience has shown that the change from democracy to imperialism is often a gradual and slow process. Napoleon would never have made himself First Consul and finally Emperor of France had not conditions been ready for him. Rome still preserved the empty forms of republican government when the Emperor consulted the Senate about a no more important matter than a new source for turbot. At the rate at which imperialism is progressing in this country Congress will hardly be consulted even on such a matter as that.

A Degrading Spectacle.

It is a depressing, a degrading, spectacle, not merely for the members of a once great party of ideas, which used to be led by thinking men, but for all Americans. Hanna enthroned means the dethronement of all that is best in American institutions.—Albany Argus.

Protection.

Of what benefit is it to seventy millions of people to pay more than an article is worth merely for the purpose of allowing a few thousands of American manufacturers to sell their wares to foreigners cheaper than the foreign manufacturer can sell them?—Omaha World-Herald.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

"It Is a Long Lane That Has No Turning"—The Tutors of Kings—The World Better Than Ever—The Name a Disgrace—A Prayer for Greatness—God's Strokes.

With lashes wet, with lashes wet,
I saw my love go down the lane—
I almost called her back, and yet,
Why should I suffer all the pain?
Her words I never could forget,
Her tears came like a flood of rain—
She wished that we had never met,
That we might never meet again.

With lashes wet, with lashes wet,
I went along the lonesome lane—
With lashes wet and teeth hard set,—
I never would go back again!
My words she never would forget,
But she should suffer half the pain!
I was too proud to ever let
Her see that I had loved in vain.

The lane was long—it turned and met
And met and turned and met again—
My love met me with lashes wet
As going still, I kept the lane.
She turned her face as not to let Me see she wept and wept in vain—
While I in sudden swift regret
Was sorry she had shared my pain.
We spoke at once,—"Could she forget
My angry word—my cold disdain."—
Like light our lips in kisses met
And both went smiling down the lane.
Since then if she have lashes wet,
I seem to feel the keener pain—
Ah! life has been one long regret
But for that turning in the lane.
—Cora Linn Daniels in Universalist Leader.

The Tutors of Kings.

Phillips Brooks was the chosen one to tell Helen Keller of God. With one soul as his parish he did as faithful intellectual and spiritual work as when he preached to the crowds under the great lantern of Trinity. His letters to that bright soul shut up in a maimed physical orgaism will be read when many of his great sermons are out of print. From village and country congregations have come great statesmen, great generals, great preachers, who told, as Patrick Henry did of Samuel Davies, that the mightiest intellectual and spiritual inspiration of their lives came from the man of God who fed both brain and heart from the pulpit of a small parish. Such preachers are the tutors of kings. Nathan never spoke with more power than when he turned David's thoughts back to his flocks, and to just such a ewe lamb as he had often borne in his bosom when caring for those "few sheep in the wilderness"; for there he had first learned of God. How much of the moral safety of the nation is in the keeping of the faithful preacher whose parish is his world! It was just such a man as Chaucer paints in imperishable lines that moisten many an eye with their tender memories, as he tells of "his good man of religion," whom he calls "the poor Person of a town," of whom it is said,—

"Christ's lore, and his apostles twelve,
He taught, and first he followed it himself."

—Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix, in "Skilled Labor for the Master."

The World Better Than Ever.

There never was a time when there was more real hunger and thirst after righteousness than there is now. There never was a time when there was more desire to find God, the living God, and to do his will, than there is now. This is real religion, and the only religion we need. The earnest man who is face to face with the world's weakness and sin is likely to be overwhelmed by its awful magnitude, and to mistake the fact that weakness and sin exist, for a demonstration that they exist to a degree unheard of before. The illusions springing from this error are apparent in every pulpit, and they become very prominent in ministerial estimates of the state of the world, the trend of society, the outlook for the church, etc. For these illusions history is the only cure. The world is no doubt bad enough, but it is better than ever before. Irreligion is in evidence, but it is less rampant than in the past. We need more religion, but we never before had so much effective religion as now. We must not let our distress at the delay of the perfect, or our weariness in the conflict with evil, hide from us this patent fact.

The Name a Disgrace.

The kind of life so many so-called members of the church have marked out for themselves should be strictly called not walking, but "sauntering." The very origin of this word conveys an instructive lesson. In the ages when a pilgrimage to Palestine was held in such esteem there sprang up a set of idle impostors, who wandered about everywhere in the country and sought alms at the hands of the inhabitants under the pretext that they were preparing to go a la sainte terre—to the Holy Land. It was soon discovered that they had never left their native shores; and such disgust did their vain professions inspire that a new word was coined to reprobate the shameful practice, and they were called "saunterers." With equal truth may the term be applied to all who profess to be Christians without moving forward energetically to the heavenly goal.—J. P. Lilley.

A Prayer for Greatness.

Have patience with us, O Father, in our blind overestimate and underestimate of life. Show us the littleness of that which men call great but which is little before thee. Show us the greatness of that which, though despised of men, is of great moment in thine eyes. Keep us from much worry over trivial losses and offenses and from the small-appearing sins which shut our hearts from thee. May we never doubt that thou art building up thy kingdom and training us for good in common thoughts and labors, trials and disappointments, gifts and joys of every day. Give us open eyes and ready hearts for passing opportunities and use all that we have for help, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

When God Strikes.

Trial brings man face to face with God—God and he touch; and the flimsy veil of bright cloud that hung between him and the sky is blown away; he feels that he is standing outside the earth, with nothing between him and the Eternal Infinite. Oh! there is something in the sick bed, and the aching heart, and the restlessness and the languor of shattered health, and the sorrow of affections withered, and the stream of life poisoned at its fountain, and the cold, lonely feeling of utter rawness of heart, which is felt when God strikes home in earnest, that forces a man to feel what is real and what is not.—F. W. Robertson.

Not in the full life, but in the emptied one; not in the sunny path, but in the shadowed one, * * * will you find that rare plant growing most prolifically which Jesus called blessedness.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

THE population of Montgomery is now 30,346. This is an increase of 8,463 over 1890 or 38.67 per cent.

WE are glad to note the organization of the Cotton Growers' Protective Association of Chilton county, and hope to see all the officers going to work and running the membership to above the thousand mark. It only requires a little work to do that, as the people are greatly interested and eager to join. It would be of untold benefit to our farmers if the organization was in full swing now. Ten cents cotton is highly satisfactory, but we cannot find any responsible person ready to declare his belief that that price will prevail for long, nor that it will be greatly decreased. On this point alone the Association would be of inestimable value to its members. Let every man study the matter over and then become a member. The fee is only twenty-five cents.

THE value of THE BANNER as an advertising medium was well illustrated last week when a two line adv. of Mr. W. H. Merritt's enabled him to sell four parcels of real estate in the neighborhood of Clanton, aggregating $4,000. Mr. Merritt informs us he is negotiating with an Ohio syndicate for all his lands here, but he would prefer to sell to his old friends and neighbors, thus enabling them to acquire a home of their own.

THE Republican convention of the Fourth Congressional district was held at Calera last Saturday to nominate a candidate for congress. The name of Hon. W. F. Aldrich was the only one presented to the convention and he declined to accept the nomination.

Mr. Aldrich, in returning thanks, said he could not accept the nomination and would decline to make the race again; he had already done more than any other man, he had made three successful contests and wished now to retire.

The convention then appointed a committee to confer with the Populists, and the joint committee was instructed to report a nominee within two weeks.

This rather looks as if it was intended to ignore the wishes of such Populists in the district who may still be disposed to accept a Republican nominee. They will not have any voice in naming him, as it is not possible to get a convention in the time stipulated. It is possible some few members of the Populist committee may take upon themselves the responsibility of naming a candidate who will be acceptable to the Republicans, but we very much doubt if any Populists will support him.

This hesitation on the part of the opposition simply proves the fact that it is recognized on all sides the nomination of Sydney J. Bowie was the strongest that has been made for several years, and no man is anxious to oppose him. If a nomination should be made, the victim has the certainty of defeat staring him in the face from the start to the finish.

OUR PLATFORM.

THE BANNER has within the last two weeks had a number of conversations with various members of both the Democratic and Populist parties, and while some of these conversations have been very satisfactory, some of them are capable of misinterpretation.

THE BANNER believes that it is to the best interests of all our people to support Bryan for President and Sidney J. Bowie for Congress for the following reasons:

1. As an effective organization the Populist party is dead and there is no possibility of its resurrection.

2. We do not think it is honest or right to tell the people anything can be gained or accomplished through the dead organization of the People's Party.

3. We do not believe that a single vote will be counted in the forthcoming election in November except for the man for which it is cast.

4. We do believe that a large majority of the voters in the white counties will vote for Sidney J. Bowie.

5. We do believe that every man who has hitherto been supposed to be a Populist will now stand forth in behalf of the principle he has been advocating and will try and carry them through by voting for Bryan and Bowie.

6. We do not believe that any man who has heretofore supported Populist principles will now go back on them and support the opposition.

7. We do believe that any man who has heretofore posed as a Populist, and now refuses to support Bryan for President and Bowie for Congress, has never been a true Populist, but has simply been an anti-Democrat, ready and willing to sacrifice the principles of the Populist party for some supposed local offence.

8. We do believe that most of our Populist friends who may be now standing aloof will be with us in the November election.

9. We do believe that Sidney J. Bowie will receive such an overwhelming vote in the white counties of this district that no man will attempt to contest it.

10. We believe that a vote for Bryan and Bowie means the disinthrallment of the masses of the people, and a vote for the opposition means harder times and stronger enthrallment.

Chinese are dangerous enemies, for they are treacherous. That's why all counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are dangerous. They look like DeWitt's, but instead of the all-healing witch hazel they all contain ingredients liable to irritate the skin and cause blood poisoning. For piles, injuries and skin diseases use the original and genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Campbelle Drug Co.

THE collection at Clanton last week for the benefit of the sufferers at Galveston amounted to $26.60 This was good for our small town, but Verbena went us one better and raised $34.50.

Prevented A Tragedy

Timely information given Mrs George Long, of New Straitsville Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by J. S. Johnson, jr., druggist.

IN SUNNY ITALY

Rome, Italy, Aug. 8, 1900

I will write you a second letter from this point so as to catch up with my notes, and for fear I lose them, and as I said before losing them is losing all. After spending two pleasant nights at Lucerne, we took the St. Gothard railway route over the Alps, or that is, through awhile, over awhile, around awhile and it seemed on the top awhile. One tunnel 4½ miles long—from Maplesville to Plantersville, Ala., through solid rock, black smoke, coal gas, foul air and inky darkness, except the poor light that a government owned railroad furnishes. But oh Moses! The awful grandeur as you emerge from the tomb to look far beneath the ledge of rock the train is on, and see a clean little Swiss town a thousand or two feet below you, and also looking upwards you see acres of snow and running cascades foaming down the mountain side. No one can tell you the sublime beauty of the Alps. You must come and see, there can be no other way. I was not prepared to believe what I saw though I have read all my life, and had re-read just prior to my trip, so as to prepare myself, but I freely confess I was quite short in my conceptions and feel myself still incapable of fully appreciating such things and such grandeur

The railway seems to cross itself in loops, as does the Southern railway at Round Knob, and some other American road out West in the Rockies. I was too much absorbed in the scenery to watch that part of the business any. Finally we find the speed accelerates, and we found we are on the down grade into balmy Italy, and soon Lake Como of the Bulwer-Lytton fame is reached and passed, and then comes the great plain of Lombardy and Milan, its great city. Being the battle ground of the centuries and many times destroyed, but now a fine city of 500,000 people. I see its fine cathedral built in 1356, costing $20 000,000 and took 300 years to finish it. It has 52 columns, 153 spires, 6,000 statues in and on it Here we visit the tomb of the good Archbishop Charles in the church; the tomb costing $1,000.000. We leave Milan next evening, crossing the great fertile plain of Lombardy, passing the battlefields of Solferino and Magenta and arrive in Venice, the queen of the Adriatic. We see the Rialto bridge, the bridge of sighs, skylocks shop, the glass factory, the lace factory—the women of the party again in "clover," the men of the party again in agony. The old church built A.D. 421 and see one or two more "shore nuf" nails of the cross, take a bath in the Adriatic, and wish we could ride in gondolas all our lives and talk to pretty girls. Went to bed tired out and woke up next morning in the same place as the city of the sea had not floated away. It is simply wonderful to be once in a great city and (Venice is great 180,000 people) and not a single horse hoof beat, not a single rumble of carriage or hack, or omnibus, not a shrieking locomotive whistle, no electric cars to run out of the way of, nothing, nothing, save quietude and peace and rest, and balmy air, pretty faces, high up in lattice window and peeking through Venetian blinds, while the hardly audible whisk of the gondolas afloat in the placid water gives out the only sound of life. I could stay here always and be happy too, if only I had 160 pounds of American fish that was grown in should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

FIRST—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. CHINA'S FAMED SAGE.

REMARKABLE CAREER OF CONFUCIUS, POET AND POLITICIAN.

His Reverses and Triumphs — He So Administered Laws That Not a Criminal Was Left in China—How His Enemies Overcame Him Temporarily.

In the twentieth year of the Emperor Ling, 551 B. C., Confucius, the "all-complete, ancient teacher and perfect sage," first felt the light in the district of Chingse Tsow. His father was Shuh-leang Heih, whose pro ess was as large as his stature, and his valor greater than both. His mother, consort of Heih's senility, and his second wife, was Ching-tsae, youngest daughter of the family of Yen. The usual miraculous episodes encluster his birth. When Confucius was only three years old his father, Scholar Heih, died.

Of his early schooling little that is trustworthy has been preserved. Certain it is that his house knew full well the pinch of poverty. At fifteen Confucius, K'ew, or Confutse, had versed himself in studies far beyond his years. At nineteen he contracted an alliance with a lady of the house of Keen-kwan. In the following year the stork visited his dwelling. Ching-tsae gave birth to a son, Le.

Confucius was made keeper of grain stores, next a warden of public fields and lands. Even then his humblest duties—the fabric of much rich, parable and simile—were discharged with an uncommon thoroughness and conscientious devotion. At two-and-twenty he flashed forth into a public teacher; his house became the rallying ground of thoughtful, ardent youths. In 528 B. C. his mother joined her husband in the valley of the shadow. Five years afterward, when Confucius, a man of "north, south, east and west," was twenty-nine, we find him studying music under a famous principal named Seang. B. C. 517 saw him signaled out as teacher of proprieties to the son of one of the chief members of Loo. A later date discovers him, a musical acolyte, student of poetry, history, ceremonies, antiquity and ethics, imbibing wisdom at the court of Chow. Here so entrancingly did a sage's music appeal to him that for three full months flesh food and he were strangers.

Now occurs a much-debated incident, the rumored divorcing of his wife.

B. C. 500, in the early twilight of his years, he was appointed chief magistrate of Chung-too, and in this capacity proved himself a manners reformer of no mean prowess. Next he was respectively assistant superintendent of works under Duke Ting; then Minister of Crime. During this last tenure of office—popularized by deference to the verdict of one from among his counselors, whichever was most cogent—such became of his sway that no offenders showed themselves.

Confutse was now the darling of the populace. Delegates of his administration sped far afield, pilgrims flocked in shoals from other States. In the heyday of his prosperity, at the turret of all power, arrived that tragic throwback which, from a worldly viewpoint, was his undoing. By the machinations of envious States it was contrived that a cargo of eighty peerless damozels should be presented to his sovereign. These were sent ostensibly as the portion of a good-will offering, in reality to seduce the King from the teachings of his Minister. The venomous plot succeeded only too well. For dejected Confucius began at fifty-six a cycle of weary wanderings which were to last for thirteen years. Through all his hardships and perilous adventures belief in a divine mission sustained him.

Of those travails and travels, in all likelihood, were born his most consummate maxims. Probably to that period we owe his uplifting of ancestor worship into a religion, many of his compilations, his immortal Analects, his Rules of Propriety and the contiguous Five Relations of Society to be Observed. Throughout his existence, from the Alpha of his adolescence to the Omega of his obsequies, he seems to have been characterized by a lofty nobility, a grand independence of thought and speech, a transcendent purity of living. Upon some alleged stains on his escutcheon, such as the breaking of a forced oath, the praising of a gallant lie, the present writer has not sufficient knowledge or presumption to pronounce.

Charitable, Confutse acknowledged the vital need of education for rich and poor alike. Narrow as to the functions of woman, he was quick to see the influence of right examples and to insist upon their practice by those in authority. To secure the common weal he realized that good rulers and good leaders—benevolent despots, if you will—were indispensable. Alive before his time, posterity awarded this matchless conserver and transmitter a glorious recognition. For 2000 years countless emperors made and still make adoring pilgrimages to his shrine. To-day all native colleges raise side temples to his honor; his disciples may be measured by the hundred million.

B. C. 483, by a fortunate twist of fate, the wanderer could return to Loo. Confutse was now sixty-nine, and, thanks to time and inward mastery, might "follow what his heart desired without transgressing what was right." He absorbed and diffused wisdom and poetry, collated history's peebles and undertook the reformation of music. B. C. 482 was blazed by the demise of his son, Le, toward whom he had, of principle, maintained a stern reticence and dignity. Of his daughters, although we know one, at least, he had little or nothing to say. His declining years were punctuated by the death of loved apostles, whose individual loss apparently affected him more keenly than that of his own son.

Early one forenoon this king without a throne with trailing staff toddled out into the sunshine. As he went he simpered his melancholy swan song: "The great mountain must crumble, the strong beam must snap and the wise man wither away like a plant." He took to his couch. A week later, with no wife or child to minister to his dying hours, with no expectations of a life to come, muttering no prayer, betraying no fear, the end drew very nigh. On the 11th day of the fourth month, 478 B. C., the Unchallenged, the Perfect Sage, fell asleep.

Do you ask for his monument? Look about you.—New York Mail and Express.

Colorado, more than any other State in the Union, owes a debt of gratitude to the camera. But for the development of photography along popular lines the annual rush of tourists to this wonderland of nature would be small in comparison with its present proportions.

At least two-thirds of the tourists who visit Colorado bring cameras with them. These photographic implements vary from the smallest and cheapest to the largest and most expensive on the market.

These camera enthusiasts are doing much to open up new resorts in Colorado. They are not satisfied with "shooting up" Manitou and Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods, but they turn their faces from civilization and seek out solemn mountain fastnesses that have never echoed to the click of the camera shutter. They face hardship, and even danger, for the sake of transferring some particularly inspiring scene to a plate or film. The result has been that others have been induced to desert the beaten paths of travel, and instead of seeing only a few pages of nature's book, many tourists are now enjoying the whole volume.

One of the features of modern camera work, which is coming into favor, and which can be practiced nowhere to better advantage than in this State, is the photography of animals in their haunts. The bloodless, but exciting, hunt of bear, mountain lions and deer, with no weapon but a camera, is claiming more devotees every year.—Denver (Col.) Republican.

The Champion Dog Story.

It is the story the woman who spends her summers on a farm always tells when dog stories are going the rounds. She vouches for it, for she knows the dog, and if she was not a witness for this particular incident she knows the woman whose husband owns the dog, and neither could be induced to deviate a hair's breadth from the truth. The dog is a clever shepherd and well acquainted with all the animals on the place and with their habits. He is on good terms with them all, and when one day a calf was shut up in the barn he made numerous calls upon the prisoner. The idea first was undoubtedly to vary the monotony with his presence.

But after a while he noticed that the calf seemed to have a great longing ungratified. He was penned in with bars which separated him from a quantity of turnips which he could see and smell, but which were entirely out of reach. It was exasperating. The dog, in the course of his visits, finally became to understand the trouble, and set about remedying it. The result was that the next day the farmer found in the pen with the calf a half-eaten turnip, which he took away, only to find another the next day, and still another the third. No one on the farm had fed them to the animal, and he could not have taken them himself. Then one day the culprit was discovered. The shepherd dog every day carefully picked a turnip out of the pile, took it in his mouth and dropped it into the pen of his friend, the calf.—New York Times.

A Great Engineering Feat.

A remarkable engineering feat was performed not long ago at the Stratford works of the Great Eastern Railway. The engineers had set themselves the task of building a luggage engine and tender in the quickest time on record.

All the component parts had been carefully arranged and placed at hand; and when work commenced early in the morning the engine quickly began to assume shape. By dinner time it was practically completed, with the exception of painting, and within ten hours the engine and tender in all the glory of new paint, and perfect in every detail, were taking a trial spin on the line.

A Pathetic Portrait.

In the old castle at Hamburg, where he has been in residence, the German Emperor will have the opportunity of seeing a portrait of his great-great grandfather, George III. of Great Britain and Ireland, which is assuredly one of the most pathetic pictures in the world. It represents the octogenarian king in his terrible condition of madness and blindness. He is seated, clad in a purple dressing-gown, with the Star of the Garter, as if in irony, on his breast. His sightless face is in profile, and he wears a long white beard, which in his day must have seemed a distinguishing attribute of madness.

Duly Notified.

Bucharest officials are conscientious. After a revision of the registration lists in that city the following notice was sent out: "Major A. Fanutza: It is hereby brought to your notice that your name is struck off the list of electors for Deputies and Senators in the First District, and will not again be inserted in it. The reason for this is the fact that your death occurred some time ago."

CUBAN SUPERSTITIONS.

A WIDE VARIETY OF OMENS AND CHARMS CHERISHED.

The Rain Water of May Believed to Possess Peculiarly Beneficial Qualities—Dirt Eaten as Medicine—Moonlight Bodes Ill—Number 13 Abhorred.

Dorothy Stanhope writes as follows to the New York Times from Havana:

Just as Americans have superstitions which are unknown among the people of this island, so the Cubans have many which are unknown among us. Among the educated people here these have no more weight than among the same class in the States. But among the lower classes, there is the greatest importance attached to them. As is natural, most of the omens are of sickness or health and their religion embodies much of superstition also.

A belief very prevalent among the common people is that the rain water of May has peculiarly beneficial qualities which that of no other time possesses. Why the month of May is favored is not quite plain, although the fact that during that month the rainy season begins may have some bearing on the matter. Certainly, if its waters have any curative powers, every sick person in the island should have been helped this year, for the rain fell in torrents during the greater part of the month.

Another belief that has a strong hold on the same class of people is that certain diseases can be cured by eating dirt, and so when one of these diseases manifests itself, the believer does not consult a physician, but instead gathers up a handful of dirt and eats it. If any relief is obtained it must be the result of faith cure, which the patient is unconsciously trying. Why all kinds of germs are not taken in with the dirt is a mystery—possibly they are.

Still another means of relieving pain—in this instance, headache—is by pressing a leaf from a tree against each temple, and leaving it there for some time. It does not seem at all necessary that the leaves should be from any particular kind of tree or shrub in order to effect a cure. It is not unusual to see poor people going about with their foreheads so adorned.

The moonlight seems particularly objectionable, and strangers are warned not to go out in it with uncovered head, and not to go out in it at all, if it can be avoided. It is thought that this light brings many evil effects, and not under any circumstances will a Cuban sleep in its rays—he thinks that, among other things, it will draw his mouth to one side of his face. To be sure he has never seen any one whom it has affected in this way, but that does not interfere with his belief. He also thinks that the night air is very injurious, and always closes his room up tightly at night, so that no air may come in to work its evil. Many Americans followed this example when they first came here, thinking that, as the Cubans had lived here so long, they knew the best way of living in this climate. Now, however, the majority of our fellow-countrymen throw their shutters wide open whenever circumstances will permit, and leave only the iron bars of the window to oppose the entrance of fresh air. Many Cubans go about at night with their handkerchiefs at mouth and nose to keep the air from entering the lungs. Among some the air near the sea is looked on with disfavor, and strangers are advised not to linger on the shore.

To ward off sicknesses of various kinds there are little silver or tin images to wear suspended about the neck as a kind of charm. Images of the same kind are offered as thanksgiving or prayer, and so we find cases in which are hundreds of these little trinkets, hands, feet, arms, babies, etc. Few American babies wear bracelets. Mothers seldom think of such a thing as adding one of these to the dress of a child of a few months, but the poor people have grave fears for any child that does not wear one during the teething period. The child may have little other clothing, probably nothing but a slip, but invariably the Cuban baby wears a bracelet on its left arm, even if that bracelet be nothing more than a bit of string. Speaking of babies, it is the universal custom here to have the ears of baby girls pierced at a very tender age, usually before they are two months old. This is done among both rich and poor, and seems quite necessary. Often poor mothers tie strings in the ears of these baby girls for want of better earrings. Cubans, or at least the poorer classes of Cubans, think that every American baby whose ears are not pierced must be a boy.

The number thirteen is regarded as unlucky here, but it is not referred to as often as it is among us. Friday is not thought an unlucky day. Indeed, it is rather the contrary for the Cubans, since Columbus discovered the West Indies on that day. Tuesday is supposed to be a very unpropitious day of the week for starting a journey, beginning a piece of work or for doing any of those things which in other places are connected with Friday. The hooting of an owl is taken as a very bad sign. The superstitious Cuban kills any creature of this kind which makes weird sounds near his home. This is supposed to break the spell, and it is not then inevitable that a member of the family shall meet death in the near future. Butterflies also are looked upon as omens.

Among the Cubans, especially those living at Key West, it is thought very unlucky to continue to live in a house in which a member of the family has died. Among those at Key West there is a prejudice against owning their homes on this account, and as soon as possible after a death the family moves to another house. Apropos of this subject, Cuban children, even if they be scarcely able to walk, wear deep mourning after the death of either parent. It is quite pitiful to see some of these children, scarcely more than babies, dressed in this sombre manner. Another custom, to which I have never seen nor heard of an exception, is that among the friends of a deceased person who accompany the body to the cemetery there is never a woman; the line of carriages contains only men. Ladies go to the home to express their sympathy—calls of this kind seem obligatory—but never to the cemetery.

The Cuban women are great believers in the efficacy of various herbs in sickness, and have a remedy for almost every ailment. American physicians find that they have much more knowledge in this line than the women of our own country, and more knowledge of sickness in general. In many homes, even the poorest, there is a thermometer, and if any one is ill his temperature is taken before the physician arrives.

Nuts as Food.

We have little idea in this country to what a considerable extent the nut is used for food in a few foreign lands. Our consuls have been sending information on this subject from far and wide. We are trying to teach foreign nations that Indian corn is an excellent article of food, but most of the European peasants still believe that maize is fit only to fatten hogs and beef cattle. Many of these same persons sit down to a dish of steamed chestnuts with much relish, and are content if they have nothing else.

Throughout the centre of France, from the Bay of Biscay to Switzerland, there are large plantations and almost forests of chestnut trees. The nuts are very large, resemble the American horse chestnut and are extensively eaten by the peasantry and animals. In the fall and winter the poor often make two meals a day on chestnuts. They are steamed and eaten with salt, or milk, and physicians say they are wholesome, hearty, nutritious and fatt ning. In some parts of France walnuts also are a regular article of diet, but they are losing ground as an article of food because of their comparative scarcity. Walnuts are also used to make oil, and the convicts in some prisons are employed cracking the nuts and picking out the kernels from which the oil is expressed.

A Melancholy Bulldog.

A bulldog committed suicide out in Fairmount Park a few days ago. Park Guard Harry Murray saw, but could not prevent, the tragic act, and Park Guard MacEntee buried, without tears, the crushed remains. The dog was young, white with brown spots, and collarless. Murray drove him several times from off the Girard avenue bridge. He was hanging around there gloomily, pacing to and fro, now and then pausing to look pensively down through the trefoil carvings in the stone coping at the river below. At 3 o'clock, having been driven away a little while before, the dog came rushing at full speed again out Girard avenue and over the bridge. Murray made for him. He ran straight up and leaped through the first opening he found. It was a double trefoil, just large enough to admit his body, at the east end of the bridge. He whirled through the air and landed on the river drive, seventy feet below. Overfeeding was his trouble, Murray thinks. Blind staggers is the diagnosis of MacEntee. But surely, to the romantic-minded, something more poetical than this was the cause which led the young bulldog to take his life. —Philadelphia Record.

Enormous Pendulums.

The only structures in Japan which seem to be earthquake proof are the pagodas, which are erected before the temples. There are many which are seven or eight hundred years old and as solid as when first built.

There is a reason for this and it lies in their construction. A pagoda is practically a frame work of heavy timbers, which starts from a wide base, and is in itself a substantial structure, but is rendered still more stable by peculiar device. Inside the framework and suspended from the apex is a long, heavy beam of timber two feet thick or more. This hangs from one end of the four sides; four more heavy timbers, and if the pagoda be very lofty, still more timbers, are added to these. The whole forms an enormous pendulum, which reaches within six inches of the ground.

When the shock of an earthquake rocks the pagoda the pendulum swings in unison and keeps the centre of gravity always at the base of the framework. Consequently the equilibrium of the pagoda is never disturbed, and this is the explanation of the great age of many of them, when from their height one would suppose them to be particularly susceptible to the effects of the earthquake.

Belaying His Jaws.

Shark stories, with some reason, are commonly received with incredulity. A well authenticated anecdote, however, is told of Dr. Frederic Hill, an English surgeon of distinction.

A man fell overboard in the Indian Ocean and almost into a shark's mouth. Hill, who was standing close to the rail, grabbed a belaying pin and without hesitation jumped to save the sailor.

The great brute was just turning on his back to bite when Hill drove the belaying pin right through both jaws. Both men were got on board again unharmed.

"Perhaps that fellow won't want another toothpick. Has any one got a clean shirt to lend? This was my last," were the only words of the rescuer.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: Lessons to Be Learned From the Three Crosses—On Right Unbelief and Remorse, on Left Penitence and Content, in the Centre Everlasting Love.

[Copyright 1898.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The famous paintings in the picture galleries of Munich seem to have suggested the topic of this discourse, which Dr. Talmage sends from the quaint Bavarian town, but the theme which inspired the painters awakens in the great preacher thoughts of the redemption of the human race, which was the supreme design of that scene of suffering and death. The text is Luke xxiii, 33, "There they crucified Him and the malefactors, one on the right hand and the other on the left."

Just outside of Jerusalem is a swell of ground, toward which a crowd are ascending, for it is the day of execution. What a mighty assemblage! Some for curiosity to hear what the malefactors will say and to see how they will act. The three persons to be executed are already there. Some of the spectators are vile of lip and bloated of cheek. Some look up with revenge, hardly able to keep their hands off the sufferers. Some tear their own hair in a frenzy of grief. Some stand in silent horror. Some break out into uncontrollable weeping. Some clap their hands in delight that the offenders are to be punished at last. The soldiers with drawn swords drive back the mob, which presses on so hard. There is fear that the proceedings may be interrupted. Let the legion, now stationed at Jerusalem, on horseback dash along the line and force back the surging multitude. "Back with you!" is the cry. "Have you never before seen a man die?"

Three crosses in a row—an upright piece and two transverse pieces, one at the top, on which the hands are nailed, and one at the middle, on which the victim sat. Three trees just planted—not bearing fruit—the one at the right bearing poison, and the one at the left bitter aloes, the one in the middle, apples of love. Norway pine and tropical orange and Lebanon cedar would not make so strange a grove as this orchard of Calvary. Stand back and give a look at the three crosses.

Just look at the cross on the right. Its victim dies scoffing. More awful than his physical anguish is his scorn and hatred of Him on the middle cross. This wretched man turns half around on the spikes to hiss at the One in the middle. If the scoffer could get one hand loose, and he were within reach, he would smite the middle sufferer in the face. He hates Him with a perfect hatred. I think he wishes he were down on the ground that he might spear Him. He envies the mechanics who with their nails have nailed Him fast. Amid the settling darkness and louder than the crash of the rocks hear him jeer out these words: "Ah, you poor wretch! I knew you were an imposter! You pretended to be a God, and yet you let these legions master you." It was in some such hate that Voltaire in his death hour, because he thought he saw Christ in his bedroom, got up on his elbow and cried out, "Crush that wretch!" What had the middle cross done to arouse up this right hand cross? Nothing. Oh, the enmity of the natural heart against Christ! The world likes a sentimental Christ or a philanthropic Christ, but a Christ who comes to snatch men away from their sins—away with Him! On this right hand cross today I see typified the unbelief of the world. Men say: "Back with Him from the heart! I will not let Him take my sins. If He will die, let Him die for Himself, not for me." There has always been a war between this right hand cross and the middle cross, and wherever there is an unbelieving heart, there the fight goes on. Oh, if when that dying malefactor perished; the faithlessness of man had perished, then that tree which yields poison would have budded and blossomed with life for all the world.

Look up into that disturbed countenance of the sufferer and see what a ghastly thing it is to reject Christ. Behold in that awful face, in that pitiful look, in that unblessed death hour, the stings of that sinner's departure! What a plunge into darkness! Standing high upon the cross on the top of the hill, so that all the world may look at him, he says, "Here I go out of a miserable life into a wretched eternity!" One, two, three! Listen to the crash of the fall, all ye ages! So Hobbes, dying after he had seventy years in which to prepare for eternity, said, "Were I master of all the world I would give it all to live one day longer." Sir Francis Newport, hovering over the brink, cried out: "Wretch that I am, whither shall I fly from this breast? What will become of me? Oh, that I were to lie upon the fire that never is quenched a thousand years, to purchase the favor of God and to be reconciled to Him again! Oh, eternity; oh, eternity! Who can discover the abyss of eternity? Who can paraphrase these words, 'Forever and forever?'"

That right hand cross—thousands have perished on it in worse agonies. For what is physical pain compared to remorse at the last, that life has been wasted and only a fleeting moment stands between the soul and its everlasting overthrow? O God, let me die anywhere rather than at the foot of that right hand cross! Let not one drop of that blood fall upon my cheek. Rend not my ear with that cry. I see it now as never before—the loathsomeness and horror of my unbelief. That dying malefactor was not so much to blame as I. Christianity was not established, and perhaps not until that day had that man heard the Christ. But after Christ had stood almost 1900 years, working the wonders of His grace, you reject Him.

That right hand cross, with its long beam, overshadows all the earth. It is planted in the heart of the race. When will the time come when the spirit of God shall, with its ax, hew down that right hand cross until it shall fall at the foot of that middle cross and unbelief, the railing malefactor of the world, shall perish from all our hearts? Away from me, thou spirit of unbelief! I hate thee! With this sword of God I thrust thee back and thrust thee through! Down to hell! Down, most accursed monster of the earth, and talk to those thou hast already damned! Talk no longer to these sons of God, these heirs of heaven!

"If Thou be the Son of God." Was there any "if" about it? Tell me, thou star, that in robe of light did run to point out His birthplace. Tell me, thou sea, that didst put thy hand over thy lip when He bade thee be still. Tell me, ye dead, who got up to see Him die. Tell me, thou sun in mid-heaven, who for Him didst pull down over thy face the veil of darkness. Tell me, ye lepers who were cleansed, ye dead who were raised, is He the Son of God? Aye, aye! responds the universe. The flowers breathe it; the stars chime it; the redeemed celebrate it; the angels rise on their thrones to announce it. And yet on that miserable malefactor's "if" how many shall be wrecked for all eternity! That little "if" has enough venom in its sting to cause the death of the soul. No "if" about it. I know it. Ecce Deus! I feel it thoroughly—through every muscle of the body and through every faculty of my mind and through every energy of my soul. Living, I will preach it; dying, I will pillow my head upon its consolations—Jesus the God.

Away, then, from this right hand cross. The red berries of the forest are apt to be poisonous, and around this tree of carnage grow the red, poisonous berries of which many have tasted and died. I can see no use for the right hand cross if it be used as a lever with which to lift the unbelief of the world.

Here from the right hand cross to the left hand cross. Pass over the other side. That victim also was himself upon the nails to look at the cross, yet not to scoff. It was He, too, would like to get down from the cross, but to deliver, not to smite, but to deliver. The occupant of the middle cross. He does not curse or cursing on the other side. Between us innocence and guilt, between us suffer for our crimes. Stand around this left hand cross. Be not afraid. Better times a tonic for the brain than the aloes that grow on the cross. strength and life to the left hand cross is a repentance.

As men who have been drowned tell us that in a few moments they were under water there passed before them, as I suppose the dying malefactor will pass before him at the last life of sin, so into an unguarded moment of silver, the gold of the sleeper stirred he put the heart of that dying pass he met the wrecks and of the cries and prayers struggles of his soul. The glad course into the sea, or leaped upon it the I am a sinner, there is no need of my not stop the sun Blasphemous that I no wrong, and yet I tortures of my soul tortures of my soul of misdoing. The The future an eyeless back upon losing my cheek with one beak. What no help from beneath! Then I was salvation in a cross. alls cross. I have heard how to help a man who I have heard that He led. I have heard that sinner. Surely, in and down the earth more in need of Him than I. I turn to The for the moment I pangs to pity me. I my hands relieved the torture. I can my sons, no sons more through and the the darkness. I must the forever into the darkness. I confess it to dying thief. I no great things. I heaven, no chariot shoes, but just think horrors have passed me, the one who when the shout takes The bars will not forget me remember me when Thy kingdom."

Likewise about sin. We have stolen nothing, all been guilty of crime the universe, for we have robbed Him of our talents, robbed Him of our time. Suppose you send a present of your firm and you withhold him his salary and you find out that he is working for other firms, but continue to send you not at once condemn him as a fool? God sent us into this world for Him. He has given us eyes all the Yet how many of us have been working another master! When a man is convicted of treason, he is brought before a regiment surrounds him and the command is given: "Attention, company! Present! aim! Fire!" And the man falls with a hundred bullets through his heart. But there comes a time in a man's history when the Lord calls on the troop of his providence and at God's command they pour him a concentrated volley of torture.

To this middle cross look, that souls may live. I showed you the hand cross in order that you might see what an awful thing it is to be living. I showed you the left hand cross that you might see what it is to be dying. Now I show you the middle cross that you may see what Christ has done for your soul. Poets have attempted to describe it, sculptors have attempted to create it in marble, martyrs have died for it in the fire and Christians dying in their beds have leaned their heads against it.

This hour may all our souls be filled with an ecstasy of affection for Christ and that cross. Everything else will fade away. Without a strong grip on that cross, Put your hand on that and you may though a world swing from its feet.

Oh, that I might engrave on your souls ineffaceably the three crosses. Then in your waking moments you will need, then in your dreams at night you may see on the hill back of Jerusalem three spectacles—the right hand cross showing unbelief, dying without pardon, the left hand showing what it is to be pardoned, while the central cross pours upon your soul the sunburst of heaven as it says: "By all these wounds I have suffered, by my thy heart, I have loved thee with an everlasting love. Rivers cannot drown it. Floods cannot drown it."

But, no, we will not wait for the dream. In this our most solemn hour we throw down at the foot of the cross sin, sorrow, life, death, everything. We are slaves. Christ gives deliverance to the captive. We are famishing. Christ is the river of salvation to quench our thirst. We are hungry. Christ says, "I am the bread of life." We are condemned to die; Christ says, "I have found a ransom." We are doomed on account of our trouble; Jesus comes over it, saying, "It is I; be not afraid." We are sick, sore and full of pain. Jesus says, "I am the bright and morning star." We are sick. Jesus is the balm of Gilead."

We are dead, hear the shout of victory and the grave hillocks heave, as Christ says, "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." We were dead in trespasses and sins, but by justification by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." We want to be saved; Jesus Christ says: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." We want to be delivered from under condemnation. "There is therefore, no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus." The cross has conquered it. The flames of hell have no power over them. The shame—He endured it for them. He won it. He has it. He wears it and worlds of light to sing it all round the heavens of heavens, "Thou art worthy, O Lamb, for Thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by Thy blood out of every kindred and tongue and people and nation, and hast made us unto our God kings and priests, and we shall reign on the earth." Let us go forth and gather trophies for Jesus. From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand we gather the diamonds. From Africa's golden shores we gather the pearls. From all the islands and kingdoms we gather the precious stones, and we bring the glorious treasures and put them down at the footstool of Jesus and say: "All these are Thine, Thou art worthy." We go back for more trophies and into one great throng we gather all the sceptres of the Cæsars and the Alexanders and the Napoleons and the Sultans and of all royalties and dominions, and then we bring the shout of victory and put it down at the feet of Him who is King of kings and Lord of lords, and we say, "Thou art King of kings and Lord of lords." And we shall go forth again to gather more trophies, and we bid the redeemed of all ages, the sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty to come. And the hosts of heaven shall come with crowns and palms and scepters, and they will cast these crowns at the feet of Him who was crowned with thorns, and these palms and these scepters at the feet of Him who was pierced with the spear, and these bleeding feet and these pierced hands, and by this wounded hand will we cast our crowns and honor and glory and power at the feet of the Lamb, for ever and ever.

Curious Stories of Escapes from Elephants.

W. A. Chanler, in his recent book, "Through Jungle and Desert: Travels in East Africa," tells two very interesting stories of escapes from elephants. Firing at one of a herd of elephants, he was charged by five of them. They were close upon him when his fox-terrier jumped upon the nearest beast, barking and biting furiously. The brutes at once halted, and with a scream of fright turned to the right and left. A Masai interpreter rushed at by one of the herd, jumped into a heap of prickly bushes. The elephant stopped, fumbled among the thorns with his trunk. The Masai instinctively threw out his sandals, which were promptly seized. The sandals seemed to satisfy the curiosity of the beast, who, having taken them with his trunk, stuffed them to the ground and trampled upon them. Then, with a loud trumpeting of rage, it passed on down the path." The native was no doubt thankful enough to escape thus with his life, but between the thorns and the feverish excitement of being pursued by the monster he must have suffered pretty uncomfortable. It was, in short, a kind of prickly heat he had not experienced before.

Advice for Mrs. Pinkham's Advice

November, 1897

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am a great sufferer, have much trouble through lower part of my bowels, and I am writing to you for advice. Menses are irregular and scanty, am troubled with headaches, and I ache so through my back and down through my loins. Have spells of bloating very badly, my limbs will be very large and other times very much reduced.—MRS. CHAS. JOHNSON, Box 33, Rumford Center, Me., Nov. 20, 1897.

Improvement Reported December, 1897

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to say that I am improving in health, never so much better than when I wrote before. The trouble through lower part of bowels is better and not located so badly. I was very much swollen through the abdomen when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I still have a feeling of fullness across my chest. I have taken three bottles of it and am on the fourth.—MRS. CHAS. E. JOHNSON, Box 33, Rumford Center, Maine, Dec. 13, 1897.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 23.

Subject: The Duty of Watchfulness. Luke xii., 35-46—Golden Text: Matt. xxvi., 41 — Memory Verses, 43, 44 — Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

35. "Let your loins be girded about." This is an allusion to the long robes of the East, which those who wear must bind up before they engage in any active employment." Jesus had just admonished them against undue anxiety about temporal affairs (vs. 22-32), and now He gives an admonition to watchfulness. "And your light burning." The master was likely to return at any hour of the night, and in order to be ready to receive him their lights must be burning.

36. "When he will return from the wedding." The Jewish weddings were conducted with great pomp. The ceremony was usually performed in the night. The festivities lasted from three to seven days. "That when he cometh." As these servants waited, with girded loins and burning lights, all ready to meet their master and run at his bidding as soon as he approached; so we are to wait for the coming of our Master. Wait (1) with eager longing and (2) with joyous expectation. "May open—immediately." They will have something to do first—will have to get ready.

37. "Blessed." Those who are ready are blessed and are highly honored by their master. "When He cometh." Christ returns to all from the heavenly wedding at the end of the world, when He has taken to Himself His bride the church; to each individual He comes when He stands suddenly before a man at the hour of death. "Shall find watching." We are to watch against temptations from within and without; against pervading iniquities which fill the air with moral malaria, and even chill the piety of the church; against failure in duty; against the loss of the warmth of love; against the day of death and of judgment, so as to be prepared for them when they come. We are also to watch for the coming of the Lord; watch for it with hope and joy; watch for the signs of His special presence and power; watch for openings to serve Him by helping His poor children; watch for opportunities of comforting the sad, upholding the weak, reclaiming the erring, teaching the ignorant, leading men to Jesus, aiding His cause. "Gird himself—serve them." Whatever we do for God He will do in return for us. It is unusual for masters to wait upon their servants, but Jesus Christ was among His disciples as one that served. See John 13: 4, 5. This also signifies the joy with which they shall be received into the other world by the Lord Jesus, who has gone before to prepare for them, and has told them that His Father will honor them. John 12: 26.

38. "The second—or—third watch." The Jews had adopted the Roman custom of dividing the night into four watches. The first watch was from six to nine, the second from nine to twelve, the third from twelve to three, the fourth from three to six.

39. "Had known what hour." The householder's ignorance of the time when the thief would come is the reason why he does not watch. He cannot always keep awake, so he has to go to sleep and is robbed. But our ignorance is the reason for wakefulness, because we can keep spiritually awake all through life. The householder watches to prevent, but we to share in that for which the watch is kept. But with all the obscurity thus intentionally thrown around the day and the hour of Christ's coming, let us not forget that no obscurity, no uncertainty hangs around the great event itself. In the East the State punishes, but leaves the prevention and detection of the theft and robbery to the individual interested. Hence the watchman is necessary and important everywhere.

40. "Be ye therefore ready." Always ready so we will never be taken unawares. Watchfulness insures readiness; readiness insures safety. Indifference marks the way to sin and despair. A scriptural preparation includes repentance and conversion. "Cometh—when ye think not." See 1 Thess. 5: 2; 2 Pet. 3: 10. We should resist the temptation to spiritual drowsiness. Nothing is much worse than a sleepy religion. Rev. 3: 16.

41. "Peter said unto him." This apostle was the one who afterward most needed the admonition (Matt. 26: 74), and in so sad a manner forgot it. Those who stand in most danger are often slowest to profit by words of warning. "Unto us, or even to all." Is it meant for us as Thine apostles, or for all men? Our Lord in His answer in speaking of a steward, intimates that the parable has its highest reference to the ministers and rulers of His church; but shows at the close (v. 48) that it applies to every one according to the measure of his knowledge and of the duties laid upon him.

42. "Faithful and wise steward." The steward was a middle person between the master and slave, and had the care of the whole household. It was a post of confidence in which faithfulness was required. As the steward to the rest of the servants, so should the apostles stand with reference to other believers. "Shall make ruler." That one would be made ruler who had previously proven himself faithful and wise, who attended to his duties during his master's absence with the same fidelity that he did when he was present. "To give—meat." As God's stewards we should be ready to give out to others what He places at our disposal.

43. "Blessed." He is blessed in his deed; he rejoices because he is found in the faithful performance of his duties by his Lord and he is blessed with a high promotion "Shall find so doing." We see here what Christ means by watching: "not gazing up into the heavens for signs, but the faithful performance of duty."

44. "He will set him over all that he hath." (R. V.) So each saint owns all of God's possessions, even now. 1 Cor. 3: 21, 22. The reward is both outward and inward; more glories and blessings and joys, and larger capacities for usefulness and enjoyment. To him that hath shall be given.

45. "Say in his heart." If, instead of being faithful the servant begins to plan wickedness and to actually enter into sin, a different "portion" will be appointed him upon his Lord's return. "Delayeth his coming." The fact that Christ's coming is delayed causes the love of many to wax cold. 2 Pet. 3: 3, 4. "To eat and drink." Self-indulgence is a very common sin. "To be drunken." This was not only a common and terribly destructive sin in Christ's time, but it is the same to-day. The licensed saloon is the direct road to "degradation, vice, the gambling hell, the brothel, poverty, wretchedness, want, robbery, prison, the gallows, the drunkard's grave, hell."

46. "When he looketh not." The Lord will come suddenly and call every one to an account. "Will cut him in sunder." This was a most terrible method of executing criminals, anciently. "With the unbelievers." Read Rev. 21: 8.

Two Murders by Boys.

Chester Linn, a 13-year-old white boy, shot and killed Will Stevens, a 17-year-old negro boy, at Brookside. The two boys fell to quarreling at the coal mines regarding some subject not known, when Linn drew a pistol and shot Stevens dead. Linn fled and has not since been seen.

At Cordova, young Davidson, a 12-year-old boy, stabbed to the heart and instantly killed Edgar Walker.

BEAUTY'S GRAVEST FOE.

An Ill Temper Is Sure to Ruin Its Victim's Beauty.

Bad temper and worry will trace more wrinkles in one night than hot and cold bathing and massage and complexion brushes and creams and lotions can wash out in a year's faithful application. Physcians assert that an immense amount of nerve force is expended in every fit of bad temper; that when one little part of the nervous system gets wrong the face first records it. The eyes begin losing the luster of youth, muscles become flabby, the skin refuses to contract accordingly, and the inevitable result is wrinkles, femininity's fiercest and most insidious foe. There is no use attempting to reason with a woman about the evil effects of ill-temper while she is in an ugly mood. She knows perfectly well that it is bad form; that it savors of the coarse and underbred; that it is weak, belittling and immoral, and that it hurts her cause to lose her temper. But she does not stop at just that time to think about it, and to remind her of the fact only adds fuel to the flames. But when she is cool and serene and at peace with all the world, you can convince her that each fit of temper adds a year to her age by weakening her mental force and by tracing crow-tracks about her eyes and telltale lines around her mouth, she will probably think twice before again forgetting herself. For no matter what she asserts to the contrary, woman prizes youth and beauty above every other gift the gods hold it in their power to bestow upon mortals.—Woman's Home Companion.

Effect of Machinery.

Three industries are given by the New York Evening Telegram as typical of the saving effected by the substitution of machine for hand labor. Forty years ago one man took 750 hours to perforate 150,000 bank checks, for which he was paid $150. Now the same work is done by machinery, six men being employed an aggregate of nine hours and fifteen minutes. They get about double the wages per hour, yet the labor cost is only $3, instead of $150.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Preserving Railroad Ties.

Experiments are being made in Germany with beech as a material for railway sleepers. It has been found that without preservative treatment such sleepers are apt to rot internally, though they may be apparently sound on the exterior. On the Alsace-Lorraine lines favorable results have been obtained with creosoted beech sleepers, which have shown an average life of nineteen and one half years, while others preserved with zinc chloride have proved still more satisfactory, their life being twenty-one and one-half years.

BUNCH OF BIG TREES.

Some Measure Sixty to Eighty Feet in Circumference at the Base.

I would like to draw attention to a bunch of immense trees in the mountains fifteen to twenty miles from my place, near Latourell, on the O. R. & N., says the Portland Oregonian. I used to make every year a trip to the mountains, lasting generally eight to ten days, and it was on one of my last trips, about four years ago, that I discovered on the northeast side of the divide, between the waters of the Bull Run and the Hood river, this bunch of giant trees. The like I never saw before or since. Before I saw these giants I had measured some trees at home which girdled twenty-nine to thirty feet around about three feet above the base, but these trees could not be compared at all with the big trees I found in the mountains. They would appear as mere sticks against those giants. I honestly believe that those giants will girdle sixty to eighty feet

The Natives Object.

The United States authorities in Porto Rico are witnessing how the unpleasant sequel of charity—the unwillingness of those on whom it has been bestowed to go back to work. Last August a frightful hurricane swept the island and deprived the majority of the inhabitants of their food resources. There was nothing to do but feed them or let them starve. Public and private charity came to their relief. The policy of feeding them until they were able to plant and gather new crops was adopted unhesitatingly. It was assumed that by the beginning of this year it would be possible to stop issuing rations. But when that time came it was found impossible to stop entirely. An aggregate of 100,000 rations daily is yet being issued. It has been decided to quit this business entirely before the close of the month. but the natives are making loud objections.

To Wed a Parisian.

Chicago social circles are in a flutter over the announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Abbott of that city to Pierre Deschamps of Paris. Miss Abbott was a debutante of two seasons ago. She is a blonde of commanding figure and she has been a marked favorite ever since she came out. Miss Abbott's Chicago home was with her mother and brother at the Charlevoix on Rush street. The mother, Mrs. Mary Abbott, is well known as a writer. One of the striking scenes in Chicago streets was that of the mother and daughter walking downtown, while following were a Scotch collie and an English bull terrier holding in their teeth the trains of their mistresses' robes.

BILE IN THE BLOOD

No matter how pleasant your surroundings, health, good health, is the foundation for enjoyment. Bowel trouble causes more aches and pains than all other diseases together, and when you get a good dose of bilious bile coursing through the blood life's a hell on earth. Millions of people are doctoring for chronic ailments that started with bad bowels, and they will never get better till the bowels are right. You know how it is—you neglect—get irregular—first suffer with a slight headache—bad taste in the mouth mornings, and general "all gone" feeling during the day—keep on going from bad to worse untill the suffering becomes awful, life loses its charms, and there is many a one that has been driven to suicidal relief. Educate your bowels with CASCARETS. Don't neglect the slightest irregularity. See that you have one natural, easy movement each day. CASCARETS tone the bowels—make them strong—and after you have used them once you will wonder why it is that you have ever been without them. You will find all your other disorders commence to get better at once, and soon you will be well by taking—

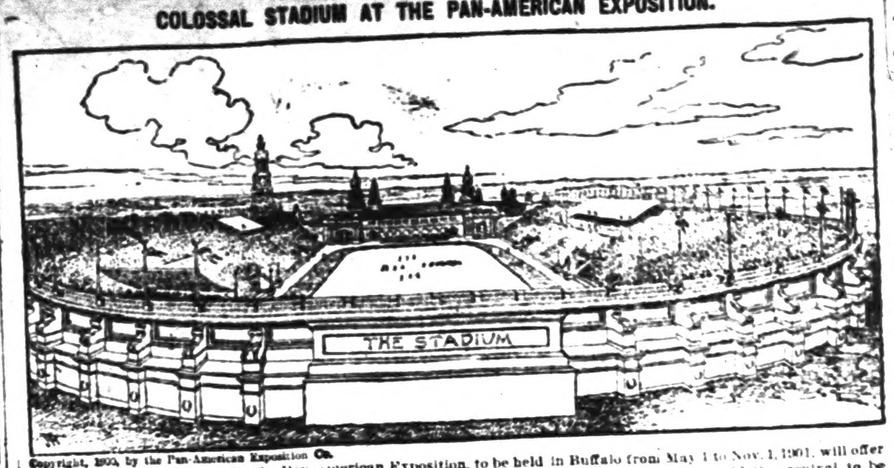
COLOSSAL STADIUM AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

The completed Stadium for the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will offer to the lovers of sports the most spacious and splendid arena ever erected in America. The athletic carnival to be held during the great Exposition will be the most notable in the history of American sport. The co-operation of many of the best promoters of athletic games has been secured. Visitors to the Exposition may therefore expect to witness the meeting of the most famous athletes of the world in competition for prizes worthy of their best feats. It is said that the great Colosseum at Rome could accommodate 87,000 spectators. The Pan-American Stadium will be 129 feet longer and but 10 feet narrower than the historic amphitheater of Rome. The Stadium, however, will have a larger arena, and the seating capacity is estimated for 25,000 people.

Masonic Resolutions of Respect

Of Clan on Lodge No 423.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 1, 1900

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren

We, your committee, appointed to draft resolutions in memory of our highly esteemed Brother, Sylvan Parker, beg leave to submit the following

We first note that Brother Parker was born on the 3d day of January, 1849, in early life he professed religion and united himself with the M. E. church, in which he lived a consistent member to the day of his death. He joined Burns Masonic lodge No. 109, A. F. & A. M. about the year 1880, affiliated with this lodge in the year 1894. At the time of his death, he was a member in our lodge. He was a worthy Mason, having been a Master Mason for a period of about fifty years.

Whereas, it has pleased the great Architect of the universe to remove from our midst, our Brother, who died at his home in the town of Clanton, on the 2d day of August, 1900, and as we recall his manly principles, his orderly walk and many virtues, be it resolved,

First, That in his death the lodge laments the loss of a Brother, who was a true and upright man and Mason, and we will ever cherish his memory for his many virtues and kindness of heart.

Resolved second, That the heartfelt sympathy of this lodge is herewith extended to his bereaved widow and family.

Resolved third, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the lodge and a copy thereof be furnished his widow and also published in The Banner.

Maplesville.

Our autumnal poets are now raving about our Indian summer and flowers and the opening of the light fleecy cotton, if the last mentioned were to attempt to lift a basket of 200 lbs. would change their mind about the lightness of the weight.

The farmers are in good spirits about the price of cotton but seem disposed to hold back for better prices, and we are pleased to state that many are able to do so.

We are glad to say our sick list is now reduced to a minimum, we are certainly fortunate in having Dr. Claughton, who is very fortunate in the management of protracted fevers.

Mrs. Parnell, of Stanton, has made Mrs. Glover, of Maplesville, a very pleasant visit, as has also W. M. Adams, of Clanton.

A couple of protracted meetings just brought to a close have been particularly fortunate in their results. IN SUNNY ITALY

Alabama, here by my side. A wonderful city this, and wonderful people these. They have a picture that stands through century after century, many colors that no one yet has ever found their secret, like statuary of gigantic proportions and exquisite delicacy. They have massive houses upon marsh piles that show no settling cracks. Houses of stone and roof them with stone. Blow glass in all colors and shapes, and make pictures out of small colored stones, commonly called mosaics, by centuries and earthquakes have not change. One building alone required 1,200,000 piles for the foundation, they being driven into the marsh upon which the city is built. I went through the palaces of the Doge's palace, and looked out on the Bridge of Sighs. Saw the dungeon in which Lord Byron got permission to stay day and night so as to get inspiration to write his Marino.

I saw mothers here on the public steps tieing a rope around the waist of her children, and dumping them out in the water streets so as to learn them how to swim. I thought of another mother somewhere else in the world, who would have used that same rope to hang the children to the kitchen table so as to keep them out of the way.

I must be off and on my journey. To Florence next! we went to the tower of Galileo. Holy Cross church, the place where Michael Angelo, the Petti gallery, Raphaels Cemetery, Holy Cross church, the grave of the Medici family, the beautiful face of the Saviour in the church of Santo Maria, Michael Angelo's statue of David, and one thousand and one things too numerous to mention. Florence leads all the earth in art, sculptors and architects, no one seems to know it. The galleries are more extensive in pictures and statuary than all the earth. The work is so far beyond me and my scope, I say no more.

There are many things however, that you and I would like, and I am away, only in my own native home to be more.

I was off for the eternal city after one and one-half days' residence. Arrived here last night 12 o'clock, and have ridden in a carriage sight-seeing. It is now 11:30 p.m. writing, and I am so tired and sleepy I am not quite sure the type will ever make this out. Excuse me, Mr. "Typesetter," for your indulgence, seeing it is on the run all the time. I am at the hotel Rome and at the time of writing, while the clatter of modern Rome is under my feet, the electric lights and cars, the old coliseum looks down upon in the water streets of ancient Rome in the perch of nineteen centuries ago, calm and unheeding grandeur.

I will be, when I write you from the Holy Land, the Lord willing, and I will then give you a description of Imperial Rome. I have seen of Imperial Rome.

To all good bye.

MARTIAL LAW CEASES.

Civil Authorities are Once More in Control of Galveston.

At noon Friday martial law was abolished in Galveston, Tex., and the civil goverment resumed control of affairs. The contract for clearing the streets has been awarded to Rickey & Lee. They will establish boarding camps on the beach and commence work Monday morning with an army of laborers at $2 per day.

Adjutant General Scurry, of the Texas volunteer guard, has placed his regiment of militia at the services of the city, and they will remain here for guard and patrol work as heretofore.

The Galveston bay bridge was completed Friday, and the first train to arrive since September 8 pulled into the union depot at 6:25 a. m.

Senor Llorente, Mexican consul, has received official advice that the congress of his government has appropriated $80,000 for the relief of Galveston. This act of the sister republic, of which Texas was formerly a part, has made a deep impression on the people of Galveston.

Dr. Wilkinson, city health officer, says that all danger from an outbreak of any disease has now passed.

BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

Twenty-Five Hundred and Thirty-Six Wrecked in Galveston.

Inspector Younans has finished his canvass of buildings lost in the storm at Galveston, Tex. He finds that there are 2,536 destroyed—that is, residences and stores. This does not include stables, sheds or outhouses. In the Kinkead and Colorado additions at least seventy-five buildings were carried away.

Mr. Younans estimates that 1,000 buildings were destroyed in the district outside the line of total destruction.

There were sixty-four bodies recovered Saturday, fourteen being taken from one building.

Brazoria County.

N. Mills reported officially on conditions in Brazoria county. He says that people need money to buy shingles, nails, lumber, etc. Unless quick relief is given many will be compelled to abandon their homes. The statement of the number of destitute is as follows:

Arcola 200, Sandy Point 500, Shenango 1,000, Angleton 2,060, Velasco 2,500, Brazoria 1,500, Columbia 2,500.

FLORIDA'S CAPITAL.

The Question of Removal Agitating the State.

A question which is agitating all Florida and Alabama at present, says a Pensacola dispatch, is whether the capital of Florida shall be removed from its present location, Tallahassee. The question has been submitted to the people and will be decided at the state primary on November 6. The cities of Jacksonville, Tallahassee, Ocala and St. Augustine are candidates for the proposed removal.

If the capital is removed from its present location it may result in west Florida, which includes all west of the Apalachicola river being made a part of Alabama. This issue has been widely discussed for some time and is receiving much comment from Alabama and west Florida newspapers. Assurances are said to have reached here that the legislature of Alabama will consider a business proposition from the people in this section for the annexation of west Florida to their state. Meetings have been held in several Alabama cities and action taken looking to a favorable consideration of west Florida's proposition by the Alabama legislature.

Hobson Coming Home.

Lieut. Hobson, of Merrimac fame, passed through Winnipeg, Man., Saturday en route east. In an interview he said:

"I have been traveling through Japan and China, having come in from Manila, where I was engaged in inspecting the harbors."

"And your future plans?"

"I am not quite decided. My eyes have given out, and all hope of being able to accompany the American fleet to China is ended. I am now en route to New York, where I have been recalled, but will probably go down to my home in Alabama. I cannot say where my work will be."

The new telescope in Paris brings the moon within apparent distance of about 35 miles. It is not described as a desirable place of residence.

TO WITHDRAW FROM CHINA

American Troops Ordered to Vacate Pekin Except Legation Guard.

SOLDIERS WILL BE SENT TO PHILIPPINES

One Regiment of Infantry, Four Troops of Cavalry and a Light Battery Will Remain at the Chinese Capital.

The following statement was posted at the war department Tuesday:

"The instructions of the secretary of war were cabled to General Chaffee today that pending negotiations for settlement, a legation guard of a regiment of infantry, four troops of cavalry and a light battery under the command of General Chaffee will remain in Pekin for the protection of our minister and American interests and that the remainder of General Chaffee's force, along with staff officers not required, stores and material will be sent to General MacArthur at Manila."

The direction to Minister Conger to put himself in relation with Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching has not yet gone forward. The message practically has been framed, but its form is subject to the approval of the president.

Eleven More Slain.

The China Inland Mission in London has received a cable message announcing the murder of eleven missionaries at Shi Chio Taning Yah Yang, in the province of Shan Si.

Dispatches received in New York announce that among the missionaries killed by Chinese in the massacre in the Yah Nan province were Bishop Fantosotolli and Father Quirine, of the Roman Catholic church. It was said that the bishop died after the most awful torture.

Germany May Declare War.

The news from China indicates that events are rapidly drifting in the direction of war between China and Germany, says a London dispatch. "There is the best reason for believing," says the Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post, "that Count von Waldersee, on arriving at Taku, will present an ultimatum demanding the surrender of five leaders of the anti-foreign uprising. After a few hours' grace he will formally declare war, and, taking advantage of Germany's position as a belligerent, he will proceed to seize everything available with the German forces and fleet.

GENERAL PALMER DEAD.

The Call Came Suddenly on Tuesday Morning.

Gen. John M. Palmer, ex-United States Senator from Illinois, died at his residence in Springfield, Ill., Tuesday at the age of 88. His death was caused by heart failure.

He was an honorary pall bearer at General McClernand's funeral last Saturday.

Monday night General Palmer was on the street viewing the state fair illuminations until a late hour, apparently well.

General Palmer complained early Monday of a pain in his chest. He slept easy until night. The general awoke about 7 o'clock in the morning still complaining. He talked to his wife a short time and then fell into a doze and expired soon afterward.

In 1896 General Palmer headed the gold democratic ticket for president.

Hung Jury in Howard Case.

The jury in the Howard case at Frankfort, Ky., reported at 5:13 p. m. Tuesday that the jurors had been unable to reach a verdict. The jury took the case at 2:30 and nearly three hours were spent in the jury room in an effort to reach an agreement. A hung jury has been generally predicted. Judge Cantrill did not discharge the jury, and it will vote again Wednesday. It is supposed the jurors are divided on the question as to Howard's guilt or innocence, and not as to the degree of punishment.

Census Returns.

The census bureau announces that the population of Dallas, Texas, is 42,639, as against 38,067 in 1890. This is an increase of 4,751 or 12.01 per cent.

The population of Fort Worth, Texas, is 26,688, as against 23,076 in 1890. This is an increase of 3,612 or 15.65 per cent.

The population of Wheeling, W. Va., is 38,878, as against 34,522 in 1890.

GIGANTIC SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Taxpayers of Jefferson County Decide to Build One to Cost $4,000,000.

An enthusiastic gathering of Jefferson county (Ala.) taxpayers, in Birmingham, said Tuesday night that the Birmingham district and Jefferson county should have a superb system of sewerage, and a committee will be appointed to see that the Alabama legislature enact the law necessary to begin the realization of the great project.

After considerable discussion, the following resolution was adopted:

Be it resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting:

First—That it is now necessary, in order to preserve the health of this county, that the sewerage of the various municipalities should be carried beyond the thickly-populated districts, and that this should be done as soon as possible.

Second—That the main lines of sewer or outlets should be constructed at the expense of the county.

Third—That we hereby respectfully request the senator and representatives of this county to cause to be passed at the coming session of the general assembly of Alabama such legislation as may be necessary to cause main sewers to be constructed at the expense of the county, and to this end to authorize the issuing of bonds by the county and the levying of a tax by the county.

Fourth—That the chairman of this meeting, as soon as he advisedly can after the adjournment of this meeting, appoint a committee of fifteen, including the chairman of this meeting, to confer with and assist the senator and representatives of this county in regard to the details of the needed legislation.

Fifth—That we respectfully request and urge the committee to be appointed, and the senator and representatives of the county to use all possible speed in preparing and causing to be passed the needed legislation.

Another resolution adopted calls for a preliminary survey of the proposed sewer and estimate of the cost.

It is proposed to extend the canal from East Lake to Bessemer, taking in Woodlawn, Avondale, Birmingham, West End, Elyton, Cleveland and Powderly, and a connecting sewer to drain North Birmingham, Pratt City and Ensley.

BUSINESS RESUMED.

Cotton is Again Turning Toward Galveston—Foreign Ships in Port.

A Galveston, Tex., dispatch says: There are several foreign steamers here ready for cargo. The official receipts of cotton today (Tuesday) were 18,201 bales. More than a thousand men are working along the wharf front. More than 2,000 contracts have been let for repairs or rebuilding. Money is again getting into regular channels. General business is partially resumed. It is proposed to consolidate the city and county governments for the purpose of economy.

The clearing of the immense mass of wreckage is much slower than could be desired, but is progressing as fast as the limited labor supply permits.

Judgment for $2,400,000.

Judge Swayne, of the United States court in Birmingham Tuesday rendered judgment against the Elyton Land Company and in favor of William Halls, Jr., and the Maryland Trust Company for $2,400,000. Immediately on obtaining this judgment the plaintiffs filed with the probate judge a certificate to create a lien on the property of the defendant company.

This judgment probably involves the largest sum ever recorded in an action in an Alabama court, and is but another chapter in a series of litigations against the Elyton Land Company, which have been engaging the courts for the past several years.

Jones Nominated for Congress.

Walter C. Jones, mayor of Galveston, Tex., was Tuesday nominated for congress by the republicans of the Tenth congressional district to succeed R. B. Hawley. A letter from Mr. Hawley announced his retirement from politics.

Town Not Destroyed as Reported.

The rumored destruction of the towns of Marble Falls and San Saba, Tex., sent out proves to be false. Chief Train Dispatcher Fiecher, of the Austin and Northwestern road, personally communicated with Marble Falls and San Saba and both were reported intact, with no loss of life or city property, but great destruction of farm property along valley.

STATE NEWS GLEANINGS

Current Topics of General Interest From All Sections of Alabama.

THE REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS

Heroic Act of a Negro Girl—New Railroad Projected—Farmer Accidentally Killed—Miner Meets Death in a Peculiar Manner.

The following list of the republican electors for Alabama has been made public and is composed exclusively of white men:

State at Large—Ignatius Pollak, Montgomery; W. W. Millikin, Dothan.

First District, Ebenezer H. Hubbard, Mobile; Second, William Henderson, Prairie Bluff; Third, M. W. Carden, Opelika; Fourth, W. F. Tibbetts, Anniston; Fifth, D. B. Booth, Prattville; Sixth, W. T. Masterson, Haleysville; Eighth, Christopher C. Sheets, Decatur; Ninth, William W. Balley, Birmingham.

Heroic Act of a Negro Girl.

Alice Orr, a 14-year-old negro girl, sacrificed her life in Decatur a few days ago in an attempt to save one of her playmates six years her junior. As Alice was crossing the Louisville & Nashville railroad she glanced down the track and saw Mary Walker, an 8-year-old negro child in the middle of the track apparently unconscious of the swift approach of an engine. Quick as a flash the elder girl sprang to the rescue of the endangered child, only to be caught by the terrible machine and herself crushed to death. The other child was also cut by the locomotive and both hands and feet cut off, and died shortly afterward.

Killed in a Peculiar Manner.

Henry Daniels, a white miner at Belle Ellen, near Blocton, was killed a few days ago in a most peculiar manner. While putting in a new railroad track the contractor in charge of the work had a large amount of rock removed by blasting. There were several shots fired in quick succession and Mr. Daniels, who was standing in his front yard, about 200 yards away, was struck by a falling rock, his skull being crushed and his brains scattered over the ground.

New Railroad Probable.

An application for a charter for the Union Springs & Northern railroad has been filed in the office of the secretary of state by prominent citizens of Union Springs. The proposed railroad will run from Union Springs to Fort Davis, and it is understood the scheme is to ultimately build to Tuskegee, connecting with the Western Railroad of Alabama and the Atlanta & West Point.

Prominent Farmer Accidentally Killed.

Sam W. Borders, a prominent farmer and stock raiser, was accidentally killed near his home at Choccolocco by a log falling upon him. Mr. Borders was having some work done on his house, and was assisting in it, when one of the heavy timbers fell, striking him on the head and killing him almost instantly.

Galilean Fishermen Buy a Home.

Mrs. R. L. Thornton has sold her plantation, known as the Minter place, near Tuskaloosa, to the Galilean Fishermen, a charitable colored society, for the sum of $10,000. The place will be used as an industrial farm, school and home for the old and worn-out members of the society.

Death of an Old Citizen.

C. Turner, the oldest native citizen of Blountsville, is dead. A few days ago Mr. Turner went to Mississippi to spend the winter with his brother. A telegram received Saturday brings the sad news of his death, which must have been sudden. Mr. Turner was mayor of Blountsville, but resigned upon his departure for Mississippi.

Attendance at the University.

The State University enrollment of students numbers 196 for the present year, nearly 100 of these being new students. President Powers is very much pleased over the opening, and is confident that the enrollment will go to 250 within the next ten days.

Population of Montgomery.

The census bureau announces the population of Montgomery, Ala., as 30,346, as against 21,883 in 1890. This is an increase of 8,463, or 38.67 per cent.

New Telephone Line.

H. B. Godfrey, superintendent of the telephone system, reports that the line will be in operation between Scottsboro and Fort Payne by Oct. 1.

Opelika's Autumn Jubilee.

With only one week's start the committee having in charge the raising of funds for the Autumn Jubilee to be held at Opelika from October 28 to 27, inclusive, has raised over $8,000.

Wash Taylor Nominated.

HEAVY RAINS IN [illegible]

Raging Torrents Threaten [illegible] tion to Life and Property.

TOWN OF SAN SABA PARTIALLY SW[illegible]

Cotton and Live Stock Have [illegible] Heavily, and Damage to [illegible] Bridges Will Probably [illegible] $250,000.

Governor Sayers M[illegible]day wired to all points south of [illegible] Tex., warning notices that [illegible] terrific flood in the history of [illegible] orado river, which passes the [illegible] is now surging down through [illegible] mountain gorges to the south [illegible] and is expected at Austin [illegible] night. The warning was sent [illegible] Governor Sayers in response to [illegible] following telegraphic warning:

"Goldthwaite, Tex.—[illegible] Sayers. Notify all towns on [illegible] river and have towns ready [illegible] points that river is [illegible] than ever known before, and [illegible] rapidly rising. Very urgent.

"PHIL H. CUNNIN[illegible]
"State Representative."

The river has been rising very rapidly at Austin since 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, and reports from [illegible] waite at 8 o'clock said that the river was still rising rapidly there. The rise at that point was reported [illegible] 58 feet at dark. Along the Colorado watersheds very heavy rains have fallen during the last four days, and the rise reported coming down [illegible] 20 feet higher than the one that [illegible] the Autin dam and wrecked the [illegible] light and power plant last April. It is expected that the advance of the great rise will sweep by Austin at midnight, and all parties in the [illegible] lands to the south of the city and points reached by either telegraph or telephone were communicated with by the governor, with the warning to escape before the flood arrives. The alarm is felt as to the result of the rise.

At Dallas.

The Trinity river is higher at Dallas than it has been since 1890, when it broke all records. The water is only six feet of reaching the high mark and is still rising. No lives have been lost in the immediate vicinity of Dallas, but cotton and live stock, notably sheep and hogs, have suffered heavily. The county commissioners of Dallas county met today. They estimate the loss of county bridges at $25,000, independent of the numerous small bridges and the street damages in the county of Dallas, which will be nearly if not quite, as much.

The item of damage to roads and bridges along the dozen or more counties affected in northern Texas cannot fall short of $250,000.

Town Swept Away.

A telephone message received at Austin from the chief of police at Llano says that San Saba, [illegible] miles north of that place, containing about 1000 people, has been partially swept away by the flood in the San Saba river, which was still rising. All bridges had been carried off. It is feared there has been great loss of life in the bottoms, as the rise was in the night and came without warning.

MINNESOTA CYCLONE.

The saloon collapsed and all the occupants were buried in the debris. At present it is said that eight dead bodies and three injured persons have been taken from the ruins. The killed: Jake [illegible] Jake Weaver, Jr., Frank Pittman, [illegible] Waterville; Otto Gatzke, John Rahl, Jr., Elmer Brooks, H. S. Wales.

[illegible]ED TO KAISER'S PUNISHMENT IDEAS

[illegible]gin, Through Minister Conger [illegible] Negotiations With the Representatives Appointed by the Chinese Government.

Washington dispatch says: The [illegible] department Saturday made [illegible] the text of the notes addressed [illegible] by the governments of Germany, Russia and China in answer to [illegible] notes from them as to the attitude of the United States toward various phases of the Chinese problem. The notes themselves are brief, containing the importance of the topics discussed. The Russian and Chinese notes, being in the form of dispatches, memoranda, are short and are rarely seen in diplomatic exchanges. But in both cases being completely responsive and favorable to the inquirer they will escape criticism on that score.

The answer to the German note is carefully phrased so as to soften the qualified refusal of the United States government to make the punishment of the Chinese ring leaders a condition precedent to negotiations. Also it is noted that in the discussion of a purpose to insist upon the ultimate and proper punishment of these offenders, the state department goes far beyond the German declaration on the subject. The announcement that the department intends to begin through Minister Conger the conference with Ching Li Hung Chang, although definitely marking the fact that these will be only preliminary to final negotiations, will have the effect to force the views to an immediate determination of their policies in this matter.

Boxers to Be Exterminated.

Li Hung Chang has caused a proclamation to be posted in the principal cities of the Chi Li province, calling upon the people and soldiers to exterminate all of the boxers. All taotas, magistrates and prefects deserting their posts will be replaced by others. The military officials are directed to count the troops and report to Li Hung Chang, who will arrange all matters with foreign nations.

Pie Tang Forts Taken.

A Taku message says: Four thousand Russians, 3,000 Germans and [illegible]0 French troops, with a detachment of Austrian marines, began the attack on the Pie Tang forts at daybreak. The attack was answered promptly from the forts, the bombardment continuing until noon, but it was noticed that the forts did not reply after 10 o'clock. The allies sent forward at noon to discover the reason of the cessation of the firing from the forts and found them deserted, there being only four dead Chinamen within the walls.

Four Negroes Lynched.

Four negroes were lynched at Ponchatoula, La., a few days ago, who were suspected of burglarizing the residence of Henry Hatfelder, whose home is near the Illinois Central depot, in Tangipahoa parish. The victims are: Isiah Pollins, Nathanial Bowman, George Bickham, Charles Elliott.

The good people of Ponchatoula, both white and black, deplore the action of the mob, and today both races assembled in mass meeting and appointed a law and order committee.

List of Dead Outside of Galveston.

The Houston Post prints a list of dead at other places than Galveston, which totals 254. The list gives the following figures:

Rockhill Wants Troops Withdrawn.

A Pekin message says: William Woodville Rockhill, special commissioner of the United States, has already conferred with Mr. Conger, the United States minister, but he has not yet met Prince Ching. It is understood that he will advise Washington to withdraw the American troops as speedily as would be safe.

Hosiery Plant May Be Established.

The old wadding mill plant, at Tuskaloosa, which was suspended last May, after being operated two years, has been purchased by a firm headed by Dave L. Rosenau, manager of the Tuskaloosa cotton mills, at Cottondale. Mr. Rosenau states that they have not decided just yet what character of product they will turn out, but it is known that they are considering putting in a plant for making hosiery. The wadding mills were never a success, as they were practically crushed out of existence by the warfare waged against them by a trust. Mr. Rosenau states that they will have the new plant in operation within sixty days.

A Child's Wonderful Escape.

Maudie Turner, a child about 7 years old, daughter of Mrs. Willie Turner, who lives at the Phoenix Hotel in Birmingham, had a remarkable escape from death Sunday. In her play Maudie climbed out a third-story window onto the fire escape, and, losing her balance, fell to the ground below, a distance of fully 50 feet. Beyond being slightly stunned she was uninjured, not a bone being broken.

A $16,000 Fire.

The commissary of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, at Brookwood, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night, together with its entire stock of goods. The postoffice, which was located in the building, suffered the loss of all its fittings, the stamps on hand and other accessories. The loss of the commissary amounts to between $15,000 and $16,000, three-fourths of which is covered by insurance.

A Bit of History.

The old Landman cotton yard on Franklin street, Huntsville, upon which stood the first capitol of Alabama, was sold at public auction by a commissioner appointed by the probate judge. The first territorial legislature held its sessions in the old building, which stood on the lot in 1819. At that session Judge Walker presided, and steps were taken looking to the admission of Alabama into the Union as a state.

Brewer Refuses to Join Appeal.

Congressman Willis Brewer of the Fifth district has declined to join Col. Charles W. Thompson in an appeal to the state democratic executive committee to judge between those two leaders as to which of them is the regular democratic nominee for the Fifty-seventh congress. It is stated that Mr. Thompson will probably make the appeal to the state executive committee.

The large saw mill four miles from Elba, owned by J. E. and W. E. Henderson, was destroyed by fire. The plant was worth $35,000. Insurance, $10,000.

The Birmingham and Gate City rolling mills will resume operations as soon as practicable and thus give employment to about 1,500 men, who have been idle since July 1.

OFFICERS AND MINERS CLASH.

Two Persons Killed and Several Wounded in Shenandoah Valley.

A Philadelphia special says: The tragedy that has been looked for in the coal workers' strike was inaugurated came suddenly and unexpectedly Friday afternoon. A posse hurriedly gathered together by Sheriff Toole, of Schuylkill county to meet an emergency was forced to fire on a mob that was threatening workmen on their way home under an escort. A man and a little girl were instantly killed and seven others fell, more or less seriously wounded. Sheriff Toole lost no time in calling on the commander of the national guard of Pennsylvania to send troops to aid him in keeping the peace. After consultation, the state authorities at Harrisburg decided to send 2,500 troops to the turbulent regions.

Shenandoah's trouble was precipitated by the closing of six collieries through the efforts of strike leaders.

HORRIBLE MASSACRE.

Five Thousand Chinese Murdered by Russians.

"Authentic accounts have been received here," says the Moscow correspondent of the London Standard, "of a horrible massacre at Blagovestchensk, which was undoubtedly carried out under direct orders from the Russian authorities, and which then let loose the tide of slaughter through Amur.

"The entire Chinese population of five thousand souls was escorted out of town to a spot five miles up the Amur and then, being led in batches of a few hundreds to the river bank, were ordered to cross the river to the Chinese side. No boats were provided and the river is a mile wide. The Chinese were flung alive into the stream and were stabbed or shot at the least resistance, while Russian volunteers, who lined the bank, clubbed or shot any who attempted to land. Not one escaped alive. The river bank for miles was strewn with corpses."

ELDERS PAINTED BLACK.

Mansfield Mob Takes Them in Hand and Applies the Brush.

Another mob broke loose in Mansfield, O., Sunday and Elders Ephraim Bassinger, of Bluffton, and Silas Mott, of Lima, were its victims. The two elders got off an Erie train unknown to the authorities. They were recognized by a small crowd at the depot which refused to let them enter a cab, then followed them up the street and surrounded them. They were then taken by the mob to the Richland Buggy works, where Bassinger disrobed, but the crowd tore Moot's clothing from his body as he refused to disrobe himself. A paint bucket and a brush were then secured and smokestack varnish, a tar-like substance, was dobbed over them from head to foot.

NEGRO GIANT KILLED.

He was Insane and Played Havoc With the Police.

Edward Gurley, an insane negro giant, was killed Sunday morning in Algiers, La., after a thrilling hour. He woke up his black room mate, forced him to strip and cut his throat, saying he was going to die and wanted to take Montgomery along. The negro was pursued by Corporal Coman and the police, but when the attempt to capture him was made he took the officers' clubs away from them and made a furious onslaught, nearly killing the corporal. The police used pistols, but the bullets missed the mark. With the aid of citizens they beat him with clubs and other weapons until he was pounded to death. His negro victim and Corporal Coman will recover.

Will Announce Population of States.

Director of the Census Meriam said Saturday that the announcement of the population of cities is practically completed, as no bulletin will be issued for a town under 25,000. The bureau, he said, will probably begin next week announcing the population of the states. The first will be Arkansas, and thereafter they will be issued in alphabetical order, beginning with Alabama.

It is predicted that the total population of the United States will be about 76,000,000. Up to date 45,500,000 people have been counted.

The Governor and Party Return.

Governor Johnston and party, who attended the presentation of the tablets to the new warships, the Alabama and Kearsarge, at Portsmouth, N. H., last week, and were royally entertained afterward by Governor Rollins, returned to Birmingham Monday. The party was feted every hour of their stay in New Hampshire.

MR. BRYAN'S LETTER ACCEPTING NOMINATION.

LINCOLN, Neb. (Special.)—The letter of the Hon. W. J. Bryan accepting the democratic nomination for president was given out Monday, and in part is as follows:

Hon. James D. Richardson, chairman, and others of the notification committee of the democratic national convention:

Gentlemen—In accepting the nomination tendered by you on behalf of the democratic party, I beg to assure you of my appreciation of the great honor conferred upon me by the delegates in convention assembled and by the voters who gave instruction to the delegates.

I am sensible to the responsibilities which rest upon the chief executive of so great a nation, and realize the far-reaching effect of the questions involved in the present contest.

In my letter of acceptance in 1896 I made the following pledge:

"So deeply am I impressed with the magnitude of the power vested by the constitution in the chief executive of the nation and with the enormous influence which he can wield for the benefit or injury of the people, that I wish to enter the office, if elected, free from any personal desire except the desire to prove worthy of the confidence of my countrymen. Human judgment is fallible enough when unbiased by selfish considerations, and in order that I may not be tempted to use the patronage of the office to advance any personal ambition I hereby announce, with all the emphasis which words can express, my fixed determination, under any circumstances, to be a candidate for re-election, in case this campaign results in my election."

Further reflection and observation constrain me to renew this pledge.

The platform adopted at Kansas City commands my cordial and unqualified approval. It courageously meets the issues now before the country, and states clearly, and without ambiguity, the party's position on every question considered. Adopted by a convention which assembled on the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, it breathes the spirit of candor, independence and patriotism which characterizes those who, at Philadelphia in 1776, promulgated the creed of the republic.

Having in my notification speech discussed somewhat at length the paramount issue, imperialism, and added some observations on militarism and the Boer war, it is sufficient at this time to review the remaining planks of the platform.

TRUSTS.

The platform very properly gives prominence to the trust question. The appalling growth of combinations in restraint of trade during the present administration, proves conclusively that the republican party lacks either the desire or the ability to deal with the question effectively. If, as may be fairly assumed from the speeches and conduct of the republican leaders, that party does not intend to take the people's side against these organizations, then the weak and qualified condemnation of trusts to be found in the republican platform is designed to distract attention while industrial despotism is completing its work. A private monopoly has always been an outlaw. No defense can be made of an industrial system in which one or a few men can control for their own profit the output or price of any article of merchandise. • • • Our platform, after suggesting certain specific remedies, pledges the party to an unceasing warfare against private monopoly in nation, state and city. I heartily approve of this promise; if elected it shall be my earnest and constant endeavor to fulfill the promise in letter and spirit. I will select an attorney-general who will, without fear or favor, enforce existing laws; I shall recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary to dissolve every private monopoly which does business outside of the state of its origin; and, if contrary to my belief and hope, a constitutional amendment is found to be necessary, I shall recommend such an amendment as will, without impairing any of the existing rights of the states, empower congress to protect the people of all the states from injury at the hands of individuals or corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

The platform accurately describes the Dingley tariff law, when it condemns it as a "trust-breeding measure, skillfully devised to give to the few favors which they do not deserve, and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear." • • •

The democratic party makes no war upon honestly acquired wealth; neither does it seek to embarrass corporations engaged in legitimate business, but it does protest against corporations entering politics and attempting to assume control of the instrumentalities of government. • • •

THE FINANCIAL PLANK.

The platform reiterates the demand contained in the Chicago platform for an American financial system, made by the American people for themselves. The purpose of such a system is to restore and maintain a bimetallic level of prices, and, in order that there may be no uncertainty as to the method of restoring bimetallism, the specific declaration in favor of free and unlimited coinage, at the existing ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of other nations, is repeated. In 1896 the republican party recognized the necessity for bimetallism by pledging the party to an earnest effort to secure an international agreement for the free coinage of silver. • • •

Now the republican party, for the first time, openly abandons its advocacy of the double standard, and endorses the monetary system which it has so often and so emphatically condemned. The democratic party, on the contrary, remains the steadfast advocate of the gold and silver coinage of the constitution, and is not willing that other nations shall determine for us the time and manner of restoring silver to its ancient place as a standard money. • • • Whether the senate, now hostile to bimetalism, can be changed during this campaign or the campaign of 1902, can only be determined after the votes are counted; but neither the present nor the future political complexion of congress has prevented or should prevent an announcement of the party's position upon this subject in unequivocal terms.

The currency bill, which received the sanction of the executive and republican members of the house and senate, justifies the warning given by the democratic party in 1896. It was then predicted that the republican party would attempt to retire the greenbacks, although the party and its leaders studiously concealed their intentions. That purpose is now plain, and the people must choose between the retention of the greenbacks, issued and controlled in volume by the government, and a national bank note currency issued by banks and controlled in their own interests. • • •

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

The demand for a constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people appears for the first time in a democratic national platform. • • • New conditions have made it imperative that the people be permitted to speak directly in the selection of their representatives in the senate. • • •

The platform indorses the principle of direct legislation. This is already applied to the more important questions in nation, state and city. It rests upon the sound theory that the people can be trusted, and that the more responsive the government is to the will of the people, the more free it will be from misuse and abuse.

Several planks of the labor platform are devoted to questions in which the laboring classes have an immediate interest, but which more remotely effect our entire population. While what is generally known as government by injunction is at present directed chiefly against the employes of corporations when there is a disagreement between them and their employer, it involves a principle which concerns every one. The purpose of the injunction in such cases is to substitute trial by judge for trial by jury, and is a covert blow at the jury system. The abolition of government by injunction is as necessary for the protection of the reputation of the court as it is for the security of the citizen.

The platform renews the plan for arbitration between corporations and their employes. No one who has observed the friction which arises between great corporations and their numerous employes can doubt the wisdom of establishing an impartial court for the just and equitable settlement of disputes. • • •

I cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of the platform recommendation of the establishment of a department of labor, with a member of the Cabinet at its head. When we remember now important a position the laborers fill in our economic, social and political fabric, it is hard to conceive of a valid objection being made to this recognition of his service. • •

The Chinese exclusion act has proven an advantage to the country, and its continuance and strict enforcement, as well as its extension to other similar races, are imperatively necessary. • • •

The party expresses its pride in the soldiers and sailors of all of our wars, and declares its purpose to deal generously with them and their dependents. A liberal policy is natural and necessary in a government which depends upon a citizen soldiery, instead of a large standing army. Self-interest, as well as gratitude, compels the government to make bountiful provision for those who, in the hour of danger, and at great sacrifice of business, health and life, tender their services to their country. • • •

The democratic party is in favor of the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States. • • •

Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma have long been ready to assume the responsibility and enjoy the privileges of statehood, and it will be a pleasure, as well as a duty, to carry out the platform pledge concerning them.

There will be a popular acquiescence in the demand for home rule and a territorial form of government in Alaska and Porto Rico. Both are entitled to local self-government and representation in congress.

The recognition contained in both the democratic and republican platforms of the right of the Cubans to independence, removes the general principle involved from the domain of partisan politics. • • •

The reasons given by Washington, Jefferson and the other statesmen of the early days in support of the doctrine that we should maintain friendly relations with all other nations, but enter into entangling alliances with none, are even stronger today than they were a hundred years ago. • • •

The doctrine enunciated by Monroe and approved by succeeding presidents is essential to the welfare of the United States.

The republican party, drawing as it does enormous campaign funds from those who enjoy special privileges at the hands of the government, is powerless to protect the tax payers from the attacks of those who profit by large appropriations. A surplus in the treasury offers constant temptation to extravagance, and extravagance in turn compels a resort to new means of taxation, which is being kept in the background until the campaign is over, is a fair illustration of the opposition that will be attempted when there is a considerable amount of money idle in the treasury. • • • With the restoration of a foreign policy consistent with American ideas there can be an immediate and large reduction in the burdens now borne by the people.

By inadvertence the income tax plank agreed upon by the platform committee, was omitted from the platform as read and adopted. The subject, however, is covered by the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, and I take this occasion to reassert my belief in the principle which underlies the income tax.

IMPERIALISM.

The subjects, however, treated in this letter, important as each may seem in itself, do not press so imperatively for solution as the question which the platform declares to be the paramount issue in this campaign. Whether we shall adhere to or abandon those ideas of government which have distinguished this nation from other nations, and given to its history its peculiar charm and value, is a question the settlement of which cannot be delayed. No other question can approach it in importance. No other question demands such immediate consideration. It is easier to lose a reputation than to establish one, and this nation would find it a long and laborious task to regain its proud position among the nations if, under the stress of temptation, it should repudiate the self-evident truths proclaimed by our heroic ancestors and sacredly treasured during a career unparalled in the annals of time. When the doctrine that the people are the only source of power is made secure from further source of attack we can safely proceed to the settlement of the numerous questions which involve the domestic and economic welfare of our citizens.

Very truly yours,
W. J. BRYAN.

LIST OF THE DEAD.

Galveston News Thinks the Total Loss Less Than 5,000.

The Galveston News' list of dead from the storm of September 8 represents a total of 8,859 names. The indications are that not more than 4,000 people will be actually accounted for. The News has made a diligent effort to get as complete a list of the dead as possible. It is fair to assume that 800 or 1,000 people were lost whose names were not obtainable and which would make the total death list on Galveston island about 5,000. The News is of the opinion that the death list on the island is slightly below, rather than above 5,000. This statement is made notwithstanding that there are close observers in Galveston who are still estimating the death list on the island as high as 7,000.

Formal Strike Declared.

Four hundred miners of the Coal Creek Coal company's mines at Coal Creek, Tenn., have formally struck after holding a mass meeting and voting against the contract for the year offered by the manager. The work of the mines has been suspended since September 1 pending the adjustment of a wage schedule. The Coal Creek company offers a 7½ per cent increase, which is the rate accepted by all the other mines, but this company will not agree to an advance of 7½ per cent on the union scale, which it does not recognize.

Guilty of Murder.

The jury in the case of Will Lanier, charged with the murder of Homer Bittle, at Aberdeen, Miss., brought in a verdict of guilty of murder. George Lanier, the last of the four indicted for the murder of the two Bittle boys, has just been allowed to plead guilty to manslaughter.

Sought by Mob of His Own Race.

A Huntsville dispatch says: Because of the lack of a leader, a large mob of negroes failed Sunday night to make an assault on the Madison county jail to secure the person of Lewis Owens, a negro who was arrested for committing a criminal assault upon a little negro girl.

Edmiston Challenged Hanna.

Vice-Chairman J. H. Edmiston of the populist national committee, has challenged Senator Hanna, chairman of the republican committee for a joint discussion. Mr. Edmiston issued a long communication which contains thirty-four questions for Mr. Hanna to answer in public debate.

Mr. Fairly Goes North.

W. R. Fairley, of Pratt City, member of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, left Monday night for Pennsylvania in response to a telegram summoning him to that state.

Mr. Fairley will act with the board in the consideration of the strike situation among the coal miners of that state and aid the men in every possibly.

FOR PRESIDENT:
WM. J. BRYAN,
of Nebraska.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
of Illinois.

FOR MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM THE FOURTH DISTRICT:
SIDNEY J. BOWIE,
of Calhoun.

"BRYAN AND BOWIE" has an alluring, alliterative attractiveness which will pile up the biggest vote ever recorded in this district. These is not the slightest doubt about it. But why not form Bryan and Bowie clubs to help swell the majority? It would bring every Bryan man to the support of Bowie, and every Bowie man to swell Bryan's big majority. By bully, boys, build Bryan and Bowie big beautiful bales of ballots and the world will be better for it.

THE Alliance News, published at Carrollton, Pickens county, Ala., which for the last nine years has been one of the best Populist papers in Alabama, has been sold to Mr. W. N. Dale of Wilcox county, who will make it a Democratic paper, and we wish it success. In Iowa the Populist State convention comprised eight persons. Is there any man so blind that he cannot see the Populist organization is dead and buried?

WE have received a number of enquiries respecting the Cotton Growers' Protective Association, and therefore reprint the following from a pamphlet issued by the State Association, entitled "County Sub-Organizations." This association can be of immense benefit to the cotton grower if he will only help himself. He risks only twenty-five cents, no more, and it may be less, but the benefit to be derived is not calculable.

We believe it is not advisable for our people to sell their cotton now for less that ten cents, and so advise them, but if this Association was in working order it could go further and say how much you ought to receive for it.

The object of the movement is plain, simple and practical. It is first to obtain correct, statistical information in regard to the cotton crop through weekly reports from ginners throughout the cotton belt, and the local secretaries of the sub-organizations. In this way correct figures will be obtained showing the amount of cotton being prepared for market each week, and the probable amount of cotton that will be made during harvesting period. This information will cover facts, and will check the annual false estimates sent out by such men as Neil, who last season, caused the farmers of the South to loose over a hundred million dollars in the sale of their cotton at low prices. Secondly, to gather correct statistics showing the amount of American cotton required by the world for consumption each year, the cost of converting a pound of cotton into cloth, and the price at which cotton goods are offered for sale. With a knowledge of the number of bales to be harvested each season and knowing the amount of cotton required for consumption, the Association will be in possession of facts which will enable it to place a fair and just value on the raw material and break up speculation which is annually ruining the cotton growers. If the cotton buyer objects to paying a fair price for the cotton when offered for sale, warehouse and banking facilities will be secured to enable the producer to hold his cotton in storage if necessary, using his warehouse receipts to borrow money with which to pay his maturing obligations. If a farmer can hold his cotton at home, so much the better.

BOWIE'S OPINIONS.

WE want our readers to know Sydney J. Bowie, our candidate for Congress—we want them to know him, to love and respect him, and then to vote for him. The better they know him, the more they will desire that he should become their representative in Congress. To this end we publish herewith some extracts from his speech accepting the nomination for Congress. These opinions are entirely in line with those which we have been advocating for years past, and they are the opinions of a man in whom we have every confidence, and who we are satisfied has the welfare of his country and his own people at heart. We ask every man to read and study them, and the more you study them the more you will find they are your own ideas. They are sound and honest, and that is what we want.

I feel that this is a fitting time and occasion, that I should reiterate some of the articles of the democratic faith, as handed down by our fathers, and expressed in the platform of our party. Upon the question of Democracy I am not a specialist. There are no prefixes, no affixes, or suffixes, to the faith that is in me. Upon its platform I stand, and declare allegiance, not to one plank nor to one idea therein contained but to every plank and every idea; and elected, as I know I will be, I pledge to you in advance my earnest, cordial and hearty support to every word and sentence in it. I do this, not in a perfunctory way as a candidate bound by the obligations of his candidacy to respect and obey it as the party law. I do so from the higher and better reasons that by faith and instinct, education and training, birth and ancestry, I am a democrat from head to foot,

I believe in the doctrine of tariff for revenue only. I do not believe that Congress has the lawful power to discriminate in its legislation between any professions, trades, avocations or callings. The power to tax includes the power to destroy. The most odious form of taxation is that which transfers money from one man's pocket, under the form of law, into the pocket of another. Specious pleas have, from time to time, been interposed to defend this monstrous thing, but under its operation the trusts have grown and flourished, multi-millionaires have been multiplied, and the roll of the paupers lengthened.

The Democratic platform adopted at Kansas City reaffirms the Democratic doctrine of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one, without waiting for the aid and consent of any foreign nation. In this it merely re-iterates the platform of 1896. The platform of 1892 declared for the free coinage of silver as plain as words could speak it, and it was so interpreted by nine-tenths of all the men who voted the Democratic national ticket that year. If the party leaders had seen fit to give to this platform the same interpretation which was given to it by the men who trusted them with power, the Democratic party would not have split in 1896, and McKinleyism and Hannaism would have been unknown in the land. For this reason it became necessary in 1896 to strengthen the platform by declaring specifically for a certain ratio, which was the same then obtaining in the mints of the country and throughout the civilized world, and which has practically remained unchanged for the past five hundred years. I believe in the principles of bi-metalism. I believe in the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one, and I do not believe that the government ought, for a single moment, to be guided in its conclusions by the powers which control the monarchies of the old world. In saying this, however, I feel it my duty to resent, with all the strength that is in me, the proposition that the Democratic party does now, or has ever favored an unsound currency or a dishonest dollar.

Cold Steel or Death

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvelous power of Electric Bitters to cure Stomach and Liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at J. S. Johnson, Jr., drug store.

IN SUNNY ITALY.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 9, 1900

I am now in truly summer seas. 30 days ago I was shivering with my overcoat on, in the Rob Roy section of Scotland; but it is of Rome I must write, as I have written up to that point. We arrived there in the night, so I failed to get a first view from the distance, as I had always hoped to do.

We took carriages the next morning riding over the city, and only stopping at a few places of note to get the general outline of the city. We passed the homes of Mr. Mackey's and Mr. Field's daughters, married to some fellows whose names I can't recall ten minutes after the guide tells me. We saw next the Coliseum, the Forum, the Pantheon, Hadrians tomb, the ruins of the Cæsars, the prison of Peter and Paul, Quo Vadis church, the Catacombs, St. Paul and St. Pater's Cathedrals, the Vatican, the Janiculum, the Acquaduct of Trojan still in use, the old Capital building, the old walls and its many gates. I will attempt no description as that would take a small book, and then every traveler who ever wrote from Rome wrote you the dry detail in feet and inches, and I will not bore you with a repetition. I can give that to you any time later, when I lecture and get 50 cents each out of you. When quite a boy I read Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad," and I have never forgotten many things I read in it. One thing I distinctly remember when he spoke of the all pervading beggars that you find in this fair land; begging when the gold ceiling in one of the 325 fine churches here would perhaps put 1,000 of these beggars in a house and home and fixed to maintain themselves balance of their days. It is a mockery upon the teaching of the Prophet of Galilee, but I see those sorter things in my own land too, but not of this exact kind. I measured one of the columns that support the dome of St. Peters, and to give you an idea of its size as a house it was 42 feet one way—72 the other, and there are many of them though only four this large.

This is jubilee year and the Pope has opened the Holy Door that is opened once in the century, and Catholics are here from all over the world to kneel before and kiss the facing and panel of the door. I saw a shaggy-haired, heavy-booted, roughly dressed man, a Russian, who had walked from Russia on a pilgrimage to kiss and kneel to this Door. There is eternal service in these churches at some of the many altars in all of them. I had a policeman in Cologne to close my mouth up for me all of a sudden. I was talking aloud as I walked along through it, not dreaming that that the bowing and scraping and twisting and turning was a service and it was a week day too, and I heard that Catholics did not have "big meetin" like we did, so it took me all unaware and I have kept it shut since. I called upon our Baptist missionary Bro. Taylor, but he and his family were out of the city. Dr. King, of McKinney, Texas, and Mr. Ellis, of Senatobia, Miss., gave the Italian Baptist a short talk each in the chapel through an interpretor, and I am happy to state that the members all seemed to be the better class of the Italian people too. I am also more than happy to say that I talked with many intelligent Italians and that I find Catholicism does not mean the temporial power of the Pope by any means, that fully 75 per cent of

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The game of baseball has been killed by those whose interest it is to promote it.

Philadelphia's increase in population, since 1890, shows up at 246,733. The old town is not so very slow, after all.

Italy's dueling record for last year shows 2,400 meetings and 280 fatalities. They do those things so differently in France.

It is to be hoped that when the Belgian hare shall have become our chief food the courage of our families may not be affected by it.

Poet Laureate Austen has given evidence of his tender regard for the widowed Queen of Italy by extending his condolences in prose.

Kipling's "Absent-minded Beggar" has been translated into Italian as "The Absent-minded Mendicant." That is what may be termed poetic license.

Sheep raising is one of the most important industries in New Mexico, and this territory ranks first in that line, there being 79,000 more sheep here than in the next largest sheep-holding state.

It would seem that Sweden has rather queer ideas touching the punishment of murderers, inasmuch as she has just sent out of that country a man who had killed nine people and threatened to kill more.

Whether meat or vegetables is the best subsistence for humanity is a live question today. It would seem that diversity would be the most agreeable. However, life can be sustained on either, states the St. Louis Star.

It's not often that a patient gets paid for taking a prescription, but a distinguished lecturer, before the British Medical Association submits one, that not only costs nothing, but which, in every instance, the patient is paid for taking. He says hard work is sure cure for the majority of nervous ailments.

The total number of copies of newspapers printed throughout the world in one year is 12,000,000,000. To print these requires 781,240 tons of paper, or 1,749,977,000 pounds, while it would take the fastest presses 333 years to print a single year's edition, which would produce a stack of papers nearly fifty miles high.

The Boston Journal says: "Think of a banking house in this city earning only $6.25 in a single day! The "street" must be as dull as the ordinary English novel. Extremes mark financiering. Probably that same house will clear $6,250, or even $62,500, some day next winter." In all things it is the average that counts.

As an indication of the slowness of the methods of the British war office the case of a special Indian medal for service rendered in 1854, which date will be inscribed upon it, is cited. The medal has just been ordered struck by the war office for William Sheppard, who has waited forty-six years for the mark of distinction which he had earned in his youth.

There is every probability that early in next year the site of the Australian Federal capital will be decided, and competitive plans for laying it out invited. The idea is that it should be one of the finest cities of its kind in the world, enjoying a salubrious climate and possessing beautiful surroundings. Only the public buildings will be constructed at the cost of the commonwealth, all others being left to private enterprise.

The suicide of a French private soldier and of a sergeant of the same regiment within a few days has caused Colonel Clamorgan to issue a remarkable order of the day. The colonel tells his regiment that the suicide of a soldier is desertion, the abandonment of his post, flight before the enemy. It is a very eloquent appeal to the soldierly pride of the men and should prove effective in deterring them from following the example of the two unfortunates.

Encouraging reports of experiments with Bellinzaugh's yellow fever serum come from Vera Cruz, Mexico. Patients treated with this serum are said to show a great improvement, being quickly relieved of the most distressing features of the malady. While medical men will not hesitate to apply the serum in all cases, they will be slow to accept it as a cure. Every remedy must prove its efficacy for a long period and under varied circumstances before its place can be made secure in medical practice.

The capacity of the great electric power plant established on the American side of Niagara Falls is to be doubled. The work is now in progress. Possibly an enlargement of the plan on the Canadian side will follow. It is certainly within the range of the possibilities of the next ten years that the entire volume of the waterfall will be diverted for the transformation of its energy into electricity. If so, one of the world's greatest natural wonders will thus become extinguished in obedience to the demands of this utilitarian age.

The London Christian World says that Dr. Johnson, the Bishop Suffragan of Colchester, was recently called upon in the line of his duty to consecrate an addition to a cemetery. Through some blunder of the local officials, however, he consecrated the portion which was to be used for the burial of those not members of the Anglican church. The question now before churchmen is whether the spiritual benefits of the act of consecration will adhere to the ground actually consecrated or to that which the bishop intended to consecrate.

There is one very important fact in connection with the Anarchist movement in Great Britain. The policy of the bomb and the stiletto as been declared by British Anarchists to be absolutely inapplicable as far as that country is concerned. They justify their use abroad in Russia, Italy and Spain on account of the tremendous despotism, military and otherwise, in those countries. Consequently the statement that the assassination of the King of Italy was made with the assent of the "London committee" is absolutely ridiculous. There is no such body, states a London correspondent in the New York Tribune.

The department of agriculture is securing good stocks of the best varieties of European and African macaroni wheats and Hungarian bread wheats, which it expects will furnish the basis for a great extension of the macaroni manufacturing industry in the United States. The experiment also is expected to create a demand for the production of the macaroni wheats in those parts of the country to which the experiments now in progress show them to be adopted. Formerly all the macaroni consumed in the United States was imported from Europe, but recently macaroni manufactories have been established in this country.

A colonial correspondent of the London Times has little use for Tommy Atkins as a soldier. He says: Taking him all round in South Africa the poor infantry Tommy Atkins may be considered a failure. It is not his own particular fault, but rather the fault of circumstances, red tape, regulations, red-books, blue-books, traditions, insular prejudices, and so on. Let one little screw, one frail buckle go wrong and he is done for. He must be fed; it is necesary that he should be clothed, washed, drilled at the sound of the bugle. I met an officer the other day who prided himself that his company was in skirmishing order, exactly four paces apart, when opposed to Boer sharpshooters; and his gallant company came out of action decimated, but not dismayed.

The report for 1899 of the United States commission of fish and fisheries contains an interesting article on the feasibility of introducing oysters and other marine species into the Great Salt Lake. H. F. Moore was deputed by the commission to make a series of experiments, and after having done so he reports as follows: "The main body of the lake and a large part of its shores are entirely unfit for the introduction of marine animals of economic value, owing to the high salinity of the water. The proportional constitution of the saline contents of the water of Great Salt Lake is not vastly different from that of salt water. Great Salt Lake is salt, and not alkaline. The physiological effect of its waters upon organisms placed therein probably would not seriously differ from that of sea water, were it not for its high density; but to attempt to introduce fishes or other marine animals into water having a specific gravity of 1.168, when they have become adapted by nature to a density of but 1.025, would be an utter waste of effort."

Much the same objection is made in the west to the Japanese immigrants as to the Chinese. Like the latter, they are cheap workers and cheap livers, and have the same disregard of sanitary requirements. In Portland, Ore., for instance, as told by the Oregonian of Portland, the Japanese colony lives in buildings that have been deserted by the whites, so economizing space that the room that formerly sheltered two whites now protects from ten to thirty of the little men of the Orient. A two-story building is converted into four stories, as the little workers have no need of so many cubic feet of air. A system of wide shelves, upon which mattresses and cheap quilts have been placed, permits of crowds sleeping together. These shelves also serve as lounging-places during the day, where smoking and conversation may be carried on in apparent comfort. In the little cribs of kitchens on the ground floor, two or three cooks prepare the meals for the boarders. The diet consists mainly of rice and vegetables flavored with a very little fat pork. Each Jap is given his ration on one plate, for which he pays the landlord twenty cents per day. A big wooden tank, capable of holding five or six Japs at a time, is used as a bath-tub, as economy in the use of water is also a part of Japanese methods.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Love's Victory—How God Manifests Himself—Take Your Troubles to Christ—Your Own Foundation—The Lay of Cold Water—The slope Ever Upward.

Oh, Thou beloved one—
For Thee this work is done,
For Thee alone!
Father of tenderness,
Help us to wrongs redress,
Thy sheep to tend and bless,
Over this stone!

We are thy children, Lord,
Teach us to keep thy word
Precious and pure!
Lead us in paths of right,
And make us clear of sight,
Noble and true and bright,
Steady and sure!

Thou God of boundless love,
In earth and heaven above,
Take Thou Thy own.
This stone we lay for Thee,
Make it a token be
Of Love's great victory—
Bless Thou this stone.

—Etta Wallace Miller in Universalist Leader.

How God Manifests Himself.

Even to the world about him the Christian is recognized by his resemblance to Christ. It was true in the days of the apostles that men took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus. This is God's way of manifesting Himself to the world. His Spirit is embodied in the members; they are like Him. So it becomes God's method of propagating the Gospel among men, making it known by the light, the spirit, which lives in and shines out from them. In this important sense every true disciple is a messenger and missionary of the Gospel. It does not matter that the disciple is but a weak and frail instrument. It is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of you Father that speaketh in you. The filmy thread in the electric lamp is but an insignificant thing; but when the electric current courses through it, it makes the room luminous with its radiance. So the weakest servant of Christ shines with a glory unsurpassing the light of the world, and men come to rejoice in that light. Every child of God is required to let his light shine that others, seeing, may glorify the Father. He who dwells with God becomes partner of His Spirit, and that Spirit cannot be hid. It will, it must, shine out through the face. Men perceive it and are affected and influenced by it. The light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ shines, also, in the face of His disciples. If you have not been with Moses on Sinai, nor with the Master on the Mount of Transfiguration, nor with the eleven in the upper chamber and seen the tongues of fire, none the less will your face shine to the world if you have heard the voice of God and obeyed.

Take Your Troubles to Christ.

The cares of this life, unless they are kept continually in the second place, will eat as doth a canker; they will poison everything spiritual within you; they will dry up all the springs of your religious feelings; they will wither every blossom that may have appeared. O the seeds that God doth plant are very tender! They will not beat the crowding and the jostling of ten thousand earthly schemes; they must have the best place in your affections; the broadest, sunniest spot within your heart, or else they will most surely perish. Think not to tell me that you have so much anxiety about your families, your husbands, your wives, your food, your clothing, your neighbors—so many troubles of an earthly nature—that you cannot think so much of heaven as you desire, but you hope some time to have a better opportunity. It will not do. This is the poorest, commonest excuse of all. There never was an almost-Christian who did not find out he had some peculiar difficulties which no one else experienced. Be sure your cares will never cease; it is the cup which every man must drink. O go to Christ at once, and take your cares with you, and lay them all on Him! The more trials you have in this world, the more you should be looking to the world to come.—Bishop Ryle.

Your Own Foundation.

It is told of a great English preacher that when he was once approached with propositions from two fields of pastoral service, he declined one and accepted the other, saying: "If I go to one I shall be somebody's successor; but if I go to the other I shall be somebody's predecessor." He was only repeating in substance the principle of Paul, who longed to build upon his own foundation. If we were to point out one of the gravest faults in the whole matter of religious training of the young it would be just here. They are not trained to independent religious action, and to the eager readiness to begin and carry out definite lines of necessary Christian service in the church. It is not enough to be an imitator or a follower. Every member of a church has some piece of work to do which can be planned and executed by him alone. Find and do this thing. Be somebody's predecessor.

The Lay of Cold Water.

It is a pitiful sign of destitution and improvidence when one willingly depends upon others for common necessaries, and when life has nothing but what is brought to it, being without resources within. There should be a reserve for time of need, when neighborly offices fail. Cisterns are filled from the rain from heaven. So every one may have sources of refreshment and supplies that shall defend him against loneliness and despondency when outside helps are cut off. There are countless neighborly interchanges that cheer the way, and cups of cold water are given by friendly hands, but not all daily needs can be ministered unto by others, nor can that which gives refreshment to one be at the disposal of another. Don't depend upon neighbors for everything. "Drink waters out of thine own cistern."—Julia H. Johnston.

The Slope Ever Upward.

The slope of the valley of trouble is ever upwards. Never mind how dark the shadow of death which stretches across is; never mind how black it may look, or how frowning the rocks; from between their narrowest gorge you may see, if you will, the guide whom God has sent you; and that angel of hope will light up all the darkness, and will only fade away when she is lost in the sevenfold brightness of that upper land, whereof our God Himself is Sun and Moon—the true Canaan, to whose everlasting mountains the steep way of life has climbed at last, through valleys of trouble and of weeping and of the shadow of death.—Alexander Maclaren, D. D.

If a man cannot be a Christian in the place where he is, he cannot be a Christian anywhere.—Henry Ward Beecher.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 30.

Review of the Quarter, Matt. xvi., 21-23; John v., 7-11—Golden Text: Jas. i 22—Summary of Preceding Thirteen Lessons.

Introduction.—During the quarter we have had some very important and precious truths presented by the great Teacher. Christ is the bread of life; the true foundation to His church and the Good Shepherd. It is our duty to be humble, to always forgive, to love and assist those in distress, to keep ourselves from covetousness and to watch for the coming of the Lord. The one who is wise will heed these things.

Summary.—Lesson I. Topic: Prayer and faith. Place: On the sea of Galilee. The five thousand had just been fed; Jesus sent the disciples across the sea toward Capernaum; sent the multitude away; went alone to pray; between three and six o'clock in the morning He came to the disciples walking on the sea; Peter walks on the water; begins to sink; calls for help; Jesus caught him; rebukes him for doubting; Christ is worshiped.

II. Topic: The true bread. Place: Capernaum. The multitudes seek for Jesus; He again heals their sick; many follow Him for the "loaves and fishes;" we should labor for meat which endureth. What are the works of God? Answer, To believe on Christ. Desiring a sign, think Moses greater than Christ; manna in the desert; their error—the Father giveth true bread; they desire this bread; Jesus the bread of life; will receive all who come; will lose nothing committed to Him.

III. Topic: Casting out an unclean spirit. Place: The borders of Phoenicia. Sermons on bread of life, just delivered; the people plot against Him; Jesus and His disciples go to the borders of Phoenicia; a Gentile woman beseeches Him to cast the devil out of her daughter; Jesus replies that it is not proper to give the children's bread to dogs; she asks for the crumbs; "for this saying" the devil was cast out—her request granted.

IV. Topic: The Christ. Place: Cesarea Philippi. Jesus asked His disciples who men said He was; some said John the Baptist, and others Elijah, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets. Whom do you say I am? Peter answers, The Christ. Jesus blessed Peter; man had not revealed it, but the Father had; the foundation rock; gates of Hades shall not prevail against it; the keys of the kingdom of heaven given; Christ's death; Peter rebukes Him; Get behind me; saving and losing the life.

V. Topic: Christ revealing His glory. Place: Mount Hermon. Peter, James and John go with Jesus into the mount to pray. As Jesus prays He is transfigured; Moses and Elijah appear; converse regarding His departure from the world; the disciples though sleepy are now fully awake; they see Jesus and the two men in their glory; enter into a cloud; hear a voice; Jesus commended; alone with Jesus.

VI. Topic: Humility. Place: Capernaum. The disciples ask a question; Jesus sets a child in their midst; entrance to the kingdom is by conversion; the humblest is the greatest; to receive Christ's little ones is to receive Him; the sin of causing one of His little ones to stumble; if hand or foot cause thee to stumble cut them off; angels guard His little ones; He came to save; He seeks the one gone astray.

VII. Topic: Our duty to others. Place: Capernaum. Peter asks if he shall forgive seven times. A parable: A king reckons with his servants; one owes ten thousand talents; commanded to be sold; pleads for mercy; is forgiven; this servant will not forgive his fellow servants; is delivered to the tormentors; we must forgive from the heart.

VIII. Topic: Opening blind eyes. Place: Jerusalem. Jesus saw a blind man; Jesus is the light of the world; makes clay spittle; anoints the blind eyes; commands the man to go to Siloam and wash; he obeys; comes back seeing; neighbors are stirred; ask him questions; he gives an account of his healing; is taken to the Pharisees; Jesus is accused of breaking the Sabbath.

IX. Topic: The true and the false contrasted. Place: Jerusalem. Christ is the Door and the Good Shepherd. He leadeth the sheep; they know and follow Him; flee from strangers; they know not the voice of strangers. Christ gives life to the sheep and gives His life for the sheep. The hireling fleeth and the wolf catcheth. Other sheep must be brought, and there shall be "one flock."

X. Topic: Christ directing the affairs of His kingdom. Place: Uncertain, probably in Perea. The Seventy appointed; sent forth; two and two; whither He Himself would come; the harvest plenteous; requests disciples to pray for laborers; Go, as lambs among wolves; hasten; ask that peace may rest upon the house; heal and preach; the return with joy; names in heaven.

XI. Topic: Who is my neighbor? Place: In Perea. A lawyer questions Jesus; What shall I do to inherit eternal life; Jesus asks him to answer; love God and thy neighbor; Jesus commends him; Who is my neighbor; parable; man among thieves; a priest and a Levite pass by; a Samaritan cares for the man; Who was neighbor to him? The Samaritan. Go, and do likewise.

XII. Topic: Covetousness. Place: In Perea. One in the company asked Jesus to divide inheritance; Jesus refused; warned them against covetousness; spoke a parable; a rich man; plenteous harvest; greater barns must be built; an address to the soul; God speaks; Thou fool; soul to be immediately required; an application made; be not anxious about temporal supplies.

XIII. Topic: The coming of Christ. Place: In Perea. Let loins be girded and lights burning—be ready and waiting for the coming of Christ as servants wait for the return of their master from the wedding. Christ will come as a thief, suddenly, when we least expect Him. The faithful, wise, just steward was promoted. The riotous and drunken servant was destroyed. 1. The duty of watchfulness. Jesus says, "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation." (1) Watch ourselves. (2) Watch the enemy. He may come as a friend; artfully full of cunning, as an angel of light. (3) Watch for opportunities to do and receive good. (4) Watch over each other in the Lord. (5) This is our duty, and very necessary if we continue to maintain our integrity, and if we are found ready when Christ cometh. 2. The faithful servant rewarded. Christ offers great rewards, both in this world and the next, for faithfulness. (1) Our influence will increase. (2) Our capacity for work will enlarge. (3) Our field of usefulness will broaden, and in the next world it doth not yet appear what we shall be. 3. The profligate servant punished. No favor will be shown. Those who wilfully reject Christ and enter into sin will be destroyed. Matt. 25: 46.

How Mothers may Help their Daughters into Womanhood

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her children also.

When the young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and loins, limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance in this hour of trial.

The following letters from Miss Good are practical proofs of Mrs. Pinkham's efficient advice to young women.

Miss Good asks Mrs. Pinkham for Help.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been very much bothered for a time with my monthly periods being irregular. I will tell you all about it, and put myself in your care, for I have heard so much of you. My month menstruation would become less and less, until it entirely stopped for six months, and now it has stopped again. I have become very nervous and of a very bad color. I am a young girl and have always been able to work very hard. I would be very much pleased if you would tell me what to do."—MISS PEARL GOOD, Cor. 29th Avenue and Yesler Way, Seattle, Wash.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is just simply wonderful the change your medicine has made in me. I feel like another person. My work is now a pleasure to me, while before your medicine it was a burden. To-day I am a healthy and happy girl. I think if more young girls would use your Vegetable Compound there would be less suffering in the world. I cannot express the relief I have experienced by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS PEARL GOOD, Cor. 29th Avenue and Yesler Way, Seattle, Wash.

SERMON BY THE EMINENT DI
DELIVERED LAST SUNDAY

Nations Are Judged—God Reards and Punishes Them on Earth—
Judgments Likened to the Swift Stroke of a Razor.

(Copyright 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Talmage, in his westward through Europe, has reached scenes of thrilling historic. He sends this sermon, in which he shows that nations are judged of God and that God rewards them and punishes them for sins. The text is Isaiah vii. 20,
"In the same shall the Lord shave by a razor that is hired, namely, by them beyond the river, by the king of

The Bible is the oldest book ever written. There are no similitudes in Ossian or Homer's Odyssey so daring. It's figures seem on the verge of extravagance, but they seem so. The fact is, they startle and arouse and awe men and nations. A tame and commonplace simile would fail to accomplish the object. While there are times when it employs in the Bible the gentle dew, the morning cloud, and the dove with outspread wings in the presentation of the Spirit, and the iron chariot, the wheel, the earthquake, the spray, the flood and in my text the razor. This sharp instrument has advanced in keeping with the ages. In Bible times when the beard remained uncut save in times of mourning and humiliation the razor was always a suggestion. David said of Doeg, his antagonist, "Thy tongue is a sharp razor working deceitfully," that is, it pretends to shave the face, but is really used for destruction. In striking text this weapon of the barber is used under the following circumstances: Judea needed to have some of its members cut off, and God sends against it three Assyrian kings, first Sennacherib, then Esarhaddon and afterward Shalmaneser. These three sharp invasions cut down the glory of Judea and left so many sweeps of the razor over the face of the land. And these invasions were called a hired razor, for God took the kings of Assyria, whom He had no sympathy, to work, and paid them in palaces and possessions. These kings were under the divine behests.
The text, which on its first reading seems of somewhat trivial or inapt, is really of momentous import. "In the same shall the Lord shave with a razor that is hired, namely, by them beyond the river, by the king of Assyria."

God's judgments are razors, better be careful how we use other people. In careful sheath the weapon are put away, accident may touch them hands of children may not such instruments must be or not handled at all.
many people wield the sword of war was the Lord razor. In 1862 again it went across the land; in 1863 again; in 1864 again. Then the sharp instrument was incased and put away.

One would think that our national symbol of the eagle might sometimes suggest another eagle, that which ancient Rome carried. In the talons of that eagle were clutched at one time Britain, France,
Spain, Italy, Dalmatia, Rhaetia, Noricum, Pannonia, Moesia, Dacia, Thrace, Macedonia, Greece, Asia Minor, Syria, Phoenicia, Palestine, Egypt and all northern Africa and all the islands of the Mediterranean, indeed all the world that was worth having; 120,000,000 of people under the wings of that one eagle! Where is she now? Ask Gibbon, the historian, in his prose poem, the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire." Ask her gigantic ruins, bemoaning their sadness through the ages, the screech owl at windows out of which worldwide conquerers looked.
Ask the day of judgment, when her crowned debauchees, Commodus and Pertinax and Caligula and Diocletian, shall answer for their infamy. As man and as nations let us repent and have our trust in a pardoning God rather than depend on former successes for immunity. Out of thirteen of the greatest battles of the world Napoleon had lost but one before Waterloo. Pride and destruction often rode in the same saddle.

But notice once more and more than all in my text that God is so kind and loving that when it is necessary for Him to cut He has to go to others for the sharp edged weapon. "In the same day shall the Lord shave with a razor that is hired." God is love. God is pity. God is help. God is shelter. God is rescue.
There are no sharp edges about Him, no thrusting points, no instruments of laceration. If you want balm for wounds, He has that. If you want divine salve for eyesight, He has that. But if there is sharp and cutting work to do which requires a razor, that He hires. God has nothing about Him that hurts save when dire necessity demands, and then He has to go clear off to some one else to get the instrument. This divine clemency will be no novelty to those who have pondered the Calvarean massacre, where God submerged Himself in human tears and crimsoned Himself from punctured arteries and let the terrestrial and infernal worlds maul Him until the chandeliers of the sky had to be turned out because the universe could not endure the outrage. Illustrious for love He must have been to take all that as our substitute, paying out of His own heart the price of our admission at the gates of heaven.

King Henry II. of England crowned his son as king, and on the day of coronation put on a servant's garb and waited, he,
the king, at the son's table, to the astonishment of all the princes. But we know of a more wondrous scene, the King of heaven and earth offering to put on you,
His child, the crown of life and in the form of a servant waiting on you with blessing. Extol that love, all painting, all sculpture, all music, all architecture, all worship! In Dresdenian gallery let Ra-phael hold Him up as a child and in Antwerp cathedral let Rubens hand Him down from the cross as a martyr and Handel make all his oratorio vibrate around that one chord—"He was wounded for our transgressions, bruised for our iniquities."
But not until all the redeemed get home and from the countenances in all the galleries of the ransomed shall be revealed the wonders of redemption shall either man or seraph or archangel know the height and depth and breadth of the love of God.

At our national capital a monument in honor of him who did more than any one to achieve our American independence was for scores of years in building, and most of us were discouraged and said it never would be completed. And how glad we all were when in the presence of the highest officials of the nation the work was done! But will the monument to Him who died for the eternal liberation of the human race ever be completed? For ages the work has been going up. Evangelists and apostles and martyrs have been adding to the heavenly pile, and every one of the millions of redeemed going up from earth has made to it contribution of gladness, and weight of glory is swung to the top of other weight of glory, higher and higher as the whole millenniums roll, sapphire on the top of jasper, sardonyx on the top of chalcedony and chrysoprasus above topaz, until far beneath shall be the walls and towers and domes of our heavenly capitol, a monument forever and forever rising and yet never done. Unto Him who has loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood and made us kings and priests forever." Alleluia, amen.

Twentieth Century Events.

The twentieth century, which will begin on Tuesday, January 1, 1901, will have twenty-four leap years, the greatest number possible. February will have five Sundays three times—1920, 1984 and 1976. The earliest possible date on which Easter can occur is March 12. The last time it occurred on that date was 1818. The latest date that Easter can occur is April 25. It will occur but one time in the coming century on that date—1943. The middle day of the century will be January 1, 1851. There will be 380 eclipses during the coming century. In 1935 there will be seven eclipses. There will be eight solar eclipses visible in the United States—1918, 1923, 1925, 1945, 1954, 1979, 1984 and 1994.—London Gem.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

One of the oddest is surely that of the widow of a certain Tommy who fell at Colenso. GROVE'S
Tasteless Chill Tonic

Is the standard prescription of America for Malaria, Chills and Fever.

How often do you hear imitators say "Our medicine is just as good as Grove's" or "It is better than Grove's". Do not be satisfied with the "just as goods". There are no "just as goods"—Grove's is the best as such comparisons admit—Grove's is many times superior both in merit and popularity to any other chill preparation manufactured, and is the only chill cure sold to jobbers in car load lots. Every druggist in the malarial sections of the United States and Cuba sells Grove's on a No cure, No pay, basis. Price 50 cents.

Grove's Tonic broke up a 10 days' spell of fever which a physician thought would last several weeks.

"During my recent illness your Chill Tonic proved of beneficial effect—it being highly endorsed by my family physician. 3 bottles broke up a 10 days' spell of fever which at first was thought by the doctor would last for several weeks. Your excellent remedy is having a tremendous sale throughout this section, more so than all other Chill Tonics combined, as I am informed by various druggists."

The duodenum is continuous with the small intestines. The small intestine empties into the large intestine or colon at the cecum. The arrows indicate the direction which the contents of the bowels must take in passing through the alimentary canal.

are packed away in your insides and must be kept clean, in order and doing business.

It's a long way, with many turns and pitfalls to catch the refuse and clog the channel if not most carefully cleaned out every day.

When this long canal is blockaded, look out for trouble—furred tongue, bad breath, belching of gases, yellow spots, pimples and boils, headaches, spitting up of food after eating—an all-around disgusting nuisance.

Violent pill poisons or griping salts are dangerous to use for cleaning out the bowels. They force out the obstruction by causing violent spasms of the bowels, but they leave the intestines weak and even less able to keep up regular movements than before, and make a larger dose necessary next time.

Then you have the pill habit, which kills more people than the morphine and whiskey habits combined.

The only safe, gentle but certain bowel cleansers are sweet, fragrant CASCARETS, because they don't force out the foecal matter with violence, but act as a tonic on the whole 30 feet of bowel wall, strengthen the muscles and restore healthy, natural action. Buy and try them! (Look out for imitations and substitutes or you can't get results. Cascarets are never sold in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the long-tailed "C" on the box.) MACHINERY AND TRANSPORTATION BUILDING. PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

This big structure is 500 by 350 feet, with a central court 100 by 175 feet. Its type of architecture is the Spanish renaissance, modified to suit the conditions of the Exposition. The roofs are laid with red tile and the cemented walls are brilliant with color. The colors are to be reds and yellows in light tints. The facades will present an arcaded effect, with broad, overhanging eaves, in imitation of the old mission buildings in California and Mexico. The Central Court will be a veritable tropical garden, with a long, narrow pool, containing interesting specimens of aquatic life, and will have seats, where the weary visitor may rest a moment. The Exposition is to be held in Buffalo in 1901 from May 1 to Nov. 1.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

A DEAD SURE WINNER

There is joy in the Fourth—united we stand—
Go tell it to saint and to sinner:
And the tidings go forth thro' all this broad land
That Bowie's a dead sure winner!

From Dallas to Cleburne is many a mile
(The Fourth District is somewhat a spinner)
But everyone's happy, each face wears a smile,
For Bowie's a dead sure winner!

He's a popular man, deny it who can—
The convention he carried 'fore dinner—
And away from him all his opponents have ran,
And Bowie's a dead sure winner!

And the moral is this: when you take a steady man,
Even though he should be a beginner,
And run a straight race, he'll unite us again,
As has Bowie, a dead sure winner!

Yes, Bowie's a dead sure winner, and I believe it will be the first thing that has happened in this district for many a long year. That the opposition to the Democratic nominee in the last three Congressional races has produced good results there is no denying. And it is evident that both sides—all sides—Democrats, Republicans and Populists—all recognize that the good result having already been obtained there is no longer any use in factional opposition to the present Democratic nominee. And he is to be allowed a walk over. This is a great tribute to a worthy man. Bowie commands the respect of all parties. He is, on all sides, acknowledged to be a man and capable man, one who will bring honor to the district, with credit to his consituents and himself. He starts right and you can depend upon it he will end right, and we will all hope it may be a long time before he comes to the end. Hurrah for Bowie!

I was talking, a few days ago, to one of my old Populist friends, when he remarked that "we ought to keep the Populist organization up." Now, that sort of talk would be all very well providing there was any organization left to keep up. I asked him where the organization was that he wanted to keep up, and called his attention to the fact that two attempts to hold a State convention in Alabama had failed, that nearly all the reputable leaders had returned to the Democratic party; there was hardly a Populist paper left in the state; county after county heretofore Populist had gone back to the Democratic fold; the national organization was practically a part of the Democratic organization, and in short that the Populist party was dead. My friend then disappeared he was in a hurry and did not have time to talk with me then, but would see me later.

I can sympathize with my Populist friends in their regret at the dissolution of the party from which so much was expected. We all sympathize with each other on the loss of a dear friend, but we sorrow with our friends, accept the inevitable, and the world goes on the same as usual. We don't attempt to bring the dead back to life. So it is with the Populist party, it is dead and gone, it is no use to weep over it, we regret it, and the world goes on as usual. And while the Populist party is dead we have the consolation of knowing that some of its best principles live in the Democratic party, by girding up our loins, we carry on the same old fight, but this time within the ranks of the Democratic party where there is great hope of victory.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 1st., 1900.

To School Teachers, Township Trustees and all other persons interested in Education.

I find there are some who have not acquainted themselves with the public school law as they should and even some trustees and teachers do not know all of the duties required of them. I wish to impress upon school teachers and trustees the importance of reviewing the school law and then acting accordingly. To this end, I will say, that I shall be ready to assist you to the best of my ability when called upon. Township trustees will remember that their annual trustees' meeting must be held on the fourth Monday in October or within seven days thereafter. No other time will be considered for this meeting. I shall send blanks for posting and making report of such meeting just a soon as they reach me.

"Teachers Quarterly Report blanks have been changed" says State Supt. John W. Abercrombie; so none of the old blanks will be used any more. New blanks will be furnished you just as soon as possible upon application I insist that all the blanks be properly filled out, as I cannot pay any teacher on receipt of this report until it is done.

The law requires that money must be paid to teachers; hence the teacher must meet me in person at Clanton on the first Saturday in January, April, July and October, this being the time designated by law to pay teachers, unless otherwise notified.

Trustees will locate no school for a shorter term than four and a half months this year, as the funds have been increased Supt. John W. Abercrombie requests that no contract be approved for a shorter period. In this I agree with him.

No teacher will be paid any of the public school fund until he or she first procures a license certificate from the State Educational Board. All assistent teachers must also procure license, or neither they or the principal can be paid any of the public funds. All teachers will be required to produce their license before they can be paid any funds.

The duties, herein enumerated and insisted upon, are drawn from the school law and the instructions in the circular from the State Supt., and teachers, trustees and county supt. must comply. By doing so I feel that education will continue to glide rapidly along in our progressive county. Much has been done, but there remains much to be done in this direction.

Again assuring the people of my gratitude and appreciation for your support in electing me for your Co. Supt. and promising to use my best efforts in trying to place the cause of education upon a higher plane in our county, and again soliciting the co-operation and assistance of all friends to education, I shall strive to be a faithful servant for you.

Very truly,
J. W. MOORE, Co. Supt.

Mulberry.

Several of our young people enjoyed a big turkey dinner at M. Craton Rasberry's last Sunday, while some of the older people enjoyed turkey at Mr. Lightsey's.

The cotton crop is short in this neighborhood, but the present prices make the farmers smile and they deserve it. Every body seems to be in good spirit, all have something to be glad of, and thankful for. Farmers can work on the bright side of farming when there is any bright side.

May The Banner still wave successfully in the gentle breeze of old Chilton.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No semedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which affected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Clanton Drug Store.

WANTED—A white girl to stay with my wife and do house work. Address S. R. Hall, Stanton, Ala.

A quiet wedding took place in Stanton last Wednesday, Mr. J. W. Wilkes and Miss Mollie T. Gandy were happily married at the home of Mr. Dan Gandy. They went to Montgomery Wednesday evening, then proceeded to Mobile, where they will make their future home. Miss Mollie was very popular among her friends and we regret having to give her up, but wish them a happy and successful future.

It seems to me that if a few more of our older people of the church here would come out to Sunday-school, it would be more interesting to the younger ones who are faithful every way. Let me urge and ask you married people of this place to come and be with us. We need you, you could help us so much. How can you expect your little ones, who will some day be men and women, to take part if you stand back and expect them to go and lead you to the worship of God. You ought to have more interest in the salvation of others if not yourself. We have on roll about sixty-five scholars, out of which about thirty are present. Now, kind friends, let us all see if we can't come out to Sunday-school next Sunday. Help us in our work that we may have a thriving Sunday-school and worship God together. Come one, come all, you have a cordial invitation.

Macedonia.

Cotton, for the past week has been gathered, ginned and sold at a rapid rate. Just a few more weeks like the one just passed and the crop for 1900 will be gathered and sold. And while the cotton rolls in, the price rolls down, going to-day Friday, 28th, at 9.80 in the town of Randolph.

Mrs. Gibbons is here on a visit to relatives.

Mr. P. Pitts has put up a neat little store near Hubbard & Glass' gin.

A new store in Randolph by Ward & Veazey.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown a daughter.

Bro. Thomas has been called to the care of Macedonia church for next year. And it is expected that he will hold a series of meetings at his next regular appointment, the 2nd Sunday.

Some of our neighbors have gathered corn, and say it is turning out O. K.

Quite a number of the Mulberrians were out this way, with cotton, last week.

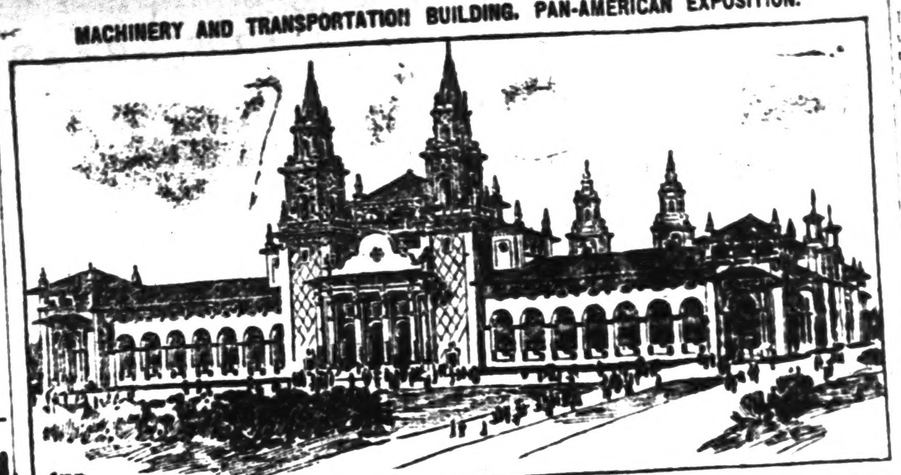
MACHINERY AND TRANSPORTATION BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

This big structure is 500 by 350 feet, with a central court 100 by 175 feet. Its type of architecture is the Spanish renaissance, modified to suit the conditions of the Exposition. The roofs are laid with red tile and the cemented walls are brilliant with color. The colors are to be reds and yellows in light tints. The facades will present an arcaded effect, with broad, overhanging eaves, in imitation of the old mission buildings in California and Mexico. The Central Court will be a veritable tropical garden, with a long, narrow pool, containing interesting specimens of aquatic life, and will have seats, where the weary visitor may rest a moment. The Exposition is to be held in Buffalo in 1901 from May 1 to Nov. 1.

I was talking, a few days ago, to one of my old Populist friends, when he remarked that "we ought to keep the Populist organization up." Now, that sort of talk would be all very well providing there was any organization left to keep up. I asked him where the organization was that he wanted to keep up, and called his attention to the fact that two attempts to hold a state convention in Alabama had failed, that nearly all the reputable leaders had returned to the Democratic party; there was hardly a Populist paper left in the state; county after county heretofore Populist had gone back to the Democratic fold; the national organization was practically a part of the Democratic organization, and in short that the Populist party was dead. My friend then discovered he was in a hurry and did not have time to talk with me then, but would see me later.

I can sympathize with my Populist friends in their regret at the dissolution of the party from which so much was expected. We all sympathize with each other on the loss of a dear friend, but we sorrow with our friends, accept the inevitable, and the world goes on the same as usual. We don't attempt to bring the dead back to life. So it is with the Populist party, it is dead and gone, it is no use to weep over it, we regret it, and the world goes on as usual. And while the Populist party is dead we have the consolation of knowing that some of its best principles live in the Democratic party, and girding up our loins, we carry on the same old fight, but this time within the ranks of the Democratic party where there is great hope of success.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

A DEAD SURE WINNER

...re is joy in the Fourth—united we stand—
Go tell it to saint and to sinner;
...the tidings go forth thro' all this broad land
That Bowie's a dead sure winner!

...Dallas to Cleburne is many a mile
The Fourth District is somewhat a spinner
...everyone's happy, each face wears a smile,
For Bowie's a dead sure winner!

...a popular man, deny it who can—
The convention he carried 'fore dinner—
...away from him all his opponents have ran,
And Bowie's a dead sure winner!

...the moral is this: when you take a clean man,
Even though he should be a beginner,
...run a straight race, he'll unite us again,
...as Bowie, a dead sure winner!

Yes, Bowie's a dead sure winner, and I believe it will be the ...t thing that has happened in ...district for many a long year. ...t the opposition to the Demo...tic nominee in the last three ...gressional races has produced ...od results there is no denying. ...d it is evident that both sides—...all sides—Democrats, Republicans and Populists—all recognize ...t the good result having already ...en obtained there is no longer ...y use in factional opposition to ...present Democratic nominee, ...d he is to be allowed a walk ...er. This is a great tribute to a ...rthy man. Bowie commands ...respect of all parties. He is, ...all sides, acknowledged to be a ...an and capable man, one who ...ll bring honor to the district, ...th credit to his consituents and ...self. He starts right and you ...n depend upon it he will end ...ght, and we will all hope it may ...a long time before he comes to ...end. Hurrah for Bowie!

I was talking, a few days ago, ...one of my old Populist friends, ...hen he remarked that "we ought ...keep the Populist organization ..." Now, that sort of talk would ...all very well providing there ...s any organization left to keep ... I asked him where the organ...ation was that he wanted to keep ..., and called his attention to the ...that two attempts to hold a ...ate convention in Alabama had ...led, that nearly all the reputable ...aders had returned to the Demo...atic party; there was hardly a ...opulist paper left in the state; ...unty after county heretofore ...opulist had gone back to the ...emocratic fold; the national or...nization was practically a part ...the Democratic organization, ...d in short that the Populist par... was dead. My friend then dis...vered he was in a hurry and did ...t have time to talk with me then, ...t would see me later.

I can sympathize with my Pop...ist friends in their regret at the ...solution of the party from which ...much was expected. We all ...mpathize with each other on the ...s of a dear friend, but we sor...w with our friends, accept the ...evitable, and the world goes on ...same as usual. CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—Editor.]

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 1st., 1900.

To School Teachers, Township Trustees and all other persons interested in Education.

I find there are some who have not acquainted themselves with the public school law as they should and even some trustees and teachers do not know all of the duties required of them. I wish to impress upon school teachers and trustees the importance of reviewing the school law and then acting accordingly. To this end, I will say, that I shall be ready to assist you to the best of my ability when called upon. Township trustees will remember that their annual trustees' meeting must be held on the fourth Monday in October or within seven days thereafter. No other time will be considered for this meeting. I shall send blanks for posting and making report of such meeting just a soon as they reach me.

"Teachers Quarterly Report blanks have been changed" says State Supt. John W. Abercrombie; so none of the old blanks will be used any more. New blanks will be furnished you just as soon as possible upon application. I insist that all the blanks be properly filled out, as I cannot pay any teacher on receipt of this report until it is done.

The law requires that money must be paid to teachers; hence the teacher must meet me in person at Clanton on the first Saturday in January, April, July and October, this being the time designated by law to pay teachers, unless otherwise notified.

Trustees will locate no school for a shorter term than four and a half months this year, as the funds have been increased Supt. John W. Abercrombie requests that no contract be approved for a shorter period. In this I agree with him.

No teacher will be paid any of the public school fund until he or she first procures a license certificate from the State Educational Board. All assistent teachers must also procure license, or neither they or the principal can be paid any of the public funds. All teachers will be required to produce their license before they can be paid any funds.

The duties, herein enumerated and insisted upon, are drawn from the school law and the instructions in the circular from the State Supt., and teachers, trustees and county supt. must comply. By doing so I feel that education will continue to glide rapidly along in our progressive county. Much has been done, but there remains much to be done in this direction.

Again assuring the people of my gratitude and appreciation for your support in electing me for your Co. Supt. and promising to use my best efforts in trying to place the cause of education upon a higher plane in our county, and again soliciting the co-operation and assistance of all friends to education, I shall strive to be a faithful servant for you. Very truly,

J. W. Moore, Co. Supt.

Mulberry.

Several of our young people enjoyed a big turkey dinner at Mr. Craton Rasberry's last Sunday, while some of the older people enjoyed turkey at Mr. Lightsey's.

The cotton crop is short in this neighborhood, but the present prices make the farmers smile and they deserve it. Every body seems to be in good spirit, all have something to be glad of, and thankful for. Farmers can work on the bright side of farming when there is any bright side.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which affected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Clanton Drug Store.

WANTED—A white girl to stay with my wife and do house work. Address S. R. Hail, Stanton, Ala.

A quiet wedding took place in Stanton last Wednesday, Mr. J. W. Wilkes and Miss Mollie T. Gandy were happily married at the home of Mr. Dan Gandy. They went to Montgomery Wednesday evening, then proceeded to Mobile, where they will make their future home. Miss Mollie was very popular among her friends and we regret having to give her up, but wish them a happy and successful future.

It seems to me that if a few more of our older people of the church here would come out to Sunday-school, it would be more interesting to the younger ones who are faithful every way. Let me urge and ask you married people of this place to come and be with us. We need you, you could help us so much. How can you expect your little ones, who will some day be men and women, to take part if you stand back and expect them to go and lead you to the worship of God. You ought to have more interest in the salvation of others if not yourself. We have on roll about sixty-five scholars, out of which about thirty are present. Now, kind friends, let us all see if we can't come out to Sunday-school next Sunday. Help us in our work that we may have a thriving Sunday-school and worship God together. Come one, come all, you have a cordial invitation. R. F., S. S. Supt.

A Prospective Bridegroom Falls Into a Trance.

Ellis Wade, aged about 25 years, a prominent employe of the Southern railway, has been asleep at Tuscumbia for several days, and his physicians are very much puzzled over the young man's condition. He was to have been married last Wednesday evening to a young lady of Tuscumbia, whose brothers objected to the alliance, and the wedding failed to take place. The young man went to his home after being informed of the circumstances and retired as usual, but has not awakened since. He has now been unconscious several days and gives no indication of returning consciousness. The father thinks his son has lapsed into a trance and that he will come around all right.

Progress on State Fair.

After negotiating for some days with several leading carnival companies, the Alabama Fair association has closed a contract with the Oriental Carnival company, of Maryland, one of the leading aggregations of the kind in America, and the midway attractions of the State Fair, which opens November 1, will be furnished by this company. This company will put on twenty separate shows in the midway.

The fair opens November 1 and the arrangements are now moving along so smoothly and satisfactorily that there is no doubt but it will be the greatest fair ever attempted in this portion of the United States. Work upon the various buildings is progressing most satisfactorily, and all will be completed in ample time. The freight track into the grounds has been completed and is ready for service. The work of clearing up the grounds and putting everything in order is being pushed and the arrangements for lighting are being made. The lighting system will be most perfect and the grounds will be exceptionally brilliant at night.

Sale of "Hop Jack" Illegal.

In the criminal court at Birmingham Monday Judge Greene made a ruling that will be of interest to many dealers in and manufacturers of "Hop Jack." He held that it was a malt liquor and that its sale in prohibition districts was a violation of the revenue law.

This decision was in the cases against Ben Westwood, of Irondale, who was charged with a violation of the revenue law and was convicted. The expert testimony showed that "Hop Jack" contained two per cent alcohol, or just half the amount in beer and was made by the same process.

Judge Swayne of the United States court made a similar ruling recently, holding that a sale of "Hop Jack" made by the Montgomery Brewing company was a violation of the United States revenue laws.

Nineteenth Session Begun.

The Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, at Tuskegee, of which Booker T. Washington is principal, began its nineteenth session Tuesday, September 11, with a greatly increased attendance. At the present time more than eight hundred students are enrolled. The enrollment for this year will probably be more than 1,200. The students come from twenty-three states and territories, Porto Rico, Cuba, Barbadoes and Africa.

Pardoned by Governor Johnston.

Governor Johnston Monday issued pardon to F. C. Paxton, of Atlanta, and Frank Devereaux, of New York, who were convicted in the county court of stealing a ride on a train while on their way from Galveston to their homes. The movement for the pardon of the men was started by a New York paper.

Rolling Mills Resume Operation.

The Birmingham and Gate City rolling mills of the Republic Iron and Steel Company resumed operations Monday after being idle for three months. Nearly 2,000 men are thus given employment and they will receive their pay twice a month.

Dropped Dead.

George W. Briner, aged 60 years, employed at the Birmingham Rolling Mills, while en route to his work dropped dead.

The curfew is a recognized institution in 12 municipalities in New York, according to the annual report of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Skinner.

WAGE INCREASE GRANTED

Miners in Anthracite Region of Pennsylvania Given 10 Per Cent Raise.

MAY MEAN THE END OF THE GREAT STRIKE

Notices Posted in Every Colliery in the District—Arrangements Proposed Will Give Chance to Reach an Agreement.

An offer of an increase of 10 per cent was inaugurated in the Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Company Sunday, and the move, it is stated, will be forwarded on Tuesday to every colliery in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania. It is expected that this will be satisfactory to the men. Mining operations in this event will be given an impetus and the operators expect there will then be a general resumption and the collieries will again have their full complement of employes.

The Philadelphia & Reading Company operates thirty-nine collieries, and of these twenty-seven have been shut down, having insufficient working forces. Whether the miners will accept the profferof the company and return in a sufficient number to operate the mines cannot be foretold yet.

HOWARD CONVICTED

For Complicity in the Murder of Goebel. To Hang Dec. 7.

The motion for a new trial in the case of James Howard was overruled by Judge Cantrill at Frankfort, Ky., Saturday, and Howard was sentenced to hang December 7 for complicity in the murder of Wm. Goebel. It was agreed that the attorneys should be allowed to file their bill of exceptions in the appeal to the court of appeals any time between now,and the third week in October.

Howard did not weaken or appear agitated when the solemn sentence of the court consigning him to the gallows was pronounced upon him, but in answer to the usual questions of the court if he could show cause why sentence should not be pronounced, he said in a firm, clear voice: "I am innocent."

Trinity River's Great Rise.

The unprecedented rise in the Trinity river in Texas continues with no immediate prospects of receding. The waters reach out over a mile in the valley, inundating the entire bottoms, and many valuable farms are totally ruined and crops gone. BOXERS TO BE PUNISHED.

Four Chinese Princes Will Be Degraded, Tuan Among Them.

Important news came from China Saturday which in itself tends to advance materially the efforts for a final settlement. China has accepted the suggestion of the United States contained in the answer to the German proposition, and has begun voluntarily the punishment of the reactionary Chinese leaders who were responsible for the Pekin outrages.

The department of state is informed by Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, that Sheng, Chinese director of railroads and telegraphs, has handed him a decree of the emperor and empress, dated at Taignan, September 25, blaming their ministers for encouraging the Boxers. The edict orders the degradation of four princes and deprives Prince Tuan of his salary and official servants. He is to be brought for trial before the imperial clan court.

AN ENTIRE COMPANY LOST

CAPT. DEVEREAUX SHIELDS AMONG LATTER

He Was a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Second Mississippi During the Spanish War—Scene of Reverse in Marindique.

The war department has received the following cablegram from General McArthur at Manila:

"September 11, Captain Devereaux Shields, fifty-one men, Company F, Twenty-ninth regiment, United States Volunteer Infantry, one hospital corps man, left Santa Cruz, Marinduque, by gunboat Valiabos for for Torrijos, intending to return overland to Santa Cruz. Have heard nothing since from Shields. Scarcely doubt entire party captured, with many killed or wounded, Shields among the latter.

"Information sent by letter from commanding officer at Boaz, dated 20th, received September 24th, consisted of rumors through natives. Yorktown and two gunboats, George S. Anderson, colonel Thirty-eighth Volunteer Infantry, sent to Marinduque immediately. Anderson confirms first report as to capture, but unable September 27 to give details of present whereabouts of Shields and party and names of killed and wounded. The information probably available soon."

The Twenty-ninth Infantry was recruited at Ft. McPhesson (Atlanta, Ga.). Captain Shields was lieutenant-colonel of the Second Mississippi during the Spanish war. He was made captain in the Twenty-ninth Infantry July 5, 1899. He was a resident of Natchez, where his wife now resides.

The scene of this latest reverse is a small island lying due south of the southern coast of Luzon and about 360 miles from Manila. Marinduque is about twenty-four miles in diameter and was garrisoned by two small detachments of United States troops.

HUNG TWICE.

Required Two Drops to Kill a North Carolina Murderer.

Archie Kindauls was hanged at Clinton, N. C., Friday, for the murder of John Herring. He died from strangulation after first being dropped from the gallows. After the body had hung for ten minutes the attending physicians required the sheriff to place him on the gallows and drop him again, as life might be more quickly ended. He was placed on the gallows a second time and the trigger sprung. Life was pronounced extinct in eight minutes.

Chauncey Davis was hanged at Tarboro, N. C., for burning the residence of Mrs. Lavinia Battle.

AMERICANS WILL EVACUATE.

Orders for Removal of Troops Has Been Received by General Chaffee.

Orders from Washington directing the withdrawal of the bulk of the American troops were received at Tien Tsin Saturday and preparations to comply were begun immediately.

General Chaffee is directing the movement—which will commence at the earliest possible moment.

It is understood that the plan contemplates leaving a regiment of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a battalion of artillery in Pekin to protect American interests and that the remainder of the troops will proceed to Manila.

Russians Withdraw From Pekin.

A Pekin dispatch says: At the conference of generals the Russian commander, General Linevitch, announced the immediate withdrawal from Pekin of the bulk of the Russian troops and the legation. There will remain a mixed force of about 2,000 to represent Russia.

General Linevitch asserted that the dispatch from St. Petersburg transmitting the order to withdraw contained a statement that all the powers were adopting the same policy. The other generals replied that they had received no orders of that nature.

TUAN HELD RESPONSIBLE.

Consul Wade Confirms the Report That He is to Be Degraded.

Several important dispatches were received Monday from China. Generally they tend to confirm the events recorded Saturday. From Canton Consul McWade reports the issue of the decree punishing Tuan and his colleagues, so that there is no longer doubt as to the accuracy of Sheng's statement on that point. Mr. Conger also has received official notification of the Chinese peace commission which was forecasted by Minister Wu's advices several days ago. Mr. Conger made no reference to the condemnation decree, hence it is inferred that it was not issued when his dispatch was sent last Thursday. The text of these two dispatches is as follows:

"CANTON, October 1.

"Secretary of State, Washington: Decrees just issued by emperor blames ministers for whole trouble. Orders Tuan, Kangia and other officials degraded and punished by imperial courts. Emperor holds Tuan and others entirely responsible for bloodshed. McWADE."

"PEKIN, Sept. 27.

"Secretary of State, Washington: Have received notice today from Prince Ching that he, Earl Li Jung Lu and Viceroys Tin Kun Yi and Chang Chip Tung will act in concert in negotiations for peace. Jung Lu is in the interior. Li Hung Chang is at Tien Tsin. CONGER."

PORTO RICAN FEDERALISTS

Pass Resolutions to Affiliate With the Democratic Party.

A dispatch from San Juan, Porto Rico, says: The federal party, at its convention at Caguas, passed resolutions affiliating itself with the democratic party in the United States. A cablegram from W. J. Bryan and J. K. Jones, chairman of the national democratic committee, urging harmony, was read. Munoz Rivera made a speech in which he opposed the present administration on the ground that the Foraker bill is unsatisfactory, and the Porto Ricans desire a more independent form of government. The session will last several days, and the delegates will nominate a commissioner for congress.

Republican mass meetings at San Juan have endorsed the administration and nominated candidates for the house of delegates.

MYSTERY IN CHICAGO.

Severed Human Head Found in a Grain Sack.

A silver tooth plate, to which two false incisors of the upper jaw were wired, is the only clew to the identity of the severed human head that was found tied in a grain sack in Cedar Lake at Chicago, just across the Indiana state line.

Identification of the victim of the supposed murder by means of the head is absolutely impossible so far as recognizing the features are concerned, because the head was packed in quick lime before being thrown into the lake and the features were destroyed by the action of the chemical.

This bids fair to furnish a murder mystery as famous as the Guldensuppe case in New York.

SENATOR HANNA TALKS.

Says the Strike Should Not Be Mixed Up With Politics.

"Any man who would put a straw in the way of the settlement of the great coal miners' strike now progressing in Pennsylvania should be taken out to the nearest lamp post and hanged."

This is the way Senator Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee, spoke when asked for particulars regarding the success of his negotiations for ending the strike:

"I don't want to talk about the strike. I don't think that it should be mixed up in politics. It is a bigger question than any political party or political question, and should not be discussed from a political standpoint. No one should be permitted to use it for political capital. It is the duty of every man to do his utmost to end the deplorable trouble."

Two Young Men Fight a Duel.

One of the men, Sheffield Harrington, was shot in four places, and the other, Walter Hudson, was wounded once. Both are believed to be fatally hurt.

"Some correspondents have sent out statements to the effect that millions of dollars have been subscribed for the relief of Galveston. The published statement fixes the amount at $15,000,000. These statements have led the public—the generous liberal public—astray and have a tendency to check the impulse to give, because it seemed that the requirements had been met. But the real truth is that Galveston is up to date received only $881,043.63, a sum but little more than sufficient to bury the dead, remove the debris, accomplish the work of sanitation, and to pay the expenses for food and clothing which the relief committee has had to buy before the supply of food and clothing began to arrive from the outside world. And in connection, with a property loss of $20,000,000, Galveston is called upon to face the problem of rehabilitation and to provide for the housing of more than 8,000 homeless people.

"Nature has been kind since the storm: there has been no rainfall in consequence; the weather has been pleasant and the winds have been tempered. But these conditions will not last, and much greater suffering than has been endured up to this time must inevitably ensue if provisions are not made, and made quickly, to house those victims of the storm. The relief fund is being drawn on heavily to pay men for removing the debris, thus enabling them to support themselves, and at the same time preventing conditions which would result if able-bodied men were permitted to draw supplies without rendering an equivalent. But this plan enables them to provide the necessaries of life and is not creating a pauper over the heads of their families or over women and children who have no one left to work for them.

"Miss Clara Barton has told the world of the conditions existing in Galveston, and has estimated that at least $5,000,000 would be required to meet the urgent necessities. The News supplements her appeal with the statement that the contributions up to date aggregate $881,043.63, and has asked the Associated Press to spread this statement to the world in order that the false impressions created by unauthorized publications may be counteracted so far as it is possible to do so. Mr. Sealy will supplement his statement with a general statement of contributions so it can be prepared within the present week."

STRIKE IS STILL ON.

Advance in Wages Ignored by Pennsylvania Miners.

Notices of the increase in wages decided upon by the operators at Wilkesbarre, Pa., Monday, were posted at all of the collieries in the Lehigh region. Although the strike leaders positively said they did not fear a break in the ranks of the anthracite coal strikers, they were nevertheless pleased that 10 per cent advance granted by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company in the Schuylkill Valley was totally ignored by the strikers.

On the afternoon of September 18 Hanna made a speech to the la- men of Chicago. There is thing remarkable about that, as Mr. has made various other es at other places, and will ably make many more. The par- thing to be noted, however, in Hanna's oratorical effort is that played himself upon record in to a few matters that are at very important to the Ameri- people. Immediately after age of the Dingley bill the Steel and Wire Company a trust, as a result of the for- of the trust the price of nails fencing was doubled, and rican farmers were forced to bstantial tribute to that same t Mary Hanna says there are As a result of the passage Dingley bill the Federal Steel was organized, and as a re- the organization of the Federal mpany iron and steel products ly doubled in value. The bill made it possible to form and Leather Trust. As a result rmation of this trust the price harness and other leather re increased. The American cannot cover the feet of his without paying tribute to a t Mark Hanna says there are . The Dingley bill made it to form a woolen goods trust, oolen goods trust was imme- formed. The laborer cannot his children against the winds without contributing to the the trusts, and yet Mark ays there are "no trusts." ly after the passage of the bill all tin plate manufactur- ers formed a trust, and tin in all its forms constantly demanded a higher price. Even the poor sewing woman did not escape, for sewing thread manufacturers combined and the price of thread nearly doubled. Even the price of salt is controlled by a trust.

It might be interesting for the voter to peruse carefully a list of the incorporated trusts which are existing in the United States at the present time, that is, if the columns of the ordinary newspaper were long enough to hold it, which they were not. A complete list of the trusts would occupy pages. In order that the voter may have some idea of the number of trusts that do exist, Mark Hanna, notwithstanding, we present the following list tabulated under the letter "A." There are almost as many trusts tibulated under the other letters of the alphabet. X, Y, Z alone excepted, but the list of trusts commencing with the letter "A," however, may be sufficiently numerous to open the eyes of any one who may not have taken the pains to acquaint himself fully with the trust situation.

A SYNDICATED PRESIDENCY.

Why Richard Olney's Striking Phrase is a True One.

Mr. Olney has been much abused for saying that the re-election of Mr. McKinley "will mean that the American people sanction a syndicated Presidency."

Those who abuse him, however, are careful not to quote what he said in definition of his phrase:

"A syndicated Presidency—a Presidency got for the Republican party by the money of a combination of capitalists intent upon securing national legislation in aid of their particular interests."

Mr. Olney is a man who does not use words carelessly or ignorantly. In further explanation and justification of his biting phrase he declared that:

"Our Government was not conceived or framed as a money-making machine even for the profit of all the governed, much less for the profit of particular classes or portions of the governed."

The "vital principle and crowning merit of our Government," he truly said, "are that it stands for equal opportunities to all." And with equal truth he declared that:

"This theory of the true functions of government McKinleyism directly antagonizes. By protective tariffs, by the most intimate relations between the United States Treasury and the general money market, by subsidies to particular industries, by an aggressive colonial policy, and in other ways it practically holds out the Government as an engine for use in the acquisition of private wealth."

Is not this indictment true?

Where does Mark Hanna turn when he starts to raise the enormous campaign fund which he warns his supporters is essential to the election of McKinley?

Does he go to the people, as the World did for its Cleveland campaign fund in 1892? Not at all! He goes to Wall street, with its syndicated banks, controlled by or in alliance with "the Standard Oil's own;" to Boston, with its syndicated copper and other trusts; to Philadelphia, with its syndicated fat-yielding protected industries and coal combines; to Chicago, with its syndicated contractors for food supplies.

When Collector Hanna is out to fill up his capacious campaign chest he does not go to the men who carry the "full dinner-pails" which he assumes that McKinleyism has filled. He goes rather to the full money-bags which have been made rotund by McKinley bounties, McKinley subsidies, McKinley contracts and other McKinley benefits, contributions from which are not merely tithes from favors received, but the expression of a lively hope of favors to come.

What word can more accurately describe a Presidency obtained by this means, for these ends, than that employed by Mr. Olney—"a syndicated Presidency?"—New York World.

Why Republicans Are Apathetic.

While such optimistic shouters for McKinley as Chauncey M. Depew and Theodore Roosevelt are endeavoring to humbug the people into the belief that McKinley's election is assured by an overwhelming majority and that all that remains for the Republicans is to count the votes, Mark Hanna, who has undertaken the job to re-elect McKinley again, declares that the Republicans are "overconfident" and show a great lack of interest in the President.

Says Mr. Hanna:

"Overconfidence is responsible for the apathy so far manifest in this campaign. There were nearly 500,00 Republican voters so confident in 1892 that President Harrison would be re-elected that they did not take the trouble to go to the polls. Their negligence, due to overconfidence, cost the Republican party that election. We are facing the same conditions in this campaign."

Mr. Hanna undoubtedly has found out that the apathy which exists among the Republicans is due not so much to "overconfidence" as to disgust with or indifference to the imperialistic candidate.

The thinking and independent Republicans of the country not only do not enthuse over the administration and the policy of the President, but view with alarm the purpose of the President to transform this free and popular Government into a Government by militarism and large standing armies.

There is no cause for overconfidence on the part of the Republicans in McKinley's re-election, as Mr. Hanna will find out in due time.—Syracuse (N. Y.) Telegram.

The Shifty McKinley.

What would McKinley do without his old standby, "commission?" His latest one is to go to China in an international capacity and help straighten out the tangled affairs there. What are our ministers and commanders for? These commissions cost enormous sums of money and really accomplish little of value. However, they make it easy for the administration to shift and evade heavy official responsibilities.—Cleveland Recorder.

An act for the prevention of cruelty to wild animals has just become effective in England. The new law extends the provisions of the act, which has heretofore applied only to domestic animals, to all birds, fishes and reptiles not included in that measure, and makes offenders liable to three months' imprisonment or a fine of $20.

England, according to the St. James's Gazette, has still 82,000,000,000 tons of coal unused and available. According to the past average rate of consumption, it will be more than 500 years before this quantity is exhausted. The official returns for last year showed a consumption of 137,000,000 tons in Great Britain and Ireland.

Garibaldi, to whom is given the credit for the inception of the shirt waist idea, is now said by Thomas Nast to have got it from the red shirts of the old New York Volunteer fire department. Where the fire fighters got it is another matter. It seems to be but another endless chain. Verily there is nothing new under the sun.

Recent statistics show that although the seaman of the present day is better cared for and less exposed than the seamen of former days, diseases of the respiratory organs have increased enormously in the British navy and invaliding for bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, and phthisis has more than doubled since masts and yards have gone.

One of the curious and suggestive details in the latest report of the Swiss factory inspectors relates to the attitude of the operatives in a certain factory in regard to an improved ventilating apparatus. They objected to it because it would breed rheumatism. Two years later the same laborers refused to go to another building because it lacked that ventilating apparatus.

In France gardening is taught, practically, in 28,000 primary and elementary schools, each of which has a garden attached. In Sweden even as long ago as 1871, 22,000 children received instruction in horticulture, and each of 2,016 schools had for cultivation from one to sixteen acres. Not a day laborer but could tell the names of trees and pants and even weeds.

Late English criminal statistics show that Glamorgan, after Monmouth, is the blackest county in the island for the number of crimes in proportion to the population. The drunkards' map shows Glamorgan in a bad light also. Northumberland is much the worse county for drunkenness, London and Lancashire have hardly half the proportion of inebriety found in Northumberland.

The director of the Hygienic Institute of Rome, Professor Celli, has written a book in which he declares that the peasants of the Campagna, about 50,000 in number, are to-day in a more wretched condition than they were in the time of the ancient Romans. Then they were mostly slaves, but well housed and fed, while to-day they are on the verge of starvation, and there are only about 500 houses for 25,000 persons. In some cases as many as 150 persons of all ages and both sexes live in one large wigwam.

The Duke of Abruzzi, nephew of the late King of Italy, has written his name at the top of the list of Arctic explorers. By reaching a latitude of 86 degrees, 33 minutes he surpassed Nansen's record and got about nineteen miles nearer to the pole than any other expedition has done. It was a remarkable performance in a way, but one cannot help but ask what good has it accomplished queries the Washington Star. We are told that the scientific results of the expedition were most satisfactory, but it is doubtful if they will prove to be of any great value after all. Eminent scientists aver that there are few, if any, important problems that would be solved even if the pole itself were reached. Certainly they are not commensurate with the expense and dangers involved. The Duke of Abruzzi's expedition is considered to have been very fortunate in that only three lives were lost. But weren't those three lives foolishly thrown away?

A novel scheme is that projected by a Georgia man to make a fortune by raising alligators. He is fencing in 300 acres of swamp-land for an alligator farm, and will be ready for business in the fall. Thirty-seven alligators have already been placed on the farm, and the promoter expects to realize $600 on his scheme next year. The alligator, next to the rabbit, is said to be the most prolific of animals, and where there is a ready demand for them there is more money in raising them than any other animal. That there is a demand for them now is shown by the fact that the promoter of this farm has filed away in his office more orders for alligators than he hopes to be able to supply in two years. There is a steady call from tourists for small alligators, while the many uses now made of alligator-skin give a profitable value to the hide of the full-grown saurian.

The latest stories of a submarine boat, which is to blow opposing battleships out of the water and revolutionize naval warfare, come from England, where the authorities hitherto have exhibited much indifference on the subject. It is said that the machine dives with facility, travels well under water, and is perfectly capable of attaching a mine of 500 pounds of guncotton to the bottom of the largest ironclad and getting out of danger before the explosion which is to dissipate her enemy in unappreciable particles. The boat is further able to discharge torpedoes above and below water, and is armed with quick-firing and machine-guns, with which she can give a good account of herself upon the surface. It is noteworthy that nothing is said about either of the two vital qualifications, equilibrium and vision; and, also, that the vessel has not yet been accepted or tested by the Admiralty. Her true value, therefore, is still quite problematical. Meanwhile the French profess to be satisfied completely with the behavior of the Gustave Zede, the Narval, and the Gymnote, and are preparing to construct a flotila of forty of these travelling submarine torpedoes. It does not appear that they are to be equipped for fighting above water as well as below it.

Efforts, noted some time ago, to make coke from the soft, bituminous coal of Tennessee, have been repeated in Missouri and are meeting with promising success. The product has been placed before experts for inspection. Charles Evans, the Missouri Coal-Mine Inspector, says that the process is a complete sucess, and that the work has passed beyond the experimental stage. "I have seen the coke taken from the Pennsylvania ovens, near where I was raised," he adds, "and I unhesitatingly pronounce the Missouri article of as fine a quality as was manufactured there." If further developments fulfil the promise, the result will mean much to the coal districts of Missouri, and those of other States which produce much the same kind of coal. Hitherto the great smelter districts of the west have imported their coke from Pennsylvania, most of it coming from the great coke ovens of Connersville.

For fifty years Detroit and Milwaukee have been close rivals in the matter of population, the parallel being more notable than the one furnished by St. Paul and Minneapolis. Half a century ago the Michigan city led by 958, and it closes the century with a lead of only 389. In 1850 Detroit had a population of 21,019, and Milwaukee 20,061. Ten years later Detroit had grown to 45,619 and Milwaukee to 45,246. Between 1860 and 1870 Detroit made a spurt and gained the substantial lead of 8,137 over Milwaukee, the figures being 79,577 and 71,440. But by 1880 Milwaukee had almost closed up this gap between them, and Detroit, with 116,340, was followed closely by Milwaukee with 115,587, the rivals holding the eighteenth and nineteenth positions in the list of American cities. In 1890 this pair had gained the fifteenth and sixteenth places, with populations of 205,876 and 204,468, respectively. By the present census Detroit has 285,704 and Milwaukee 285,315.

The Speed of the Clouds.

The average velocity of the tiny fleecy clouds of the upper atmosphere is about eighty-nine miles an hour; while in winter they have sometimes been known to travel at the rate of 220 miles an hour. They are composed of ice dust.

Linen Crumb Cloths.

An old-fashioned custom of our grandmothers, who had carpets that were of sufficient value to make it worth the while of ambitious descendants to connive for the possession of these same strips of velvet, is being revived. I refer to the restoration of the linen crumb cloth. Our grandmothers used crumb cloths over their carpets to preserve them for future generations, but we of the wholesome hygienic age place them on the polished floors without rugs or carpets of any description beneath them. The marked favor with which they have been received has furnished the spur that urged the designers on to their best efforts. Consequently the cloths are to be found in every conceivable pattern and coloring. Some of the most beautiful are in delicate shades of green and yellow, with conventional and floral designs.

How to Cook Prunes.

In cooking prunes the sweetness of the fruit itself is brought out by long, slow cooking, so that no sugar is necessary. Clean the prunes by washing thoroughly through two or three waters, letting them stand for a few moments in tepid water, then rubbing gently between the hands to be sure that every particle of dust and grit is removed. Put in a jar in the oven or in a kettle on the stove, allowing three pints of water to each pint of prunes. Cover closely and let them simmer for several hours. When done the prunes will be tender and the juice thick. Many persons who cannot eat fruit cooked with sugar can eat them in this way. A slice of lemon added before the prunes are quite cooked is thought by many to be an improvement.

Boston Brown Bread.

One cupful each of rye and corn meal, one cupful of graham flour, three-quarters of a cupful of molasses, one teaspoonful and a half of soda, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, and one pint of sour milk. Mix and sift together the meal, flour, salt, molasses, and when it begins to foam stir into the dry mixture. Add quickly the sour milk, beat for a moment, turn into a thoroughly greased mold and steam for from three and a half to four hours, according to the shape of the mold.

Scalloped Chicken or Turkey.

To scallop cold roast chicken or turkey, butter a baking dish or ramekin. Sprinkle it plentifully with bread crumbs, and put in alternate layers of shredded meat and stuffing, moistening each layer with gravy. If no stuffing and gravy are left use crumbs and white sauce instead. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake until brown. Cold boiled rice may be used with the chicken or turkey instead of the bread crumbs. White sauce should be served with it.

Proper Way to Cook Corn.

The proper way in which to cook corn is to put it on the fire in cold, salted water in which it must be allowed to remain only from four to six minutes after it has reached the boiling point. If very young and fresh, four minutes is the extreme limit. The outside husks and silks should be removed, but the inside husks must remain about the ears until they are ready for serving when a linen doily can be substituted.

Salt dissolved in alcohol will take out grease spots.

Clean paint smoked by kerosene lamps with kerosene and rub it off with a fresh cloth.

A teaspoonful of heated camphor is said to be a cura- application for a sty on the eyelid.

Keep coffee by itself, as its odor affects other articles. Keep tea in a closed chest or canister.

The juice of half a lemon in a glass of water, without sugar, will frequently cure a sick headache.

Peach leaves pounded to a pulp and applied to a bruise or wound from a rusty nail, or a simple cut, will give immediate relief.

In sweeping carpets use wet newspapers wrung nearly dry and torn in pieces. The paper collects the dust and does not soil the carpet.

When laid away for any length of time, linen should be washed, thoroughly dried without bluing, and laid in loose folds without much weight on it.

Bread crumbs for covering the top of scalloped and other baked dishes should be buttered evenly before they are spread, not put on plain, with bits of butter scattered over.

When the water shows signs that warrant suspicion as to its purity, a few drops of lemon juice added to the glass before drinking lessens the threatened danger from disease germs.

An exceedingly good salad dressing may be made by substituting two spoonfuls of perfectly sound sweet cream for the oil. The cream must be of the richest quality, known as double cream, and quite fresh. It should be used in the same way as oil.

The best scouring material for steel knives can be found in half a new potato and a little fine wood ashes. The potato is also much easier to use with bath brick than the bit of rag which the ordinary maid-of-all-work is apt to employ for this purpose.

FINE weather for cotton picking, but from present appearances we are going to have rain.

THE rush of cotton is of course holding the price down, but we believe the rush over the price must again advance.

WHILE it is very gratifying to Mr. Bowie's friends that no organized party is opposed to his candidature, it is possible that some misguided Republican may try his chance as an independent candidate, although of course he would stand not the slightest show of being elected.

WE are informed that Hon. L. H. Reynolds, when in town this morning, in course of conversation, is reported to have said that so far as Congress is concerned, as a matter of choice between Aldrich and Bowie, he, (Mr. Reynolds) would support Bowie. We have always known Mr. Reynolds to be on the right side.

'TWAS a sad ending to a useful life when on Sunday last Mr. W. M. Newbold, Superintendent of the Birmingham and Montgomery division of the L. & N. Railroad put an end to his existence. It is supposed melancholy induced by his wife's death was the cause of the rash action.

DOWN in Elmore county, as politics are rather quiet—that is, for the fifth district—they are disfranchising negroes at a lively rate and in a summary manner. Lynching is not a commendable way to punish any sort of criminal, but if there is any excuse to be found for it we must confess the horrible crimes recently attempted in that county almost justify lawless proceedings.

FOUR weeks from next Tuesday brings the presidential and congressional campaign to a close. It is particularly essential that there should be as large a vote polled as possible at this election for the reason that it is highly probable an attempt will be made to reduce the Southern Congressional representation. No white man desires to see this done and every man can do his part to prevent it by turning out and casting a ballot on the 6th of November. Because there is no opposition to our candidate is no reason why you should stay at home on that day. Turn out, do your duty, and cast a ballot for Bryan and Stevenson electors and for Sydney J. Bowie for Congress.

In the October Review of Reviews, the editorial department entitled "The Progress of the World" contains an impartial review of the Presidential campaign down to its present stage, special attention being given to the letters of acceptance of the several candidates. Other topics editorially treated in this number are the Galveston calamity, the coal-miners' strike, the pending elections in England, and the problem of reconstruction in China.

IF THE BANNER needed any justification for the course we have adopted in supporting Mr. Bowie for Congress, we would not wish for any better endorsement than the action of the Populist Congressional Committee for this district last week at Calera. It will be remembered that at the Republican convention rather more than two weeks ago, after Mr. Aldrich had emphatically declined to accept the nomination then tendered to him, a committee was appointed to confer with the Populist committee with the object of making a joint nomination. These two committees met at Calera last Thursday, and jointly offered the nomination to Mr. Aldrich who again promptly declined it, after which the joint committees decided not to make any nomination and adjourned sine die.

In deciding not to bring out a candidate in opposition to Mr. Bowie, the committee practically endorses him and comes in line with THE BANNER. To all intents and purposes the committee says, we are satisfied with Mr. Bowie and believe he will make us a good representative in Congress; we cannot nominate a better man, and are quite willing to elect him without opposition from any source—either Populist or Republican. This is a magnificent tribute to Mr. Bowie. He is recognized on all sides as a man of unblemished character, personally and politically, a man who will act right, and will see justice done to all parties. Democrats, Populists and Republicans recognize his integrity and none are willing to oppose him.

If the committee had not been satisfied that Mr. Bowie met all the requirements of the voters of the district they would doubtlessly have made a nomination instead of allowing him a walk over, and while opposition might have brought on a livelier campaign, the Fourth District is to be congratulated on having secured a representative acceptable to all parties.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER.

Malefactors of all sorts usually get to jail. A few days ago Bros. W. H. Conway and J. W. Sorrell brought two wagon loads of—well, we'll call them misdemeanants—down from Beat one. They were brought to trial, found guilty, and condemned to jail, subject to the order of the court. And I believe they are still in jail. It is just as well to say, however, that Bros. Conway and Sorrell, were prosecutors, judge, jury, council, and everything else. The misdemeanants were bales of cotton, and the charge was they didn't fetch the right price, so they were placed in the jail yard until they can come up to the mark. Bros. Conway and Sorrell are to be congratulated upon their verdict; cotton is worth at least ten cents and if it don't get it now it will after a while.

"'Tis now the farmer comes to town,
His woes are all forgotten,
He laughs with glee, because you see
He gets ten cents for cotton.

For wife he buys a new silk gown,
For son a horse to trot on
For daughter dear some jewels rare
When he gets ten cents for cotton.

For himself he hesitates awhile,
But there's one thing that he's got on,
A jug we'll have for the inner man
When he gets ten cents for cotton.

I almost thought I was mistaken yesterday when I saw Judge Adams on horseback, but it was bimself sure enough. He is not quite so slim as he once was, but he looks a very dignified judge and can ride as well as the rest of them.

IN THE ORIENT.

Constantinople, Aug. 8, 1900

My mind is still full of Rome, and my note book too, and I have to travel at so rapid a gait that it is seldom I can put down, in jolting carriage and bumping cars, the things I wish at the time I see them; hence I get my note book mixed trying to put them down in order; when I stop for a moment so I can write, in view of all which, if I tell you the same thing twice, and perhaps tell it a little different, lay the blame on my note book, not me.

Those old Roman acquaducts nearly 2,000 years old and still in use teaches even the smart American "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well." Built of stone the water keeps cool and pure always. No pipes to rust; in some places where they cross the valley high up in the air they present a beautiful example of permanency. They still build them when they built new cities. They are entirely covered over so no trash and no sun gets to the water. Excavations are going on here all the time, and every now and then a "new find" is made which proves up some assertion made by some historian. Only last week the spring of Castor and Pollux was found. The spring of the vistal Virgins is now running as in the centuries gone by. I got a special guide to carry me through the palaces of the Cæsars covering many acres in all and it was well worth my time.

The great fault that I do find of Rome and Italy generally, is the want of common decency. It would be a risky thing for a fellow to carry his sweetheart through imperial Rome, for the police do not chastise mothers who allow their nude and semi-nude children to go through the streets at all hours, some of whom are of good size too. Our girls in the party had my sincere sympathy at many times, and I was awful glad I was a married man. Other things too, I will tell you "at my lecture to men" that I won't write now. Before I came over here I was under the impression that the density of the popular on was much greater everywhere than any other place in America; but if you will look up the statistics of the inhabitants say from Philadelphia to New Haven, Conn., along the line of the Pennsylvania Railway and N. Y. N. H. & H. Railway you will find more people for the given mileage than any where in Europe.

Since coming into Italy, Greece and Turkey I see a lot of corn planted; saw some in Germany. I do not know what they do with it, as I never see a hoe cake, fat ty bread, ash cake or egg bread any where on the hotel menu or the hotel table. I saw men in Italy bearing out straw with sticks; also saw oxen threading it out as in the days of Moses. While the farms are worked well and look like gardens, yet the methods and tools are of centuries past in the greater number of places. I also noticed that all the vehicles here are too large and cumbersome. The one horse cart has wheels the size of our 4 horse log dray. Even the road carts of the gentry have a wheel as heavy as our 2 horse wagon. All the hotels of Italy look very rough on the exterior and have no lobby at all, but they have gorgeous interiors, a fine under court and a lot of fountains in Rome. I had a fine night's rest one night—the first night I slept in Rome. I thought it was raining, and that always did make me sleep well, and I awoke next morning and heard it raining still; looked out the window and is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—in the beginning.

It can always be stopped—in the beginning. The trouble is: you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; you won't believe it—till you are forced to. Then it is dangerous.

Don't be afraid; but attend to it quick—you can do it yourself and at home.

Take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and live carefully every way.

This is sound doctrine, whatever you may think or be told; and, if heeded, will save life.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you.

A SCHOOL GIRL.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock,' says Mr. C. K. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by Clanton Drug co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

The Ribaldry Done.

When the police in Denmark find a man helplessly drunk in the streets they drive the patient in a cab to the station, where he sobers off. Then they take him home. The cabman makes his charge, the police doctor makes his, the agents make their claim for special duty, and this bill is presented to the landlord of the establishment where the drunkard took the last glass that did the business. No wonder that certain landlords protest, saying that proofs are insufficient and that some alleged victims sham intoxication to get into trouble landlords against whom they have a spite.

Weight of Women's Brains.

The woman's brain is always less than the man's. From Boyd's figures we can pick out 102 men and 125 women between 64 inches and 66 inches high, averaging close on 65 inches, for each group. But the brains of the men average 46.9 ounces, while those of the women are only 41.9 ounces, which gives the men an advantage of 12 per cent. There are 21 small men whose height averages 62 inches, and there are 125 women of the same height. The brains of the men weigh 45.0 ounces, those of the women only 42.9 ounces.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Letting Him Off Easy.

"Before I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer who had been called in, "you will have to be perfectly frank with me and tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the funds of which you are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," replied the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every penny of it."

"How much of it have you left?"

"It's all gone but about $12."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, putting on his gloves, "you'd better plead guilty and throw yourself on the mercy of the court."

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

"Ten pounds."—London King.

Her Object Attained.

"Forgive me, my dear," said the ship humbly, "but I thoughtlessly mentioned to Mrs. Brown the things that you told me in strict confidence."

"There is nothing to forgive," replied the wise woman pleasantly. "It was for that very purpose that I told them to you in strict confidence."—Chicago Post.

Healthy Mothers

Few mothers are healthy, because their duties are so exacting. The anxiety of pregnancy, the shock of childbirth, and the care of young children, are severe trials on any woman. But with Wine of Cardui within her grasp, every mother—every woman in the land—can pay the debt of personal health she owes her loved ones. Do you want robust health with all its privileges and pleasures? Wine of Cardui will give it to you.

WINE of CARDUI

strengthens the female organs and invigorates weakened functions. For every female ill or weakness it is the best medicine made. Ask your druggist for $1.00 bottle Wine of Cardui, and take no substitute under any circumstances.

Mrs. Edwin Crum, Germer, Mich.: "When I commenced using Wine of Cardui I was hardly able to walk across the house. Two weeks after I walked half a mile and picked strawberries. When my other child was born I suffered with labor pains 24 hours, and had to raise him on a bottle because I had no milk. After using the Wine during pregnancy this time, I gave birth last month to a baby girl and was in labor only two hours, with but little pain, and I have plenty of milk. For this great improvement in my health I thank God and Wine of Cardui."

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF MINE FOREMAN

Life Sentence Received by Talladega County Murderers—Shoe String Causes a Death—Other Interesting Notes.

The second trial of the famous Talladega County case of Walter Motes, Dodge Blankenship, Jasper Robinson and John Littlejohn was ended in the United States Court in Birmingham a few days ago by the conviction of all the defendants except John Littlejohn, who was acquitted. The judge immediately had the three convicted men brought before him, and after a brief talk to them sentenced them to life imprisonment in the Nashville penitentiary.

The story of the crime is familiar to most people, as the defendants were tried once before and convicted for the killing of W. A. Thompson, a government witness, in Talladega County, several years ago.

Marion Bearden, who was convicted of conspiracy resulting in an attempt upon the life of Jesse Thompson, another government witness, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Nashville penitentiary.

Mysterious Murder at Adger.

W. M. Bennett, assistant mine foreman at Adger, was found in his bed at the company's office Friday morning in an unconscious condition, with a bullet hole through his body. Within a few hours after being removed by his friends the poor man died without being able to tell how he came to his death. The bullet entered the body in the back and came out of the breast. The crime was evidently committed some time Thursday night, but there is absolutely no clue to the murderers nor any known reason for the assassination.

To Establish a Colony of Germans.

A large land deal was consummated by a local real estate man at Athens, which means a great deal for this county. The firm sold to a colony a body of very valuable land, containing about two thousand acres, eight miles south of Athens and near the Louisville & Nashville road. These lands will be cut up into twenty, forty and eighty acre farms and will be owned and cultivated by a colony of Germans from the north. The plantation formerly belonged to W. K. Richardson, near Harris Station, and is a very valuable tract.

Called to Hear Thompson's Appeal.

In response to the appeal of Hon. C. W. Thompson, of Macon, to have the differences in the Fifth congressional district, where he and Hon. Willis Brewer both claim to be the nominee, settled by the state executive committee, Hon. Robert J. Lowe issued the following call:

"The state executive committee of the democratic and conservative party of Alabama is hereby called to meet in Montgomery on Tuesday, October 9, at 12 o'clock noon."

No Candidate to Oppose Bowie.

The joint committee of the populists and republicans of the Fourth congressional district, who were empowered by the republican and populite district conventions, held some time ago, to nominate a joint candidate for congress, met at Calera and decided not to place a candidate in the field in opposition to Hon. Sid Bowie, the democratic nominee. The motion not to name a candidate was made by G. B. Deans, of Shelby county, populite.

Negro Farmer's Peculiar Death.

Joe Hodge, a well-known negro truck farmer, died near Anniston as a result of a fall caused by stepping on his shoe string. He was walking rapidly across a field Tuesday with one of his shoes untied, when he stepped on the loose shoe string and was thrown violently to the ground, receiving severe internal injuries, which resulted in his death.

Snake Bite Causes Blindness.

Lee Turner, while engaged in hauling cross ties in Colbert county, was bitten by a large rattlesnake several days ago and lives to tell the tale. He was bitten twice on the finger and the effect of the poison was counteracted by the use of the usual remedy. Turner turned stone blind from the effects of the bite, but is recovering from the poison.

CANAL COMMISSIONERS

Visit Birmingham in Their Tour of Inquiry.

Professor Emory R. Johnson and Ex-Senator Samuel Pasco, members of the isthmian canal commission, who are investigating the question of the value of such a waterway to the southern industrial and manufacturing centers, spent Saturday in and around Birmingham, prosecuting their investigation.

Congressman O. W. Underwood submitted to the commissioners a printed report on the industries and resources of the Birmingham district, which contains in a concise way very much of the information which they are seeking. The commissioners then boarded a special train, and, accompanied by a delegation of leading citizens, made a tour around the mineral district for the purpose of making a personal inspection of the various industries.

Superintendent Newbold Suicides.

William M. Newbold, superintendent of the South and North and Birmingham Mineral divisions of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, put an end to his own life in Birmingham Sunday about noon by sending a pistol bullet through his brain. No cause is assigned for the act. He was in his office at the Union Passenger Station during the morning and seemed to be in the best of health. He greeted the employes in the office pleasantly, and on returning to his residence spoke pleasantly to the two servants in the house. Thirty minutes later he lay unconscious on his bed robed in his underclothes and with a bullet hole through his head.

It is stated that he had been a sufferer from insomnia, and it is believed by some of his friends that this condition had gradually undermined his health and temporarily unbalanced his mind.

Public School Fund Greatly Increased.

State Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie, in a recent interview, said: "The attendance at the opening of the public schools this fall is the greatest in the history of the state, and the schools will be kept open a greater number of months than ever before. The school fund for the school year, beginning with October 1, will amount to about $1,000,000, and probably a few thousand more. As there are about 650,000 children of school age in the state, this gives each pupil about $1.50 or nearly double what it has heretofore been.

"Exclusive of the poll tax, the school fund will amount to about $1.29 for each child, a gain of 76 per cent. over previous years, and, with the poll tax added, the gain will be about 100 per cent."

In recent years the average term of the public schools of Alabama has been about three months, but it is estimated that, with the fund available for the next scholastic year, the term will be almost twice as long.

Tomlinson Campaigning in the North.

Hon. John W. Tomlinson left Saturday for the north, where he is billed to make a number of speeches in the interest of Bryan and Stevenson. Mr. Tomlinson will be away about three weeks and will make his opening at Scottsburg, Ind., on Monday. He will speak at four other places in Indiana, including Indianapolis, and week after next will go to Minnesota, where he will make three speeches, opening at Wasena. He will then make three speeches in Illinois and New York.

Shot by Her Son.

Mrs. J. W. Clark, a white woman, was shot and instantly killed in the cotton mill quarters, at Avondale, Saturday night, and her son, Lee Clark, a lad of 18 years, is confined in the city jail at Birmingham, accused of the awful crime. The bullet entered the woman's head, just above the temple, and she fell across her doorstep lifeless.

Mobile Contributes $10,000 to Galveston

The subscription of Mobile to the Galveston relief fund shows actual cash $9,778.74, besides $500 in clothing, supplies, etc. This is a per capita of more than 25 cents, and the largest contribution for the size of population of any city in the country.

Cotton Mill for Alexander City.

A special from Alexander City says: At a meeting of the leading citizens of this place, assisted by Mr. J. M. Lewis, of Baltimore; D. L. Lewis, of Sycamore, and Col. W. H. Pinckard, of Birmingham, held at the Alexander City Bank, a 10,000 spindle cotton mill was organized. The mill has been named the Alexander City Cotton Mills, and is capitalized at $200,000.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE.

Opening Exercises Tuesday Largely Attended.

Tuesday the Lafayette college opened under its new management. Dr. E. R. Eldridge had so conducted an educational campaign in that section as to arouse a degree of interest and enthusiasm and a large and appreciative audience of patrons and friends gathered to witness the opening exercises. * * * Short and pithy speeches were made by Revs. J. L. Thompson, R. W. Anderson, W. T. Hollingsworth and S. L. Dobbs and Messrs. J. B. Duke, J. E. Timmons and Mayor W. G. Davis and E. M. Oliver, president of the board of trustees. All of the speeches touched upon subjects of vital interest to the school and the plans it has for the future. * * *

The most telling speech of the day was that of President E. R. Eldridge, who in his inaugural address took occasion to say some things pertinent to the school and its best interests. His address was mainly as to the plans of the school for the future. He was heartily received and to him is pledged the support of the people of the town and county.

The outlook for Lafayette College was never brighter. A strong faculty, an able president, a loyal board of trustees, a splendid town, a glorious climate, a good people and a course of study two years higher than ever before, are all conducive to the success of the college.

THE COTTON CROP.

The Present Prospects Are Not Very Bright.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat of Sunday says:

We herewith present the reports of the correspondents on the progress of the cotton crop during the month of September.

With rare exceptions the changes in the status were distinctly for the worse and the average condition is, no doubt, the lowest ever known since crop reporting assumed systematic form.

Texas has heretofore been a bright spot on the map, but the tremendous wind storms and torrential rains have brought the expectations of the Lone Star State within very moderate limits.

Arkansas and Louisiana are very spotted, while the result in Mississippi is a veritable disaster.

Alabama is not quite so bad, but is still quite bad enough. Georgia and the Carolinas are not far behind Mississippi in the matter of badness.

It must be remembered that the Times-Democrat correspondents take the yield of 1899 as the basis of comparison. As the production of last year was only 9,100,000 bales, it would appear that the harvest of 1900 has given the trade an exceedingly knotty problem to solve.

The final report will be printed on November 1.

Insufficient brake protection on electric cars has been the cause of a number of serious accidents in Massachusetts and elsewhere of late, and the attention of the New York railroad commissioners has been called to the matter by the increasing frequency of accidents in their state. Their conclusion is that the ordinary single chain-and-spindle hand brake will have to give way to air or electric friction brakes, in order to establish the greatest possible safety in this respect. Especially must this be true of roads which extend over steep grades, as practically all of the street roads do, at least in this part of the country.

Movement for Industrial Exposition.

A movement has been set on foot by leading commercial and industrial men in the Birmingham section under the leadership of Maj. F. Y. Anderson, to have a great industrial and metallic exposition held in Birmingham in the fall of 1902. The matter will come up at the next meeting of the Birmingham Commercial club next Friday.

Ex-Mayor Collier Is Dead.

Hon. Charles A. Collier, former mayor of Atlanta and United States Commissioner to the Paris Exposition, died in Atlanta from the effects of a pistol shot received Thursday morning.

It is believed that during the early hours of the morning he heard a sound which he believed to have been made by some one attempting to enter the house, and getting his revolver started out to investigate.

State Normal School.

The opening of the State Normal School, Jacksonville, Ala., was the most auspicious in the eighteen years' existence of that grand old institution. It has long been a power in the educational affairs of the immediate section of the state in which it is located, but its influence is now reaching into every portion of the state. President C. W. Daugette feels much gratified at the confidence manifested in the school by its patronage.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: Christ's Character—His Earthly Life Replete With Beautiful Examples—Practice Self Sacrifice and Humility and Help Bear Burdens of Others

(Copyright 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this sermon, which Dr. Talmage sends from Paris, he analyzes the character of the Saviour, and urges all Christians to exercise the qualities which were conspicuous in Christ's earthly life. The text is Romans viii, 9: "Now, if any man has not the spirit of Christ he is none of His."

There is nothing more desirable than a pleasant disposition. Without it we cannot be happy ourselves or make others happy. When we have lost our temper or become impatient under some light cross, we suddenly awaken to new appreciation of proper equipoise of nature. We wish we had been born with self balance, we envy those people who bear themselves through life without any perturbation, and we flatter ourselves that, however little self control we may now have, the time will come, under the process of years, when we will be mellowed and softened, and the wrong things which are in us now will then be all right, forgetful of the fact that an evil habit in our nature will grow into larger proportions, and that an iniquity not corrected will become the grandfather of a whole generation of iniquities. So that people without the grace of God in the struggle and amid the annoyances and exasperations of life are apt to become worse instead of better.

Now, the trouble is that we have a theory abroad in the world that a man's disposition cannot be changed. A man says, "I am irascible in temper, and I can't help it." Another man says, "I am revengeful naturally, and I can't help it." A man says, "I am impulsive, and I can't help it." And he tells the truth. No man can correct his disposition. I never knew a man by force of resolution to change his treatment, but by His grace God can take away that which is wrong and put in that which is right, and I know and you know people who, since their conversion, are just the opposite of what they used to be. In other words, we may, by the spirit of God, have the disposition of Jesus Christ implanted in our disposition, and we must have it done or we will never see heaven. "If any man have not the disposition of Jesus Christ, he is none of His."

In the first place, the spirit of Christ was a spirit of gentleness. Sometimes He made wrathful utterance against Pharisees and hypocrites, but the most of His words were kind and gentle and loving and inoffensive and attractive. When we consider the fact that He was omnipotent, and could have torn to pieces His assailants, the wonder is greater. We often bear the persecution and abuse of the world because we cannot help it. Christ endured it when He could have helped it. Little children who always shy off at a rough man rushed into His presence and clambered on Him until the people begged the mothers to take them away. Invalids so sore with wounds that they could not bear to have any one come near them begged Christ just to put His hand upon the wound and soothe it. The mother with the sickest child was willing to put the little one in Christ's arms. Self-righteous people rushed into His presence with a woman of debased character and said, "Now, annihilate her, blast her, kill her." Jesus looked at her and saw she was sorry and repentant, and He looked at them, and He saw they were proud and arrogant and malignant, and He said, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone at her." A blind man sat by the wayside making a great ado about his lack of vision. They told him to hush up and not bother the Master. Christ stooped to him and said, "What wilt thou that I do unto thee?" Gentleness of voice, gentleness of manner, gentleness of life.

We all admire it whether we have any of it or not. Just as the rough mountain bluff and the scarred crag love to look down into the calm lake at their feet and as the stormiest winter loves to merge into the sunshiny spring, so the most precipitate and impulsive and irascible nature loves to think of the gentleness of Christ. How little we have of it! How little patience in treating with enemies! We have so little of the gentleness of Christ we are not fit for Christian work half the time. We do not know how to comfort the bereft or to encourage the disheartened or to take care of the poor. Even our voice of sympathy is on the wrong pitch.

My sister had her arm put out of joint, and we were in the country, and the neighbors came in, and they were all sympathetic, and they laid hold of the arm and pulled and pulled mightily until the anguish was intolerable, but the arm did not go to its place. Then the old country doctor was sent for, and he came in, and with one touch it was all right. He knew just where to put his finger and just how to touch the bone. We go out to our Christian work with too rough a hand and too unsympathetic a manner, and we fail in our work, while some Christian, in the gentleness of Christ, comes along, put his hand of sympathy on the sore spot, and the torn ligaments are healed, and the disturbed bones are rejoined. Oh, for this gentleness of Christ!

The dew of one summer night will accomplish more good than fifty Caribbean whirlwinds. How important it is that in going forth to serve Christ we have something of His gentleness! Is that the way we bear ourselves when we are assaulted? The rule is an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, retort for retort, sarcasm for sarcasm. Give him as much as he sends! After awhile you look up into the face of Christ, and you see His gentleness, and you say, "Well, now, I must do differently." Then your proud heart says: "Now you have your enemy in a corner. You will never get him in a corner again. Chastise him and then let him go." So we postpone the gentleness of Christ.

Did you ever know any difficulty to be healed by acerbity or hypercriticism? About forty-five years ago the Presbyterian Church was split into the new school and the old school. The chasm got wider and wider. The most outrageous personalities were indulged in. Good men on one side anathematized good men on the other side. Wider and wider the chasm got until after awhile some good people tried another tack, and they began to explain away the difficulties, and soon all the differences were healed, and at Pittsburg they shook hands and are one now to be one forever.

You say to a man with whom you had a falling out, "I despise you." He says, "I can't bear the sight of you." You say to him, "I never want you to come to my house again." He says, "If you come to my house again, I'll kick you out." You say, "I'll put you down." "Oh, no," he says, "I'll put you down." But some day the spirit of Christ comes into you and you go over and say: "My brother, give me your hand; time is short and eternity is near, and we can't afford to quarrel. Now let bygones be bygones and let us act like Christians." It is all settled. How? By the gentleness of Christ.

Did you ever know a drunkard reclaimed by mimicry of his staggering steps, his thick tongue or his hiccough? No. You only madden his brain. But you go to him and let him know you appreciate what an awful struggle he has with the evil habit and you let him know that you have been acquainted with people who were down in the same depths who, by the grace of God, have been rescued. He hears your voice, he responds to that sympathy, and he is saved. You cannot scold the world into anything better. The stormiest wind comes from its hiding place and says, "I will arouse this sea," and it blows upon the sea. Half of the sea is aroused or a fourth of the sea is aroused, yet not the entire Atlantic. But after awhile the moon comes out calm and placid. It shines upon the sea, and the ocean begins to lift. It embraces all the highlands, the beach is all covered. The heart throb of one world beating against the heart throb of another world. The storm could not rouse the whole Atlantic, the moon lifted it. "And I," said Christ, "if I be lifted up will draw all men unto Me."

Christ's disposition was also one of self sacrifice. No young man ever started out with so bright a prospect as Christ started out with if He had been willing to follow a worldly ambition.

In the time that He gave to the sick He might have gathered the vastest fortune of His time. With His power to popularize Himself and magnetize the people He could have gained any official position.

No orator ever won such plaudits as He might have won from sanhedrin and synagogue and vast audiences by the seaside; no physician ever got such a reputation for healing power as He might have obtained if He had performed His wonderful cures before the Roman aristocracy.

I say these things to let you know what Paul meant when he said, "He pleased not Himself," and to show something of the wonders of His self sacrifice. All human power together could not have thrust Christ into the manger if He had not chosen to go there; all satanic strength could not have lifted Christ upon the cross if He had not elected Himself to that torture.

To save our race from sin and death and hell He faced all the sorrows of this world and the sorrows of eternity. How much of that self sacrifice have we?

What is self sacrifice? It is my making a long journey to save you from fatigue; it is my lifting a great number of pounds to save you from the awful strain; it is a subtraction from my comfort and prosperity so that there may be an addition to your comfort and prosperity. How much of that have we? Much, not I rather say, "How little have we!"

Two children, brother and sister, were passing down the road. They were both very destitute. The lad had hardly any garments at all. His sister had a coat that she had outgrown. It was a very cold day. She said, "Johnnie, come under this coat." "Oh," he said, "no, the coat isn't large enough." "Oh," she said, "it will stretch." He comes under the coat, but the coat would not stretch. So she took off the coat and put it on him.

Self sacrifice, pure and simple. Christ taking off His robe to clothe our nakedness. Self sacrifice! I have not any of it, nor have you, compared with that. The sacrifice of the Son of God.

Christ walked to Emmaus. Christ walked from Capernaum to Bethany; Christ walked from Jerusalem to Golgotha. How far have you and I walked for Christ? His head ached; His heart ached; His back ached. How much have we ached for Christ?

How much of that humility have we? If we get a few more dollars than other people or gain a little higher position, oh, how we strut! We go around wanting everybody to know their place and saying "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the honor of my kingdom and by the might of my strength?" Who has anything of the humility of Christ?

The disposition of Christ was also the spirit of prayer. Prayer on the mountains, prayer on the sea, prayer among the sick—prayer everywhere. Prayer for little children. "Father, I thank Thee that Thou hast hidden these things from the wise and prudent and revealed them unto babes." Prayer for His friends. "Father, I will that they be with Me where I am." Prayer for His enemies, "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do." Prayer for all nations, "Thy kingdom come."

How little of that spirit you and I have! How soon our knees get tired! Where is the vial full of odors which are the prayers of all the saints? Which of us can keep our mind ten minutes on a prayer without wandering? Not you; not I. Oh, that we might have the spirit of prayer which was the spirit of Christ!

We want more prayer in the family, more prayer in the church, more prayer in the legislative hall, more prayer among the sick, more prayer among the aged, more prayer among the young. The great advancement of the church is to be in that direction yet.

The spirit of Christ, I remark lastly, was a spirit of hard work. Not one lazy moment in all His life. Whether He was talking to the fishermen on the beach, or preaching to the sailors on the dock, or administering to the rustics amid the mountains, or spending an evening in Bethany, always busy for others. With hands, heart, head, busy for others—hewing in the Nazareth carpenter shop, teaching the lame how to walk without crutches, curing the child's fits, providing rations for the hungry host. Busy, busy, busy! The hardy men who pulled the net out of the sea filled with floundering treasures, the shepherds who hunted up grassy plots for their flocks to nibble at, the shipwrights pounding away in the dockyards, the winemakers of Engedi dipping the juices from the vat and pouring them into the goatskins, were not more busy than Christ. Busy, busy for others! From the moment He went out of the caravansary of Bethlehem to the moment when the cross plunged into the socket on the bloody mount busy for others. Does that remind you of yourself? It does not remind me of myself. If we lift a burden it must be light; if we do work, it must be popular; if we sit in the pew, it must be safe; if we move in a sphere of usefulness, it must be brilliant; if we have to take hold of a load, give us the light end of the log. In this way to heaven fan us, rock us, sing us to sleep. Lift us up toward heaven on the tips of your fingers under a silken sunshade. Stand out of the way, all you martyrs who breasted the fire; stand out of the way and let this colony of tender footed modern Christians come up and get their crowns!

What has your Lord done to you, O Christian, that you should betray him? Who gave you so much riches that you can afford to despise the awards of the faithful? At this moment, when all the armies of heaven and earth and hell are plunging into the conflict, how can you desert the standard? Oh, backslidden Christian, is it not time for you to start anew for God and anew for heaven?

Now, I have shown you that the disposition of Christ was a spirit of gentleness, a spirit of self sacrifice, a spirit of humility, a spirit of prayer, a spirit of hard work—five points. Will you remember them? Are you ready now for the tremendous announcement of the text, "If any man has not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His"? Are you ready for that statement? Can we stand up and say, "Yes; we have the spirit of Christ!" Not one of us can make that answer to the full question, yet I am to declare to you there is no discouragement in this subject for Christian people. You have the seeds of this character planted in your soul. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be."

You might as well blame an acorn for not being an oak of a thousand years as to blame yourself because you are not equal to Christ. You have the implantation within you which will enlarge and develop into the grandest Christian character, and there is no discouragement in this text for you to try to love and serve the Lord. Aim high. Sheathe not your sword until you have gained the last victory. Climb higher and higher until you reach the celestial hills. Crowns bright and radiant for all the victors, but death to every deserter.

Show us a fault in our business and we stop it at once, no matter how profitable. We don't believe a fault can ever be really profitable.

They said our Ague Cure was too bitter and powerful for the weak digestion of malarial illness.

We have corrected the fault. It's cost us thousands of dollars to do it, but we have corrected it.

And there is no better medicine under the sun for every form of malaria than this new Malaria and Ague Cure.

One Out of Every Five Divorced.

The close of the court year in Cleveland, O., and the totalling up of the number of divorce cases filed discloses the startling fact that one out of every five Cleveland marriages seems to be a failure. In other words, for every five marriages one divorce is asked. For the fiscal year ended June 30, the figures for which have just been made up, 3,235 licenses to marry were issued in that county. During the same 12 months 645 divorce petitions were filed.

Cheap and Unique Hat Adornament.

Mrs. Cash of Athol, Mass., was at Brookside park lately when a big buff butterfly alighted on her hat, took a fancy to it, and decided it would make a nice spot for a butterfly home. The insect took possession and began laying eggs, and has remained there ever since. Mrs. Cash wears the hat on the street and other public places and the butterfly with its nest attracts everyone's attention.

PROTECTING THE GAME.

League Recently Organized to Do the Work.

Lovers of the woods and of wild animals know that there has been an alarming decrease in all kinds of North American game, and that some of the noblest species are in imminent danger of extinction. The matter is attracting the attention of state legislatures and public-spirited persons, and has led to the organization of the League of American Sportsmen, the aim of which is to create a standing army of game protectors, with representatives in every state and territory of the Union. There are now nearly 3,000 members, including such men as Governor Roosevelt of New York, Governor Richards of Wyoming, Dr. C. Hart Merriam, chief of the United States Biological Survey, Mr. W. T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, President Jordan of Leland Stanford Junior university, President Gilman of Johns Hopkins university and Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson, the artist-naturalist. An illustration of the good which the league is doing comes from California. Long before the first white man entered the Golden Gate a vast herd of seals and sea-lions played about the entrance to San Francisco bay. Part of the herd still remains—perhaps thirty or forty thousand—an object of interest, even of affection, to the people of the state. Yet a few months ago the California fish commission decided to have all these creatures killed. Expert hunters and riflemen had already been engaged; but the league took the matter in hand, and interested the authorities at Washington so effectually that the herd was saved. The protection of song and insectivorous birds; war against the "game hogs" who disfigure the papers with pictures of themselves posing beside piles of game or before clothes-lines full of fish; above all, the creation of a love of wild animals and a gentlemanly and exalted standard of sportsmanship—these are the interests of the league. At present it is working to save the antelope of our western plains from going the melancholy way of the buffalo.

VALUE OF SLEEP.

It Is of Utmost Importance to Preserve Good Looks.

Sleep, the rest which holds the eyelids down, is of the utmost importance in good looks. There is no means, aid or condition so productive or preserving of a pleasing appearance as proper and sufficient sleep. Nothing will promote brightness and vivacity like this death-like rest which nature demands once every twenty-four hours. This fact is ignored by many of the most intelligent men and women. They know it, but they don't seem to know it well enough. Every walk in life seems too full—there is so much to do—"the world is too much with us," there does not seem time enough to sleep, says Health Culture. When a halt is called and we are forced to learn that we can accomplish much more by reason of stronger nerves, granted by the proper amount of sleep, we are on the way to successful accomplishment of our heart's desires. Our cities are filled with tired eyes and faded complexions from lack of sleep. Our country places offer tired countenances from overwork. Society women consume their evenings in social affairs and their days in the duties incumbent upon their position and wonder why they fade. The farmer's wife works all day and half the night, arising in the morning unrested and unrefreshed, and wonders why she ages faster than her husband, whose work is done at dark. Youthful strength and comely appearance are absolutely dependent upon sufficient sleep. The woman who will consider this fact as positive will give the subject of sleep as much attention as she will that of diet or dress, or any other requirement of existence. Those who have been neglectful of this important function should arouse in themselves first a determination to grant sufficient time from pleasure or duty for its full need. Then go to bed with the intention of sleeping—make your preparations by removing every garment worn through the day, putting on a loose single garment which has comfort for its recommendation. Do not sleep on feathers. This style of bed is a remnant of ignorance—a cotton or wool mattress is a good bed. Have your pillow just high enough to raise the head a little above the level of the body and place the pillow under the head—not under the shoulders. Sleep between two sheets and under light but warm covering. Do not place your bed directly in a draft, but be sure to have an open window in your room; night air is only fresh air and it is necessary during sleep as at any other time.

Ghastly Dream Which Came True.

After having his rest disturbed by troubling dreams his thought being that his wife was dead, Edward M. Powell of Camden, N. J., awakened the other morning to find her hanging by the neck from the bedpost in the room and cold in death. The dream seemed so vivid that Powell, gazing at the corpse, hardly knew whether he was awake or still dreaming and it was necessary for him to touch the body to dispel his doubts.

WOMAN'S KIDNEY TROUBLES

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing this Fatal Woman's Disease.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

The following letters will show how marvelously successful it is:

Aug. 6, 1899.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I am failing very fast,—since January have lost thirty-five or forty pounds. I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired, and have bearing down pains. Menses have not appeared for three months; sometimes I am troubled with a white discharge, and I also have kidney and bladder trouble. . . . I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you, and see if you could do me any good."—Miss Edna Frederick, Troy, Ohio.

Sept. 10, 1899.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. I did not enjoy life at all. Now, I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough for what you have done for me. You are surely a woman's friend. Thanking you a thousand times, I remain,

Ever yours
Miss Edna Frederick.
Troy, Ohio.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it enough. I had headaches, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, and kidney trouble. I also had a pain when standing or walking, and sometimes there seemed to be balls of fire in front of me, so that I could not see for about twenty minutes. Felt as tired in the morning when I got up as if I had had no sleep for two weeks. Had fainting spells, was down-hearted, and would cry."—Mrs. Bertha Ofer, Second and Clayton Sts., Chester Pa.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I cannot find language to express the terrible suffering I have had to endure. I had female trouble, also liver, stomach, kidney, and bladder trouble. . . . I tried several doctors, also quite a number of patent medicines, and had despaired of ever getting well. At last I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, thanks to your medicine, I am a well woman. I can not praise your medicine too highly for I know it will do all, and even more, than it is recommended to do. I tell every suffering woman about your Vegetable Compound, and urge them to try it and see for themselves what it will do."—Mrs. Mary A. Hiple, No. Manchester, Ind.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

So vast is the number of valuable and interesting objects for exhibition in the possession of the government that none but a building of great proportions could possibly contain them. Instead of one building, however, at the Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, the Federal group will consist of three massive structures connected by colonnades. The main building will be 130 feet wide and 400 feet long. The others will each be 150 feet square. The government work is under the direction of James Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury department. The group will be treated architecturally in a modified Spanish renaissance, and the color scheme, in marked contrast to that used at Chicago, will be rich and brilliant.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

stands for Congress as everyone knows.

for One man from this district there goes.

for None other, this one man will do.

for the Pope and the Democratic foe.

for Republican who was left in September.

for Election on the 6th of November.

stands for Sydnes—first name of our man.

goes for Stalwart, beat him if you can.

for Write men who'll help Him pull through.

for Democrat candidates none.

for Elected—the victory's won.

The weather has taken quite a fall turn this last few days; summer is over and we must now prepare for winter. The heavy rains of Saturday and Sunday did not, so far as I have been able to learn, do any great harm in Chilton county. Cotton picking is progressing apace, and at the rate cotton is coming in to the market it apparently will not be long before it is all in. Ten cents is again the ruling price here and I expect it is worth a man's while to take it, although there seems to be a fair chance the price may yet go up considerably. But it's risky to venture it. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," and ten cents now is certain, while who can tell what you may be able to get in the future?

Did you ever have the toothache? No! Well, don't, if you can possibly help it. I have been lucky enough to escape it all my life until a few weeks since and then I had it right. But I was lucky enough to have Dr. Wisehart to go to, and he yanked that tooth out so nice and easy it was quite a pleasure to have it pulled. Why, I liked it so well, I almost told him to go ahead and pull some more. But I didn't. He places your head very comfortably in the chair, says "Now it's not going to hurt you at all," gives a twist and yanks out the tooth, and says "That's all, thank you, good day," and before you know where you are at, your toothache's gone and so is your tooth. Dr. Wisehart's a first-class dentist, and will have much pleasure in pulling your teeth—of course, I mean if you want them pulled.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Maplesville.

Our delightful Indian summer time we regret to say is about out, and we are having cold, murky weather that makes one involuntarily draw to a little fire and search for a thicker garment, and cutting our short cotton crop yet shorter.

We hope all have enjoyed T. U. Crumpton's spicy, patriotic letters as much as your correspondent; they have stirred up the very dregs of our patriotism. We feel that the prayers of the Christians have brought the writer safely home, but we will have the pleasure of reading more of his very enjoyable letters.

Another of our old living landmarks is gone in "Uncle Dick" Bacchus, many will miss the old man who was always so respected by his white neighbors. According to his own count he was ten years old when "de stars fell," that would bring his age to seventy-eight years.

Mrs. Snead is now with her brother here, W. Bowline.

Dr. Lamar and wife have been guests of Mrs. Crumpton.

Mrs. Galloway and Mrs. Mary Rasberry have visited their kinspeople here, Mr. R. Blalack.

Miss Mamie Lathram has gladdened the hearts of her old friends by a visit.

Miss Marie Adams has had a very pleasant visit to her grandparents.

Miss Thula Seals has been visiting friends very pleasantly the past week.

Our community was saddened by the burial of Dr. James DuBose's infant; sympathy is given this bereaved young couple. It died in Prattville and was brought here for interment.

Dr. Frank DuBose is on a trip to Shelby Springs.

Mrs. Williams, of Mulberry, has lately visited Mrs. Fox.

We are glad to say that everything is progressing nicely in our community; everybody is busy with their cotton.

Mr. L. A. Calloway has gone to Montgomery to school.

Miss Alice Higgins spent a few days with her brother Frank last week.

Mr. B. F. Higgins and wife spent the day Monday with his father and was accompanied by his mother home.

We are having a good prayer-meeting at the neighbors homes here.

Macedonia.

The health in our community has been good for sometime, though we have a few cases of fever now. Dr. Woolley was called to Mr. Vaughn's last Friday to three cases of fever; we hope Mr. Vaughn's little boys will soon be better and all others that are sick.

Prof. John Martin was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday.

Cotton is still going in at a rapid rate, it will, surely, all soon be sold. It is going at 10.15 in the "city" of Randolph.

The little infant of Mr. James Armstrong was laid to rest in the Macedonia cemetery last Friday.

It is said that Mr. D. C. Hubbard will move to Jemison, he having sold his farm here to his brother T. J. Hubbard.

Opossums are ripe and are being gathered; the horn and hounds can be heard these beautiful light nights. Potatoes are good this year so we expect to have "possum and taters" [illegible]

FLOODS IN MEXICO.

Great Destruction of Life and Property Is Reported.

Telegraphic advices from Tampico Mexico, state that the Panuco and Tames rivers, which empty into the gulf at that place, are on one of the biggest rises in their history, and great damage has been done by the floods in the populated and cultivated valleys above there.

At one point, near Chila Station, on the line of the Mexican Central railroad, the Tames is over fifty miles wide and has swept to destruction hundreds of houses occupied by Mexican farmers and laborers. Many deaths by drowning are reported.

All the tributaries to these rivers in the south and eastern parts of the state of San Louis Potosi are out of their banks and have washed away whole villages and ruined thousands of acres of growing crops.

DUEL TO DEATH

Fought on Top of a Moving Passenger Train.

On the top of a Chicago & Alton passenger train, moving at the rate of forty miles an hour, William Burke, of St. Louis, and an unknown man fought a duel to the death Saturday night. The two men were beating their way to Chicago. After the train left East St. Louis, the stranger drew a revolver and demanded Burke's money. Burke refused to comply with the request and grappled with his antagonist. During the desperate struggle which followed, the unknown man shot Burke in the side, but the latter finally managed to push him from the top of the coach. He was picked up with his skull crushed in and otherwise horribly injured and barely alive. Burke will recover.

BOERS SURRENDERING.

Lord Roberts' Forces Take Many Prisoners.

A dispatch received from Lord Roberts, dated Friday, says:

"The number of prisoners captured or surrendered is daily increasing, now aggregating nearly 36,000.

"Commandant Muller has surrendered to Clery and Commandant Dirksen and others are on their way to Pretoria to surrender.

"A detachment of London Irish endeavored to surprise a party of Boers near Bulfonstein, October 4, but had to retire after three hours fighting with six men wounded. The The Boers suffered heavily.

DEEP WATER AT APALACHICOLA.

Citizens of Columbus, Apalachicola and Eufaula Working for It.

The movement to organize an association to secure deep water at Apalachicola, Fla., has taken definite shape. A prospectus has been prepared by Mayor L. H. Chappell, of Columbus, which has been signed by many prominent citizens of Columbus, Apalachicola and Eufaula, who agree to enter into the association, which is to be known as the "Columbus and Apalachicola Foreign Commerce Association." The agreement has been signed by bankers, lumber men, steamboat companies, merchants and other prominent business men of the Chattahoochee valley.

Many Boxers Killed.

A special dispatch from Shanghai says the Chinese report that 2,000 Boxers attacked two battalions of Germans at Kau Ku Men, near Pekin. The Boxers, it is added, lost 400 men and the Germans five. The latter are now said to be burning the Boxers' villages around Pekin.

A class of visitors to London who attracted attention on the streets are the men of the United States training ship Saratoga, who visited the British metropolis on leave from Southhampton. Commenting on these. The Chronicle says: "They go about in twos and threes and conduct themselves to the admiration of all, although there is no officer in charge." This is in striking contrast with the behavior of many English Jackies.

It has been decided by the board of education of Chicago that all applicants for appointments as teachers in the public schools must submit to a medical examination before coming up for their technical examination. A corps of women physicians has been appointed to examine all applicants for admission to the normal school.

STATE NEWS GLEANINGS

Current Topics of General Interest from Various Sections of Alabama.

THE METALLIC EXPOSITION MOVEMENT

English Syndicate Contracts for a Large Amount of Alabama Coal. Mineral Exhibit at Buffalo—A Child Burned to Death.

The following resolution introduced by Maj. F. Y. Anderson was adopted by the Commercial club of Birmingham Friday, with the exception of the date for the holding of the exposition, which was left for the committee to decide upon:

"With the assurance of the construction, within a short time, of the Isthmian canal and the certainity that within a few years, possibly by 1902, the Birmingham district will become the greatest as well as it is at present, the cheapest iron and steel producing region in the United States, this club believes it is all important that we should show to the world at large and especially to those countries tributary to the Isthmian canal, our great possibilities as an iron and steel center.

"It is, therefore, recommended that an International and Metallic Exposition, to show our raw materials and finished products, be held at the city of Birmingham during the fall of 1902, and that a committee be appointed, composed of fifteen members (of which the president of this club shall be chairman) to devise the best methods of carrying out this idea and also to consider the advisability of seeking aid for this great enterprise, in the shape of appropriations from the state and federal governments."

Large Sale of Alabama Coal.

A Chicago dispatch says: "An accredited representative of an English syndicate Friday contracted for 750,000 tons of Alabama coal, to be delivered at some point on the Gulf of Mexico. The deliveries are to extend over a period of two years. At what point the coal is to be delivered is not stated, but the parties interested are said to own valuable terminals below New Orleans, and it is therefore presumed that this coal will go to New Orleans for shipment."

The telegram fails to give any information as to the companies interested in the trade reported to have been made, and also fails to state what country or countries the coal is to be shipped to.

Governor Failed to Order Election.

There will be no election for state senator in the Twelfth senatorial district, composed of Walker, Fayette and Lamar counties on the date of the November election, says a Montgomery dispatch. STRIKE NEARING AN END

President Mitchell of Mine Workers to Call a Convention.

A FAVORABLE DECISION IS PROBABLE

In Regard to the Operators' Offer of an Increase in Wages—Strikers Close Two Large Collieries at Latimer.

A Philadelphia special says: President Mitchell has at last announced his intention to call a convention to decide what move shall be taken in the 10 per cent increase in wages. He made the announcement at a miners' meeting at Shenandoah. He said he would issue a call in a few days, and the belief is general that the men will give a majority vote in favor of accepting the concession made by the operators, which include a reduction in the price of powder.

All the collieries were closed Saturday, the most important being the mines of Calvin Pardee & Co. at Latimer. Mr. Pardee announced that work would be suspended at the mines until further notice because, as he said, the authorities did not afford sufficient protection to his employes from intimidation by marching mobs of strikers, and he therefore would cease work to prevent injury to property and possible loss of life.

Many hundreds of strikers accompanied by women marched to the Latimer mines, and, though they did not attack the workmen or commit any violence, they marched back and forth on the public road near the mines in such a menacing manner that the Pardee employes feared attack should any emerge from their homes to go to work. In this way the strikers effectually prevented the starting of operations, and Mr. Pardee's decision to close the mine followed.

The Delaware & Hudson Company joined with the other operators and posted notices offering the 10 per cent increase. The Pennsylvania Coal Company is the only other large operator that has not posted the notices, but President Thorne has been quoted as saying his company will agree to whatever the others do.

STRIKE NEARING AN END

President Mitchell of Mine Workers to Call a Convention.

A FAVORABLE DECISION IS PROBABLE

In Regard to the Operators' Offer of an Increase in Wages—Strikers Close Two Large Collieries at Latimer.

A Philadelphia special says: President Mitchell has at last announced his intention to call a convention to decide what move shall be taken in the 10 per cent increase in wages. He made the announcement at a miners' meeting at Shenandoah. He said he would issue a call in a few days, and the belief is general that the men will give a majority vote in favor of accepting the concession made by the operators, which include a reduction in the price of powder.

All the collieries were closed Saturday, the most important being the mines of Calvin Pardee & Co. at Latimer. Mr. Pardee announced that work would be suspended at the mines until further notice because, as he said, the authorities did not afford sufficient protection to his employes from intimidation by marching mobs of strikers, and he therefore would cease work to prevent injury to property and possible loss of life.
